THE SECOND EDITION.

IN presenting to a numerous and most respectable body of Subscribers, the first volume of an expensive and important republication, the Publisher feels it an incumbent duty of justice and gratitude, to acknowledge the prompt and liberal patronage with which his Proposals have been honoured.

The intrinsic excellence of the original work, and the extended and deserved reputation it had long established, left little risk and danger to be apprehended in offering a new edition; except from the very considerable increase that has taken place upon every article connected with literary publication, and the great expense that must consequently be incurred in republishing a work so extensive as BLOMEFIELD'S NORFOLK.

But the very distinguished support that immediately followed the appearance of the Prospectus having dissipated all fears upon the subject of expense, the Publisher has been anxiously solicitous to evince his gratitude, by a minute and scrupulous attention to render this edition as complete and valuable as possible.

The careful examination to which this volume has been subjected in passing a second time through the press has detected several typographical errors that appear in the folio edition; the most important of these errors have been corrected, but in some few instances it has been found impossible to make the corrections without a reference to the original documents, which cannot now be obtained.

Some pages of Addenda that were given by the Author in detached parts, are now, in their proper places, incorporated into the body of the work; and it is hoped that the arrangement, of the text, and the notes particularly, will be found more distinct than in the former edition.

To facilitate a reference to particular parts previous to the publication of the General Indexes, which cannot appear till the conclusion of the work, a new index of the hundreds and parishes is given, and will be continued at the end of each succeeding volume.

An high degree of curiosity being always felt respecting the persons and manners of those whose distinguished merit has entitled them to celebrity and publick approbation, the portraits of eminent literary characters are generally much valued and esteemed.

Considerable exertion has therefore been made to discover a Portrait of the Norfolk Topographer; and although the result of the enquiry appears to prove that none was ever executed, yet it is with much satisfaction the Publisher informs those who contemplate with pleasure the countenance of genius and merit rescued from oblivion by the graphic art, that his trouble has not been altogether without its reward.

The celebrated antiquary and contemporary of Blomefield, Thomas Martin, Esq. had prefixed to his own copy of the History of Norfolk, an indifferently executed mezzotinto print, engraved as the portrait of another person, but which Mr. Martin very highly estimated as a strong resemblance to his departed friend.

This book afterwards became the property of the late John Ives, jun. Esq. of Yarmouth, and is now, with the portrait, in the possession of the Publisher of this edition.

The late Mr. Thomas Miller of Bungay, was also well acquainted with the person of Blomefield, and the Publisher has often heard him declare, that this print was a striking likeness of the Historian of Norfolk.

These testimonies, it is hoped, will be considered sufficient to justify the additional expense voluntarily incurred by re-engraving this plate, in a sincere and earnest wish to add (without increasing the price of the book) to the gratification of a liberal publick.

The Publisher has also the satisfaction of announcing that, from the arrangements he has now made, the work will be completed with all possible dispatch; and that it is probable the subsequent volumes may be ready for delivery at periods earlier than those mentioned in the Prospectus.

THE INTRODUCTION TO THE FIRST EDITION.

As this work appears in publick, contrary to common practice, without either Preface or Dedication prefixed, I looked upon myself necessarily obliged to say something by way of Introduction, both to inform my readers the reason of it, as well as the design of the following Essay.

It is well known (and it would be the greatest ingratitude in me, to forbear acknowledging it) how much I have been assisted in this work, by that Right Reverend Prelate, the late Bishop of St. Asaph, whose kindness was so great, as not only to help me to the sight of vast numbers of records and manuscripts concerning this county, but also to fix my method, and revise my collections when put together, town by town, as I compiled them. To this worthy Prelate (by his own knowledge and approbation) was this Work dedicated; but alas! to my particular great loss, as well as to the world in general, he is no more: gratitude therefore obliged me to dedicate it to his memory, not doubting but that will ever be valued by all the learned; and as a Dedication to any other Patron could have been no real compliment, I am sure it would have been far from shewing a grateful respect to my deceased benefactor.

And now as to the design in general, which I do not pretend to call a HISTORY OF NORFOLK, but an Essay only towards it, being very sensible that there may be several things of moment, in almost every parish, that may be impossible for me to know, or come at; but thus far I may venture to say, that the successions of the lords of the manors; the patrons and incumbents of the churches; the series of the religious; the ancient and present valuations of each parish, are as perfect as my own collections, the original manuscripts and records that I have met with, and the collections of my friends, could possibly make them: whatever pedigrees or evidences, relating to any families of worth, merit, or antiquity in the county, as far as they concern this History, and have come to my hands, shall be faithfully inserted, together with all the ancient arms and inscriptions, that are any where found in the churches, or other places; as also all publick gitts and benefactions that I can meet with, in order to preserve them, as far as can be, from devouring time, and to animate others by those examples, to a worthy emulation of such charitable works, amiable to God and man. For the same reason it is, that I shall be very exact in my descriptions of the Churches, Chapels, &c. that posterity may know, what signal tributes of honour and reverence our ancestors paid to those holy places, which they generously built, richly adorned, and prudently set apart for God's worship. And I shall be as careful as I can, truly to transcribe the original names of places and persons, and not in the least vary the orthography of the ancients, but always represent them as they are in the originals, whether they be right or wrong, false language or true, by which means it will often happen, that the same word will be spelt many different ways in one page, and perhaps false language may occur as often; and in such places where inscriptions or evidences are partly illegible, I shall give them as they are, without variation, imagining, that though they be imperfect, I ought not to omit them, they being designed to perpetuate the memories of our once-flourishing ancestors, to future ages. At first I determined to have translated all the Latin inscriptions, for the English reader, but was prevailed upon to omit it, because if it be an inscription for any remarkable person, it will be hinted in the History, and then the translation would be of no other use, but to swell the book, and enhance the price, both which are contrary to my design, which is to comprise it in as little room as can be, without injuring the subject. I have added, for the use of the curious, an exact copy of Domesday to every town, and placed it (together with all the references) by way of note, that it may not be any hindrance to the reader, having referred to the several authors and originals that I have made use of, in all cases, except where the originals are either in Mr. Le Neve's or my own collections, which at present I design to join to his, so that being together they may be consulted at all times, and therefore to quote them would be labour to no purpose, but in all cases where my friends have been so kind as to oblige me with a sight of their evidences or manuscripts, I shall freely refer to them, and own their favours.

Several reasons there are that induced me to publish in this method, among which, these are the chief; viz. the improvements that may be made as I go on, by gentlemen's seeing in what manner I proceed, and helping me, as I come to their parts, to a sight of old evidences, or antiquities, or by subscribing for plates of their seats, monuments, arms, ruins, or other things worth observation, which advantage I could not have had, if I had done it at once; besides, I do not fear but I may hereafter meet with several Subscribers who will willingly expend a trifle every month, that would not have chose to lay down half the price before-hand, (as is the common way), nor to have expended it all at once; and this is the reason why I do not design to publish the list of my Subscribers till the whole is finished, because then I can do it complete. And that this work may be done to my own liking, and corrected by myself, I have procured a workman, who hath put up a press in my own house, for the publication of it; so that all that now have, or hereafter shall, subscribe, shall be upon the same terms; neither shall there be any alterations or additions made after it is finished, except such memoirs as may come in too late, all which shall be published by way of appendix, to be bound up with the last volume.

And as to the use of this HISTORY, I shall only observe, that the ancient and present lords, patrons, and incumbents, the different customs of the manors, the customs and yearly outgoings of the livings, and the divers valuations of the parishes, are things that will be of use to the present, and future proprietors. Not to insist upon the delight and pleasure that many take in historical affairs, which, though it may be decried and run down by some, yet it must be acknowledged, that History is the light of truth, and life of memory, as the great Orator* formerly observed; and if there be nothing more in it, experience teaches that by recording the lives and actions of the good, those that come after them are thereby encouraged to imitate their virtues, for nothing so much incites the mind of man, to an emulation of others, as the report of the noble actions of them that have gone before them; and on the other side, nothing more affrights people from doing base and wicked actions, than the terrible examples of those, who have deservedly suffered the greatest misfortunes, as the just reward of their evil doings.

It will be convenient also to advertise my READERS, that I design three general indices to be bound up with the last volume, viz. one of places, a second of names, and a third of the arms, mentioned in the work, though I must own I am no accurate herald, and therefore ask pardon, if I make use of any terms improper in that science. I have diligently examined whatever printed authors I could meet with, in relation to this county, from whom I am often obliged to vary, but it is always when I have the utmost certainty for so doing, and never, unless I am fully convinced they are in error, from which it is impossible for any one (in a work of this nature) to be altogether free.

I need not quote the Registers or Institution Books, in the Bishop of Norwich's Office, they going in a chronological order, and the series being complete,* (which I believe few, if any office in England, except this, can shew,) and are now kept in good and regular order, by Mr. Marker, the present officer, whose care in this affair ought to be publickly commended, there being too many in such places, who know not what records they have under their care, nor the value nor use of them.

But before I close this Introduction, I should be guilty of great injustice to my generous benefactors, should I not publickly own the many and great favours, helps, and assistances, that I have already, and now daily continue to receive from them, viz.

The Worshipful Dr. NASH, Chancellor of Norwich, who of his great kindness hath assisted me, by a large subscription to the work, and the use of the best records that are any where extant, concerning this county.

SIR ANDREW FOUNTAIN of Nayford, Knt. who favours me with some very antique curiosities, such as are no where to be met with but in his great and elegant Collection.

The Reverend Dr. HENRY BRIGGS, rector of Holt

in Norfolk, whose great pains in collecting the whole hundred of Holt, and expense in subscribing for several plates, I cannot but in gratitude mention.

The Reverend Mr. JAMES BALDWIN, rector of Bunwell and Carleton, who hath for many years past, much assisted me in collecting, transcribing, and compiling many things in this way.

The Reverend Mr. CHARLES BARNWELL, rector of Beeston by Milham, and Dr. NEWDIGATE of Walsingham, who have supplied me with many curiosities of good value.

BEAUPREE BELL, Junior, Esq. to whom I am much indebted, for collecting many evidences, seals, and drawings, of great use to me in this undertaking.

ANTHONY NORRIS, Esq. who hath with great labour, and uncommon exactness, examined the parish churches in several hundreds.

But in a particular manner am I obliged to the Reverend Mr. CHARLES PARKYN, rector of Oxburgh, whose pains in drawing up the whole deaneries of Cranwich and Fincham, besides many other great assistances, can never be sufficiently repaid.

As also to that judicious antiquary, Mr. THOMAS MARTIN of Palgrave in Suffolk, who not only supplies me with whatever occurs in his own large and valuable Collection of Antiquities, but also with the whole Collections of that late industrious and perfect antiquary, PETER LE NEVE, NORROY, who for above forty years at his great expense, and immense trouble, amassed together the greatest fund of antiquities for this county that was ever collected for any single county in this kingdom; all which, by the favour of Mr. MARTIN, I have the perusal of, they resting in his hands till they be properly disposed of, according to Mr. LE NEVE'S will.

A great many others there are, to whom I am much indebted for their encouragement; but as it would be too tedious to mention them all, I shall refer it to the several places, where their helps will be inserted.

I am well apprized what number of carpers and enervators this work will meet with, but think they must be such as know not with what difficulty, length of time, and expense the materials for this Essay, have been got together. Some perhaps may censure me, if they hit on a thing that I have not seen, or perhaps been misinformed about; others there are, I do not doubt, who will think me too particular in many things, and others, perhaps, not particular enough, so that as it is a thing impossible to please all, if it is but approved of by my Subscribers, (to whom only I am obliged,) I care for nought else, not doubting but that it will be universally allowed, that there will be much more of the history of this county, than was ever published before, and if so, my greatest enemies must allow with the poet,

Est quoddam prodire tenus, si non datur ultra. HOR.

As to what I have related beyond the present age, I have the originals, or my authorities are always quoted; but as to the present time, it is either upon the credit of such persons as had no reason to speak further, or otherwise, than their own knowledge doth reach, or upon my own inspection, having already seen, or determined to see every particular place in this county that I shall treat of: and therefore I hope there will be no such great mistakes, but what the candid reader may well pardon, professing that my chief end is, to deliver nothing but truth, with an honourable respect to every one. And thus submitting to my readers' courtesy, I shall conclude with the poet;

— Si quid noxisti rectius istis, Candidus imperti: si non, his utere mecum.

THIS hundred hath its name from the capital town, which is so called from the mere situate on its south side; dice in the Saxon, language signifying a standing water, lake, or ditch. It is bounded on the south by the river Waveney, which now divides Norfolk and Suffolk, on the west by the hundred of Giltcross, on the north by Depwade, and on the east by the half hundred of Earsham, which joined with the half hundred of Diss, makes up a whole hundred, or, according to the old division, two whole hundreds, and completes the deanery of Redenhall, in the archdeaconry of Norfolk, and diocese of Norwich; the fee of it wholly belonged to Edward the Confessor, as demean of the Crown, till he granted to Uffick and Stigand the soc of their own lands,<sup>1</sup> and to the Abbot of St. Edmund's Bury<sup>2</sup> the half part of the soc and sac of his lands, and of all his freemen.

But by the way, it will be necessary to observe, that what we now call Diss hundred, in the Confessor's time was a hundred and half; the hundred was called Wimferthing Hundred, which Earl Ralph held, upon whose forfeiture it came to the Crown, and was added to the

King Edward the First. The town had ever after a part of it, which was called the hundred; that the town in Domesday, the hundred and Watlingstet of Domesday (one of which, with all the jurisdiction thereof except what belonged to the Abbot, to Uffcut, and Stigand;) came into the Conqueror's hands, and the soc and soc of all his tithings in the hundred, that held less than thirty acres, belonged to his manor of Uffcut, but of those that held thirty acres or more, the soc and soc belonged to the hundred of Wimforthine, which Earl Ralph forfeited.

But as it hath always attended the capital manor of the town, and now remains with it, I have no occasion to discourse of it singly any further.

DICT, now DISS,

In the time of the Confessor extended into Suffolk; nay the town itself was then in that county, in Hertesmere hundred, as we learn from Domesday, where we find that it was in King Edward's possession, as demesne of the Crown, there being at that time a church and twenty-four acres of glebe; that the whole was worth *1*s.* per annum*, which at the Conqueror's time was doubled, it being then estimated at *30*l. with the soc of the whole hundred and half, belonging to it, it was then found to be a league long,* and half a league broad, and paid *4*d.* Danegeld*, by which it appears that it was not so large in its bounds, as it now is, which is easily accounted for, from the same record; for Watlingstet manor, as it is there called,

(Domesd. Suet. fol. 67.)

* I have met with some, who think that Hertesmere hundred takes its name from the mere in this place, there being no other large water or mere in that hundred; but this as conjecture only.

* Leuga or Leuca; I have often rendered this word league, but must advise my readers, that I do not mean by it our common league of three miles, nor yet with Mr. Bailey, the distance of one mile only, (though he says it is so used in Domesday;) being almost certain, that leuga in Domesday signifies two miles, or thereabouts; for that answers to the generality of places that I have examined, as to their extent, which to me seems the best way of judging such a point; and upon looking into the various glossaries, I find that several of them concur in the same opinion, for which reason, wherever the word occurs, I mean by it two miles, and no more. But for example sake, that part of Diss which was then in Suffolk, is said to be a league long, and half a league broad, and Watling etc. or the north part, was another league long, and half a league broad, which joined together, as it now lies, make but two miles broad in the broadest place of its bounds, and four miles long in the longest, which is very near, if not its exact extent at this time.

which was as large as Diss, and seemingly fuller of inhabitants, as we may judge by the geld or tax that it paid, was soon after quite lost in Diss, to which it was appendant at that time. This was afterwards called Walcote, and includes part of Heywode, as appears from its joining to Burston, into which town this manor extended.

The manor thus joined, with the advowson and hundred, continued in the Crown till King<sup>8</sup> Henry I. granted them to

Sir RICHARD DE LUCY, a Norman knight, a man of great renown in those days; the record called Testa de Nevil says, that it was not known whether it was rendered unto him as his inheritance, or for his service; but without doubt it was for the latter, it having been always demean of the Crown. This Richard<sup>9</sup> was governor of Palais in Normandy, the third year of King Stephen, which he manfully defended against Jeffery Earl of Anjou, who had besieged it; he was a great instrument towards the agreement between that King and Henry II. and had the Tower of London, and Castle of Winchester put into his hands, by the advice of the whole clergy, upon his swearing to deliver them up at Stephen's death to King Henry, all which he faithfully accomplished, which so far advanced him in that King's favour, that he made him Chief Justice of England, and in his absence he was appointed governour of the realm, during which time, he took prisoner, in a pitched battle near Fornham in Suffolk, Robert Earl of Leicester, together with his Amazonian proud Countess, Petrouell or Parnell, and withal put to the sword above 10,000 Flemings, which the said Robert had levied and sent forth to the depopulation of his country; all or the most part of which were buried in and about Fornham, anno 1173; their sepulchres are now to be seen near a place called Rymcr House, on the right hand of the road leading from Thetford to Bury, and are now called the Seven Hills, though there are many more; but seven of them being much larger than the rest, are particularly taken notice of by those that pass this way, under which most probable the commanders were buried: this memorable battle was fought in this field. But to our purpose: it appears he had two sons, Jeffery or Godfrey, afterwards Bishop of Winchester, which, Dugdale says, died before his father; but that is an errour, for Godwin tells us (p. 273) that he lived till 1204; however, certain it is, he died without issue, as also did Herbert de Lucy, the second son, so that the inheritance came to his daughters. Maud,<sup>1</sup> the eldest, married to Walter Fitz-Robert, the progenitor of the Fitz-Walters, to whom he gave two parts of the hundred, manor, and market, of Diss with her in marriage. Aveline,

<sup>9</sup> The life of this man may be seen at large in Dugdale's Baronage, vol. i. fol. 363, and in Weaver, 777. Stow also in his Annals, page 155, and most authors of any note in historical affairs, mention him.

the second, married Richard de Reparis (or Ricers) of Stanford Rivers—Rose or Rhars, the third, to Richard de Warren, natural son of King John. Douina,<sup>4</sup> a fourth daughter, not mentioned by either of the above-cited authors, married Arnold de Mounteng, Knt. who had with her the other third part of the manor, hundred, and market, so that, from that time, there were two manors, by the division of this third part, which was Halcote and part of Hevode. In 1179, as Stow<sup>5</sup> in his Annals tells us, Richard de Lucy, Chief Justice of England, deceased,<sup>6</sup> and was buried in the quire of the abbey church at Lones in Kent, which he had founded, and where he had taken upon him the habit of a canon regular the year before. From this Richard the manor came to

Sir WALTER FITZ-ROBERT,<sup>7</sup> son of Robert de Touchbrigge, the fifth son of Richard Fitz-Gilbert, surnamed de Touchbrigge, the first Earl of Clare, who came in with the Conqueror, of whose gift he had the castle and town of Clare in Suffolk, with Tunbridge in Kent, and divers other great lordships in England. This Earl was son of Gilbert, surnamed Crispin, Earl of Brion in Normandy, and son of Jeffery, natural son to Richard I., of that name, Duke of Normandy: he bare, as the Fitz-Walters ever after did, the Earl of Clare's shield varied, which is or, three chevrons gul. The Fitz-Walters being or, a fess between two chevrons gul. He had two wives, Maud de Bocham, (as Mr. Weaver,<sup>8</sup>) or rather Margaret de Bohun, (as Mr. Dugdale,<sup>9</sup>) and Maud, daughter of Sir Richard de Lucy, as aforesaid, in whose right he had this manor, to which he first obtained a charter for a fair, on the eve, day, and morrow after the feast of St. Simon and Jude, and three days following. He was Justice itinerant in Norfolk and Suffolk, and died in 1198, being buried in the midst of the quire of the priory church of Little Dunmow in Essex, of which Robert de Touchbrigge, his father, was first founder: he was sometimes called Walter of Clare, sometimes Robert Fitz-Walter, but mostly Walter Fitz-Robert. he left Robert the Valiant his heir.

Sir ROBERT FITZ-WALTER, Knt. son of Sir Walter Fitz-Robert, commonly called Robert the Valiant, had two wives, Gunnora, daughter and heiress of Philip de Faloues, and Rohesia or Rose, who survived him, and had the manor of Diss, Hemenhale, (which always went with Diss,<sup>10</sup> Thoye, and Diss hundred in dower. He it was that first divided this manor, by giving a moiety of the two parts which he possessed to Sir Gilbert Peche, Knt. with his daughter Alice (some say sister) in her marriage, with the third part of the hundred and market, and so there branched a third manor, which was called Peche's Fee. This Robert was leader of those barons that rose against King John, the beginning of which was on this occasion, as the book of Dunmow informs us.

"About the year 1213, there arose a great discord between King

“ John and his Barons, because of Matilda, surnamed the FAIR, daughter of Robert Fitz-Walter, whom the King unlawfully loved, but could not obtain her nor her father’s consent thereunto; Whereupon (and for divers other like causes) ensued war throughout the whole realm; the King banished the said Fitz-Walter, among others, and caused his castle called Baynard, and other his houses, to be spoiled, which being done, he sent a messenger unto Matilda the FAIR, about his old suit in love, and because she would not agree to his wicked motion, the messenger poisoned a boiled or potched egg, against she was hungry, and gave it unto her, whereof she died in 1213.” Her tomb was standing between two pillars in the priory church of Little Dunmow, when Mr. Weaver published his book.

In the year following her banished father was restored to the King’s favour upon this occasion. “ King John being then in France with a great army, it happened that a truce was taken between the two Kings of England and France, for the term of five years; and a river or arm of the sea being betwixt either host, there was a knight in the English host that cried to them of the other side, willing some one of their knights to come and just a course or two with him; whereupon, without stay, Robert Fitz-Walter, being on the French part, made himself ready, ferried over, and got on horseback, and shewed himself ready to the face of his challenger, whom, at the first course, he stroke so hard with his great spear, that horse and man fell to the ground, and when his spear was broken, he went back again to the King of France, which King John seeing, BY GOD’S TOOTH, quoth he, (for such was his usual oath,) he were a King indeed that had such a knight. The friends of Robert hearing these words, kneeled down and said, O King, he is your knight, it is ROBERT FITZ-WALTER; whereupon the next day he was sent for, and restored to the King’s favour, by which means peace was concluded, and he received his livings, and had licence to repair his castle of Baynard, and all his other castles.” Notwithstanding this, he afterwards joined the Barons that stood against the same King for their liberties, during his whole reign; and, at the King’s death, by his advice there was an agreement made between them and the succeeding King, from which time he was always in great favour, both in court and country. Holinshed,<sup>9</sup> that faithful historian, gives him this character, that he was “ both excellent in counsel, and valiant in war.” He went with Ralph Earl of Chester’s army, to aid the Christians against the Infidels, who had besieged the city of Damieta in Egypt, where he performed noble achievements: “ After which,<sup>1</sup> this strenuous knight, this Mars of men, this marshal of God’s army and holy church, (for so he was stiled by the common multitude,) lived in all affluence of riches and honour, till 1234, when he died, and was buried by his daughter in the said church. Holinshed says,<sup>2</sup> anno 1235, in Advent, died the noble Baron the Lord Fitz-Walter.”<sup>3</sup>

ROBERT FITZ-WALTER,* his son, often called Walter Fitz-Robert, succeeded; he was a man of renown in those days, and in great favour with his prince; he inherited the lands of his father, except this manor and those of Hemenhale and Thoye, which were held in dower by Roe his stepmother, who possessed them to 1250, from which time he held them, and dying seized in 1258, was buried in the conventual church of Dunmow, leaving

ROBERT, his son and heir, then ten years old, who was knighted in 1274, and had a great part of his possessions in his own hands before that time, though this manor, with Hemenhale and Thoye, was in the hands of Stephen Fitz-Walter, his uncle, (as I take him to be,) as guardian and trustee to the said Robert. This Stephen† in 1286 claimed a market every Wednesday and Friday, with all rights belonging to a market, and it was allowed in Viré. It seems that King Henry I. established this market, for he granted it to Sir Richard de Lucy, along with the manor; at this time the jury also find, that the said Stephen held a third part of the hundred, which was worth five marks yearly; that Arnald de Montimaco (Arnold Mounting) held of him another third part, which was worth 60*s.* per annum, and that Richard de Boyland held of the said Stephen another part, which was worth 28*s.* per annum; and that this Stephen, as capital lord of the whole, paid into the Treasury a rent of 40*l.* a year, being entitled, in his part, to view of frankpledge, assize of bread and ale, infangenthef, weyl, and all other liberties which belonged to a hundred, all which soon after came to Robert Fitz-Walter aforesaid, for I find him in possession in his own name. In 1293,‡ he was summoned to attend King Edward I. into Gascoign, in order to recover his inheritance from the French King, to which place he went, in the retinue of Edmund Earl of Lancaster. In 1296,§ he was in the Welsh expedition, and in 1299, in the Scotch wars.¶ It was this man¶ that aliened Baynard castle in London, and Montitchet Tower, to the Archbishop of Canterbury, reserving his Barony that belonged to it, to himself and his heirs: he was the first of this family that styled himself Lord of Wodcham in Essex, where he had a seat and a fine park. He had two wives, De orgil, daughter and coheir of John de Burgh, son of Hubert de Burgh, late Earl of Kent, and Chief Justice of England, and Isauce daughter of Earl Ferrers, by whom he had Robert his son, who succeeded him. In this year§ he obtained a charter of confirmation for a fair every year at his manor of Diss, upon the eve, day, and morrow after the feast of St. Simon and Jude, and three days following. He was one¶ of these parliamentary Barons that sealed the letter to the Pope anno 1301, denying that the kingdom of Scotland was his fee, or that he had any jurisdiction in temporal affairs. He sealed with his paternal coat, supported by two harpies, which seal of his I have seen affixed to several deeds, and in particular to a grant made in 1298, <sup>4</sup> to William Partkyu of Prilleston, (now Billingford,) dier, by which he granted, for his homage and service, and half a mark of silver in hand paid, two messuages in Diss, with liberty of washing his wool and cloths in Diss Meer, whenever he would, with this reserve, that the gross die should be first washed off, and that he should not suffer the drain of his dying office to run into the Meer. The Escheat Rolls of the 19th of Edward II. say, that he held Diss at three knights fees, and Hemenhale by barony. Dugdale<sup>5</sup> and others imagine that he died this year, because we find that from the 28th of January the escheator accounted for the profits of his estates till the 12th of February following, when he delivered seizin to Robert Fitz-Walter, son of the said Robert, who was of full age; but this is an error, for at that time we find that he renounced all the temporal goods of this life, and, as Mr. Weaver<sup>6</sup> tells us rightly, then entered himself a friar minor in the friery at Colchester, which he himself, in 1309, had founded, and there took upon him the habit of a religious votary, where he spent the rest of his days.<sup>7</sup>

In the catalogue of emperors, kings, princes, and other potent persons, that have entered into this religious order, this Robert<sup>8</sup> was one. It seems as if the church of Diss was built by this man, his arms cut in stone still remaining several times on the south porch.

ROBERT FITZ-WALTER,<sup>9</sup> Lord of Wodeham, his son, married in his father's lifetime, first<sup>1</sup> to Joan daughter of John de Botetort in 1304, by whom he had no issue; and after to Joan,<sup>2</sup> one of the daughters and coheirs of John de Moulton of Egremond, who survived him, and had for her dowry an assignation of the manors of Henham in Essex, Diss, and Hemenhale in Norfolk, &c. In 1361, this Joan<sup>3</sup> purchased by fine of Nicolas de Waleote and Joan his wife, one messuage 80 acres of land, 60 acres of meadow, 6 acres of pasture, 4 acres of wood, and 14s. per annum quit-rent in Diss, Frenze, and Burston, which was added to the capital manor, and was part of Walcote manor that was granted by one of the Mounteney's, to William de Walcote, the father or grandfather of this Nicolas. She it was also that brought the Castle of Egremond in Cumberland, and a third part of that manor, and many others, to this family. This Robert was in the expedition made into Scotland in 1326, and died the year following, leaving

John,<sup>4</sup> his son, then 13 years old, possessed of two parts of his estate, the third being held by the said Joan in dower; he was a ward of Henry de Percy's; but in the ninth of Edward III. by the King's special favour, his homage was accepted, and livery made to him, Diss manor then was valued at 411 Henrichale at 181. Fincham at 101. 1. 3. 4d. He was in the Trench wars in 1339, being one of those appointed to accompany Sir Walter Manny in that skirmish at the barriers of Paris, the Duke of Normandy then lying in that city, and was then knighted. He married Eleanor daughter of Henry Lord Percey, his guardian, was summoned to parliament from the 10th to the 34th of Edward III., exclusive, and died upon Monday the feast of St. Luke the Evangelist, anno 1390, leaving Walter, his son and heir, 10 years of age, Joan his mother surviving him; she died in 1392, whereupon Walter her grandson was found to be next heir, and 19 years of age, this manor being then held at three fees as of the Baron of Baynard Castle.

WALTER Lord FITZ-WALTER,<sup>1</sup> making proof of his age in 1362, and doing his homage, had livery of all his lands. In the 44th of Edward III. he was in that expedition made into Gascogn, and there reputed one of the most expert soldiers in the whole realm; but being taken prisoner in those wars, was forced to mortgage his castle and lordship of Egremont for 1000*l.*, towards raising his fine for his redemption. In 1372, an invasion being feared from the Trench, having raised what power he could for defence of Essex, he was commanded to repair into Norfolk for the safeguard of those parts. In 1379,<sup>2</sup> he procured the King's charter for a weekly market every Friday, at his lordship of Hemehale in Norfolk, and a fair yearly on the eve, day, and morrow after the feast of St. Andrew the Apostle. Soon after, in 1381, he did great service in Essex against the rebels under Jack Straw, by suppressing those that endeavoured to make head there. Many other great and noble exploits of this man may be seen in the first volume of Dug. Baron. fol. 222, and in the second volume of Holinshed's Chronicle, fol. 405, 419. He was Lieutenant to Thomas Duke of Gloucester, Constable of England, in the great cause between the Lords Loxell and Merley, for the arms of Burnel, in the Court of Chivalry, anno 1384, and 1385, in which year he died in Spain, on Wednesday before St. Michael, being one of those that accompanied John Duke of Lancaster, King of Castile and Leon, in his expedition thither, where the English, not able to bear the heat of the country, died in great numbers. "Amongst others there died before the breaking up of the camp, one of the greatest Barons of all the company, the Lord Fitz Walter." I have seen an ancient deed<sup>3</sup> of this Walter, in Trench, by which, as Lord of Diss, he granted a messuage and 8 acres of land to one William Moundry, it was dated at Hemham 50 L. III. to which his seal was fastened, being his paternal coat, and an estoil between two plumes for his crest, circumscribed, Segitlon Walteri Fitz-Walteri.<sup>4</sup> His first wife was Eleanor, by whom he had no issue; his second, as Mr. Dugdale tells us, was Philippa, daughter and coheir to John de Mohun Lord of Dauster, and widow of Edward Duke of York, she survived him. in his Collections, differs in this point; for, as he justly observes, this Philippa, widow of that Edward Duke of York who was killed in the battle of Agincourt, in the third year of Henry V. could never be the wife of this Sir Walter Fitz-Walter, who died the tenth of Richard II. before that battle was fought: to reconcile this we must observe, that Robert Fitz-Walter, the eldest son of this Walter, lived to be of age, though he died before his father, without issue; and he it was that married Philippa aforesaid, who, after his death, married again to Edward Plantagenet Duke of York, and Earl of Rutland, who held Diss manor, hundred, and market, together with Hemenhale, till he was killed as aforesaid, and from his death she held them till 1431, in which year it appears, by the inquisition then taken, that she died seized, and that

Sir Walter Fitz-Walter, second son, and now heir, of Walter Lord Fitz-Walter, brother and heir of Sir Robert Fitz-Walter, first husband of the said Philippa, had livery of the manors of Diss and Hemenhale, with their appurtenances, all which (except the advowsons) were held in dower by the said Philippa; but they went with the rest of the estate of the said Robert, and had been in possession of the said Walter ever since 1389, when he had livery to them, as heir to Walter his father, and Robert his elder brother; and accordingly I find, he presented to Diss, in 1390 and in 1399; Philippa aforesaid levied a fine, to Alexander Walden, Sir Richard Bouchier, Knight, and others, settling these manors on herself for life, after to the said Walter and his heirs, as his inheritance. This Walter married Joan<sup>3</sup> daughter of Sir John Detercux, Knight; he died in 1408, and ordered his body to be buried in Henham church, leaving Joan his wife, who soon after married to Hugh Burnel, and two sons, Humphry and Walter, and one daughter named Eleanor.

Humphry Lord Fitz-Walter, his eldest son, was under age at his father's death, and was a ward of King Henry the Fifth's, who granted the custody of him to John de Beauford Earl of Somerset; the earl dying soon after, left him to his executor, Henry Beauford Bishop of Winchester, but dying before he came of age, he never was in possession of his inheritance, but it went to his brother,

Walter Fitz-Walter, who was under age, and had not possession of his estate till 1428, at which time he had livery thereof, but not of Diss and Hemenhale till 1431, when Philippa died, who had held them all this time in dower. In this year he settled them in trust on his feoffees,<sup>4</sup> Richard Baniard, and Simon Cistern, rector of Berningham, who presented here jointly with him; and immediately after that settlement I find a pardon passed the great seal, for the alienation of his manors of Hemenhale, Diss, and Diss half hundred, without the King's license.<sup>5</sup> This Walter was one of the most active men in the French wars, in the time of that victorious prince Henry V. who in the eighth year of his reign, for the great services that he had done him, gave to him and his heirs male all the lands and lordships which Sir John Cheney, Kut. deceased, held in the dutchy of Normandy, which reverted to the crown, for default of heirs male of the said John, and were of the value of 5000 scutes.<sup>6</sup>

He was then a very young man, not being of full age till 1422, though in 1421 he was taken prisoner by the French, but soon got released, he died about 1432, (in which year the probate of his will bears date,) and desired to be buried in Danmoe priory, ordering his executors to make an arch in the wall, near his mother's grave, allowing 40 marks to defray the expense, and requested that his own, and his wife and children's bodies should be there deposited. Elizabeth his wife survived him, who had in dower Hemenhale and Diss manors, with the hundred of Diss in Norfolk, the manors of <sup>5</sup> Shimpling and Thorne in Suffolk, of Wodham-Walter, Hecham, London, Utring, Danmoe-parva, Burubam, Wubush, and Shering in Essex; she after married to William Massey, and lived to June 11, 1463;<sup>9</sup> at which time she died, leaving Jane, wife of Thomas Ratchiff, Esq. and Elizabeth, (then single,) her daughters and heiresses; Aune had no issue, but Elizabeth afterwards married to

John Ratchiff, Knt. brother of the said Thomas, who was soon after summoned to parliament as Lord Fitz-Walter, and in right of his wife enjoyed all the honours and possessions of this noble family; and though we have different accounts of this matter, the escheat roll confirms it to me<sup>10</sup> that this Elizabeth was the wife of John, and not of Thomas Ratchiff, as is said by some.

This family, as Mr. La Nere thinks, came first into this county in 1411, when John Ratchiff, Esq. father of this Sir John Ratchiff, married Cecily, the widow of Sir John de Herling, by which he much advanced his family. This Sir John, after he was Lord Fitz-Walter, sided with Edward IV. against King Henry VI.<sup>11</sup> and being by him appointed to keep the passage at Terrybridge, which the Lord Clifford resolved to gain by surprise, was there slain, on Saturday before Palm Sunday, 1460, as he rose from his bed unarmed, with a poll ax only in his hand, in order to appease the fray, as he thought, among his own men, leaving his estate in possession of Elizabeth his wife, and John Ratchiff, afterwards Lord Fitz-Walter, his son, all which the said

John enjoyed till 1493, when he was attainted of treason, and being apprehended, was brought into England with several other knights, among which was Sir Robert Ratchiff, who was beheaded, but the Lord Fitz-Walter was pardoned; after that he went to Calais, and being there laid in hold, was beheaded, because he would have corrupted the keepers, with many promises, to have escaped out of the same, intending, as was thought, to have gone to Perkyn, at that time a pretender to the crown against Henry VII. who, at the time of his attainer, seized upon all his revenues, and among them, on this manor, hundred, and advows in, together with the manor of Watton's, or Cock-street, and Walcote in Diss, both which were become members of the great manor;<sup>12</sup> and in 1498, the King

HENRY RATCLIFF Earl of Sussex, Viscount Fitz-Walter, Lord Egremont and Burnel, held his first court in 1542: he was in great favour with Queen Mary, and of her privy council; <sup>7</sup> and by her grant, dated November 2, in the first year of her reign, had "liberty "licens and pardon to were his cappe, coyf or night cappe or two of "them at his pleasor as well in our presens as in the presens of any "other person or persons within this our relme or any other place of "our dominion during his life." He died at Westminster, 17 Feb. 1556, <sup>8</sup> leaving issue by Elizabeth his wife, daughter of Thomas Howard Duke of Norfolk, Thomas the third earl of Sussex, and Henry the fourth earl.

THOMAS the third earl, in 1557, was seized of Diss, Attleburgh, and Hemenhale, Dockyng, Southmerc, Warners, Billingford, Rushton, Skerning, Shedestrond, and Sturston, in Norfolk; he had two wives, Elizabeth daughter of Thomas Wriothlesley, by whom he had Henry and Robert, who both died young, and Frances daughter of Sir William Sidney, by whom he had no issue, <sup>9</sup> who died June 9, 1583, leaving

FRANCES his widow this manor, and great part of the estate, for life; and at her death, to Robert Lord Fitz-Walter, his son, who died before her, so that it came to

HENRY RATCLIFF, his brother, who died seized the 14th of Dec. 1593, when it descended to

ROBERT RATCLIFF, his son, who in 1621 sold it to

PARNELL married

P. L. N.

ELIZABETH his wife, for life, and after her decease to

WILLIAM LANCASTER,<sup>2</sup> Esq. (her son) of Catwade and Brisingham, who married Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of William Notbeam, by whom he had

BENEDICTA, his sole heiress, who married to Edward Bolton, about the year 1505; and by will dated 15th July, 1528, bequeathed it to

THOMAS BOLTON, of Saham Tony, his second son, who died seized in 1544; it was sold to

THOMAS JERMYN, Knt. and WILLIAM CURSON, clerk, his trustee; but it continued very little while in this family, for in 1616

WILLIAM MASON, Esq. and JOHN BESELEY, Gent. sold it to

WILLIAM WEBB, and CHARLES WISEMAN, Gents. from whom it came to the Fishers.

RICHARD FISHER, Gent. being seized in 1636;

EDWARD FISHER, Gent. in 1662; and in 1667, I find it in

JOHN BUXTON, Gent. till 1684; and after in

ROBERT BUXTON, Esq. of St. Margaret's, in South Elmham, who was lord in 1715; at his death it was held by

ELIZABETH his widow, now [1736] dead; and

ELIZABETH BUXTON, a minor, their sole daughter and heiress, is the present [1736] owner.

I must observe, that in a court roll of this manor, among Mr. Le Nete's papers, in 1423, when Elen, widow of John Lancaster senior, held her first court, there were two distinct juries, one for the part of the manor in Diss, and the other for that part in Burston; <sup>3</sup> it was always held of the great manor of Diss, by fealty, and 5s. per annum rent, in full for all suit and service, being estimated at 8l. per annum.

HEWODE, OR HEYWODE MANOR,

Was always part of Winfarthing manor, till it was separated by Henry I. who gave it to

Sir RICHARD DE LUCY, and so joined it to Diss; he gave a third part of the hundred, manor, and market, in frank marriage with Dionisia his daughter, to

Sir ROBERT DE MUNTENEI, or Mountency; <sup>4</sup> and accordingly we find, in the Black Book of the Exchequer, that in the year 1161 the said Robert held of the said Richard three knights fees, sc. in Newton, a member of Stow (market in Suffolk) one fee, and in Walcote, a member of Diss, one fee, and in Sprecton (now Sprons'on, in Norfolk) one fee, and in Tacockston two fees; and in the same town, Hugh, son of Hamel, held one fee; (this afterwards was Uvedale's manor there;) of all which knights the ancestors of Richard de Luci performed ward to Dover Castle; <sup>5</sup> and among Richard de Luci's knights of the old feoffment, Robert de Muntenci is said to hold five fees, of which Walcote, a member of Diss, is one.

Sir ARNOLD DE MUNTENEY, his son, succeeded him; and in 1250 it was found that he held it of Sir Robert Fitz-Walter at one fee, as of his barony; in 1239 a fine was levied between himself and Hamon

Chetze, by which he settled it on himself and his heirs. He sealed with a bend between six martlets, circumscribed Sigillum Arnulphi de Mantene; in 1277 he settled this and Syraston manors on

ROBERT his son, who, in 1286, had view of trunkpledge, and died seized of this manor, with a third part of the hundred and market, leaving it to

ARNOLD his son and heir, who claimed liberty of free warren in all his demesns, and had it allowed. In 1291 he was summoned to attend King Edward I. into Gascony, for the recovery thereof. This Arnold granted part of this manor, viz. 17 messuages, 150 acres of land, 40 acres and an half of meadow, 3s. 3d. 3q. rent, and the rent of 14 hens, and 300 eggs, to

WILLIAM, his second son, and his heirs, which at William's death were, anno 1312,* by fine settled on

KATHARINE, his widow, then married to Gilbert Bahol, for life, remainder to DIONISIA, afterwards wife of Hugh de Trec, daughter of the said William, by which Dionisia it reverted to Winfarthing manor again; and being joined in the said Hugh, it hath gone with it ever since, for which reason I shall say nothing further here, but refer to Winfarthing, with which it hath so long passed.

THE CUSTOMS OF THE MANOR OF DISS,

confirmed by the Lord and Counts, at a General Court of Survey, there held the 31th of September, 1650, are as follow, as appear by the original, now [1730] in the Churchwardens' hands.

The fines are arbitrable upon every alienation and descent; and on every death the lands descend to the eldest son, or next allied, according to the course of the common law, and are subject to such forfeitures as the common law doth direct.

The copyhold tenants may fell timber without forfeiture on the copyhold lands.

The lord's bailiff can take but one penny for each beast's poundage. The tenants can dig gravel, sand, turf, &c. on the waste, and make lump pits on Diss Moor, and Cock-street Green.

The tenants can plant upon the wastes against their own lands and houses, by the name of an outran.

They can also stub furze and bushes on all the wastes.

The lord hath all the strays; he hath no warren, but liberty of hawking, hunting, and fishing, in the manor; and the lords formerly have granted liberty of fishing to divers tenants; and it is returned that John Turner, Samuel Folser, Thomas Shrexe, Reginald Shacktoth, and Henry Turner, have and maintain certain pits in their yards and grounds, with inlets from them to the Great Mere, as by custom they can justify.

The tenants can make steps out of their doors into the street, and stairs out of their cellars, and also they can set up booyes, or props, at their windows, and seats at their doors, according to custom.

* Pet. Coron. 15 E. 1.

• Coll. P. L. N.

R. 1. V. 1. c. 1. dicto anno.

The lord hath a market every Friday, a fair on St. Simon and St. Jude, when his bailiff takes 2d. for every tilted stall, and 1d. for every one untilted, and no more; and for the market stalls he takes either a weekly or yearly rent; but all that stand under any houses, pen-houses, &c. pays the bailiff, 4d. per annum by 1d. every quarter, and no more; but all they that sell any manner of victuals pay nothing, stand where they will, and all corn, corn carts, &c. pay nothing.

As to the extent of the manor, they say that it extends from the river dividing Norfolk and Suffolk on the south, in and through a great part of the town of Diss, and into Raydon, Burston, Frenze, Shelfanger, and Winfarthing; and that Thomas Earl of Arundell and Surrey, Earl-Marshal of England, hath a manor here called Heywood; also John Havers, Gent. a manor that extends into this town, called Raydon Hall cum Tysis; Richard Fisher, Gent. hath a manor called Heywood Hall; and Richard Nixon, Gent. Frenze manor, which extends into this town; the manor of Diss rectory, and the manors of Brockdish Hall, and Milden Hall, in Burston, extend hither. The lord of this manor hath a mansion house, in which Samuel Pethangh now [1736] dwells, and 35l. per annum and a part of the toll-house now [1736] in decay for want of tiling, and a piece of land called Hingetswode, and a piece of marsh in Brisingham.

The advowson belongs to the lord, whose officers are a steward, a bailiff, and a heyward.

N. B. The manors in Diss give a moiety dower.

The capital manor-house, called Diss Hall, is situated at Heywode Green, which with sixteen acres three roods of land, is held by copy of court roll of this manor.

WATTON'S MANOR, now called COCK-STREET,

Was very small, being held by a freeman, of William Malet, lord of the honour of Eye, in Suffolk, though it did not belong to his fee, till

WALTER DE CADOMO<sup>9</sup> (Caam or Caux) dis-seized him; this was after called Watton's from one of its lords; it continued some time in Walter's family, and was afterwards held of the capital manor.

In 1235, Ralph de Cunges, or Canz,<sup>1</sup> (a descendant from the said Walter,) was lord; he held it by the fourth part of a fee: from him it came to

RICHARD DE CUNGES, who enlarged it, by purchasing more lands and rents to it of the Fitz-Walters.

About 1420 JOHN WATTON was lord, who, before 1431, had conveyed it to

HENRY SIRCOK,<sup>4</sup> for then he occurs lord; it was soon after purchased by the FITZ-WALTERS, and added to Diss manor, with which, in 1191, upon the Lord Fitz-Walter's attainder, it was seized by the King, as a member of that manor, and was then called Watton's, or Cock-street in Diss; from which time it hath been always included in the manor of Diss. The site or manor-house abuts on Cock-street to the west, and was granted, in 1494, by King Henry VII. to be held by a copy of court roll, paying 4*s* 6*d* per annum quitrent.

DISS RECTORY MANOR

Hath all along gone, and now is in the rectory of the parish: the custom of which is, that all lands and tenements descend to the eldest son, and the tenant cannot waste his copyhold houses without license. The tines are at the lord's will, but in all things else the tenants may do as they please.

RECTORS.

The first that I find possessed, before there was any institution, was

Wulketel the priest, who left it to

William his son, as his lawful heir.

Bale, in his Actions of English Notaries, (fol. 98. b.) says that Pope Alexander wrote to John of Oxford, then Bishop of Norwich, that William the now parson of Diss, for claiming the parsonage of Diss by inheritance, after the death of his father parson Wulketel, which be gat him in his priesthood, should be dispossessed, and no appealation admitted. From his time to 1299, when the institution books begin, I find no more rectors; nor then, till 1303, 7 kal. Dec. when Adam de Waudringfeld, (or Walding-neld) priest, was instituted, being presented by Sir ROBERT FITZ-WALTER, Knt.

1309, 2 non. Nov. Thomas de Couling, priest. WALTER FITZ-WALTER, Knt, Lord of Woolham.

King Edward III. by letters patent, dated the 2d of July, presented Martin de Tanning, one of his chaplains, to this church; he had several ecclesiastical preferments given him, both before and after, as the deanery of Boching in Essex, the custody or mastership of Merton college in Kent, and of Dorchester hospital in Salisbury diocese, and a canonry of St. Stephen at Westminster. I take it that it was a present monopoly, for the time when void, if he lived so long, as he was obtained by the King, from the Fitz-Walter family. However certain I am, that he never possessed this living, for Thomas de Couling did not resign it till 1310, in which year, on the 10th of February, William Baltrippe, priest, was instituted, JOHN FITZ-WALTER, Knt, Lord of Woolham, being patron.

1490, 30 Aug. Hubert Tailour de Thorley, priest. WALTER FITZ-WALTER, Knt. he is often in evidences called Hubert de Thorley.

1424, ult. Feb. He resigned to Richard Drurywal, Walter Fitz-Walter, and Woocham, Richard Bainard, and Simon Cistern, rector of Bertingham, his feoffees.

Edward Atherton,<sup>2</sup> priest, who was clerk of the closet to King Henry VI. and by him, December 26, in the seventh year of his reign, presented to this rectory; he was succeeded in 1457, in which year he died, by

Richard Donyngton, priest, instituted 16th November. King Henry VI. as guardian to the Lord Fitz-Walter's heirs, being patron.

1452, 7 Oct. Richard Tateshale, A. M. priest, by Donyngton's death. JOHN RATCLIFF, Esq.

1465, 11 Feb. Tho. Motyng, (or Multyng,) at Tateshale's death. ELIZ. FITZ-WALTER. This Motyng was either master or fellow of Metyngham college, where he resided much, as I find in the accounts of the said college, (MSS. T. M.)

1490, 16 April, John Wimbuche, (or Wimburle,) S. T. D. on Moutyng's death. JOHN LORD FITZ-WALTER.

1598, 16 Aug. Peter Greves, priest, presented by King Henry VII. by reason of the forfeiture and attainder of John Lord Fitz-Walter: he was succeeded by

John Skelton, the King's orator and poet-laureat, whose institution occurs not, but I find him rector in 1504, for in

1529, 17 July, Thomas Clerk was instituted, on the death of the said John, at the presentation of ROBERT LORD FITZ-WALTER, &c. Clerk died in

1545, And William Browne succeeded, being presented by THOMAS BROWNE, Gent. who had this turn by grant from Henry Earl of Sussex. This Browne was deprived for being married, both of this and Stonham Jarnegan, and in

1554,<sup>3</sup> 6 May, the Right Rev. John Salisbury, Bishop of Thetford, suffragan to the Bishop of Norwich, was presented by HENRY Earl of Sussex, to this rectory, which was void by the deprivation of the last incumbent;<sup>4</sup> he was Bishop of the Ile of Man, and held in commendam the deanery of Norwich, the archdeaconry of Anglesey, the church of Thorp on the Hill, in Lincoln diocese, and the rectory of Diss, by license from Archbishop Parker, dated anno 1570; he was rector for some time of Lopham, and several other parishes in this county: he died at Norwich, and is buried in the middle of St. Andrew's church there, being succeeded by

John Hilton, who was instituted March 24, 1572, THOMAS Earl of Sussex being patron; he died in 1587, and on October 23, in that year,

John Reeve, A. M. was instituted, at the presentation of FRANCES, then widow of the said Thomas; but he had no peaceable possession; for HENRY Earl of Sussex, brother to Thomas, who was husband of the said Frances, brought this action against both patroness and incumbent, and ejected him in 1589; and on May 17, in that year,

Richard Cox, A. M. was instituted, as on the death of John Hilton, the last legal incumbent, at the said earl's presentation, in which he is styled Earl of Sussex, Viscount Fitz-Walter, Lord Argemond and Barnell, and captain or governor of the isle and town of Portsmouth. The dispute seems to have been this, that though the said Frances held the manor for life in jointure, yet the advowson, as the earl would have it, was not in the settlement. But it ended not here; Frances continuing her claim, Cor was ejected, and Reece declared incumbent, but he remained so but little time, for Nov. 17, 1591, Cor was re-instituted, and very soon after ejected again, and no incumbent declared, nor none presented, so long, that it had had from the latter end of 1591, to Dec. 1593, when one Wm. Goddard, A. M. was presented, but denied institution; whereupon

Cor, to make himself sure, and end all disputes, took the broad seal, it being lapsed to the Crown, and obtained Queen Elizabeth's letters patent to void all other presentations, on which he was instituted Dec. 2, 1593, and held it to 1599, when he died, and on Nov. 12, in that year,

1613, in which year, Dec. 23, Wm. Withers, A. M. was instituted; he died in 1647, when

Edward Palgrave, B. D. succeeded, the patron being RICHARD PRITTYMAS of Griston, Gent. It was not long before he was ejected by the unjust proceeding of those rebellious times, and his living given to one

Richard Moore, A. M. who signed the attestation of the ministers of this county in 1648, as Calamy informs us in his Addenda, Vol. I. p. 481; but he was soon displaced, and it was taken by one

John Hobart, who held it by usurpation some time, but was after thrown out by Mr. Moore, who held it to

1692, when he was ejected, and Edward Bernard, clerk, instituted upon his deprivation, at the presentation of JOHN HONVERT, Esq.; he held it to 1678, and then died, being succeeded by

John Burlington, A. M. at whose death, in 1695,

June 1, Edward Bosworth, A. M. was instituted at the presentation of WILLIAM BOSWORTH, clerk, patron for this turn. In

1713, John Briars, A. M. was presented by WILLIAM BURLINGTON, of Dis, Gent. the present [1736] patron; upon the death of Mr. Briars, the said WILLIAM, in 1729, presented the Rev. Mr. Edward Bosworth, who is now [1736] rector.

DISS RECTORY

Is in the deanery of Redenhall, archdeaconry of Norfolk, and diocese of Norwich, being still charged with first fruits, and the following

tennis are deducted out of the sum it is charged at in the King's books, the remaining sum is the sum paid for the first fruits. I shall also take no notice of the procurations that are paid to the bishop, upon his episcopal or primary annual sums, for synodals and procurations; it hath a good rectory-house, and convenient out-houses, with 12 acres of glebe adjoining to it, all which abut south on Diss Moor.

In the dean and chapter's book<sup>1</sup> called Norwich Domesday it is said, that the rector then had a mansion-house much in decay, with another house which was formerly the vicar's. It may seem odd that here was ever a vicar, but we are to remember, that often in those times<sup>2</sup> vicars signified no more than curates, and were removeable at the rector's pleasure; indeed, when churches were appropriated to monasteries, and the religious were forced to set out a portion of the glebe and tithes for the maintenance of a vicar, such a one is called a perpetual vicar, made presentative and institutive; but there are no footsteps of any institution to the vicarage of Diss; not but that the rector might, with the consent of the bishop and patron, have at any time created a vicarage, and made his own share a sinecure, as was done at East Dearham, Terrington, &c. and this, since the Council of Lateran: nay, in the diocese of St. Asaph there are such separations of tithes made, and vicarages erected, as low as King Henry the Eighth's time.

CUSTOMS OF THE RECTORY.

In the time of King James I. there was a long suit about the customs of this rectory, and at length it was ended, and an exemption under seal passed Nov. 21, 1610, in which it was thus acknowledged on all sides:

* That the rector is to receive in kind the tenth sheaf of all corn bound up:

And of all corn not bound up, the tenth heap, ready heaped.

Of pease, he is to take the tenth stetch.

For the fall of every calf, lamb, or pig, under seven, he is to receive one halfpenny; but if there be seven, he is to take the seventh, and to pay to the owner three halfpence, because there lacks three of ten; if there be eight, one penny; if nine, one halfpenny; if ten, nothing.

visitations out of each living, because one general rule will serve for all that pay them, viz. to remember that it is three-pence in the pound, according to the valuation in the King's books.

<sup>2</sup> There have been three taxations of the ecclesiastical preferments in England. The first, which is called the Norwich taxation, was made in 1254, and was confirmed in 1256, is so called from Walter de Suthfield, Bishop of Norwich, who, by the command of Pope Innocent, (who had granted the King the tenths of all ecclesiastical goods for three years,) drew up a description of all the clergy's revenues in England: for every deanery of every diocese he appointed the dean and three beneficed persons in his jurisdiction, to certify upon oath the true value of all preferments in that deanery. The second is called the Lincoln taxation, and was made in 1280. The third and last is the present valuation, which was made in the 28th year of King Henry VIII.

For the tall of every toad, the rector to receive one penny.

Every seventh goslin, allowing one tarthing for each goslin wanting of ten, and taking one tarthing for each goslin under seven.

The tithe eggs are due in kind.

The tithe wool, every tenth pound.

Every tenth bate or sheaf of hemp in kind.

In lieu of tithe wood, the rector is paid one penny every Sunday, house after house throughout the town, for which holy bread was used; three pennyworth of bread was brought to the parson every Sunday, of which he distributed to the poor two pennyworth, and the third penny he had to his own use, by the name of harthage, and at the time of taking away holy bread, the inhabitants paid as above for wood and harthage.

In lieu of tithe hay, the rector receives two-pence per acre for all mowing ground, by the name of feuage.

For every milch-cow, he receives one penny per annum by the name of lactage.

For every orchard and garden plot, he receives one penny per annum in lieu of its tithe.

For every hive of bees, one penny per annum, except it be the first year they swarm, and then nothing.

For every gast heifer, steer, or colt, feeding from one year old to three, one penny.

The tithe calves are to be paid at seven weeks old, and not before; pigs at five weeks old; chickens at a month old; lambs and goslins at Lammias; eggs are due at Easter; herbages, lactages, and feuges, to be paid between Lammias and Christmas.

By the church-wardens' book it appears, that upon every burial in the church they receive 6s. 8d. for breach of the pavement. In 1571, Richard Fowler paid it for his wife's burial, and Nicholas Lofwe did the same.

The church here is dedicated to the honour of the Virgin Mary,<sup>1</sup> and is a regular building, having a square tower joined to its west end, with six bells, a clock, and chimies; the nave, the two isles, and two porches, are leaded; the chancel is tiled, between which and the nave hangs a saint's bell, on which is this inscription,

The vestry, which was on the north side of the chancel, is down; at the end of the north isle is a chapel, formerly belonging to Corpus Christi Gild, opposite is another, belonging to the brothers of St. Nicholas's Gild, but upon their incorporation, about Henry the Sixth's time, when they built St. Nicholas's chapel, they were forsaken by them, and left to the soul priests of the parish, who sang in them until the reformation; the organs used to stand between the first of these chapels and the chancel. The roofs of the nave, chancel, and two chapels, are stained with red and white. This building, now standing [1756], was without doubt built by the Titz-Halters.<sup>3</sup> whose arms are often cut on the south porch, in stone, and were formerly in many of the windows, (see p. 7,) as were the arms of Wingfield, and De-la-pole: in other windows Fitz-Walter impales Ufford; in another were the arms of England and France quartered, and St. George; as also Bury Abbey arms; and in another shield the East Angles, all which are now lost, except Fitz-Walters.

In an upper north window of the nave is a man in a blue robe, with a red mantle, kneeling on a cushion, bidding his beads, and saying,

Opposite, (in the same window,) a woman in the same posture, saying,

Mater Sancta Dei ora pro ———

There being no arms nor inscription, we know not who they were designed for.

In the south isle is an old inarched monument, with a coffin-stone lying by it; but there are no arms nor inscription. In the north chapel was such another stone, which being taken up to make a vault for Mr. William Burton, they found an entire skeleton; by its head was a silver chalice: this in all probability was some priest; it was buried again in the coffin. By this stone stands a fine altar tomb of black marble and Portland stone, on which is this inscription in gilt letters:

Underneath this stone lieth interred the body of Mr. William Burton, late of Cock-street within this parish of Diss, who was a person of known probity, justice, integrity, and charity, and very much valued for his true and hearty friendship to his neighbours; he departed this life the 14th of February, anno Dom. 1705, in the 59th year of his age; and by his last will and testament, bearing date the 26th day of December, 1705, which was proved in the Bishop's court in Norwich (amongst other charities), did devise, that his executrix should purchase lands to the value of one hundred pounds, † and that the same should be settled upon two trustees, to the intent that this tombstone, and the vault, should by the churchwardens of Diss be constantly kept clean, and in good repair; and what remains of the yearly profit of the estate, when purchased, or of the interest money, till the purchase be made, should upon Christmas day, yearly, for ever, be disposed of by the churchwardens and overseers of the poor for the time being, to such of the poor housekeepers within this parish, as they, or the major part, shall think fit; with a condition or proviso in the same will, that if this stone, or the vault underneath it, should be broke open, other than for the interment of Mary his wife; ‡ or if the churchwardens neglected to keep the same clean, and in good repair; or to keep an account in their books how, and to whom, the money shall be yearly disposed of, then the payment of the charity to Dio is from thenceforth to cease, and to be paid to Rydon, for the like uses, and under the like conditions — and if Rydon make default, then in like manner to Brisingham.

† That was laid out for land called Hingelswood, being copyhold on Frenze manor, and is now infeoffed among other lands; 5s. per annum is settled to keep clean the tomb, the rest to the poor.

‡ Mary is dead, and interred in it [1736].

Against one of the north pillars in the middle isle is fixed a neat small monument, on the top of which, in a shield,

Dezincampales sub. three bears heads couple or, and this inscription:

Lector,
Recede paulo
Hæc dum tu vides,
Conculcas Cimetes venerandos,
Sub pedibus jacet corpus humile

SOUL PRIESTS OF DISS.

1490, WILLIAM BOKYSHAM; 1504, SIR JOHN CLERK.

At the Reformation, the church plate was sold to Henry Earl of Sussex, August 15th, 1546, at which time he gave the inhabitants a bond for 20 marks for it; and after this I find a letter from the same earl, dated at his manor of Atteburgh, July 25th, 1587,<sup>2</sup> directed to the chief inhabitants, signed by him, Your loyng and assured good Lorde, (as he calls himself,) desiring them, that as he had already received part of their town plate, that he may have the may (as we call it) of such portion more, as shall be sold, at a reasonable price, which shall be paid them, by warrants directed to his barhil, out of his manor of Diss, at the same time intimating, that as they do by him in this affair, they may expect he should do to them and theirs. I never could meet with an account of the plate, but do not doubt but that it was fine and valuable; else so great a man as the earl would never have thought it worth his while to trouble himself about it. I find<sup>3</sup> that they sold all so far, that in 1572 they had only one cup of 23 oz. wt. There is now {17.30} belonging to this church, a chalice, a cup, two silver dishes, a snail plate, a spoon, and a silver-hatted knife and fork.

WILLIAM of DISSE,<sup>3</sup>

Was sacrist of St. Edmund's Monastery at Bury, duly elected; but he continued so but four days, having so great fear upon him that he should not discharge his office well, that all that time he could take no rest, and therefore petitioned Abbot Samson that he might resign, who consenting thereto, Robert de Gravely was chosen in his place.

WALTER of DISSE,<sup>4</sup>

Born here, was a Carmelite friar at Norwich, one of the most ignorant of all that convent in his youth; at length he turned the reverse, continually applying himself to gain knowledge and learning, in which he so much profited, that he took his doctor's degree in Cambridge, with the utmost honour. He was afterwards confessor to John Duke of Lancaster and Aquitain, King of Leon and Castile, and also to Constance his queen;<sup>5</sup> and a great stickler for Pope Urban, and the other popes, that were by him and his faction named the Anti-papes, of whom he obtained, through the duke's favour, certain faculties, to be distributed to such as would pray, and pay for them, of which one was, to make all those, whom he thought good, the pope's chaplains, according to form of law, and the custom used in the court of Rome; and because such as obtained this favour enjoyed great liberties, (viz. to hold as many ecclesiastical preferments as they could get, &c.) many were glad to give largely to be so preferred. Another bull gave him power to create fifty doctors, and as many prothonotaries; to reconsecrate such things or places as had been profaned; to legitimate bastards, and such like. In 1587 he was made the pope's legate a latere, to preach up the crusade against the anti-pape's faction, granting indulgences to all those that helped or went to those wars, in as ample a manner as if they went against the common enemies of religion, the Turks: this he did in Urban's and Pope Boniface the Ninth's time, with success, and that not in England only,<sup>6</sup> but in Castile, Portugal, Aquitain, Leon, Navarre, Gascoign, and several foreign parts;<sup>7</sup> at last he returned to his monastery, in which he died, and was buried August 14th, 1404, near the high altar of their church.

† I own I am no ways certain of his original, for Leland doubts whether he was an Englishman, and his name is spelt so very different in old manuscripts, that I can make no inference from thence, though I find him placed under this town in Le Neve's Collections.

A true preacher, was confessor to King Henry V. with whom he went to Caen in Normandy, in the sixth year of his reign, where the King being of the holy life and frequent miracles of one Lincoln of Trington, a true preacher, he sent this William to him, who brought him to the King, of whom he was honourably received, anno 1417.

JOHN SKELTON, Rector of DISS,

Was a pleasant merry poet,<sup>2</sup> so much esteemed for his oratory, as well as poetry, that he was made poet laureat and King's orator.<sup>3</sup> He flourished in the times of King Henry VII. and VIII. was rector, and lived here in 1501 and 1511, as I find by his being witness to several wills in this year. I take it that Skelton was not only rector, but a native of this place, being son of William Skelton, and Margaret his wife, whose will was proved at Norwich, Nov. 7th, 1512. [R. 2. v. Johnson.] That his name was Shelton or Skelton, appears from his successor's institution, viz. "1529, 17 July, Thomas Clerk, instituted on the death of John Skelton, last rector. And indeed, though the late Bishop of St. Asaph, in his notes to me upon this Hundred, observes, that Bale, Wood, &c. make him to have been born in Cumberland, and though one of both his names was admitted to the reading of the decretals, and seems to have been benefited in Somersetshire, yet he much doubts whether it was the same with our poet, though he was an Oxonian, laureated in that university, ordained deacon April 15th, 1498, and priest the 8th of June following, by Thomas Savage, Bishop of London," [Johannes Skelton, poeta laureatus, London dieo ad titulum Monasterij de Graecis juxta

<sup>2</sup> Walter Raleigh's Poet Laureate, p. 11. And not to be added, at this place, a curious note of Doctor Knight's Line of Poet Laureat, p. 121. To set the matter of poet laureat in a true light, most people have been often deceived in that point. It may seem the great reward of the poet, but 'tis true to those Poets, that the university, when it took their degrees, whether in divinity, or the sciences, or who ever, Mr Wood tells us, in the account of an eminent grammarian, R. B. W. to p. 10. In the beginning of the year 1513, he supplicated the venerable Congregation of Rectors, under the name and title of Robert Whetsteden, a learned chaplain, and a scholar of the art of rhetoric; that whereas he had spent fifteen years in the study of the said art, and twelve years in the educating of boys, it might be sufficient for him, that he might be laureated. The request being granted he was after he had composed a hundred verse, which were stuck up in public place, especially on the door, or door of St. Mary's church) very solemnly crowned, or laureated, adorned with a wreath of laurel, that is doctor'd in the art of grammar and rhetoric, 4 July the same year. And this may discover the error of some, who not considering the crown of laurel as the ensign of a degree, have been apt to think that a poet laureat of old, as well as of late, had that title, and acquiesced with it, from the prince, when it came to the university, in commencing the degree of Doctor of Grammar, as it came thus to Bernard Andreas, tutor of Prince Arthur, to John Skelton, tutor of Prince Henry, &c.

“Turrim London, ordinatur Diac. per Thom. London, Ep. 14 April, “1498, Presbit. 8 Jun. sequen. [Regr. Savage Ep. Lond.]” Will. Carton, in his preface to his translation of Virgil's Aeneids, printed in 1490, hath this; “I pray mayster John Skelton, late created poete “laureat in the Universite of Oxforde, to over see and correct this “sayd Boke.”

Mr. Le Neve says, that his institution does not appear in the books; which is true, for often those that were collated by the pope had no institution from the bishop, many instances of which in those books occur; but it is certain, from abundance of records and evidences that I have seen, that he was rector several years. Erasmus himself gives him this character in his letter to King Henry VIII. that he was the light and honour of the British learning.* He was scholar enough, and no bad poet, unless for himself; for being addicted too much to satire, he created three such enemies as ruined him, both in reputation, liberty, and estate; William Lilly, the Dominican friars, and Cardinal Wolsey; the first of these was that great schoolmaster, the author of our Latin Grammar, upon him he reflected as a bad verse maker, to which Lilly replied,

*Skeltone, dum tibi parare famam,
Et doctus fieri, studes poeta,
Doctrinam nec habes, nec es poeta.*

Whilst, Skelton, thou to get esteem,
A learned poet fain would seem;
Skelton thou art, let all men know it,
Neither learned, nor a poet.

The Dominicans were very obnoxious to his satirical pen, for their vices, and he could not forbear exercising his wit upon them; but they, who would bear no serious reproofs, would much less endure his poetical scoffs; whereupon they stirred up Richard Nix, then Bishop of Norwich, to call him to an account for keeping a concubine, (though we ought to observe with Bale, that she was his wife,) for which the bishop suspended him from his benefice. But these were not his worst enemies, for the cardinal<sup>5</sup> it was that completed his misfortunes. Our poet having inveighed against some of that great prelate's actions, and charged him with too much truth, he prosecuted him so hard for it, that he was forced to take sanctuary in Westminster Abbey, where Abbot Islip treated him with much respect in his confinement, in which he died, June 21st, 1529, and was buried in the chancel of St. Margaret's church, Westminster, under a stone, with this epitaph;

Johanes Skeltonus, Fates Pierius, hic situs est.

He foretold Cardinal Wolsey's downfall; and being charged with

“in England, whereof Master Skelton “a merry poet wrote,

“Gentle Paule laie down they swerde, “For Peter of Westminster hath shaven thy beard.”

For this and such like jests it was, that the cardinal prosecuted him so eagerly.

keeping a concubine, and having several children by her, he said, in his conscience he ever esteemed her for his wife, though he did not declare it, because fornication in the clergy was thought a little sin, and marriage a great one.

Mr. Wood, in his Athenæ Oxonienses, tells us, that "the generality" saw that his witty discourses were biting, his laughter opprobrious, and scornful, and his jokes commonly sharp and reflecting." His character may be seen at large in Bale's and Pitts's, where there is also an account of some of his works,<sup>1</sup> most of which were published this year. [1736]. He wrote also a poem in English, called the Image of Hypocrisy, being a bitter invective against the monks and friars, and some of the great men of that age: Mr. Le Neve says that the manuscript was in his own hands, and that he had it out of the Isaacell-Thorp library, and that it was allowed to be Skelton's own handwriting; it now [1736] belongs to Mr. West, who purchased it at Mr. Le Neve's auction.

JOHN BRIARS, A. M. Rector of DISS.

Was chaplain to Charles Bishop of Norwich; he published

A Sermon preached at Palgrave in Suffolk, at the first meeting of the gentlemen and clergy, for encouraging the charity school lately set up there, on Phil. iv. 17 edit. Lond. 1711.

And also a pamphlet, entitled, the present Behaviour of Mankind inconsistent with the true Spirit of Charity, which alone can prove available to put an end to our unhappy Divisions: being a discourse on the 13th chapter 1 Cor.

And several poems without his name, inserted in divers miscellanies. He was also rector of Billingsford by Diss, where he was buried, Jan. 1st, 1728.

ST. NICHOLAS'S CHAPEL.

Besides the parish church, there was a free chapel dedicated to the honour of St. Nicholas the bishop, which was built about the time of Henry V. by the brethren and sisters of St. Nicholas and of Corpus Christi Gilds, which then were consolidated.<sup>9</sup> It seems, by the evidences and wills that I have seen, as if these two gilds were ancient, mention being frequently made of them in the time of Richard II.; upon their joining together, it shews as if they were rich at that time, for they soon built this chapel, and began a fund to purchase land sufficient to endow it; but though they joined their common stock, yet each, to their dissolution, had a priest that separately belonged to each of them; and all gifts were given as to separate gilds; and the brethren and sisters of each were severally admitted and enrolled. The gildhall was common to them both, being the same that is now standing at the south-east corner of the churchyard, which was granted to the inhabitants, and is now used for the charity-school house.<sup>1</sup> It was at that time well furnished for the merry meetings of the brethren and sisters of those gilds, for I find that, in 1575, here were kept the standard scales and weights for the market; that there then was left to the use of the town, in this house,

1 Caldron.	4 Platers.
1 Brass Pot.	46 Mease of plates.
5 Spits.	40 Mease of dishes.
2 Bowls.	40 Mease of trenchers.

by which we may conjecture what jolly doings there had been formerly. Their chapel stood in St. Nicholas's-street, exactly where the house now [1736] stands, between the street that leads down to the steeple, and that that goes on the right hand to the market-place, the chapel yard extending east to the blacksmith's traverse, and no further. This, in the second year of Edward the Sixth, suffered the fate of all other free chapels, being then dissolved; from that time it stood in a decaying condition, and was in the Crown, by virtue of the act, until June 18th, 1584, at which time the Queen granted "All that chapel with the appurtenances in Diss, in the county of Norfolk, now in decay, commonly called St. Nicholas's chapel, which "was formerly used for the celebrating masses, and other superstitious uses," to William Croft, and John Hallyet, by her letters patent dated at Westminster, the day and year aforesaid, all which they were to hold to them and their heirs, of the Queen and her successors, as of her manor of East Greenwich in Kent, by fealty only, in free soccage, and not in capite, or by knight's service, paying 3d. into the Exchequer; they held it until 1595, and then sold it to Henry Cullyder, butcher, of Diss, and Robert Hault, of Palgrave, notary publick, and they, the year after, sold it to William Chambers, of Diss, blacksmith; now [1736] it is in the possession of Jonathan Walpole.

THE TOWN LANDS.

This town hath an estate at Framlingham, in Suffolk, which (as I am informed) is now [1736] let at 56l. per annum. It was purchased of William Knuz's of Great Cokenham, and Robert Aldred of Beaureid, anno 1091, by the fund that the brethren of St. Nicholas and Corpus Christi Gilds had made, which was, that every brother and sister should pay a certan sum every quarter into the gild chest, to be kept until it should amount to a sum sufficient to purchase lands to endow their stipendiary priest. This was so generally approved of, that few died here without leaving, some more, some less, towards this purchase; and the chief inhabitants subscribed to it, though they were not brethren, nay, several left money to be annually paid by their executors to it for years after their deaths. This by degrees raised enough to buy more than they at first intended, but yet they had out more than at that time they had, for they bought no less than eighty acres of freehold ground, called Coldthigh, alias Cogle-hall, in Tramlingham; and Thomas Cooper, of Diss, ratman, Edward Cooper, John Longdale, and Thomas Tolser, of the same, were infeoffed therein; they in 1408 infeoffed Thomas Shardelowe and fourteen more, and by an English schedule annexed, declared the uses of the feoffment, viz. "that a holly or officer, by them or the moste part or more of them appointed, shall take and receive the yerly profits of the seide landes and tenements, and other the premises comprised within the said deed, therewith an honest and governable seculer priest, by the moste parte of the co-brothers to be named, hired and waged competently, yerly to syng for seve masses and other devygne services, for the sowles of the brethren and sistern of the gildes and fraternities, of Corporis Christi and St. Nicholas the bishop, in the parish church of Diss, within the counte of Norff, by the space and terme of lxxxix. yeres, next ensewing the date of the seide present dede, and at the end of the seid lxxxix. yeres the seid feofes then heirs and assignes, and all maner of persons that then shall be lawfully seized, or infeoffed in the premises or any of them, at and for such price as they or the most part of them in nombre, canne agree, shall selle alle and every of the premises with the appurtenances, and with or for the mony therof or therofor comyng or growyng, shall tynde annually, an honest governabill seculer priest, to syng for the sowlys aforesaid, or ellis with the seid mony or lands or tenementes, and other the premises, shall make further provision for a competent levyng for an honest priest for the tyme being, if it then may be, by an amortisement, or otherwise as they shall seme best, for the most sewer and longer continuance of the tynding of the seid honest priest, to contynue for ever, if it so may be conveniently, by the ordour of the lawe, the same priest for the tyme being, to do the devygne services, and syng for the sowles in the manner and forme abovesaid." When all the brothers are dead but five, then they to renew again, and those five to name twelve more at least, all which are to be brothers of one of the said gilds, and none of them heirs of the former feoffers. The stipend allowed to each of these priests was, at the Dissolution, *xl. li. s*d. though at first it was but four marks each; or if they kept one priest only for both gilds, then he was to have eight marks per annum, and the overplus was laid out in repairing the steeple, church, and streets, every year. Thus it continued until the second year of Edward VI when it was dissolved by the statute for dissolution of the gilds, chapels, and chantries; but the townsmen of Diss objected against it, and stood an action with that King; but it appearing that the term of the feoffment was not expired, they could do no good in the affair, and it continued in the Crown until the forty-third of Elizabeth, in which year the Queen granted them to Thomas Mildmay, for divers years yet unexpired, at the yearly reserved rent of 4*l.* and Thomas, son of the said Thomas Mildmay, of Framlingham, Gent. succeeded his father under that grant, not thinking that the townsmen knew when this term expired; but he was much mistaken in that matter; for the original feoffment and writings (out of which I collected this account) were carefully kept and preserved; and in 1668, when the ninety-nine years of the feoffment were expired, John Shreeve and the rest of the townsmen entered upon the premises, ejecting the said Thomas Mildmay, and John Wood, his tenant, pleading that these lands were settled only for ninety-nine years to superstitious uses, and that during that time the priest had but eight marks, and when there were two, they had but twenty marks yearly, and that these stipends could be no longer than the settlement, which being now out, they entered upon these premises, as the purchase of their forefathers, the then townsmen, and would employ them (as lawfully they could do) to the same uses of repairing their church and their streets, as they always did. This they proved by an inquisition, taken at Hoxne, in the very year that Edward VI. seized it; they proved that it was purchased by the contribution of the townsmen, by the book in which all the contributors names were entered; and in order to prove John Shreeve's entry good, they produced feoffments, shewing that the feoffees, in the first feoffment above specified, did infeoff Thomas Shardelowe, and others, who in 1534 infeoffed Reginald Wotton and Roger Bird, priests, and others, and they conveyed it to Thomas Shardelowe, John Baron, and others, with one Robert Fuller, alias Garblesham, who was the last surviving feoffee, and died seized thereof, and Edward Fuller, his great-grandson and right lineal heir, entered into part of the lands in the name of the rest, and then by deed in 1589 infeoffed Matthew Wilbye and Thomas Shreeve, which Thomas died seized, and John Shreeve, his son, entered into the lands as his right, and brought the ejectment. All this being plainly proved, the lands were given by verdict to the town, and in the ninth Jac. I. the King, and the said Thomas Mildmay and John Wood, renounced all right, title, claim, or demand, in the said lands, or in the 4*l. per annum* stipend mentioned to go and be paid out thereof. This cost the parish so much, that in 1613 they sold to George Spaldyng part of this land, called Hellbrook-field, in Framlingham, containing ten acres, for 150*l.* with which they paid the charges, and then settled the rest by feoffment to the uses aforesaid, and then made a lease thereof to one Edward Wickham.

But though they had such success with this affair, they met with the contrary in relation to the other lands that were under the same limitation in the same feoffment, viz. a close called Chawmpenges, in Diss and Frenze, and three pieces of land in Disse, at 18*d.* rent in Disse, Frenze, and Skole; the first piece laid in Diss, in Frenze-field, and contained three acres; the second piece one acre; the third piece two acres; for it appeared by feoffments, prior to this, that these lands were given without limitation, to find lamps, anniversaries, &c.

for ever in Diss church, which upon Chaumpneys meadow, which at that time were in the hands of the lord of the manor of Fence, under the King's grant, was by arbitration confirmed to him and his heirs, and the other three pieces, which were then in the hands of Mr. John Blouchell, by the same arbitration was confirmed to him and his heirs, upon his paying 40*l.* to the church-wardens of Diss. Richard Coome and Nicholas Horne, Esqrs. were arbitrators, their arbitration bearing date Jan. 9, 1640.

The lands that were given by Richard Eaton, in 1493, to pay the lect fee, or common fine of Diss for ever, and to keep his obit, &c. were seized by Edward VI. and by him granted in 1549 to Sir Ralph Sadley, Knt. and Laurence Wemyngton, Gent. to be held of his manor of East Greenwich, by fealty only; they gave them to Thomas Cook of Norwich, Gent. and William Nectan of the same, who sold them to Thomas Aldred, of Diss, and others.

1795. Mr. Thomas Tabber gave 2*sl.* with which the townsmen purchased three rods of copyhold land on the rectory manor, called Bell-acre, in Diss, which they took up this year, and settled the profits to be employed to the relief of the poor of honest conversation in the said town.

1691. Dec. 25, Richard Fisher of Diss, by his will obliged Edward his son to purchase half an acre freehold in Diss, within two years after his decease, and thereupon at his cost and charge to build a house sufficient for the dwelling of two poor people, and afterwards to intreat the church-wardens and chief inhabitants therein, who shall have power to place what poor people they please in those dwellings. In 1640 he bought a piece of land in Dirt-street, built a house thereon, and made a bequest according to the will. This house is now [1736] down, and the land is called the Townyard.

1695. John Kettleborough of Thorden, in Norfolk, Gent. granted to John Oles of Hymenham, saddler, a pightle of two acres in Ropyen, called the Gravel-pits, reserving a free rent of 6*d. per annum* to his manor of Roydon Hall. This pightle in 1672 was purchased by the town of Diss, and is now [1736] their gravel-pits.

1648. Ralph Chapman of Burston, granted to James Blomfield, squire, Gent. and James his son, and other trustees, an annuity of 20*s.* issuing out of his meadow in Burston called Shampling Close, abutting upon the highway leading from Burston to Shampling north, and upon the procession-way dividing Burston and Shampling east, which meadow he purchased of John Shardlowe, Gent. the money to be distributed by the chief part of the trustees every Christmas-day, for the relief and comfort of sixty of the poorest householders, most comfortless and distressed poor people of Diss, viz. 4*d.* to each, as of the alms gift and donation of the said Ralph.

1620. Mr. Sherman gave 4*sl.* to purchase a close of William Yeakey, called Yeakey's pightle, which by measure contains four acres and six perches, two acres of which are free, and pay 4*d. per annum*; the other two acres are copyhold on the capital manor, and pay 15*d.* quitrent. In 1655 James Blomfield, Gent. squire, and James his son, and others, were intreated to the following use, that its rent should annually be laid out to pay the common fine or lect fee of Walcote hamlet in Diss.

1636. The townsmen purchased of Thomas Deynes of Carleton-rode, a parcel of ground in Cock-street, with a house thereon, being twenty-seven feet broad at the south end, and thirty-three feet at the north end; this is now [1736] the stall-house on Cock-street Green.

1658. October 15, Richmond Girling of Old Bokenham, Gent. by will proved in the Prerogative Court, gave to the poor of Diss 11s. per annum for ever, the sexton to have 1s. a year for mending the grave of his late wife; for which payment he tied his houses and lands in Stradbroke, which he gave to Ralph King, his brother.

1715. Robert Burton of St. Margaret's, South Elmham, Esq. lord of the manor of Heywood Hall, gave to his parish a small house, called the Hopper-house, lying at the east end of Diss Moor, which he also manumised, it being copyhold before it came into his hands. This is now [1736] used as a post-house.

John Petit of Diss, and Mr. William Burton, both which were benefactors, are before spoken of.

Mr. Robert Burroughs built an alms-house of brick, on the east side of the churchyard, for four poor widows.

Here is a good regulated work-house, which was lately [1736] built by the inhabitants for an alms-house, standing on the Moor.

The commons are many, but not large; they are called by the names of Heywoode Green, Westbrook Green, Walcote Green, Cock-street Green, the Moor, (on which the custom is never to put on any sheep, as appears by the town books,) and Penning's Green, part of which, time out of mind, (as the Church-wardens' Book informs me,) hath been always inclosed at May-day, and so kept until Lanmas, on which day there is yearly paid to the church-wardens, 11. 6s. 8d. rent, by those that mow it, viz. the tenement Barter's, that stands by it, hath always one half of the crop, and pays half the rent, the other half goes by turns to every tenement on the Green, viz. Mr. Cason's, Mr. Pettoe's, Mr. Jubb's twice, because this is two farms laid into one.

The charity school was erected first<sup>2</sup> at Palgrave, in Suffolk, in 1711, and two years after removed hither. Mr. Briars, rector of Diss, preached a sermon, which was published at the first meeting of the gentlemen and clergy for encouraging this school, which he dedicated to Charles Bishop of Norwich, (whose chaplain he was,) in which it appears that the rector of Palgrave began it, at whose request that parish set apart a large room belonging to the town for that purpose, and subscribed with him 10*l. per annum* for its maintenance, the neighbouring gentlemen and clergy had then subscribed between 20 and 30*l.* besides casual gifts, which then came to about 12*l.* The school was opened the January before. Ten boys of that parish were taught and clothed, six more taught but not clothed. This school is now [1736] kept at Diss, where the master hath his dwelling in part of the late Gild-hall, and keeps his school in another part: there are now [1736] ten boys clothed and taught.

The grammar school is kept above, in the same house, where the master hath lodgings, and 10*l. per annum*; but this is at the voluntary contribution of the parish.

This is a neat compact village,<sup>3</sup> situated on a rising hill, having a large basin of water of about twelve acres on its south part, which they call the Mere; whence the Diss farthings have a shield way for their device; it is compassed about half round with houses and gardens, which look very pleasantly from the water, but it being almost a standing lake, having only a small run or two into it, and one only out, and all the filth of the town centering here, besides the many conveniences that are placed over it, make the water very bad, and altogether useless; and so foul, that when it purges itself, which it does once a year, it stinks exceedingly, and sometimes the fish rise in great numbers, so thick that they are easily taken; they are chiefly roach and eels. It is very deep; being plumbd, it was found eight yards in the deepest place, which is by the common stath; the liberty hereof belongs to the lord of the manor of Diss, and without his leave no man can keep a boat, or fish, except at his own stath, where every one can lay in bow-nets, leaps, eel-poles, or any other engines, to catch what fish they can there, without the lord's licence. If the passage out of this Mere be stopped up, it is of great damage, by overflowing the yards that lie round it; wherefore it is viewed at the leet, and if it be not clear, the tanner, to whom it always belongs to keep it so, is amerced, as is the township if they do not keep up the rails at its mouth, for want of which in 1639, a man, as he watered his horses, was drowned, and the town was fined. It is of great use in case of a fire, as was experienced in 1640, when the great fire happened in that street; all the wells and pumps being dry, the town was saved by this water.

The chief streets are Smith-street, or Mound-street, so called from the mound or hill that rises the whole length of it; Fine-street, or Mere-street, which lies along the Mere's side; Dirt-street, properly enough so called; Market-street, and St. Nicholas's-street.

The hamlets are Cook-street, where the fair is kept on St. Simon and St. John; Walden; Wolsey; Hegwood, and Westbrook.

The market is kept weekly on Friday, the chief of which consists in the linen-cloth manufacture, for which this market is famous, great quantities of it being sold here; the streets being newly paved is a great ornament, as well as service to the town.

In 1692 there were 400 communicants, and at this time [1736] it contains near 250 families, and near 2000 souls.

It is now [1736] assessed to the King's tax at 2300*l.* In the civil wars, during the association, when the publick charges were levied by the month, there were two valuations made of this town, one at 2600*l. per annum*, the other at 2700*l. per annum*, which far exceeds the present valuation. It paid 7*l.* for every tenth, when the taxes were assessed that way.

The lectures for Diss and its hamlets now [1736] paid to the capital lord, is 1*l.* 1*s.* 4*d. per annum*.

The following arms have been born by the predecessors of, and are now [1736] born by,

Aged 74 Years.

ROYDON.

THIS church is dedicated to the honour of St. Remigius, who flourished about the fifth century; the dedication day was kept on the first of October, being the day of his translation.

This rectory is * valued as follows:

King's Books.	Tenths.	Synodals.	Procurations.	Glebe.
9 0 0	0 18 0	0 2 0	0 6 8	51 3 0
Pension.		Norwich and Lincoln Taxation.
0 3 4		14 marks, besides the pension.

But though the glebe lies in the terrier as aforesaid, yet the real measure, including the site of the rectory-house, does not much exceed forty acres.

In 1603 there were 124 communicants, and now [1736] there are 60 families, and 240 souls. It is now [1736] assessed to the King's tax at 630*l.* 10*s.*; when the taxes were raised by tenths this paid 2*l.* 10*s.* and to the monthly levies during the association, sometimes at the rate of 752*l.* and sometimes 780*l.*

RECTORS.

The rectors that I have met with are as follow:

In 1198, Richard, the parson of Roydon, granted seven acres of land to Roger his son.<sup>5</sup>

The enclosure that goes to the south part of the churchyard is called Chapel Close, in the midst of which formerly stood a chapel dedicated to the honour of the Blessed Virgin, in which were a chantry of three or four priests, daily singing for the soul of Sir

Robert, son of Sir Matthew de Morley, their founder: the foundation deed was produced in the cause between John Lord Lovell, and Thomas Lord Morley, about the arms of a lion rampant, which being on this seal, proved that the Lord Morley's ancestors had anciently used those arms. This chapel was well endowed; many free lands in Roydon were held by paying an annual rent to it; it was dissolved in 1547, and soon after pulled down, and the site conveyed by the Crown to lay hands. It is now [1736] owned by the Rev. Mr. John Darney. It was founded about 1282; but being a free chapel without institution, it is never mentioned in those registers.

The Prior of Eye, in Suffolk, had the tithes of about 100 acres of land here, given to that monastery by Odo de Charne, who gave two parts of the tithes of his land in Roydon, in the Conqueror's time, and by Richard Hoveel of Reindun, who gave all the tithes of his lands here; and in the charter of King Stephen, granted to that house in 1137, they were confirmed to the monks among their other revenues:<sup>7</sup> and in the register called Danoun, which formerly belonged to this priory, and is now [1736] in the hands of Mr. Martin of Palgrave, I find that the portion of tithes belonging to the monks of St. Peter at Eye, lying in Roydon, were let to the rector at two marks a year, and so continued for some time; until afterwards a perpetual composition was made for the rectors to pay 3s. 4d. per annum. Thus it continued until the Dissolution, and then the pension went, with the priory, to the Crown, from whence it was granted off, and hath since passed through many hands: it some time was payable to Catharine, wife of King Charles II. but belongs now [1736] to the Rev. Mr. Thomas Pyle of Lynn Regis.

Here were several freeholds held of the honour of Eye.

In 1355,<sup>8</sup> Sir Robert de Morley, Knt. confirmed to King Edward III. the advowson of this church, with the chapels annexed, under divers limitations. His seal was a lion rampant, in a shield, circumscribed Sigillum Roberti de Morley Militis, notwithstanding which it hath all along passed with the manor.

The Abbot of Sibton,<sup>9</sup> in Suffolk, had temporals here taxed at 3s. being part of their manor called Friers, in Shelfhanger, which extended hither.

The present building is very ancient, having its nave only standing (the south isle having been a long time in ruins.) It is covered with lead, though the chancel and south porch are tiled; the steeple (which is in a very ruinous condition) is round at bottom, and octangular at top; it had formerly four bells, but being unable to bear them, the parishioners obtained a faculty in 1680, and sold three of them: on that which is left I read this,

The chancel seems to have been built by one of the Fitz-Walters, about Henry the First's time, but which of them it was I cannot learn, though he was buried here, under an arch in the north wall, out of which the stone coffin now standing in the churchyard was taken some years ago, and the pavement, some of which still remains, was adorned with the arms of the Fitz-Walters, sometimes in a shield, sometimes in a lozenge, and several others with initial letters of saints' names, the letters being all crowned.

In the church was a gnd in honour of St. Peter, to which Mary Penn gave a light in 1488, as others did about that time; among which, one gave a light to set before the tabernacle of the Blessed Virgin.

In a north window are the arms of

Marley and Knaet. In another north window is a broken inscription, which desires the reader to pray for the soul of one Charnbye.

The following inscription is cut on a seat:

In the chancel are several stones with inscriptions, some of which are printed in Le Nere's Monuments, and some are not; however I shall give you transcripts of them all.

This village joins to Diss on the east, to Brisingham west, Shelf-hanger north, and the county river south; it hath now [1736] two manors only, though formerly it had three, all which were in one in the Conqueror's time, and was then two miles and an half long, and two miles broad, and paid 9d. Danegeld. It was held by Afriz, son of Bose, a thane, or guard of the Confessor's, and was afterward given by the Conqueror to Ralph de Bello-fago, or Beaufo, of whom it was held by Hugh at the time of the survey.<sup>7</sup>

It after came to

HUMBERT DE RIT, who had it in 1146, and died in 1171, without male issue, leaving his barony of Rhit divisible between his daughters Isabella and Hisa, the first of which was married to Geffrey de Chester; and at his death, to Roger, son of Hugh de Cressa, who paid a fine of twenty marks and twelve pallreys to King John, for marrying her without license, upon which the King revoked the seizure that he had made of all his lands in Norfolk, and elsewhere;

it appears that he had for his part seventeen knights fees and an half, though the other part of the barony seems to have been the head, several of these fees being held of it.

In the first of King John, Robert Fitz-Roger, a great baron in Northumberland, gave 300 marks for Aliva, the younger daughter of Hubert de Rhie, to marry to his nephew; and in the thirteenth of the same King, John Marshal, the nephew, answered for seventeen fees and an half of that barony; in the ninth of King John he had obtained a grant in fee of the office of Marshal of Ireland, and had livery of it in the seventeenth of that King. He died in 1234,<sup>8</sup> Aliva his wife surviving him, who, by the death of Isabell de Cressi, her sister, was heiress to the whole barony of Rhie; and agreeable to this, in the record called Testa de Nevil, it is found that

ROGER DE CRESSI held one fee in this town, of Walter Fitz-Robert, and that

MATTHEW DE MORLEY held another fee, which was formerly Robert de Morley's, of Aliva Le-Marshal, as of her barony of Rhie, of which it was ever after held. It was this Robert that, in 1253, had a grant of free-warren to this manor, which was allowed in Eire, in 1285. At the death of Matthew aforesaid it descended to

SIR WILLIAM DE MORLE, Knt. who died before 1304, for in that year William Marshal, of Ireland, presented as guardian to

ROBERT, son of Sir William de Morley, Knt.; this Robert afterwards married Hawise, sister and heiress of John, son of the said William Marshal, whereby the barony of Rhie, the marshalship of Ireland, and all the inheritance of the Marshals, came into the Morley family. William Marshal, the father, died about 1313, and John, his son, in 1316, Ela, wife of the said William, then surviving. Upon this match it was that the arms of arg. a lion rampant sab. double queuee, came to be quartered, and often born, by the Morleys, it being the arms of Roger de Cressi, whose inheritance went to the Morleys, as is before observed. This Robert, in 1326, settled the manor on

WILLIAM DE MORLEY, his son, for life, and Cecily, daughter of Thomas Bardolf, his son's wife, and their heirs, as part of the jointure of the said Cecily, with remainder, for want of such heirs, to Robert de Morle, his son, and his heirs male. Cecily outlived her husband, and enjoyed it; but for want of heirs, it descended to the aforesaid

ROBERT DE MORLEY, Knt. Marshal of Ireland, who, in 1361, settled it (with his wife Cecily's consent) on Sir Thomas Felton, Knt. for life; but he lived not long; for in 1386 the said Cecily was lady; and in 1387

THOMAS DE MORLEY, son of Robert de Morley, Marshal of Ireland, was in possession, who, in 1416, died seized, and left it to

ELIZABETH, his widow, for life; after to

MARGARET, his daughter and heir, then one year old; she afterwards married

THOMAS RATCLYFF, who, in 1487, died seized, leaving it to

JEFFREY RATCLYFF of Framesden, in Suffolk, Esq. his son, who was then nine years old; and dying in 1504, without heirs male, the manor came to his three daughters coheiresses:

ELIZABETH, then aged fifteen years, who was married to Christopher Spelman.

LEVASOR, the second, then thirteen years old, married to Thomas Lyell, junior, of Intoll.

JOHN, the third, then nine years old, afterwards married to John Sturgeon of Cranwich.

ELIZABETH died the 10th of December, 1518, leaving Elizabeth, her daughter, then thirteen years old, who afterwards married Edmund Dethick of Bisham, ell.

LEVASOR died a widow, in 1518, leaving Elizabeth, her daughter, who held her third part in 1521; in 1531, she was married to James Pergetor.

In 1540, THOMAS SHERMAN of Yaxley, Gent, purchased one third part of John Sturgeon; and in 1553, another of James Pergetor, and the same year

WILLIAM KETTLEBURGH, Gent, purchased the other part of Edmund Dethick, and Elizabeth his wife, so that Sherman had two thirds, and Kettleburgh one; and thus it continued till 1586, at which time the courts then kept had two homages, one for this manor of Roydon Hall, and the other for Fitt's manor, which was joined to it; they extended into Roydon, Diss, Brisingham, and Shelfhanger. It went in these families till about 1600, and then the whole was purchased by

EDWARD HAVERS, who was succeeded by

JOHN HAVERS, Gent, of Shelfhanger, who left it to

THOMAS HAVERS of Thicketon, his son, from him it came to

WILLIAM HAVERS, Esq. then to

THOMAS HAVERS, who died in 1607, and it descended to

WILLIAM HAVERS, Esq. his son, who sold it to

MR. ROBERT BURROUGH of Diss, at whose death it came to

MARY BURROUGH, his wife, who gave it to

WILLIAM, her youngest son, who, in 1733, sold it to

MR. PHILIP DYKES of London, the present lord. [1736.]

The lect belongs to the hundred, the lect fee being about 2s. 5d.

The Advowson was always appendant to the manor, till Mr. William Burrough of Diss severed it, by selling it to

MR. EDWARD CHAFFELLOW of Diss, clerk, who is the present patron. [1739.]

The CUSTOM OF THIS MANOR is, to the eldest son it gives dower, and the moiety at the lord's will. The site of the manor of Roydon Hall, and the demesnes adjoining, are freehold, and were sold off about 200 years since, being now [1739] the estate of Mr. John Danceny, clerk.

GISSINGHALL MANOR.

Which was so called from a family of that name, the ancient lords thereof, and was originally in two parts, one of which belonged to the honout of Eye and the other to the abbey of Bury; that belonging to Eye was held by Edric, the ancestor of Robert Malet, lord of that honour in King Edward's days, and by one Walter in the Conqueror's time; the other was given to Bury abbey in 902, by Thurketel the Dane.<sup>2</sup>

After it came to the abbey, they held it till the Conqueror, and then it was held of them by Fulcher,<sup>3</sup> being of the yearly value of 20s.

It was soon after joined to the other part, but was always held of the abbey, as that was of the honour, and

WILLIAM DE GISSING, in 1174, owned them both; from which time to 1579 it passed with the manor of Gissinghall in Gissing, to which place I refer you.

In 1579,<sup>4</sup> ARTHUR HEVENINGHAM of Heveningham, Knt. was lord; in

1590, ANTONY REVE had it, who this year sold it to

WILLIAM KETTLEBURGH, Gent; in

1600, JOHN KEMP of Flordon kept his first court; in

1602, ROBERT KEMP, Gent. his son, kept his first court; and in

1612, JOHN KETTLEBURGH, Gent. held his first court; he sold it to

JOHN PYKARELL, Gent. in 1618; he left it in 1649 to

JOHN PYKARELL, Gent. his son; in

1707, JOHN PYKARELL of Cringleford, Gent. was lord, who left it to his son,

JOHN PYKARELL, Gent. the present lord. [1736.]

The site of this manor, also with the demeans, are freehold, and were sold from the manor about 150 years since, and is now [1736] in the possession of Mr. Richard Waynforth.

The CUSTOM OF THIS MANOR is Borough English,<sup>5</sup> that is, the copyhold falls by descent to the youngest son; the fine is arbitrary; but in all things else the tenants do as they please.

TUFT'S MANOR

Was erected after the Conqueror's time, it being then, as it is now, [1736] included in the manor of Roydon Hall; in 1272 it belonged to

SAMSON, son of Roger, who was son of Reginald, son of Jeffery of Reidun, who lived in the time of Henry II.; this family bare for their arms, chequy arg. and gules, a cross, and sometimes a bend az. sometimes ermine.<sup>6</sup> It came about Henry the Third's time to

by the modern spelling, to signify the King's down, or hill; by the ancient spelling it appears to be, the down or hill by the water, and this is most likely, its situation answering exactly to it.

<sup>5</sup> Burgh English or Borough English, is a customary descent of lands or tenements, whereby in all places where the custome holdeth lands or tenements descend to the youngest sonne, or if the owner have no issue, to the younger brother; and the reason for this, as Littleton sayth, is, for that the youngest is presumed in law to be least able to shift for himself. MINSHEU.

WILLIAM ROOS towards the latter end of the 13th century, and soon after it fell into the great manor again.

It was hold of the barony of Rhic, which shews that it was a part of the great manor at first granted to some younger branch of the Merley family.

The site was granted from the manor along with Roydon Hall, and is now quite destroyed; the old moats still go by the name of Luft's Hall Yards.

BRISINGHAM MANOR

Extends into this town, and hath so done ever since the Conquest; for we read that there were then four soemen that had five acres of ground valued in that parish.*

ELBY'S MANOR,

In Brisingham and Roydon, was joined to Boyland manor in Brisingham, for which reason I shall treat of it in Brisingham.

The Gifts to this parish are small, &c.

Two acres of copyhold land, held of Gissinghall, given long before 1577, as appears from the court books.

About 1600, William Kettleburgh, Gent. gave 20s. per annum to the poor, to be divided by the church-wardens, where most need shall be; and there is a small house, now [1730] the sign of the hart, with a garden thereto adjoining, tied for the payment of it, the overplus of which is the estate of Mr. John Dawney aforesaid.

Mr. Robert Horner, who died in 1708, gave the freehold close called Tuller's, joining to the east side of the rectory garden, for ever to the rector, on condition that he preaches an annual sermon on Good Friday, and distributes 40s. per annum to clothe four poor widows of Roydon.

The commons are very small, being called the Dort, Waynfarth's Green, the Parsonage Green, and the Little Green; in all which they common alone, and intercommon on Roydon Green, which joins to Brisingham pound.

These Arms are born by

Mr. John Pickarell, lord of Gissinghall, in Roydon, sab. a swan proper, a chief erm.

Mr. Robert Blake, sab. on a chevron gul. between three garbs or. a de-lis of the field.

Mr. Charles Deans, or. two bars in a bordure sab.

Mr. Richard Waynforth, or. a lion rampant az. between three harts. Crest, a lion rampant guardant or. a hart in his paws.

The next village on the river joining west to Roydon, is,

BRISINGHAM.

THIS town,<sup>7</sup> about 963, was given by Osulph le Sirc, and the lady Laverine, or Leofrine, his wife, to the abbey of St. Edmund's Bury, to which it belonged in the Confessor's time, except that part which Almar then held of that house, which was almost half the town. This part was a manor also, and held in the Conqueror's time by Roger Bygod Earl of Norfolk, who was afterwards infeoffed in the other part, by Abbot Baldwin, as Joceline's Chronicle, in the Cotton Library, informs us, to hold it of the abbey, at one fee,<sup>8</sup> and to pay nothing to the ward of Norwich castle, because the abbot paid 7s. every twenty weeks for the whole town. The capital manor, at the survey, was in the abbot, who had then two carucates of land in demean, and twelve socmen who held sixty acres of land, but could not sell or give it any one without license. In the Confessor's survey, the manor was of 40s. value, but in the Conqueror's was risen to 60s.<sup>9</sup> The town was then two miles long, and a mile and a half broad, and paid 12*d.* Danegeld; it extended at that time into Shimpling, Fersfield, Shelfhanger, and Roydon.

In William Rufus's time, the earl had the whole town, all which he infeoffed in

WILLIAM DE VERDUN;<sup>1</sup> and it appears from the Black Book of the Exchequer, that Roger Bygod, father of Hugh Bygod, had infeoffed this William in six knights fees of his old feoffment, among which, this old town was reckoned at two; and this is the reason that it was all along held of the Norfolk family, as capital lords, by the Verdons, and all other owners. This feoffment was made about 1100, or before, for in 1107 this Earl Roger died.<sup>3</sup> The next that I meet with was another.

WILLIAM DE VERDUS, who lived in 1207, and was succeeded by BERTRAM DE VERDUS, lord here, and of Moulton, in 1212. His son,

WYDO, who is sometimes called Hugo de Verdun,<sup>4</sup> in 1211, gave King John 100*l.* that he might, with his approbation, marry Petronilla, widow of Henry de Mara, and have her land.<sup>5</sup> He was lord in 1226, for then the tenants brought a writ against him for surcharging the common pasture. He left it to

SIR JOHN DE VERDUS,<sup>6</sup> Knt. and Wigona, or Dionisia de Verdun, (for so I find her called in one feodary;) and her partners, Sir John held one fee, and she another, here and in Hapton, about 1261; in 1270, Sir John settled this manor on himself for life, remainder to Thomas, his son, and Thomasine, his wife; and for want of heirs it was to go to John, his other son, who in 1280 inherited on this settlement, and was a ward of the Earl-Marshal's.<sup>6</sup> In 1285 he claimed view of frankpledge, as size of bread and ale, infangthef, gallows, and free-warren in all his lands and manors in Norfolk, viz. Brisingham, Mutton Magna, Sailingham, and Reydon; all which privileges were granted to his father by King Henry III. as the charter then produced evidently proved. How long he lived I cannot say, but

John was his son and heir,<sup>7</sup> who, in 1300, held this manor of the Earl of Norfolk, at one fee; for which he paid no castle-guard, but was forced to do his homage to John Abbot of Bury, at his manor-house of Redgrave, and pay his relief and sentage, as his predecessors had always done; he died soon after, for in 1302, and in 1306,

SIR JOHN DE VERDUS, his son, who in 1328, jointly with Maud his wife, levied a fine, to settle Moulton and other manors on themselves, for life, and John, their son, and his heirs. I have several ancient accounts of this manor in his time, in which it appears, that the Prior of Blithburgh had 12*l.* a year paid him out of it, and that it paid 3*l.* per annum to the hundred of Diss, for the lect fee, the lord of the hundred having granted this manor liberty of a lect for that payment, and for suit of the hundred court; which being troublesome, the lord paid 5*s.* per annum in lieu thereof. The manor-house stood near Brisingham wood, in the hall grounds; the swan-hill, and the large moat still [1736] remaining, plainly show the site of it. In this seat the Verduns had lived many ages, but now Sir John removed hence to Marlesham in Suffolk. I have seen an inventory of the goods left in the house here, dated 1328, among which, several things for the use of the chapel are named, and a poor's box standing at the great hall-door, the custom of that time being, to put in what every one pleased, instead of giving servants, as is usual now.

He seems to have been a man of great hospitality, for he left eighty dishes, seventy-five plates, forty saucers, and twelve cups, to treat his tenants at his coming over. In 1329 he settled Briclesworth in Northamptonshire on himself, for life, remainder to his son Thomas, and his heirs, remainder to John, his second son, and his heirs;<sup>9</sup> and the year following he settled Brisingham in the same manner. But in 1344 this fine was revoked, and the manor settled again by him, and Maud his wife, on Thomas, his grandson, son of Thomas, his eldest son, and Margaret his wife, remainder to John, the second son; he died in 1346, as the Escheat Rolls say, and then, according to the settlement, it came to

THOMAS DE VERDON,<sup>1</sup> his grandson, who died a few months after him, upon which, according to the entail,

Sir JOHN DE VERDUNE, Knt. uncle to the said Thomas, and second son to the last John, became lord; he held Brisingham, with the advowson, of the Earl-Marshal, at two fees,<sup>2</sup> the fee that went off with Wigona or Dionisia de Verdon being joined again in his time (except those parts of it which were conveyed by her husband and self before his death, viz. the fourth part of a fee to John de Lynne, and a fourth part to Walter of Brisingham, both which were to be held of the capital manor.) It seems (though I am not certain) as if this lady after married Sir Richard Le Brewse, Knt. for he was lord here in 1315, and in 1326 the Account Rolls of the manor say, that Sir John Verdon was at 47s. 4d. expense for cloth, against the burial of the Lady Brewse. In 1335, Sir Richard Le Brewse had the moiety of swans going in Brisingham tenns, and had two carried to him at Fornham. He was alive in 1354; at his death it returned to Sir John, who had the extent of the manor renewed,<sup>3</sup> from which it appears, that he was capital lord of the whole town, and patron of the church, all which he held of the Earl-Marshal at two fees; the earl held it of the Abbot of St. Edmund, and the abbot of the King; the said John had view of frankpledge, and all other liberties before specified. The manor-house, and three hundred acres of ploughed land in demean, being then valued at 7l. 10s. which is 6d. an acre; thirty acres of wood, valued at 7s. 6d. per annum; forty acres of mowing meadow, worth 3l. 6s. 8d. that is, 10d. an acre; nineteen acres one rood of pasture ground, valued at 6s. 5d. a year; and two windmills at 20s. per annum, besides the commons lying round the whole town, which, in eggs, hens, and days works, paid to the lord by the commoners, were worth 10s. per annum; and the lord had twenty acres of fen to dig turf in, worth 5s. a year; he had also liberty of free-warren by the King's charter, and a free fishery with all manner of boats and nets, throughout all his manor of Brisingham, and through all Roydon, as far as Diss. To the said manor belonged ninety-four copyholders, who held among them seventy-four messuages, and five hundred and eighty-eight acres two roods of land in villeinage; there were six cottagers in villeinage, and the lord pays yearly 3s. in full satisfaction of all suit to the hundred court of Diss, and the same extent saith, that Filby's manor, and Boyland manor &c. were held of him; (but of them in their proper places.)

BRISINGHAM.

This John always sealed with the arms of his family.

He stood to the customs and agreements which his father had made, at his going away to Martlesham, all which appear from the roll * made in his father's life time, in 1340, which begins thus:

“ The Profits, Customs, Services, and Tenures
 “ of the Manor of Brisingham, made on “ Wednesday before the Feast of St.
 “ Dunstan, in the 15th Year of King Ed-
 “ ward III. Anno 1341.”

“ Memorandum, That all the commoners upon the commons of this town, both freeholders and copyholders, pay hens, eggs, and days works with their plough, to the lord, except those that have liberty of taldage, and that all copyholders are obliged to have their sheep in the lord's fold, from Pentecost to St. Martin.” The quitrents (in money) and freerents were 4l. 2s. 2d. 1q. and 3 roots of ginger, of 1d. value; 95 hens justly valued at 7s. 2d.; 17 capons valued at 1d. ob. each; 5 ducks valued at 10d.; 539 eggs and more, valued at 3d. a hundred; 212 days works in autumn, the workmen to be maintained by the lord, valued at 1d. a day; 174 afternoon works in autumn, 1d. each, the workmen having no victuals; 25 days work with their carts and horses, and no victuals allowed them, valued at 2d. each day; 120 alberces,<sup>1</sup> or as many as will come; 183 journeys at plough, without victuals, if all come in to do their work; and if they do not, they must work half a day for every day of ploughing, the whole valued at 7s. 3d. ob.; 170 days work and a half in sharing; 174 days work in mowing, every 4 days valued at 1d. 15 haymakers to make it, as the mowers cut it, they being obliged to make and mow 59 acres 1 rood; the whole of cutting and getting up is valued at 4d. an acre; 54 days to cut and make the lord's wood, and to finish it before Christmas; 20 days to pull the lord's hemp; 120 days work of a man and horse, every day valued at 1d.; 33 days work of a man, each worth 1d. besides days made uncertain, because when they do not plough or cart, they are to do other work as the lord pleases, but there are 220 works more, of half a day each, value certain; 12 chickens one halfpenny each; 41 carriages to carry corn, worth 20d. ob.; 1000 days work in carting out the muck; 41 days to carry the hay, value 20d. ob.; 3 days to cart the timber; 14 loads of hay to be thrashed, valued 2d. a load; 14 loads of corn to be thrashed, value 2d. each load; 28 days to make hurdles for the fold; 18 to clean and repair the cow bings; and 10 to repair the horses' stalls, all which services were valued at 5l. 11s. 9d. 1q.

By this account we may see the difference of the value of things then and now [1749] in what a servile condition the copyholders were, and how grand the lords must be, who had all works done without any expense.

 when the tenants used to go or not, with provisions and ale.

This being as perfect an account as I ever saw of any manor, I could not omit inserting it, and do not doubt its being acceptable to some, though I must own, to others it may seem useless; however, certain it is, that the quitrents of the manor have remained to this day according to this composition.

In 1349, Sir JOHN,<sup>6</sup> and Maud his wife, settled it on Adam de Bukton, parson of Yardele Hastyng, and Ralph de Crophull, parson of Harpol, their trustees, to the use of themselves for life, and then of Edmund their son, and Jane his wife, and their heirs, upon which settlement they inherited; for afterwards this Sir John Verdon, their father, married a second wife, viz. Isabell, one of the daughters and heiresses of Sir Thomas Vise de Lou of Shelfhanger, Knt. on which Isabell, in 1365,<sup>7</sup> he settled Martlesham, Stausted, Swiftling and Newbourne, Saxlingham and Multon manors, and Shelfhanger and Waketon advowsons, all which he entailed on themselves and their heirs, remainder to Symon Symeon in fee, for divers uses; but by this settlement they descended to ISABELL,<sup>8</sup> their only daughter, married to Sir Imbert Noon of Shelfhanger, in whose possession they were in 1391.

As to Brisingham, that reverted, for want of heirs, from Edmund de Verdon, and Jane his wife, to Sir John Verdon, their father, who died about 1392, leaving

MARGARET, his only daughter by his first wife, his sole heiress,<sup>9</sup> who was lady here in 1396, and lived with her mother-in-law at Shelfhanger, at whose death, according to the uses in the settlement,<sup>1</sup> the manor of Stausted, the manor and advowson of Chetbury, Stagenhoe manor in Hertfordshire, Verdon's manor in Clipstou, this manor, and others, came to

Sir JOHN PILKINGTON, in right of Margaret his wife, who was widow of Sir Hugh Bradshaw, and daughter and heiress of Sir John Verdon; but Moulton, Shelfhanger, &c. went to the Noons. In 1399 they settled this manor on themselves and the heirs male of the said Margaret, remainder to Elizabeth, daughter of the said Margaret, by Sir Hugh Bradshaw, her first husband.

This family<sup>2</sup> took its surname from a town which they were lords of in Lancashire, where they were possessed of a great estate, as is proved by the Escheat Rolls in the Tower, and in particular by a grant of free-warren to this very Sir John Pilkington, in all his manors in that shire, in which twenty at least are named; and there it is said, that this Sir John was grandson and heir to Roger de Pilkington, to whom that liberty was first granted in 1290, as being son of Roger, the son of that Roger to whom the grant was made. They always bore these arms.

In 1401, Sir John,<sup>3</sup> in an inquisition then taken, is said to hold

Brisingham manor of Thomas Mowbray Earl-Marshal, (who is now under age,) at two fees and a half quarter, one fee and half quarter of which formerly was Richard de Breuse's, of which John Lancaster now holds a fourth part, which formerly was John de Poyton's,* though its relief was charged at half a fee; it was then held of Fornet manor, and the lord paid to Sir Jons Howard, for his part of the fishery by the Ten Common, 3s. 4d. a year. In 1405, the manor was let for seven years, at 24*l.* per annum; the fishery in Reydon for 30s. and that in Brisingham for 30s. more. This Sir Jons died about 1405, leaving

MARGARET, his widow, in possession,† who this year settled it on Edmund and Robert Pilkington, Esqs. in trust that she should enjoy it during her life, and at her death it should go to Sir John Pilkington, Knt. her eldest son, then brother, and to his heirs; and for want of such, to the said Edmund and Robert in tail, remainder to Elizabeth, daughter of William Bradshaw, Knt. This Margaret lived to a great age, and died in 1456, leaving the manor, according to the fine, to

Sir Jons Pykington, Knt. her eldest son, who had it till 1447,‡ and then dying without issue, it went to

Edmund, his next brother, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Both, Knt. at whose death

Sir Thomas, his eldest son, inherited; he married Margaret, daughter of Richard Harrington, and in 1459§ he and Margaret his wife, William Harrington, Knt. and Elizabeth his wife, and Arthur Pilkington, levied a fine of the manor and advowson, 20 messuages, 600 acres of land, 40 acres of meadow, 50 of wood, and 6*l.* rent, by which, quit of the heirs of Elizabeth, it was settled on Sir Thomas, remainder to Roger Pilkington, his brother, remainder to Arthur Pilkington, then to William Harrington, then to John, son of Robert Pilkington, Esq. This Sir Thomas, in 1450, was admitted one of the Chamberlains of the Exchequer; he was very stedfast to the Yorkists, and all along in those civil wars took part with Edward IV. and suffered much for it. After the death of that King, and of Edward V. and Richard III. he was one of those who joined with the Earl of Lincoln, Earl of Kildare, Lord Loxell, Sir Thomas Broughton, and other Lancashire gentlemen, on the behalf of Lambert Simnell, the counterfeit Plantagenet, and fighting on his side at the battle of Stoke, near Neaark, in 1487, was there slain;¶ whereupon all his lands were forfeited to the Crown, and the year following were granted to George Lord Strange,‡ son of Thomas Stanley Earl of Derby, and to his heirs male, Stagenhor in Hertfordshire, the seat of the Pilkingtons, and this manor, being among them. But notwithstanding this, in 1494 inquisitions were awarded into Norfolk and Suffolk, as at the death of Sir Thomas aforesaid, in which it was found that

Sir Roger Pilkington, Knt. was his son and heir, who in the mean time had got his father's attainder, and the grant made to the Lord Strange reversed, and now he inherited his paternal estate; he married Alice, daughter of Sir John Savage, Knt. He it was that began to rebuild Brisingham church and tower, though he lived not to see them finished. At his death, his estate was divided among his six daughters, viz.

CATHERINE, to John Atlow, or Atthow.

ALICE, to Edmund Saltmarch.

ELIZABETH, to William Huntley.

MARGERY, to Henry Pudsey.

JOAN, to John Daniel of Daresbury, in Cheshire; each of which had a sixth part of the manor and advowson, in right of their wives; but for want of accounts of the separate descents of the daughters, I cannot exactly trace every part; but thus much I find in the ancient court-copies, and other evidences,<sup>1</sup> that

In 1546, JOHN FUTTER of Stanton, in Suffolk, was lord of two parts, who, in 1550, purchased another part of

Sir RICHARD SOUTHWELL, Knt. who had it of

THOMAS, son of William Huntley, Gent. by which he became lord of a moiety; he bought one of his first parts of HENRY CHITTING, and Bridget his wife, daughter and heiress to one of Pilkington's daughters.

In 1543, THOMAS WIAT, Esq. son and heir of Thomas Wiat, Knt. had a part.

JOHN FUTTER left his three parts, or moiety, to

ROBERT, his son, who made several settlements of it in 1561, to divers uses, on

FRANCIS BOLDERO and EDMUND WISEMAN, who conveyed it to

THOMAS ANDREWS and WILLIAM PHELLIPS, who settled it on

BARTHOLOMEW KEMP. But notwithstanding all this,<sup>2</sup> when the title came to be inspected, in order for sale, some flaw or other was found, so that Wiseman and Boldero, who purchased it of Robert, were forced to have a new recovery, Sir Nicholas Bacon, Lord-Keeper, being sole feoffee, in whom the title was entirely vested. As to the other parts,

THOMAS,<sup>3</sup> son of John Daniel, sold his to

JOHN ATLOW sold his to

WILLIAM SKIMSBER; and in Sir Peter Leicester's Description of Cheshire, it is said that

Sir RALPH LEICESTER of Toft, in 1561, sold a part to

FRANCIS BALDERO and EDMUND WISEMAN, which was settled on

Sir NICHOLAS BACON, in order for sale, as all the parts were. How Coe's and Skimsber's passed I cannot tell; but upon recoveries suffered, they were also vested in

Sir NICHOLAS, and by him sold, with the advowson, to

THOMAS Duke of Norfolk, and his feoffees, sc. Sir Nicholas Le Strange, and Sir Richard Fulmerston, Knts. and John Blevhasset, Esq. who kept their first court here, the 10th of Feb. 1564; the style of which ran thus:

In 1570, the Duke leased it to THOMAS KITSOS, Esq. who kept court in his own name, by virtue of his lease.

1574, WILLIAM DIXE, Esq. and Thomas Canterell, Gent. assigns of Thomas late Duke of Norfolk for ten years to come, kept their first court here, in the style of which it appears, that the manor was entailed as follows :

On PHILIP HOWARD, Esq. eldest son of the said Duke, otherwise called Phillip Earl of Surrey, and his heirs male, remainder to his brother, Thomas Howard, Esq. and his heirs male, remainder to William Howard, Esq. another brother, and his heirs male, remainder to Henry Howard, Esq. another brother, and his heirs male, remainder to the right heirs of Earl Phillip; and for want of such, to Margaret Howard, his sister, and her heirs.

In 1578, THOMAS Duke of Norfolk kept his first court, upon whose attainder it was forfeited to the Crown, and

The QUEEN kept court here, she granted it to

WILLIAM CECIL, Knight of the Garter, and others; whether to the use of the Howard family, or no, I cannot say; however, certain it is, that it was in

PHILIP Earl of Arundell and Surrey; and, upon his attainder in 1589, was seized again by the Queen;

From which time it remained in the Crown till the first of James I. when

THOMAS, son of the said Earl, was restored to his honour and estate; and in that year, the King, by letters patent dated June 17, restored the manor and advowson to

THOMAS Lord Howard, and Henry Howard, to each a moiety.

In 1625, ROBERT CAUSFIELD of London, Esq. trustee to Henry Earl of Arundell, mortgaged this manor and advowson, and the tenements Irland and Roses, to Sir Thomas Penruddock of Hale, in Southamptonshire, Knt. and Sir Henry Bedingfield of Oxburgh, in Norfolk, Knt. with divers other large estates, which were afterwards sold; but those being insufficient to pay the debts, it was afterwards intitled in

JOHN DIXE, alias Ramsaye, of Buckmere, in Norfolk, and other trustees, in order to pay the rest, which John left his brother's son, John, his heir, who, in 1660, at the request of Henry Howard, second son to Henry late Earl of Arundell, absolutely granted and released to

Sir WILLIAM PEALERS of Soterlee, in Suffolk, Knt. and Bart. and Sir Richard Onslow of West Clandon, in Surrey, Knt. and their heirs forever, (among others,) this manor and advowson, to the intent that they should take the debt absolutely on themselves, with the title; and soon after, the debt being paid, it was conveyed to

BOYLAND MANOR

Belonged to Alsius in the Confessor's time, and was in the Conqueror's hands at the survey, being by him committed to Godric's custody, and was then very small.

It was after in the Earl of Norfolk, and by him united to the great manor, and so continued till the first Sir Johu de Verdon, about 1240, conveyed it to Walter of Brisingham, to be held, by him and his heirs, of the manor of Brisingham; this Walter left it to William of Brisingham, his son, and he to Walter of Brisingham, his son,<sup>8</sup> who, with Margery his wife, sold it, in 1268, to Sir Richard de Boyland, Knt. from whom the manor took its name. The Brisingham family were of good account, and had large possessions here and in other places, as I find by several evidences. William, son of Walter of Brisingham, lived in 1259; Richard, son of Rose of Brisingham, in 1332; John, son of Robert of Brisingham, and Joan his wife, in 1349; all considerable owners in these parts.

In 1268, WALTER of Brisingham sold to Richard de Boyland, one messuage and a carncate of land, in demesne, in Brisingham, Roydon, and Shelfhanger, with all their homages, services of freemen, and villeins, reliefs, &c. (for money,) and 80 acres of land, that the said Richard granted to the said Walter and Margery, in Pulham, being all the land he had there. These arms were always born by the Brisingham family, though there were two younger branches that bore different coats, viz.

Sab. two wings conjoined and elevated arg.

Arg. three mullets sab. between two bendlets engrailed gul.

And according to this conveyance, I read in Curtey's Register, fol. 52, that

RICHARD DE BOYLOND, Knt. held a messuage, 60 acres of land, 5 acres of wood, 1 of marsh, &c. of William, son of Walter of Brisingham, and the said Walter holds them of John de Verdon, by the service of a third part of a fee, and one arrow, per annum, and the said John holds it of the earl, the earl of the Abbot of Bury, and he of the King.

This Sir RICHARD was a very great man in Edward the First's time, being justice-itinerant in this county, and owner of many great lordships and estates, but how acquired we may easily judge, for Mr. Weaver<sup>9</sup> informs us from Stow, and other historians, that he being one of the commissioners for the government of the kingdom in the absence of Edward I. was, at the King's return, found guilty of manifest corruption in the administration of justice, and fined 4000 marks for his intolerable extortions. After this he retired hither, where he built a noble seat, surrounded with a large moat, which he continued round the orchards, park, and all his lands, the remains of which may be seen at this day, [1736,] but his greatest work was that subterraneous vault, or arch, now remaining, commonly called the COSBURY, which was made with a double design, both for bathing and for a continual supply of water to these moats. It is situate about half a turlong SW. from the house, and is very remarkable, being arched over very strong, ceiled very smooth, and paved at the bottom; the mouth of it is about three feet wide, but when you enter beyond the rubbish which is thrown in, a man may fairly walk upright; it goes in a straight line about 50 or 40 rods in length, and near the further end is a large well, exceeding deep, beyond which there is a wall, and there the straight line of the vault ends. This well continually overflows, so that the water runs about a foot deep the whole length of the vault, occasioned by its outlet being almost stopped up with rubbish, or else it would not run above two or three inches in depth. When you have entered this vault about four rods, there are two mouths of other arches, one on the right hand and another on the left, from which the water continually flows into the great arch, so that the three currents have one discharge only; what is in these two I know not, for though the mouths seem large, the arches are not big enough for one to enter. Right over the well, in the close, is a hill, raised (as I take it) to determine the place where the well is; when the water runs out, it comes directly into a square bath, over which there was lately a bathing-house of brick, with a summer-house joined to it, the ruins of which still [1736] remain. Out of this the water runs into such another square bath, which was designed as a common one, it being never covered; from this is a small conveyance, which seems to have been arched over formerly, that leads directly into the moat that surrounds the orchard. Whether this water was heretofore remarkable for any medicinal virtue I know not, but if not, am apt to think that this overflowing spring induced him to settle here, a spring of any kind being very rare in this part, there being little water for use, but what comes from ponds and moats, which might be the reason he bestowed such a cost on it. The water is very cold, and in the extremity of frost never freezes, though the motion is but little. The people that come to see this place have pulled down most of the ruins, to throw into the vault to be in the sound, which is very great, and continues long. The moat below is called the Conduit Meadow, and is part of the estate of the Duke of Norfolk. [1736.]

In 1285, he had a charter<sup>1</sup> for free warden in all his demesns here, and in Witby in Norfolk, and Chedeston in Suffolk; about this time he added to the manor divers lands and tenements in this town, which he purchased of Robert, son of Roger Le Brctun, and had them settled on himself, and Maud his wife, and their heirs, all which<sup>2</sup> are specified in the deed enrolled in the King's-Bench. I am apt to think that Sir Richard was son of Roger de Bouland, and Alice his wife, which Roger was dead before 1256, for then<sup>3</sup> Alice was his widow; she lived some years after,<sup>4</sup> being buried in the church of the Carmelite friars at Norwich, which was not founded till 1268. In 1293, Sir Richard, jointly with his second wife Elen, daughter of Philip de Colvile, had this manor, with others in Northwalsham, Tivetshall, Wilby and Ringstead, and lands in Osmundeston, Hemenhale, Tasburgh, Wackton, and Gissing; and JOHN<sup>5</sup> was his son and heir, twenty-four years old, who soon after succeeded; and, in 1314, settled it<sup>6</sup> on himself and Emme his wife, and their heirs, with the lands that belonged to it in Roydon, Shelfhanger, and Wiafarthing. He had a brother named Richard,<sup>7</sup> who, in 1307, was lord of Shotisham: in 1321 he sealed with a knight on horseback, holding a shield with his arms thereon; he left it to

Sir RICHARD DE BOYLAND, who, in 1340, held it at a third part of a fee, jointly with Maud de Boyland, his mother-in-law. I have a deed in 1350, to which he is a witness: at his death it came to

Sir JOHN BOYLAND, of Boyland Hall in Brisingham, his son and heir, who died without issue male, leaving only one daughter, Maud,<sup>8</sup> married to

JOHN LANCASTER, senior, Esq. of Brisingham, who was of a good family in this country; William Lancaster, Esq. was a tenant of this manor in 1378. This John was seized of it in 1401, holding it at the fourth part of a fee, but was charged at half a fee for his relief; he added to it by purchasing Filby's manor, and uniting it to this, as he did the tenement Irland's and all the services thereto belonging, which was of his own inheritance, all which, at his death, he left to

JOHN LANCASTER, Esq. of Brisingham, who married Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of Sir John Braham of Braham Hall in Catwade, in Suffolk, Knt. He by his last will, dated the 20th of Nov. 1469, willed to be buried in St. John's church,<sup>9</sup> in Brisingham,<sup>1</sup> leaving the manor to

ELIZABETH, his wife, for life, with the manor of Heywood Hall in Diss, and all the lands thereto belonging in Reydon, Shelfhanger, Fersfield, and Burston, all which John Lancaster, senior, his father, had settled on Sir Simon Felbrigge, Knt. Gilbert Debenham, and other trustees, to the use of his will; and at the death of Elizabeth, the aforesaid premises were to descend to William, his eldest son, except Filby's tenement in Brisingham, and Roydon. John and Henry, his sons, were to have all his share in Boyton Hall manor, in Capel in Suffolk, with lands there, and several towns thereabouts; and after the death of Elizabeth his wife, and William his son, they were to have Filby's tenement, and his part of the manor of Braham Hall in Catwade, to them and their heirs. Elizabeth lived till 1478, and then died seized of this,<sup>2</sup> and of a tenement, and 14 acres held of Fersfield manor, called Rose's, and of the tenement Irland's in Fersfield and Brisingham, with all its services; and William Lan-caster of Boylant Hall in Brisingham, was her son and heir. It seems she married one Cator for her second husband, for by that name she is found to die seized.<sup>1</sup>

This WILLIAM first married Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of William Notbeam of Suffolk, Esq. and after her death, to <sup>2</sup>Eleanor, widow of Henry Noon of Shelfhanger, Esq. daughter of Derby of Cheshire, who survived him, and after married to Robert Wyngfield, Esq. whom she survived; and dying in 1500, was buried by Henry Noon, her first husband, in Shelfhanger chancel. By her he had no issue; by his first wife he had one daughter, named Benedicta, who married

EDWARD BOLTON, Esq. who had two sons,

WILLIAM BOLTON of Boylant Hall, to whom he gave this manor, with Irland's and Rose's tenements, and all their rents and services in Fersfield, Brisingham, Raydon, and Shelfhanger, by will dated 15th July, 1528. To Thomas, his other son, he gave Heywood Hall manor in Diss, and Winfarthing, which went off with him, as in that manor at large. This William married Elizabeth, sister and heiress to William Carson of Carleton in Norfolk, clerk, by whom he had

FRANCIS BOLTON of Burston, Gent. who was lord here in 1571.<sup>3</sup> He married Anne, daughter and heiress of John Pykarell of London, and Anne his wife, daughter of John Fyfield of Essex, by whom he had

EDWARD BOLTON, who dying without issue, the manor and tenements aforesaid descended to his four sisters, Ruth, Elizabeth, Susan, and Judith.

JUDITH married Edward Rochester of Thetford, Gent. whose son Richard joined with Eustace Tirrel, Gent. who married another, and the other sisters and their husbands, and sold it to

PHILLIP Earl of Arundell, who was possessed hereof in 1583, together with Rose's and Irland's. At this time the site of this manor, with the demeans, whereof part was in the park of Kenninghall, was let to the keeper of the old park, for his dwelling, and so had been ever since 1571, before which time it was hired by the Norfolk family, if not mortgaged to them by William Bolton, and Elizabeth his wife, though there was no title completed till now; from this time it continued in the Norfolk family, the present duke being now lord. [1736.]

MIDDLETON'S MANOR IN BRISINGHAM

Had its beginning in 1276, when Wigona de Verdon and her partners held it, together with lands in Hapton, at one fee; this soon returned to the capital manor, except those parts which her partners held, of which

JOHN DE LYSS <sup>4</sup> had a fourth part of a fee, and

JOHN DE BOYLAND had another fourth part, which was forced to pay a relief, as half a fee, it being charged with the relief of that part which was John de Lynn's, whose part came from him to a branch of the

BRISINGHAM family, but not that which had the part afterwards Boyland's, for it remained in that family till it went to three heiresses, married to

HENRY BAILLE, PETER DE MAYNERS, and DAVID CUMYN, as an inquisition of all the knights fees in Norfolk and Suffolk informs me: I take them to have been the heiresses of

THOMAS DE BRISINGHAM, to whom King Edward I. for his great services, gave divers lands in Normandy. In Edward the Second's time,<sup>7</sup>

HUGH DU POOL of Brisingham seems to have had it; and in 1321,

HENRY DE LA POOL, his son, who, in 1331,<sup>9</sup> levied a fine of this manor, which at that time consisted of 9 messuages, 218 acres of land, and other great parcels in Brisingham, Lopham, Fersfield, Shelfhanger, and Roydon, together with the advowson of Shelfhanger, by which it was settled on Henry and Margaret, and their heirs, in tail. In 1338<sup>1</sup> they had aliened it to

WILLIAM DE MIDDLETON of Brisingham, and Isabel his wife, and John Howard and others; and it seems as if this Isabel was their daughter and coheirss, and had this part settled on her, as the other part of their estate seems to be on her sister, that married Bosville. However, by an inquisition, 20th Edward III. it is plain that

WILLIAM DE MIDDLETON held it for life, by the fourth part of a fee, and that he was to pay no relief, because it was charged on Boyland's part, which was to pay 45s. for both, as half a fee; thus it continued to 1359, and then<sup>2</sup> the said William and Isabel, and all other parties concerned, joined in a fine, and conveyed it absolutely to

MARY DE BREWSE Countess of Norfolk, and her heirs, at which time the extent of it was 118 acres of land, 4 of meadow, 24 of wood, 20 of pasture, and 60s. rent, lying in Bresingham, Shelfhanger, Disse, Winfarthing, Burston, Roydon, and Carleton by Bokenham. This Mary was widow of William de Breose, or Brewse, lord of Brembe in Sussex, second wife to Thomas de Brotherton Earl of Norfolk; she afterward married Sir Ralph Cobham, Knt. was daughter of William lord Roos,<sup>3</sup> and died in 1361; but how this manor went till 1392,<sup>4</sup> I cannot say; but in that year

Sir ROBERT BARNEY, Knt. and others, and his heirs. In 1401

Sir JOHN HOWARD, Knt. had it, as appears by his letting the fishery belonging to it, lying by the Fen Common, to Sir John Pilkington, Knt. then lord of the capital manor. In 1425

FILBIES MANOR

Had its site in this parish, though half of its lands and rents were in Roydon; it was part of the great manor till the first Sir John Verdon gave it to his

CHAMPELAIN, who left it to his son

BRUCCO; soon after it was in the

MORTLEYS, lords of Roydon, who held it of Sir John Verdon, lord of Brisingham, by the annual payment of 2s. and 20s. scutage; and in them it continued till

Sir ROBERT DE MORTLEY gave it to

THOMAS, son of Matthæw de Morley,<sup>2</sup> who was of a younger branch of this family; Thomas and his heirs were to hold it of Sir Robert and his heirs, by the service of 5*d.* a year, to be paid over and above the old services, and 6*d.* a year for ever to the church of Roydon, to find a candle burning there; and the said Robert held it of Brisingham manor, by the services aforesaid: at this time the demesns were 30 acres, and there were several copyholders and cottagers belonging to it. From this family it went to the Filbies.

JOHN DE FILBIE was lord in 1335, and paid 3 roots of ginger, or 1*d.* per annum, to the capital lord of Brisingham, in lieu of all services. In 1460

JOHN LANCASTER, who was lord of Boyland manor, had purchased all that part of this manor that laid in Brisingham, and joined it to his manor of Boyland; but the part that laid in Roydon in 1480

RICHARD SELLERS<sup>3</sup> held of the manor of Gissinghall, by the service of 4*s.* 6*d.* per annum, which was soon after purchased by Lancaster, and joined to Boyland, with which it continued, till

JOHN LANCASTER, junior, of Brisingham, Esq. gave it by will to

JOHN LANCASTER, Gent. his younger son, who, in 1524, sold it to

WILLIAM BOLTON, Gent. and so it was joined again to Boyland manor, with which it continues at this day, though the demesns are sold from it. [1736.]

THE PRIORY MANOR

Was taken out of the great manor in the beginning of Edward the Second's reign, when

Sir JOHN DE VERDON granted to the Prior of St. James the Apostle, of Old Bokenham,<sup>4</sup> and the convent there, divers lands, tenements, rents, and services, of the fee of the said John, in the town of Brisingham, all which the King licensed, the prior, convent, and canons there, to purchase of him, after which he confirmed them to that house, together with an acre of turt land in the Fen which Richard, son of Robert de Senges, gave them.

The value of this manor in 1479<sup>2</sup> was 31*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* in quitrent, besides the demerans; the whole temporality of the prior here was taxed at 2*l.* as appears by a taxation of the revenues of the religion in 1425.<sup>3</sup>

It continued in this house till its dissolution,

From which time it remained in the Crown till 1537,<sup>4</sup> when

PHILIP and MARY, by their letters patent, granted it to

THOMAS GUYBON of Lynn Regis, Esq. and WILLIAM MYSSE of London, Gent. to be held by fealty only in free soccage, as of the manor of East Greenwich in Kent. In a few years time they sold it to<sup>5</sup>

ROBERT and FRANCIS BUNTON of Fybbenham, in Norfolk, and they, in 1560, to

EDMUND HOWARD of Palgrave, in Suffolk, he, in 1591, to

THOMAS HOWARD of Burston, who, in 1604, left it to

ROBERT HOWARD of Burston, his son, who, with his brother, Thomas Howard of London, Gent. conveyed it to

ROBERT HOWARD of Fybbenham, his son and heir, this Robert, August 24, 1614, sold it to

THOMAS HOWARD of Burston, his brother, whose daughter and heiress married Mr. Doze, she in her widowhood passed it to the Bringloes,

Mr. JOHN BURSTON being the last male of that family that enjoyed it, whose daughter married

Mr. ROBERT OSER of Kenninghall, the present lord, who now [1736] hath the whole manor, and part of the demerans; the other part, called Prior's Lands, lying at Crosgate in Fersfield, and Britingham, were sold from the manor by the Burtons, and are now divided into parcels, some being held by Mr. John Edwards of Winfarthing, and others, by divers persons. [1736]

For the series of the priors who were lords, see under Bokenham Priory.

THE CUSTOMS OF THESE MANORS

are as follow, viz.

The tenants are at the lord's will, and the copyhold descends to the eldest son. The tenants have liberty<sup>1</sup> to pull down and waste their copyhold houses, to fell and cut down wood and timber on the copyhold, without license, and to plant and cut down all manner of wood and timber, on all the commons and wastes against their own lands, by the name of a frebord or outran, and to dig clay and tart, and cut turze and bushes, on all the commons.

The Church is dedicated to St. John the Baptist, and had 13 acres of land belonging to it at the Conquest, it was a rectory, to which belonged a manor called

THE RECTORY MANOR,

The customs of which are the same as the other manors, except this, that the tenants cannot waste or pull down their copyhold houses without license. The glebe or domains, in Edward the Third's time, were 40 acres, and in 1351, 51 acres and a half, but much being granted to be held by copy or court-roll, they are now reduced to about 20 acres. The patronage always hath, and now continues with the capital manor.

rebuilding the present fabrick, which was begun by Sir Roger Pilkington, Knt. lord of the manor, whose arms are cut in stone over the west door of the tower, quartering the arms of Verdon, on the other side of which is a single coat of some benefactor to the building, which was also in the church windows, though now lost, and is, arg. a chevron gul. between three eagles legs erased sab.*

But though it was begun by him, he lived not to see it finished, for it was not perfected till 1627, as the date on the north side of the nave (still remaining) discovers to us. Among Mr. Le Neve's papers I find, that against the north wall of this chancel, at the upper end thereof, was a fair raised monument, once adorned with two fair portraitures, and escutcheons of brass, but now all reaved, with the epitaphs, he observed that the inhabitants told him, it was a knight of the family of the Pilkingtons.† And in Mr. Justr's book it is said, that there is a fair monument, having its brasses taken away, erected for a Pilkington. Now I take it, that this Sir Roger Pilkington and his wife were buried under it, the tradition still remaining that it was the tomb of the builder of the church; it is now [1736] taken down, and the top stone laid level with the floor, that it might not hinder the uniformity of the altar rails, the steps of which half cover the stone.

The building is very neat and uniform, having a nave, two isles, and south porch, all covered with lead; a fine lofty square tower, with a tunable ring of five bells; the chancel is tiled, which was not rebuilt with the church, it being much more ancient. Here are but few stones, and those that had brass are all disrobed. In the windows the following coats still remain, viz. In the south isle, the arms of Bury abbey, and arg. three pallets gul. on a bend sab. three estoils or. In the north windows of the nave are Verdon's arms; and in a north-isle window, Cressi, or Worley. Those that follow are now lost, Scales and Horard, Brotherton, Ufford and Beck, Usey, Segrave, the East Angles, and St. George's. In the chancel are the following inscriptions:

1569, Henry Symonds,<sup>2</sup> buried in the church, gave 20s. to the poor, and died possessed of a good estate here; he had purchased the site only, and two closes, of Philby's tenement or manor, from Boyland manor.

1623, William Houching paid the usual fee of 6s. 8d. to the church-wardens, for burying his father in the church.

1626, John Blomefield<sup>3</sup> paid for his father's being buried in the church, and a grave-stone laid, 12s. to the church-wardens; the stone is now gone. [1736.]

TWO GILDS

Were kept in this church, the one dedicated to St. John the Baptist, the other to St. Peter; a fair book of their accompts and lands is still in the church chest, out of which I learned the following particulars: that in 1531, St. John's Gild had a stock of 30 cow beasts belonging to them, which they let out at 1s. a year each; that the town-house, standing on the north side of the churchyard, was their Gild-hall, one room of which they reserved to hold their gild in, and the other they let; that there were above 20 bretheren and sistern on their bead roll, their hall, when the gild was dissolved in 1547, it was vested in feoffees for the use of the poor; they had a chaplain retained, to pray for them and for all their bretheren and sistern, living and dead, for which they paid him a salary of 30s. a quarter. In 1518, Sir Wylyam was their chaplain, who was continued to this time. In 1527, Thomas Clerke of Wisbech left them a legacy of 10s. and this year Sir Henry Tayleor, rector of Brisingham, was admitted a brother; they annually chose two Gild-holders, who were to receive all the money at the church-ales, the plough-tode, and the gilds, at some of which they received between 3 and 4l. besides the legacies that were left them. In 1541 they bought a pair of chalices: every year a great many brothers and sisters were added to them, and it is plain they were not a poor society; for, before 1517, they had purchased divers grants from the following societies, that all the bretheren and sistern of this gild should be partakers of the following pardons, which was the reason of the great increase of this above the other gilds, viz.

“The pardon of the beyds, pardonod by the Priour of the

ST. PETER'S GILD

Was a hosp society, and having no hall, it was kept at the Gild-holder's house; they had two pieces of land, each containing one rood, the first of which lies in St. Peter's Grove,<sup>1</sup> and was given, about 1163, by John Coche, a brother of the gild, who also gave the other piece which lies on the west side of Garbroul, both these at the Dissolution, were vested in collece for the use of the poor, and are freehold. They had a chaplain also, the same, I suppose, that St. John's Gild had, for I find one only named at once, viz. 1326, Robert Agar, chaplain; 1399, Robert Wade; 1401, John Coppang, 1441, Stephen Hubbard,

1407, Henry Goman, chaplain, by will gave an antiphonal of 5 marks to the church.<sup>2</sup>

1417, Robert Wade, chaplain, was buried in the churchyard; he gave vj. s. viij. d. to the high altar, and xx. d. to the poor.<sup>3</sup>

1506, 2 Apr. Thomas Smetherste, rector here, made his will, which is a very remarkable one, as not having one superstitious bequest in it, the substance of which is; that what God gave him he bequeathed as follows; " I commend those things which are
 " Cæsar's to Cæsar, the earth to the earth, and those things which " are God's to God; that is my soul to Christ. And I will, that all " the poor that come to my burial have as much money, distributed " among them as my circumstances will allow, at the discretion of " my executors; and if I have defrauded any one, so that he can in " conscience say, I ought to recompence, I will that recompence be " made him. I give to Sir Richard Beeston, parish priest of Roydon, " for his constant and true friendship 6s. 8d. and one of my gowns;
 " and I make Sir James Smetherste, my brother, executor."<sup>4</sup>

In 1478, John Catour was buried in the church,<sup>5</sup>

BENEFACORS TO THE BUILDING OF THE CHURCH, besides the principal ones, were,

St. John's Gild, which gave 25s. for free-stone.

Richard Medeliche of this town, who, in 1505, gave by will to St. John's Gild, 3s. to St. Peter's, 20d. and 6 marks to buy lead, and lay it in the churchyard for the use of the church.<sup>6</sup>

In 1517 there was a gathering in all the neighbouring towns, for to finish the roof.

TOWN LAND AND GIFTS.<sup>1</sup>

The town-house formerly belonging to St. John's Guild, standing over against the north west end of the churchyard, is copyhold on the rectory manor, pays 4*d.* quitrent, and is used for the dwelling of two poor families. [1736.]

One rood of land in Peter's Grove, and another rood in Garbroad, lying on the west side thereof, are freehold; and in 1600 were dooled out, and let at 7*s.* per annum to Mr. Futter: the row next South or Church-field, stands on the rood in Garbroad; these are in the estate late Mr. Salter's, now Mr. Robert Martin's of Thetford, and are settled on the poor. [1736.]

1632, Henry Russels gave 10*l.* to the benefit of the poor.

Mr. Tirrel gave 10*l.* and the parish had 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* out at use, of divers gifts; the town gave 4*l.* out of their stock, and sold a piece of town land which laid in Baldryes, with another piece in Winosalls, for 20*l.* to Mrs. Frere; these two pieces were freehold of Gissinghull manor, held at 9*d.* per annum, and were given in Edward the Fourth's time, by Robert Kyrkebi, and John Gooch. This they expended about paving, seating, and adorning the roof of the church, and carving the stools, what remained being kept for town stock.

A new pulpit and desk were made, and the altar railed in.

In 1638, the inhabitants petitioned the Bishop, that, Whereas the village of Brisingham grew very populous, and the parish church was large and neat on the outside, but much unbeautified within, the pavement and seats being decayed, and others wanting addition, the parishioners sitting in no order, the font standing in an obscure place behind one of the pillars, &c. that they might have license to do all things convenient, for the beauty of the church, and decent placing the inhabitants therein; upon which there was a commission to four neighbouring clergymen, who viewed it, and certified, that at the east end of the south isle, there was a sort of chapel parted from the church, in which the family from Boylaud Hall used to sit, which they thought ought to be removed, and another place assigned to that family,<sup>2</sup> which was done accordingly. After this, it was certified that Edmund Salter,<sup>3</sup> A. M. had been a great instrument towards this work, and had laid out above 40*l.* in building the 14 upper pews of wainscot, for which they allotted the highest seat in the church, on the north side, to be annexed to his house for ever,<sup>4</sup> which was confirmed by the Bishop's Faculty; in which seat this is cut on the wainscot: Quatuordecem hæ supremæ Sedes, extractæ fuerunt impensis Edmudi Salter Clerici, Anno Domini, 1674.

In 1644, Apr. 7, Capt. Gilley was paid 6*s.* by the town for viewing the church, to abolish superstitious pictures, and immediately

<sup>3</sup> I cannot find he was ever in priest's orders, or had any benefice; his letters of deacon's orders are dated 19th Sept.

after, John Nun was paid for two days work for taking down glass and pictures about the church, and filing the letters off the bells; and it is plain that here were many effigies and arms, for the glazing of the windows after this reformation came to 2*l.* 6*s.* But though several of them were lost, some were preserved, and put up in the Hall windows, as the emblem of the Trinity, St. John the Evangelist, St. Catharine, the Holy Virgin, and St. Margaret, together with the arms of Ferdon, and Palkington, and Bohan Earl of Northampton, 117. 01. on a bend arg. three mullets sab. between two cotises, and six lions rampant, or; all which (except the last coat) are now put up in the east chancel window, at the expense of the present rector. [1736.] This church suffered much in these times, for in 1664, 5*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.* was raised by rate to put it in order, and to buy it ornaments, of all which it was spoiled.

About 1608 the town purchased, of the widow Lanham, certain lands called Le Holmes, with the stock that remained of Baldric's land which was sold, and 10*l.* of the town money; 3 roods of it (in two pieces) lie upon Fersfield manor, and pays 6*d.* lord's rent, and 1 acre on Brisingham, which pays 1*s.* per annum. It is now let at 39*s.* per annum. [1736.]

The town close lying against Brisingham great common, heretofore called Chelbury Close, is freehold, and is let at 2*l.* 10*s.* per annum; this hath belonged to the church many ages even before 1400.

The town-house, in which two poor families dwell, [1736,] standing on the east side of the great common, was erected about 1630, by the inhabitants, upon a piece of their common.

Matthew Walter of Bliford gave 20*s.* per annum to the poor. (See his Will, under Fersfield.)

Mr. John Welham, late an inhabitant here, obtained leave of the inhabitants, to enclose a cartway that led into the grounds at the east end of his orchard, and to make it a footway only; in consideration of which, he settled 40*s.* a year; 3*s.* 4*d.* of which to be distributed the first Sunday in every calendar month, in bread to the poor, and tied his estate in Brisingham for the payment thereof; it is now owned by Mr. John Prentice of Botisdale, and is called Welhams. [1736.]

Elizabeth, widow of Mr. John Barker, rector of Fersfield, by will dated June 18, 1728, gave to the rector of the parish of Brisingham, and the church-wardens there, who should happen to be so, at the time of her decease, 2 acres of land called Round Meadow, and one tenement, and 2 acres and 20 feet of land, and half an acre of marsh, copyhold on Brisingham manor, lying in the said town, all which they are to hold to them, and the longest liver of them: and when all three are dead, the next rector and church-wardens to be admitted, to the use and trust following: that after the deduction of charges, the profits shall be by them applied, in the teaching of as many poor children (whose parents are settled inhabitants of Brisingham) above eight and under ten years old, in reading, writing, spin-1644, Apr. 7. Paid to Capt. Gilley, down glass and picture about the church, and the letters about the bell, for the viewing the church, for about 1*l.* 1*s.* 1*d.* L. b. Comp. Gard.

 1736, for 2 days work, for taking long superfluous pictures. Paid to John Nun for 2 days work, for taking

ing, and other work, and learning the Church Catechism, as the produce will pay for, the said rector and church-wardens being tied to keep plain fair-written accompts, in a bound book, which shall be produced to the minister, church-wardens, and overseers of the poor of the parish of Fersfield, or to any one of them, within one week after notice given, which notice must be on a Sabbath day, immediately after divine service, and sermon is ended; and if the accompts be not produced in the time, the whole is forfeited, and vested in the minister, church-wardens, and overseers of Fersfield, to the same uses; and further, the rector, church-wardens, and their successors, are tied to agree with all that shall hereafter occupy the premises, that they shall have no manner of commonage on the great common of Brisingham, but that the right of commonage which belongs to this tenement shall be laid to the new built house and lands called Ten Acres,<sup>6</sup> for ever, especially on that part of the common which comes down to the same lands; and the said tenement, as an acknowledgment that it hath no right, shall pay 1d. yearly, if demanded; and for want of such bargain, the lands are forfeited to Fersfield rector and church-wardens, and if they fail performing it, then to be forfeited to the heir at law for ever. And in another clause concerning the Ten Acres, is this: “ Item, I give unto my kinsman, “ Francis Tilney of Stradbrook, in the county of Suffolk, barber, “ all my lands, tenements, houses, and outhouses in Brisingham and “ Fersfield,<sup>7</sup> with all and every their appurtenances, now in the “ occupation of John Fisher only, upon condition that the said “ Francis Tilney, and all other owners of the said premises, shall “ keep up the altar tomb, now erected over my dear deceased husband, on failure of which, my will is, that the church-wardens of “ Fersfield, shall seize upon the same, and pay themselves, what “ moneys they shall be out of in repairing and beautifying the same, “ together, with all their charges.”

The town also receives 2s. a year from the blacksmith's shop at the Cross-ways.

The vestry on the north side of the chancel was demolished in 1658.

The bell that hung between the church and chancel, in 1618, was run into the fourth bell.

In 1549, the cross was pulled down, and the materials sold, as was all the church plate, (except enough to make a new cup,) with a vestment, rochet, cross-cloth, and altar-cloth, but in Queen Mary's time, they bought a new rochet, and proceSSION book in English.

About this time the Buts were made, and the town ordered to find a foot arms.

This town, as appears from ancient evidences, notwithstanding the common received opinion to the contrary, was most field unenclosed; for at all times, great number of licenses were granted the tenants to enclose their lands, and vast numbers of them in Henry the Seventh's time, when it seems they completed the whole, and this is the reason that all the highways and lanes in this and the neighbouring parishes are measured into the lands that lie against them.

<sup>7</sup> The premises here tied, are the new built house and lands, called Ten Acres, which are all freehold, and the altar-

tomb is in Fersfield churchyard, on the south side of the chancel, under which, in a vault, she and John Barker, late rector of Fersfield, her husband, are buried.

The manors that extended into this town, besides what lie therein, are Fersfield, Roydon Hall, Gissinghall in Roydon, and Frier's Manor, in Shelfhanger, and the rector of Shelfhanger hath a small parcel of glebe here.

THE COMMONS

Are very large, and so they were always, for in an Extent in Sir John Ferdon's time, it is said, that the town is surrounded with common, the names of which, at this time, [1736,] are Boyland Green, Whitehouse Green, Piddock's Green, the Great Common, with Aldwood Green, and Jay's Green now joined thereto, Roydon Green, the Fen Commons, Derby's Green, Wincey Green, and Thwayt Green.

Boyland Green is so called from Boyland Hall, which stands on the west side of it, and anciently was appropriated to be fed by the tenants of that manor only, and is now [1736] fed by the towns of Brisingham and Shelfhanger, who are intercommoners here; between these towns there was a long contest, Shelfhanger claiming common of vicinage on this green, Whitehouse Green, Piddock's Green, and the Great Green or common; which contention lasted several years, till at length, upon Brisingham's proving their driving the commons solely, and always making the Shelfhanger people pay as trespassers thereon, they were adjudged to Brisingham only, except this Boyland Green, on which they were to be intercommoners, having proved, that they had about 6 acres of land in their parish, at the north end thereof, divided by a run of water; but the drift of this green also was given to Brisingham only: all the Evidences of it<sup>s</sup> are in the hands of the town, with many more ancient ones, that would have set forth their sole right in a more clear manner than any they produced; and in particular the ancient Extents of this manor prove, that these commons were fed by the tenants of Brisingham only, in right as well of their freehold, as copyhold messuages, lands, and tenements, with all manner of cattle, at all times of the year, exclusive of all the tenants of Roydon and Shelfhanger, and all others, except the Abbot of Sibton, who by grant of Sir John Ferdon, then lord, and his tenants, enjoyed common of pasture for 200 sheep, on the Great Green of Brisingham, paying annually 12*d.* to the lord of the manor, and his annual alms to the poor of the parish; this right is now [1736] enjoyed by the Duke of Norfolk, as belonging to Frier's manor in Shelfhanger, which he had with the abbey of Sibton, at the Dissolution, and the tenant that now occupies it with Shelfhanger Hall, to which it is now [1736] joined, pays bread annually on St. Thomas's day to the poor here, in lieu of the abbot's alms. The lord granted several of the tenants liberty of faldage hereon, and to drive the common sheep into their grounds to improve them. Boyland Green contains about 35 acres, Whitehouse Green about 20 acres, Piddock's Green somewhat more; the Great Green or Common, contains about 500 acres, Aldwode Green is that part of the Great <sup>s</sup> The verdict was exemplified, anno 550 Annæ Regiæ. Term. Hil. Ret. 457. The Case is reported, but I have not yet seen it.

Green that extends from the Round Pightle to the road that enters Piddock's-lane, and contained about 20 acres, and is now [1736] laid to the Great Green, as is Jay's Green, which is that part lying from the Round Pightle to Fersfield way, on which the tenants of Fersfield have an absolute right of intercommonage; but it being with this limitation, that their cattle must have a follower, it is disused, as not being worth the while. On the Ten Commons there are no inter-commoners, nor on Derby's Green, which is a small place, of not above 2 acres, and had its name from John de Derby, whose house stood against it in 1379. The Ten Commons are large, one was called Walstrete Common, and the other the Freth; Roydon Green is a small one, and is so called, because Roydon intercommons there, as Fersfield does on Winley Green and Thweyt Green, on both which each parish hath drift.

In this parish lived one Mr. Harrison, who was a curious collector of Roman coins, of gold, silver, and copper, from Pompey the Great to Honorius and Arcadius; his collection was sold by his son, to Sir Symond D'Ewes of Stow Langetot, in Suffolk, Knt. He was a very curious person, and lived in the house in which Robert Kent, senior, now dwells, [1736,] which was adorned in a very odd manner. In the parlour stood the effigies of a man which had a speaking trumpet (put through the wall into the yard) fixed to his mouth, so that upon one's entering the room it used to bid him welcome, by a servant's speaking into the trumpet in the yard: on the parlour door you may read the following distich, in brass capitals, inlaid in the wood:

RECTA, PATENS, FELIX, IESUS, VIA, JANUA, VITA, ALPHA, DOCET, VERBUM, DUCIT, OMEGA, BEAT.

And on the staircase door is a brass plate, with a circle engraved thereon, equally divided by the twenty-four letters, and this distich, in capitals of lead, inlaid in the wood:

DIFFICILIS, CELS----SERA, PORTA, OLYMPI, FIT, FACILIS, FIDEI, CARDINE, CLAVE, MANU.

In 1364, John Spilwan held lands here, which family always sealed with a cross flore in a shield, circumscribed Sigillum Johannis Spilwan de Brisingham; they were a family of good account in this country, though I do not find them owners of any manors.

The Boyland family always bore these arms.

Mr. William Piddock of Brisingham bears chequy or and az. on a pale sab. a woman's breast distilling drops of milk proper.

In 1603, it was returned that there were 160 communicants in this parish, which hath now [1736] near 70 dwelling-houses, and about 400 inhabitants. It used to pay 3*l.* 14*s.* for every tenth.

Parliament valuations under the associations were 1150*l.* and 1104*l.* the present [1736] valuation being 1093*l.* 10*s.*

The Lect Fee paid to the lord, was 20*s.* but the lect being dropt, there is no fee paid.

Having no more to say of this place, I shall proceed to Fersfield.

FERSFIELD

Is bounded on the east and south by Brisingham, on the west by Lopham, on the north by Kunninghall, the hundred of Diss extending to the utmost limits of this parish, and no further.

I find the name of it very differently written, as Persevilla, Ferresella, Ferefeud, Fairfeud, Farrvill, and Fersfell, all which seem to signify, a Fair Fee, or Village.

One part of it was very early in the Abbot of St. Edmund's Bury,<sup>1</sup> being given about 968, along with Brisingham, by Osulph Le Sire,<sup>2</sup> and the Lady Laverine, his wife, and was valued with that manor in the Confessor's and Conqueror's surveys, this fee being not mentioned in Doomesday, under Fersfield, it is evident it must be included in that manor, with which it was infeoffed by Abbot Baldwin,<sup>3</sup> soon after the Conquest, in

ROGER DE BIGOT Earl of Norfolk, and that it was so appears from an ancient manuscript of that abbey, now in Lord Cornwallis's hands, in which it is said, that Earl Roger held three fees of that abbey, one in Norton, one in Brisingham, and one in Fersfield, for which he paid nothing to the guard of Norwich castle, the abbot being answerable for 7s. every 20 weeks. And in the same book<sup>4</sup> it is found, that the fee in Brisingham was held of the Earl by John de Verdou, that in Fersfield by Sir Robert de Bosco, (or Bos), and that in Norton by Richard de Cham; the fee in Fersfield, at the death of Earl Roger,<sup>5</sup> who died in 1107, went to WILLIAM,<sup>6</sup> his son and heir, and from him to

Sir WILLIAM DE BOSCO in it in the time of Henry II.<sup>8</sup> whose heir,

Sir ROBERT DE BOSCO, held it in 1105; it was near one half of the town, and was ever after held of the Earls of Norfolk, who held it of the Abbot of St. Edmund's Bury.

The other part belonged to Alsus, a Thane (or nobleman) of Edward the Confessor's; the demesne being valued at two carucates; it was then an extensive manor, part of Burston, Brisingham, and Shamplug, belonging to it. The manor with the Berætic,<sup>9</sup> and that

Thus it passed with the Crown some time, but was after given to the Bygods, then Earls of Norfolk, to be held at one fee; and

ROGER BYGOD infeoffed

Sir WILLIAM DE BOSCO in it, as Hugh his son afterwards did in the other fee, so that he had the whole town,<sup>3</sup> except a wood, and 19*s.* 4*d.* rent belonging thereto, which had been held a long time by the Earl of Arundell; but the jury knew not how, or of whom, this part that Earl had from the Crown, before the Bygods had the town; this also afterward came by purchase to the Boises; William du Boys aforesaid, at his death, left the whole town, manor, and advowson to

Sir ROBERT DE BOSCO of Fersfeud, Knt. his eldest son and heir,<sup>4</sup> who in 1165, held it of the Earl-Marshal at two fees; his wife's name was Isolda, who brought him a manor, held at one fee in Denton. This Sir Robert at his death left

GILBERT DE BOYS, Knt.<sup>5</sup> his eldest son and heir, who married, and had an only daughter, called Joan; he died in 1249, at which time it appears that she was married to William de Bovile, who inherited, in his wife's right, all the lands and tenements of the said Gilbert, except the manors of Fersfield, Garbaudesham, &c. which descended by entail to

Sir ROBERT DE BOSCO of Fersfeud, Knt. second son of William, and next brother to Gilbert, as heir male of the family, all which lands and tenements the said William and Joan held till 1256, and then Sir Robert purchased part of them; and in 1285,<sup>6</sup> he purchased all the remainder of the estate belonging to the Bois family, being

He was a man that purchased much, for besides this, he bought the manor of Burston,<sup>1</sup> in this hundred, and several other lands in divers adjacent towns. In 1285,<sup>2</sup> he had the following privileges allowed in Eyre at Norwich, to his manor of Fersfield, viz. a pillory, assize of bread and beer, vicar of frankpledge, &c. and stray.<sup>3</sup> He married Amy, (Amicia), widow of Thomas Hastings of Gissing, and sung for her dower, recovered, and had the manor of Gissing settled on her for life. Sir Robert<sup>4</sup> died in 1298, seized of Fersfield, then valued at 10*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* per annum, of which there is a fine extent in the Escheat Roll, in which the Great Wood, or Home Wood, from which the family first took their name, is mentioned; he is found also to be seized of a manor in Denton, another in Burston, and of Garboldisham, &c. and

ROBERT, his son and heir, was then thirty years old, to whom he left all his manors, &c.<sup>5</sup> except an eighth part of Fersfield, or a quarter of that fee, which was held of Bury abbey, which he gave to

JOHN DE BOIS, his second son: this John built a new hall upon it, married a wife named Katherine, and settled in it, calling his part

THE MANOR OF NEW HALL,

Which name he himself is called by in several Evidences, and in particular, in the Nomina Villarum of the ninth of Edward II. in which John de Nova Aula, or New Hall, is said to hold a manor here. He lived to 1355, and dying without issue, his manor reverted to the great manor again.

THE ADVOWSON OF FERSFIELD,

And 10 acres of land there, was given to William de Bois, clerk, third son of the said Robert; he was first rector of Fersfield, afterwards of Garboldisham All-Saints, and after that, vicar of Conrthe-Magna in Suffolk. In 1305, he granted the land and advowson to

SIR ROBERT, his eldest brother,<sup>1</sup> and by fine settled it on him and Christina his wife, and their heirs, with a remainder to William Carbowel, if they had no issue. He lived till after 1354, for in that year, by his deed he released to Dame Alice Howard all his claim in the manor and advowson, with a remainder to Robert her son, by Sir John Howard, Knt. and his heirs, and if he hath none, then to remain to the right heirs of Sir John for ever.

There were two other brothers, viz. Nicholas, who lived in 1299, whose son, (as I take him to be,) William de Bosco, and Christian his wife, lived at Cretyng St. Mary in 1310, and Richard, a fifth son, whose son, Thomas de Bosco, in 1330 was presented by Sir Robert de Bosco, his cousin, to Garboldisham. But to return to

SIR ROBERT DE BOSCO, who succeeded in 1298, being then 30 years old,<sup>4</sup> at which time he had two fees, which formerly were the Bygods, one of which was in Smalburgh, and the other here,<sup>5</sup> and another in Fersfield, held of the Abbot of St. Edmund. He married Christiau Le Latimer, daughter of Sir William Latimer, and widow of Sir John Carbonel of Waldingfield, in Suffolk, who was her first husband, by whom she had William Carbonel, her son and heir to his father. Upon Sir Robert's marriage, he settled this manor upon her for life, which she held some time after his death, for it appears by the Institution Books, that she presented in 1316; and the year after Sir Robert's death, which was in 1311, she married a third time, to Sir Thomas Mose, Knt. by whom she had a daughter, Mariot, married to Sir William Botevile, or Bovile, Knt. Some pedigrees that I have seen make this Thomas (or Robert Moose, Knt. as he is called in some deeds) her first husband, but I am certain he was her last, for in 1312, the very year that she married Sir Thomas, she presented here<sup>6</sup> by the name of Christian de Mose, late wife of Sir Robert de Bosco, Knt. He,<sup>7</sup> in 1308, held the third part of the manor of Carbonels, in Waldingfield-Magna, in Suffolk, with the advowsons of that church, and Chiston, in dower, in right of the said Christian, of the inheritance of William Carbonel, on which William the manor of Fersfield was settled in tail, if they had no issue, as was the manor of Walton, and the advowsons. In 1308, they conveyed the manor of Burston to this William and his heirs. Sir Robert, at his death in 1311,<sup>8</sup> was seized of Fersfield, Denton, Garboldisham, &c. leaving

ROBERT DU BOYS, Knt. his only son and heir, then very young, and one daughter, Alice. Christian his mother was his guardian to her death, and then he became a ward<sup>9</sup> of Thomas, Earl-Marshal, Earl of Norfolk, who presented here in 1326, the said Robert being not then of age:<sup>1</sup> he died a bachelor in 1333, leaving his whole estate to

ALICE, his only sister and heiress, then married to

SIR JOHN HOWARD, junior, Knt. who was, upon Sir Robert's<sup>2</sup> death, possessed of Fersfield and Garboldesham manors and advowsons, with Denton, &c. She lived to 1371, and at her death left issue by the said John, to which the whole inheritance of the Boises descended.

This family, I am apt to think, was at first a branch of the Bygods, their arms varying only in field and colour.

BYGOD.

Thomas de Bosco.

BOIS.

Sir William de Bosco of Fersfeud

They surnamed themselves De Bosco, or Bois, from the great wood which joined to their mansion-house, and was not cleared till Queen Elizabeth's time; Boscus in Latin, or Bois in French, signifying a wood. The crest of this family was a buck couchant, ermine. The whole generation continually resided here, from William, who was first imboled in it, to Alice, who was the last of that line. They were always a separate family from the De Boscos of Lincolnshire, or those of Ingham in Norfolk, which family bears a different coat from this; and because I have no where met with any pedigree of them, I have given you one collected from the Evidences before quoted, and other ancient deeds in my own custody.

In 1311, Sir John Howard, junior, Knt. was seized of the manors and advowsons of Fersfield, Garboldisham, Brokchall, &c. in right of his wife. This Sir John was grandson to William Howard of Wiggenhall in Norfolk, a Judge in the Court of Common Pleas, in Edward the First's time, and son of John Howard, Gentleman of the Bedchamber to that King. In the tenth of Edward III. he was constituted Admiral of the King's whole fleet, from the mouth of the

Thames northward, being then in great esteem at court, as may be collected from the many favours he obtained: he was with that King at the siege of Calais, being then Admiral, and had in pay with him 1 banneret, 6 knights, 36 men of arms, and 35 archers on foot. In 1310,<sup>4</sup> he had the King's letters of protection at his going into Scotland with the Earl of Cornwal, the King being then at York. In 1317,<sup>5</sup> he was Sheriff of Norfolk, and upon his second going into Scotland, by the King's order, he made G. de Ely his attorney, to account in the Exchequer for his office. In 1339,<sup>6</sup> he received 20 marks by action, against Sir John Segrave and his servants, for cutting down trees, and carrying away the soil of Fersfield manor, under pretence of cleaning the great ditch round his park, (now [1736] called Lopham Park.) In 1347, he settled Fersfield on himself and wife for life, remainder to Robert, their son and heir, and Margaret his wife, for their lives, and their heirs;

Sir JOHN UFFORD being sole trustee,<sup>7</sup> and as such was lord and patron.

ROBERT, the son, was of age in 1371, when his mother died, being then married to Margaret, daughter, and at length one of the heirs, to Robert Lord Seales, Knt. Lord Nucels; he died before his father,<sup>8</sup> anno 1388, the 3d of July, so that he was never possessed of the estate, leaving

Sir JOHN HOWARD, Knt. his son and heir, then turned 23 years old, on whom,<sup>9</sup> in 1356, he had settled the reversion of Fersfield, Garboldisham, Uphall, and Bokenham's, after his own death, and that of Margaret his wife, Sir John Lovel, Sir John Tuddenham, Knts. William Ufford Earl of Suffolk, John Holkham, John Marlere, rector of Isyngton, and Richard de Walton, being trustees; according to this settlement, at the death of Sir John Howard the father, they descended to

MARGARET his widow; and at her death they went to

Sir JOHN HOWARD, Knt. her son,<sup>1</sup> who was retained upon his knighthood, to serve the King for his life,<sup>2</sup> the 10th of March, twelfth Richard II.; he married first, Margaret, daughter and heiress of Sir John Plais of Wetyng, being then above 23 years old, and had a son named John, then turned 6 years old, who was heir, after her decease, to his grandfather, viz. to Wetyng, Oclec-Magna, Benefeld, and Stanstead manors and advowsons, with several fees, lands, and a park, in Alchesley in Essex; the manor and advowson of Foulmere in Cambridgeshire, and other lands and revenues,<sup>3</sup> all which were held by the third part of the barony of Montfitchet. She died in 1391,<sup>4</sup> after which Sir John married again to Alice, daughter and heiress of Sir William Tendring, Knt. and Catherine Clopton his wife, upon which marriage he settled this manor and advowson, with Brokes in Suffolk, &c. on their trustees, Sir Simon de Felbrigge, John de Roehford, Michael Beverleye, dean of Middelham college, &c. to the use of himself and Alice his second wife, for life, and his heirs; and if he had none, to the use of the trustees' heirs. Fersfield 1398.<sup>7</sup> she died in 1426, and was buried in the south part of Stoke-Newland church, under the same stone with Sir John her husband, and by her father, Sir William Tending, leaving to Sir John Howard her husband, it alive, the manor of Stoke-Newland, with Bacon's manor there, for his life. — Robert Howard, Knt. their eldest son, married Margaret, daughter of Thomas Mowbray Duke of Norfolk, whose son John was the first Duke of this family. Sir John did not die in 1400, as Mr. Beaver hath it, (fol. 772,) for the Escheat Roll in 1432 tells us, that Sir John Howard, Knt. then held Fersfield of John Mowbray Duke of Norfolk, of his manor of Forncet, at two fees and an half, and in 1435, he made his will, in which he gave Fersfield, Garboldisham, &c. to his granddaughter Elizabeth, then Countess of Oxford, and her issue, remainder to Robert, his son, by his second wife, and his heirs; and for want of such, remainder to Henry, his second son, and his heirs; this was dated Apr. 1: he died in 1437,<sup>8</sup> in which year his will was proved, (this is confirmed by the Escheat Roll 16 H. 6. N. 56.) In 1416<sup>9</sup> he had levied a fine of this town and Brokes, to Sir Walter Clopton, and William Clopton, Esq. in order to settle them upon himself, and Alice his second wife; and to make it effectual, John Howard, Esq. his son and heir by his first wife, in 1408 released to Sir John his father, and Alice his second wife, and their heirs, all their right in them, they being formerly settled on Robert Scales, and other trustees, in tail, for his use after his father's death; so that by this release, the fee was wholly in his father, who did not settle it as was designed, and therefore he was impowered to give it by will, as he did, to his granddaughter. All the pedigrees, that I have seen, say he died in 1400, grounding their error on the atorecited place of Mr. Beaver; but if we consult that author, page 773, where there is a draught of the monument of this Sir John, and Alice his second wife, we shall find that the mistake was not in the author, for there the inscription is exhibited with an imperfect date, viz.

“Orate pro animabus Johannis Howard Militis, qui obiit, Anno 14--- “Et Alicie uxoris eius que obiit in testamento Sancti Luce Evangeliste, 1426.
 “Quorum animabus propicietur Deus.”

So that in page 772, where he is said to die in 1400, is an error of the press only, which all having followed in the pedigrees, without any further examination of their author, is the cause that we meet with so many mistakes in relation to this Sir John Howard, that we now treat of, and John Howard, Esq. his son and heir, by his first wife, who, according to the pedigrees, married Joan, daughter and heiress of Richard Balton, Knt. (though in a fine levied anno 11 Henry IV. she is said to be his sister and heiress,) he died in 1410, before his father, as his will,<sup>9</sup> proved October 26, in that year, evidently shews, in which his father and the Countess of Hertford were executors. His wife Joan, after his death, married Sir Thomas Erpyngham, Knt. with whom she lived till 1424, and then left Elizabeth, her only child, 14 years old, her sole heiress.

This Elizabeth married John Vere Earl of Oxford, and carried the manors of Fersfield, Garboldisham, Brokehall, and Foulmere in Cambridgeshire, with their advowsons, into that family, (together with the inheritance of the Plaises and Waltons;) all which, by the will of Sir John Howard, her grandfather, were entailed on Sir Robert Howard, his eldest son by his second wife, if the said Elizabeth had no heirs.

But because the branches of this honourable family are very numerous, I shall here shew that branch only through which this manor passed, reserving the complete pedigree for another place.

HOWARD.

This JOHN<sup>2</sup> was the twelfth Earl of Oxford of the Vere family, being<sup>3</sup> nine years old at his father's death, which was in 1415; he was knighted by the King at Leicester, on Whitsunday, the fourth of Henry VI. the King himself having received that honour at the hands of his uncle, the Duke of Bedford. In 1428, being then a ward, he married Elizabeth aforesaid, without license; but for *2000*l paid into the Trechequer, he was pardoned that transgression, and before the end of the year, making proof of his wife, had livery of his lands. In 1434, he was licensed to travel to the Holy Land, with twelve persons in his company, the year after he went into Picardy, for the relief of Calais, and doing his homage, had livery of all those lands which, by the death of Sir John Howard, Knt. in 1437, came to Elizabeth his wife. In 1438, he was joined with John Duke of Norfolk, to treat for a perpetual peace between France and England. In 1453, he was one of those great men that undertook to keep the seas for three years next following, being allowed the subsidies of tonnage and poundage, then granted for that service; but when Edward IV. gained the crown, the Lancastrian party (of which this Earl was one) soon fell; for that King, in the first year of his reign, called a parliament, wherein Henry VI. and all his lineage, were disinherited, and this Earl, and Lubrey, his eldest son, attainted and beheaded, on the 20th of February, 1461,<sup>4</sup> and were buried in the Austin Friars, London. His estates were all seized, except those which were of the proper inheritance of his widow, all which she retained, and among them these manors and advowsons, which she held in her own right, and name also, till 1472, at which time John, her son, (who after was Earl of Oxford), kept St. Michael's Mount in Cornwall against the king, which made her fear all measures might be taken against her; and therefore, to secure her estate, and prepare against the worst, she and her feoffees, William Grey Bishop of Ely, Sir Thomas Montgomery, Gilbert de Boham, Roger Townshend, and others, infeoffed Richard Duke of Gloucester (who was fourth son of Richard Duke of York, brother to the king) in the manors and advowsons of Garboldisham Howards, Ferstfeld, Wectung, Foftrees, Knapton, Eastwinch, Wiggenhall, and Titteshale, in Norfolk; and Chelsworth, Eastbergholt, and Brookhall in Suffolk; Fulbourne, or Foulmere, and Haukeston, in Cambridgeshire; and several others in other counties, by two deeds, one dated the 9th of Jan. 12th Edward IV. the other the 9th of Febr. 13th Edward IV. and by this means she enjoyed them to her death, and left them to

John de Warr her son, who after became the 15th Earl of Oxford, Earl Bulbee, Samford, and Scales, Great Chamberlain, and Admiral of England, who, after his father's death, adhered to King Henry VI. in order to his restoration; and after the loss of the battle at Barnet, he entered St. Michael's Mount in Cornwall, and kept it some time against the king; but being at last taken, he and the Lord Beaumont were sent to safe custody in the castle of Hammis in Picardy, and in the next parliament was attainted, with George his brother. But in the second of Richard III. being still prisoner in that castle, and observing what hopes of aid Henry Earl of Richmond had from the French and others, in order to gain the crown, he and Sir James Blount, the Governor of the castle, and Sir J. la Fontescue, Porter of the gates of Calais, got thence, and came to Montargis, to the Earl of Richmond, who received him with much joy, being a person of great nobility and integrity, and very expert in military affairs; when King Richard heard that this castle had declared for the Earl of Richmond through the contrivance of this Earl, he ordered out part of the garrison of Calais to regain the castle, upon which, those within it sent a messenger to the Earl of Richmond for more aid, who sent this Earl with a number of expert soldiers, who, by his skilful conduct, drew off those in the castle without any loss; after which he went to the Earl at Paris, with whom he came into England, and marched to Bosworth, where King Richard encountered them; and by the prudent conduct of this Earl, the battle in a great measure was gained, and the Earl of Richmond crowned by the name of King Henry VII. who immediately restored him to his honour and estate. This Earl presented here in 1505. He had two wives; Margaret, daughter of Richard Nevile Earl of Salisbury, and Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Richard Scroop, Knt. and widow of William Lord Beaumont; she enjoyed this manor after his death, and presented here in 1527. Upon his dying without issue in 1512, his estate and honour went to

JOHN VERE, the fourteenth Earl of Oxford, only son of Sir George Vere, Knt. brother of the last Earl, by Margery, daughter and heiress of William Stafford of Frome in Dorsetshire, Esq. the said George dying before his brother. This John married Anne, daughter to the Duke of Norfolk, and died in 1526, without issue, leaving all his estate to his three sisters, his coheirresses, of which

ELIZABETH, the eldest, was married to Sir Anthony Wyngfield of Letheringham, in Suffolk, Knt.

DOROTHY, the second, to John Nevile Lord Latimer, between which two the inheritance was divided; for

URSULA, the third, married Sir Edward Knightley; but having no issue, in 1599, when she died, her part came to the heirs of Sir Anthony Wyngfield, and the Lord Latimer, as the inquisitions at her death testify.

Hitherto the manor and advowson went together, but in 1533 they were divided; for Sir Anthony Wyngfield aforesaid, and John Nevile Lord Latimer, coheirs of John Earl of Oxford, exchanged the manors of Fersfield and Garboldisham, with Thomas Duke of Norfolk, for the manor of Dalby-Chacomb in Northamptonshire,<sup>6</sup> and settled them on the Duke and his heirs, reserving both the advowsons to them and their heirs; all which was confirmed by parliament, in the 25th and 26th years of King Henry VIII. so that now the advowsons of Fersfield and Garboldisham were one moiety in the Wyngfields, and the other in the Lord Latimer.

The moiety that belonged to the Wynghelds went from Sir Anthony aforesaid, to

Sir ROBERT, his eldest son, who, in 1558, had livery of a moiety of Wecting manor, &c. and in 1595, died seized of a moiety of the advowsons, of Fersfield and Garboldisham, which advowsons he held jointly with Caterine Countess Dowager of Henry Earl of Northumberland, Sir Thomas Cecil, and Dorothy his wife, Sir John Danvers, and Elizabeth his wife, William Cornwallis, Esq. and Lucy his wife, daughters and coheirresses of John Nevill Lord Latimer.<sup>1</sup> Sir Robert dying without issue,

SIR ANTHONY WYNGFIELD of Goodwin's, in Hoc, in Suffolk, inherited; he died Dec. 29, 1605, without issue, and was buried at Letheringham,<sup>2</sup> leaving

Sir THOMAS WYNGFIELD of Letheringham, his brother, his heir; who, as the Escheat Roll says, was then 50 years old; he died Jan. 22, 1609, and was buried at Letheringham, leaving

Sir ANTHONY WYNGFIELD, Bart. of Goodwin in Hoc parish, his heir, who died July 30, 1638, seized of the moieties of the advowsons of Garboldisham and Fersfield;<sup>3</sup> but of whom they were held the jury knew not.

Sir ROBERT, his son, succeeded, and was a minor in 1642, and dying soon after,

Sir ANTHONY, his brother, followed him, who left it to

Sir HENRY, his son, and he to his son,

Sir HENRY WYNGFIELD of Carton, who sold his estate in 1709 to

Mrs. ASSE WROTH, in trust, for William Henry Earl of Rochford,<sup>4</sup> who left it to

WILLIAM, his son, who deceasing without issue, the Right Honourable

WYNGFIELD.

The other moiety went to John Nevile, Knt. Lord Latimer, who, upon the death of Richard Nevile Lord Latimer, his father, in 1530, had livery of his inheritance; and upon that insurrection in Yorkshire, called the Pilgrimage of Grace, he, with the Lords Scroop, Lumley, and Darcy, was made choice of by the rebels, to treat with the Duke of Norfolk, General of the King's forces, then advancing against them. He died in 1542, as appears from the probate of his will, leaving issue, by Dorothy his first wife,

JOHN Lord LATIMER, though Mr. Dugdale makes him the son of Catharine, the second wife: but Mr. Le Neve, in this Pedigree, says, that it cannot be so, for then the daughters of the last John could not have inherited the lands of Vere, which came by Howard, as Wiggenhall, Middleton, East-Winch, and other great possessions in Norfolk, of which Thomas Earl of Exon was lord, by Dorothy his wife: he died in 1577, leaving

Percy, Cecil, Cornwaleis, and Danvers, his heirs, in right of his four daughters, whom they had married,<sup>2</sup> who, at his death, were found to be heirs to all the manors, advowsons, &c. that he died seized of, among which the moiety of this advowson, and that of Garboldisham, with the manors and advowsons of Wecting, Middleton, Scales-hoe, Titteshall, in Norfolk, as heirs of the said John, one of the coheirs of Vere Earl of Oxford; and so it was held jointly by them till 1499, as the Escheat Roll of the 28th of Elizabeth informs us, with this difference only, that the Earl of Northumberland being dead, Catharine Countess Dowager, his wife, held her third part for life.

The manor being conveyed, in 1533, to the most noble THOMAS Duke of Norfolk, and his heirs, he peaceably enjoyed it till the 28th of King Henry VIII. In which year, after many signal services both to his King and country, he was suddenly committed to the Tower, through sinister suggestions to the King, and was attainted in parliament the 20th of January, with his eldest son, Henry Earl of Surrey, but eight days before that King's death, and then it was seized by the Crown.

By his will, proved in 1554, in which year he died at Kenninghall in Norfolk, he bequeathed his body to be buried where his executors thought fit, leaving his estate much impaired, without any fault of his own, having suffered so much by the various ebbs and flows of fortune that he had gone through. After his death,

THOMAS HOWARD, his grandson, son of Henry Howard Earl of Surrey, who was beheaded January 19, 1547,* in his father's life time, was fully restored in blood and estate, in the first of Queen Mary, anno 1553, at which time this manor, among other possessions, was redelivered to him, it having been settled, during its being in the Crown, on the Lady Mary, (now Queen,) towards the maintenance of her household, it lying very convenient for Kenninghall palace, at which she generally resided after it was settled on her. This Thomas in the second of that Queen was made Commander against the Kentishmen then in arms; in the first of Elizabeth was installed Knight of the Garter, and in the third of that Queen, made Lieutenant General of the northern parts, and six years after, honoured by the French King with the Knighthood of the order of St. Michael, but on a suspicion that he designed to marry the Queen of Scots, he was beheaded on Tower Hill,† upon the 2d of June, between seven and eight of the clock in the morning, anno 14th of Elizabeth, 1572, being much lamented by all men, for he was a man good to all, remarkable for his hospitality, even in those times, when it abounded every where.

The names of the Peers that passed sentence upon him may be seen in Sir Richard Baker's Chronicle,<sup>7</sup> and his dying words, as I find them in Mr. Hare's Collections, in Caius College Library,<sup>8</sup> may not impertinently be inserted here, as they give light to some things that I have met with, which, in all appearance, were wrongfully charged upon this Duke.

The Words pronounced by the said Duke, at his Death on Tower Hill, the 2d of June, 1572.

“It is no rare thing, good people, to see a man come hither to die, albeit since this Queen's most blessed reigne, I am the first, I pray God I may be the last; it is a hard matter for a man of my calling to use long speech in such audience, either for that audacitie serves me not, or for that coming to such end as I do, fear of death troubleth me, and therefore I beseech you all heartily to bear with me; I will not be long, I will make a short speech, and divide my talk into three parts; and First, concerning my offence towards my Prince, wherein something I have to confess against my self, and in something to clear my self; I am not to complain against my Peers, I do acquit them; I have deserved to die. It is not unknown that I have dealt with the Queen of Scots, in very great and high matters, without making my Prince privy thereunto, otherwise than I ought to have done; there is one thing which grieveth greatly my conscience, that is, when I was first delivered out of this place, I made my submission, and promised the Queen, never to deal further in the matter, and yet contrary to my promise, I meant and did otherwise, I am sorry for it. It was reported I made a vow, and took a solemn oath, and received the Communion upon it, but that is not true, the other was too much. It was reported also, that I went about to destroy the city of London, I take God to witness, I never meant to hurt it, I have dealt with suspected persons, and such as have shewed themselves enemies to this state, specially one whom I will name, to witt, RODOLPH, whom I never talked to but once, and then I liked not his dealings: he shewed me two letters, which he said came from the Pope.”

Then said Mr. Branch, the Sheriff, “Good my Lord, be short.”

He said, “I will be short, I have not much to say; good Gentlemen bear witness, I come not to clear my self: I saw two letters, the one cyphered, and the other de-cyphered, I was charged to confeder with the rebels, I take God to witness, I never did so.”

Then the Secondary interrupted him and said, “I pray you, my Lord, go not about clearing yourself, you have been tried as honourably as any nobleman hath ever been in this land, I pray you make haste, the hour is past, it is upon penit of their lives.” (meaning the Sheriffs)

" I confess my fault; this is my confession. Touching my religion it hath been reported, I have been a Papist, a confederer with Papists, a friend to them, and a maintainer of them and their religion; I take God to witness I am none, nor never was a Papist, since I knew what religion meant, I have had friends, yea and familiar friends, and peradventure servants, that have been Papists, with whom I have borne, but I call God to witness I am none, I utterly detie the Pope and all his religion, and I hope to be saved only by my faith in Jesus Christ; and I utterly abhor all men's traditions, and if at any time I did give countenance to any Papist, whereby any good man was offended, or the church, I ask them mercy, there is no man doth allow better of this religion than I do."

Then he was again desired to be short.

" Now" (quoth the Duke) " touching the goodness of the Queen's Majesty, I am much bound to her Grace, I do thank her humbly, for that she hath forgiven me all my offences, and hath prolonged my life so long, you see how good she hath been to me, I have been looked for here long e'er this time, God send her long over you to reigne: she hath promised to be gracious to my poor orphan children, God grant that my death may end all troubles, and if any one of you have any one faction, or two, or three, or more, let him give over and forsake it, many wish and desire divers things, but they know not what they wish, they seek their own destructions: if every man should have his wish, God knoweth how many would repent it, whatsoever they are, the Queen hath promised in my death to forgive all, and I pray God she may live many yeares. I remember well the words of that good father, and holy martyr, Lutwyche: he told the people that for their wickedness God would take away his blessing from them, I pray God the contrary, that your good life may be such, that God may turn away those plagues that he hath threatened. He spake it in an honourable place, in the pulpit, before King Edward: yet let not this place discredit my words. I pray God preserve the Queen's Majesty, and that she may live and reign over you many yeares, even to the world's end, which I believe some alive shall see."

Then he kneled down, and prayed, and Mr. Nowell, Dean of St. Paul's, kneled by him, and wept, with many others; his prayer was to God for continuance of his Truth, and of his Gospell, and prayed also most instantly for the Queen's most prosperous reigne, and kneeling upon his knees, said two psalms, viz. Miserere, and Domine ne in furor, and in the first psalm, he prayed to build the walls of Jerusalem according to the Psalmes. Quoth Mr. Nowell, "That is meant of Christ's church:" " I know that well," quoth the Duke, " I mean not the church of Rome, nor the walls of Rome, I abhor it, but I mean the church of England, and of all the world wheresoever it be: I have forgotten one thing, I thank thee, O God, that thou hast put me in mind of it, I forgive all the world, and ask forgiveness of all the world, and I protest before God, if I knew any particular man whom I had offended, I would namely ask him forgiveness."

Then he read the other psalm, wherein adultery is mentioned, and when he came to that point, he said, " I would I were as clear in every thing as that, save in thought, and that is yll." Then he said a Collect, and in the end he said, In Manus tuas Domine, in Latin and English, and then desired the people to pray for him while he yet lived, "For," quoth he, "I look not to have any excuse after my death;" then he embraced Sir Henry Lee, and after a few secret words between them, the Duke said to him, "As true a subject as any she hath." Then Mr. Nowell, stood up and said to the people; "He desireth you all with one voice to say, Lord have mercy upon him! and after that to say no more words, nor to make any shout or skreeking, for troubling him in last visitation."

Then the Duke kneeled down, and Mr. Dean bowed himself toward him, with many embracings, and took leave of each other.

Then the executioner kneeling down desired him to forgive him, and then he requested sight of the axe, Mr. Nowell said, "The sight thereof will trouble you;" but he answered, "No, let me see it," but he saw it not, and then he laid his head upon the block, and the executioner said, "My Lord, your head lieth not well."—"O, I will make it lie well," quoth he, and thereto lifting up his body, laid his neck again upon the block, which done, his head was stricken clean off at one blow.

At his attainder the Queen seized on this manor, and kept it some time, and then restored it to PHILLIP Earl of Arundell, eldest son of THOMAS Duke of Norfolk, by his first wife Mary, daughter and one of the heirs to Henry Fitz-Alan Earl of Arundell, the said Phillip being then restored in blood; but soon after, several things being laid to his charge he was sentenced to death.

At his attainder the manor was again seized, and by letters patent dated 17th April, 1582, the manor-house, lands, and demesns, all which were formerly reserved to the use of the household of the Duke of Norfolk, were let to William Dixe, and William Cantrell, the manor being in the Queen, in whose name the courts were held, as the Rolls shew us; and thus it continued to 1595, when Phillip Earl of Arundell died in the Tower, leaving

THOMAS HOWARD, his only son and heir, who inherited the manor; for in 1599, 15th of May, he conveyed it to his trustees:

EDWARD CARREL of Hertog, in Sussex, Knt. (whose daughter Mary was married to Sir Phillip Howard, son and heir of William Lord Howard, son to Thomas fourth Duke of Norfolk, by his second wife, which Lord was uncle, by the father's side, to this Earl,) John Holland, John Cornwaleis, and Robert Causfield, Gent. to divers uses. In 1602, the first of King James, he was restored to all the estate and honour that his father enjoyed, by which he became Earl of Arundell and Surrey. In 1611, he was made Knight of the Garter, in 1620, Earl-Marshal of England for life, with 2000*l.* per annum pension, and Chief-Justice of all the forests on the north side of Trent; and the 16th Charles I. 1640, General of the Army raised against the Scots; and in respect of his lineal descent from Thomas Brotherton Earl of Norfolk, (a younger son to King Edward I.) was by letters patent bearing date at Oxford 6th June, 20th Charles I. advanced to the title of Earl of Norfolk; shortly after which, the wars breaking out, and he grown ancient and unfit for military services, he obtained leave of the King to travel, which upon going to Padua in Italy, he died there, October 14th, 1616, and was buried at Trundel in Sussex. He sold a great part of the estate in this county, and leased out other parts, for a long time. In 1604, his trustees aforesaid, with

WILLIAM HARVEY of the Savoy, James Guiccardin of Widshunt in Essex, and Thomas Lyloff of Lincoln's-Inn, Esq.<sup>1</sup> In 1608, John Holland of Kenninghall, Esq. John Concubus of Earlsham, in Suffolk, Esq. and Robert Causfield of St. Clement's Dunes, London, granted to John Hook, vicar of that parish, an annuity of 4*l.* per annum out of this manor, to 400*l.* paid by her. In 1610, John Dave, Bailif of the Earl's manor here, accounted for 9*l.* per annum quitrent, 4*l.* for the site of the manor and demesns, Thomas Brewster being farmer of the Lodge.<sup>2</sup>

In 1619,<sup>3</sup> July 13, Robert Causfield of London, and the Earl of Arundell, leased to Henage Trach of the Inner Temple Esq. and Philip Bell of London, Gent. the manors of Eyrsfield, Boulbaul's in Bretingham, and Westwich in Thetford, the site of the priory of the Canons there, and all other lands and tenements of the said Robert Causfield, which the said Robert purchased of Sir Edward Clerk of Bokenham-ferry, for ten years, at 600*l.* per annum, which lease was turned over to JOHN DIX of Bickmere in Norfolk, Esq. and was to continue for 11 years 11 months.

In 1625, 12th July,<sup>4</sup> ROBERT CAUSFIELD conveyed this manor and Boylbaul's, to

Sir THOMAS PENRYDROCK of Hale, in Southampton, Knt. and Sir HENRY BENSFIELD of Osborn, Knt. and their heirs, in trust, and, in 1629,

The EARL, jointly with the Lady Hathea, his wife, levied a fine and suffered a recovery of several manors, lands, &c. and in particular of Eyrsfield Lodge, and 223 acres of land in Eyrsfield, after which, he vested them, the manor &c. in

JOHN DIXE, alias Ramsay, of Wickmere in Norfolk, Esq. in trust, to pay all his just debts; and in 1637,

JOHN DIXE, brother's son, and heir to the aforesaid John Dive, at the request of

HENRY, son of Henry late Earl of Arundel, released it to

Sir WILLIAM PEVILERS of Soterley, Knt. and Sir Richard Osdor of West-Claunton in Surrey, Knt. and their heirs for ever, in trust for

HENRY Earl of Arundel, Lord Monbray and Maltravers, son and heir of Thomas late Earl of Arundel aforesaid, and his heirs. This Henry died at Arundel in Sussex, leaving his estate to

THOMAS HOWARD, his eldest son, who, in 1660, the 14th Charles II. was restored, by Act of Parliament, to the title of Duke of Norfolk, which he enjoyed during his life, and then, upon his dying without issue, it descended to

HENRY Lord HOWARD, of Castle Rising, Earl of Norwich, his next brother, who in 1671 had the Marshalship of England limited to the heirs male of his body, at whose death,<sup>5</sup>

HENRY Earl of Arundel, his eldest son, succeeded, and was made Governor of Windsor castle, upon the death of Prince Rupert, installed Knight of the Garter in the first of James II. In 1688, upon the landing of the Prince of Orange, this Duke being then in Norfolk, he immediately declared for him, and brought over that and some neighbouring counties to his interest, for which, soon after his Royal Highness had accepted the crown of these realms, he was sworn of his privy-council, and so continued to the time of his death, anno 1701. He left no issue, upon which his honour and estate went to his brother's son,

THOMAS Duke of Norfolk, whose father, Thomas Lord Howard, upon King James's withdrawing, went with him into France and Ireland, from which last place as he returned to Brest, he was cast away in 1689, leaving five sons and one daughter, of which this Thomas, his eldest son, at his uncle's death became Duke; Henry Howard, the second son, left no issue,

EDWARD HOWARD, the third son, upon the death of Henry, his eldest brother, is now [1736] Duke of Norfolk, and is lord of this manor; Richard, the fourth son, is dead, and Philip, the fifth, is now [1736] living, and hath issue.

The lord of this manor hath court-leet as well as court-baron, which was always kept annually, till 1719, at which time Mr. Bath, then Steward to his Grace, gave notice that he would keep leet no longer, because there was no leet fee,<sup>6</sup> from which time there hath been no leet kept here.

with the manor and all its royalties, before the hundred was granted from the Crown.

THE CUSTOMS OF THIS MANOR

are as follow :

The fines are at the lord's will, and the copyhold descends to the eldest son; it gives no dower; the tenants have liberty either to erect or pull down houses on the copyhold, at their own pleasure, and to cut down timber on the copyhold, without license, as also to plant and cut down all manner of wood and timber, on all the commons and wastes against their own lands, by the name of an outrun or frechord, and to dig marle or clay, and cut furze and bushes on the commons and waste.

There were two other small manors, or tenements, in Thweyth or Hahit, a hamlet to Fersfield and Brisingham, the one was called

ROSE'S,

To which belonged 14 acres, adjoining to the tenement, with other small rents. This was some time copyhold of the manor of Fersfield, and by the lord thereof was granted to one Thomas Rose, who was owner of it in 1443, and soon after sold it, with all its rents, services, and appurtenances, to John Lancaster, junior, Esq. lord of Boylaud, who united it to that manor.<sup>7</sup>

The other was called<sup>8</sup>

IRELAND'S,

Being originally a part of Fersfield manor, which, in Edward the Second's time, was granted by the lord, to one Jaffery of Pesenhale, from whom it was first called Presenhale's, and from him it went to John of Ireland, from whom it had its present name. This John it was that sold several parcels of land, to be held free of his capital tenement, and others by other services, and so erected a small manor, or free tenement, as they called it; many of these tenements we meet with in several places, it not being allowed to call these Manors, that were thus erected, though they were such in reality; but wherever we meet with them, they all had their original thus. This also was purchased by the aforesaid John Lancaster, and united to the same manor: upon the purchase, it appeared that there was a capital tenement, with 20 acres in demean lying by it, with other lands and woods, lying in Fersfield in Tweyth, and divers other lands, rents, and services in Fersfield and Brisingham, all which paid a free rent of 6s. 8d. per annum to the manor of Fersfield, of which it was held by homage and fealty, and one suit of court.

From this time they both constantly attended the manor of Boylaud, and with it were sold to the Norfolk family, in which they continued, till March the 12th, 1654, when

HENRY Earl of Arundell, and his trustees, among other large estates, conveyed to Anne Henshawe, widow, and Thomas Henshawe, Esq. and their heirs, for ever, all the demean of the capital manor of Brisingham, now called the Hall Farm, and Hall Grounds, and also

all that tenement called Rose's, with 16 acres of land thereto belonging, lying in Brisingham and Fersfield, together with all that tenement called Ireland's, lying in Fersfield aforesaid, with a certain wood lying there, called Winley Wood, and two other enclosures called Marketfield, with all other the royalties, privileges, and appurtenances thereunto belonging, all which were to be held free, without any reserved rent whatsoever. The said Thomas and Anne, Febr. 3d, 1656, sold all the estates to

JAMES PERROT of Ammersham, in Bucks, Esq. and his heirs, and levied a fine of the whole.

May 13, 1724, James Perrot of Northleigh, in Oxfordshire, Esq. and Henry Perrot, Esq. his eldest son, and their trustees, conveyed these two tenements, Winley Wood and Marketfield, with all their rights and appurtenances, to

HENRY BLOMEFIELD of Fersfield, Gent. and his heirs; the said Henry, by deed dated the 19th of March, 1731, conveyed Winley Wood and Marketfield to

FRANCIS BLOMEFIELD, clerk, the present owner; [1736;] and at his death, bequeathed the two tenements, with all their rights and appurtenances, to

PETER BLOMEFIELD, his second son, who enjoys them at this day [1736.]

THE COMMONS,

In King Henry the Seventh's time, were very different from what they are now; for all the Southfield was then Common, which contained 110 acres by measure, all which was enclosed by the lord, with the tenants' consent, being divided into 8 enclosures, which are now called, Morecraft, Horseclose, Claxtonsclose, the Great Ground, or Southfield, Upper and Lower Marketfield, all now [1736] in the lord's hands, and the two other Marketfields, which were sold off by a former lord: in lieu of which, an equal quantity of that which is now called the Great Common was laid out, by which means the two greens, called Fersfield Green and Old Green, were joined together, and laid into one common, that part which is now forty acres, being part of Fersfield Green, and the part from the Town Meadow to Dow's Close, being Old Green; and thus they continued till Thomas Duke of Norfolk, in the time of King Henry VIII. desiring to make his great park at Kenninghall, in which his palace stood, every way complete, enclosed 44 acres of Fersfield Green into the said park, because it extended like a harp, as it is said in the Evidences, into it, and very near to his palace: upon this the inhabitants petitioned his Grace for relief, who ordered his bailiff thereupon to assign them other lands, to the full value and quantity of their land enclosed; but it seems this was neglected to be done; for soon after they brought an action, and seized upon their ancient common, which had been thus enclosed, upon which the Duke ordered certain demean lands of his manor of Fersfield, and others of his manor of Lopham, which joined to the said common, to be laid out to the inhabitants of Fersfield, in recompense for the 44 acres enclosed, which lands were called as follow, viz. Newchall Close, or Dow's Close, containing 20 acres, abutting on Dog-Pond, west, lying in Fersfield, and also another close joining to the former, called the Coppice Close, lying in Lopham, both of them lying between Lopham Park, south, and Fersfield Common, north, and abutting east on Fersfield Common, and west on Dog-Pond, the other is called Rushie Pightle, lying in Fersfield, on the other side of the common, on which it abuts north and west, and on the town land of Fersfield, south; all which was begun to be laid out accordingly. But it happened at this very time, that the Duke was attainted, and the manor seized into the King's hands, upon which the workmen were stopped levelling the banks, upon this the inhabitants laid the case before the Commissioners for the survey of the manor when it was seized, as appears upon the survey, who took the lands that were to be laid out, to the King's use, together with the enclosed 44 acres, and permitted the inhabitants to enjoy their ancient 110 acres of common, which had been enclosed, and which they had seized again, in lieu thereof, with which all parties were satisfied; and thus it continued till James I. when Thomas Earl of Arundel and Surrey, desirous to perfect the park, and to make the demesns of his manor of Fersfield as complete as they were before this common was seized by the inhabitants, came to agreement with them in the following manner: That he and his successors should for ever enjoy the 44 acres of land enclosed into his park of Kenninghall, for which he should pay all manner of dues, whatsoever, to the parish of Fersfield, and should have the same trechord, for the use and increase of his game, upon the common of Fersfield, without the pales of the said land newly enclosed, as he had upon the commons round his park, and in that part, before it was enclosed, in lieu of which, the said Earl agrees, that the inhabitants shall have, to them and their heirs for ever, all the closes afore-mentioned, called Rushie Pightle, Coppice Close, and Dog's Close, as common for ever; and that the inhabitants shall not pay or be molested in any thing, for that part in Lopham, but that the lord of the manor of Lopham, for ever, shall answer all things relating thereto, as the lord of the manor of Fersfield shall do, for that part in Fersfield. And whereas the inhabitants held a piece of ground containing 6 acres, called Manford's Close, which was formerly enclosed into Kenninghall park, with another small piece of one rood, held of Brisingham manor by the rent of 2*d.* a year, the lord confirms the change that had been made, by assigning other lands in lieu thereof, called the Bottoms, to the said inhabitants, together with all, and all manner of benefits, privileges, customs, constitutions, and by-laws whatsoever, to the said tenants and inhabitants, or any of their lands, tenements, and hereditaments in Fersfield aforesaid, in any wise appertaining or belonging; upon which, the said tenants and inhabitants yielded up to the said Earl, all their right in the said common, which they had seized, for themselves and their heirs for ever, on condition that the said Earl should to that part of the Southfield called the Great Ground, lying on the south side of the church of Fersfield aforesaid, to be always unploughed, and to be seized and entered upon, at any time by the said inhabitants, for want of performance of any thing in the indentures containing, "that they may remaine, contynue, and be for ever hereafter, perpetual, stable, and firme to posterity, for ever to endure."

These Indentures bare date the 20th of Nov. the 8th of James I. 1610, and were made between the Right Noble and Honourable Tomas Earl of Arundel and Surrey, Thomas Earl of Suffolk, Lord Chamberlain of his Highness's household, and one of his Majesty's most Hon. Privy-Council; Lord William Howard, youngest son to Thomas late Duke of Norfolk; John Cornwallys of Earlsoham, in Suffolk, Esq.; Sir John Hobart of St. Mary Spittle, Knt.; John Holland of Kenninghall in Norfolk, Esq.; Robert Causfield of London, Esq.; Edward Hobart, and Robert Hobart, Gent, brothers of the said Sir John Hobart, on the one part: John Blomefield, Agnes Blomefield, Samuel Blomefield, Roger Scaman, and others, the townsmen and inhabitants of Fersfield, for themselves, and the residue of the said inhabitants, on the other part. To this Indenture hang the following seals; Arundel, a lion rampant, quartering Multravers, a frette, in the garter. Suffolke, in the garter. Howard, Brotherton, Warren, and Moxbray quartered. Robert Causfield, frette. William Howard, a lion rampant. Robert Hobart, the arms of Hobart. The other seals have no arms.

TWAYT OR WHAIT GREEN

Also belongs to this parish and Brisingham, where they are intercommoners, each having a drift; it was appropriated to Tweyth or Tweyt, a hamlet which belonged to both these towns, and was so called from Hervey de Tweyt, who lived in 1340, and had a good estate here, as had his son William de Tweyt, and Robert his grandson. It now contains between 20 and 30 acres, though it was much larger formerly; for a contention arising between the lord of these towns, and the tenants, concerning the customs of the manors, it was jointly agreed between them, that, upon confirmation of their old customs, and the addition of this new one, viz. to waste their copyhold-houses without license, (which, before that time, they could not do,) they should yield up 50 acres of this common, to the lord's sole use, which was done accordingly, and the lord enjoys it at this day, [1736,] it being let with Boyland Hall Farm, and is now called the Cow-pastures. This was about 1571, soon after the Duke had purchased Brisingham. By this addition, the old park of Kenninghale, and that late Sir John Boyland's, were joined together: and it appears by a lease made some years after, that they reserved a way from Wait Green to Boyland Green (which joined before this was enclosed.) At this time also it was, that the way which laid in a direct line to New Bokenham, from the end of the Green (which is now the further end of the Cow-pasture) was altered, and the entrance made at the Great Park gate off Fersfield Common, and so cross the Park, into the old way by the Grove.

There is no other common but

WINLEY GREEN,

To which Lopham park joins, and had its freebord on this common; all the parks hereabouts had that privilege, which was to plant whatever bushes and trees they would against the parks, which the inhabitants could not cut, (as they do and always have done, all other trees, bushes, &c. on the commons in these manors,) but were to belong to the lord for the game-keepers to kill their game from, and for to hinder escapes from the park. Brisingham are intercommoners here, and each town with a drift, though formerly, it appears, from the Rolls, that each parish had their parts separate, and the ditches are plainly seen to this day. [17. 26.] The well, or pool, on this common, which divides the bounds, in evidence is called Roc's Well, and now Roc's Well.

All the evidences concerning these affairs are in my own and the inhabitants of Fersfield's hands, with many others in the Chest, from which we learn, that all the trees on the commons that are out of the freebords of the lord, or the outruns of the tenants, were always taken down and stowed by the church-wardens, for the use of the poor, and that the ponds on all the commons that are out of the freebords and outruns, are to be kept clean by the inhabitants; that the town found a foot arms; and that the manors of Kenninghall, Shelfhanger, Brisingham and Boylond's extended hither, and this manor extended into Brisingham, Royleton, Burston, Kenninghall, Shimpling, and Wortham, a great part of which belonged to the Boisets, and so was granted to be held of this manor, some by bond, and others by free tenures, many of which still remain. [17.36.]

THE BENEFACTORS &c.

JAFFRY ELLINGHAM of Fersfield, who, by will dated Apr. 18, 1493, commended his soul to God, the Blessed Virgin, and all the Saints, and his body to be buried in the church of Fersfield, aforesaid, to which he gave a wax candle of a pound weight, to be placed before the image of the Virgin Mary there, to be lighted and burnt the whole time of divine service, as long as it will last. He gave also, in honour of the passion of our Lord JESUS CHRIST, a cross of copper gilt, of 40s. price, and a good carpet to lie before the high altar. He also gave 4 marks to build a south porch, and ordered his executors to make a new bell sollar in the church, like that at East Harling, that the procession might go under it while the bells ring. He gave also 5 marks towards building the new bell sollar at Kenninghall, and 20*d.* towards a new bell at Rushworth, and 4*d.* apiece to the brothers of the college there, to say Mass for his soul. He gave also his messuage and tenement in which he lived, lying in Fersfield aforesaid, with all his lands enclosed, and the privileges thereto belonging, together with one pigstie enclosed, and half an acre of meadow lying in the common meadow of Fersfield aforesaid, to Margaret his wife, for life, and at her decease, to the use of the inhabitants of the said town for ever; all which were to be vested in feoffees for divers uses, with condition, that if those uses should fail, (as it hath happened since,) then the clear profits arising from the said premises should be laid out in repairing and beautifying the parish church for ever; and all the rest of his lands he ordered his executors to sell, with these restrictions, that the purchaser should not be a gentleman, nor have any other lands or tenements in the world, and that he or they should live in the houses, and occupy the lands themselves, to the advantage of the parish. John Caudiche, clerk, rector, was his supervisor. It was proved the same year, on the 20th of June, at Bokenham St. Martin's (or New Bokenham) before Bartholomew Northen, bachelor of laws, commissary to James Bishop of Norwich, who was then on his visitation at Bokenham aforesaid. The probate is now in the Church Chest at Fersfield, and is entered in the register called Awbrye, in the 3d part, fol. 141. in the Bishop's Office.

The farm is now in feoffees hands, to the use of the church, about which the profits are expended, either in repairing, beautifying, or purchasing proper ornaments to it. It is now [1736] let at 18*l. per annum*, and pays a yearly quitrent to the manor of Fersfield of 10*s. 9d.* a year. The messuage, with 3 acres of land adjoining, 3 acres and an half enclosed, lying in the further close next the common, a pigstie called Hoppin's of an acre and half, and half an acre in Billing's meadow, is copyhold on the said manor, 4 acres called Penscroft, and all other the lands thereto belonging, are freehold without any reserved rent; some of the lands have been changed with the Duke of Norfolk, an account of which you have with the commons of this town.

IN THE NAME OF GOD Amen, 2 July 1589. I Matthewe Walter of Bliford in Suffolk, do make this my last will, &c. my body to be buried in the church yard of Bliford aforesaid.

Item. " I geve and bequeathe unto Margaret my wief,<sup>1</sup> all my " tenement, landes, meadowes, feedings, and pastures, with the ap- " purtenances, scituate, lying and being in Blyford aforesay'd, which " I lately purchased of Thomas Back, to hold to her, and her assignes, " during the tearme of her naturall lief; and after her decease, I will " that the sayd tenement, together with all and singuler the above- " resited premises, with the appurtenances, and one close lying in " Holton, conteyninge eightene acres, which I latelie purchased of " W. Bonnett, and also one meadowe with the appurtenances, lying " in Bulchim, in the say'd countie of Suffolk, shall ymediately after " the decease of the say'd Margaret, my wief, remayne unto John " Parker my cosyn, and his heires and assignes for ever, upon this " condition, that is to saye, that the say'd John Parker, his heyres or " assignes, or anie one of them, shall yearlye and every yeare for ever, " after the decease of the say'd Margaret my wief, paie or cause to be " paid unto the pore people of the townes, parishes, or hamletts, " hereafter-mentioned, the somme of ten powndes of lawfull monie of " England, in the manner ensuing; that is to saye, to the pore people " of Farsfield in the countie of Norfolk 20*s.* to the pore people of " Bresingham in the same countie 20*s.* to the pore people of Holton " in the countie of Suffolk 10*s.* to the pore people of Bliford afore- " say'd 20*s.* to the pore people of Hallisworth 20*s.* to the pore people " of Blitheburgh 20*s.* to the pore people of Bulchim 10*s.* to the pore " people of Suthwold 20*s.* to the pore people of Reydon by Suthwold, " in the countie of Suff. 10*s.* to the pore people of Wangford 20*s.* to " the pore people of Henham 10*s.* to the pore people of Uggeshall 10*s.* " to the pore people of Stoven 10. Otherwise if the say'd John Par- " ker shall make default of payment, of the say'd yearlie payment of " ten powndes, in manner and form aforesay'd, then I will, and my " full mynd is, that all the premises shall go to Basingbourne Parker, " brother of the sayd John, and if he makes default, then to Mr. " Francis Braye, son of Mr. Saynt John Braye, under the same limi- " tations." He gives the profits of his lands in Attleboroughe and

Holton, and the lands called the Oke, except the annuity that he gave his wife out of them, to his executors for ten years, to perform his will, and then to be sold to the best price, and the monie thereof to be equally divided, the one half to and amongst my poor kindred, and the other in deeds of charitie, by the discretion of my executors. Item, I give and bequeath unto Thomas Morse, the son of Anthour, and to his heirs, all that my meadowe or ten with all and singular its appurtenances in Eggishall, to have and to be hold to him, his heirs and assigns for ever, upon condition, that he, his heirs, or assigns do yearly and every year for ever, after my decease, pay or cause to be paid to the poor people of Eggishall the somme of 10s. And for default thereof it is given to Henry Crowfoot the younger, and his heirs for ever, under the same limitations; Nicholas and John Walter, his brothers, executors; Thomas Morse of Eggishall, supervisor. Witnesses, Wm. Baker, John Neale, Wm. Skott, Wm. Peters. It was proved at Blythburgh, before Mr. Bartho. Stiles, clerk, surrogate to Mr. John Maplitzden, Archdeacon of Suffolk, the 4th of November, 1589.

This legacy is yearly paid to the rector and church-wardens, and is distributed among the poor at their discretion. In 1687, the estate belonged to Robert Brodell of Westhall in Suffolk, and now [1736] to Mr. William Crowfoot of Beeches, who pays the monney, without any deduction for taxes, these lands being exempted on account of the charity.

In 1595, John Dalton surrendered half a rood of land in Billing's Meadow, to the use of the inhabitants of Fersfield for ever. This was sold by general consent, in the year 1600, and was the very piece that Billing's Gate stood on, over which, the road into the meadow (which was then Lammis or half-year ground) passed, by which purchase the whole meadow (except the half acre of town land, which Lingham gave) was got into one person's hands, who afterward, by consent of all the commoners, upon paying a sum of money to the town's use, enclosed it; from which time it ceased to be opened at Lammis, though the meadow on the other side of the lane, at the west end of it, in which there are several owners, still [1736] continues Lammis, at which time it becomes common, and so continues till the 8th of March.

There is also half an acre of land, called the Town Patch, which is freehold, let at 10s. td. per annum, now vested in feelees, to the use of the church, but by whom it was given I do not find. There is another small piece of ground, which was taken off the common, to build a town-house upon, and another small piece, called Beck's Yard, on which a town-house formerly stood.

FERSFIELD RECTORY

Is in the archdeaconry of Northfolk, and deanery of Redenhall; being under the value of 10 marks, it pays no first tithes, though it does yearly tenths, it being undischarged.<sup>5</sup> It hath a rectory-house, and

<sup>5</sup> All rectories are taxed for the value of first tithes, though they do tenths, unless they are discharged upon the act of 1713, and all vicarages, but excepting those in the King's Books, 1713, 1714.

51 acres of glebe, all in the rector's possession at this time, and all tithes are due in their proper kind. [1736.] It paid 12*d.* Peterpence, and was taxed at 8 marks in the Old Valor. In the Answers of the Parsons, anno 1603, Henry Womack, A.M. rector, returned his answer, viz. that there were 75 communicants in the parish; that he was doubly beneficed, holding this, with the vicarage of Great Ellingham, in Rockland deanery; that Sir Thomas Corniculeys and Anthony Wyngfield were patrons by courses.

The Prior<sup>3</sup> of the priory of the monks of St. Mary at Thetford (now called the Abbey) had two tithe sheaves out of every three, of all the wheat growing on certain lands in this parish, which portion of tithes was given them by William de Bosco, or Bois, in the 11th century, soon after their foundation, and was confirmed, among other donations, by William Bygod, the principal lord of the fee, of whom it was held by the Boises; it is called two measures in that deed, but in the Leiger Book of this house, two garbs, or sheaves. This was afterwards, with other reveunes, confirmed to them by King Henry II. when he was at Thetford, in these words, Ecclesia de Tirevilla, for Fircvilla, or Fersfield; the rector afterwards came to a perpetual composition with the Prior for this portion of tithes, for which he and his successors were to pay for ever, an annual pension of 6*s.* 8*d.*<sup>4</sup> which is now [1736] paid to his Grace the Duke of Norfolk, to whose predecessors the said priory, with all that belonged to it, was given at its dissolution: and this was the only religious house that was ever concerned in this parish, except the priory of St. James at Old Bokenham, the prior of which held lands here, that were purchased of Sir John Verdon, along with the Priory Manor of Bri-singham; all which passed, as that did; and therefore I need only refer you thither. (See p. 62.)

<sup>4</sup> Before the Council of Lateran, anno 1215, every lord and owner, (though he was obliged to pay his tithes,) had it in his power to pay them, or grant them to whoever he would, so that they were ecclesiastical persons that received them, to all which arbitrary grants this Council put an end; and from these grants it was, that most pensions had their original, the lord often granting the tithes of his demans, or every third garb of them, (just as he pleased,) to any religious house that he had a favour for; and in like manner every common owner (with the consent of the lord of whom the land was held, and not otherwise) could grant his tithes, or any part of them, to any religious house or other parish than that in which the lands laid; and to such grants as these it is owing, that oftentimes one parish hath tithes, or a portion of tithes, from another parish, or sometimes an annual sum or pension instead of it, (for there were generally perpetual compositions made for such tithes, which are now called Pensions) though sometimes it continues otherwise to this day; and indeed we find, that a lord when he founded a church in his own manor, generally endowed it with the tithes of all the lands belonging to that manor or fee, in whatever parishes they laid, and this very thing was the foundation of such great intermixtures in many parishes, as we now find.

gave to the Cluniac monks of St. Mary at Thetford, two parts of the tithes of all his demesns in Fersfeld, which he held in his own hands, namely of all fruit, pease, and beans, the witnesses were, Roger Bigot Earl of Norfolk, Rob. de Burnevil, and others.<sup>3</sup>

The Church is dedicated to St. Andrew the Apostle, whose effigies was painted on the wall over the north door, though now whited over. Who was the first founder of a church here I know not, but the present nave, in all probability, was built by Sir Robert, son of Sir Robert de Bosco, Kut. about the latter end of the 12th century, whose third son, William de Bosco, priest, built the chancel, and reserved an arch in the north wall for his own burial, his father, Sir Robert, being buried (as I take it) close by him. After this, about 1308, Sir Robert de Bosco, eldest son of the last mentioned Sir Robert, began to build an additional south isle, with a chapel at its east end, in which he reserved an arch under the south window for his own grave; but dying in 1314, the work stood some time unfinished, his son Sir Robert being a minor, who lived so little time after he came of age, that he also died, in 1333, before it was perfected, Alice, his sister and heiress, being then married to Sir John Howard, junior, Kut. who finished the work, and adorned the sepulchre of the said Sir Robert, his father-in-law, and the windows of the isle, with the arms of his own and wife's family; and indeed I am apt to think that they both were buried in the chapel (which was dedicated to St. Anne) at the east end of this isle, for I do not meet with the place of their burial in any author; and by all that I can collect from evidences, they lived and died here. He it was also that built the steeple, as the arms carved in stone plainly prove; the first is a plain cross, being the arms of Biggod, from whom the Boscos had the town; the second is Bos's arms single, between which is his own coat, impaling that of his wife, viz. Howard and Bos. The south porch and bell y were built in 1494, with money given by Jeffery Ellingham of Versfield, for that use, as may be seen in his will (p. 90.)

It is a small building, but in good repair, the nave, chancel, and south porch being tiled, and the south isle leaded; the steeple is square, and hath but two bells, though it had three till the second was split by a tempest about 80 years since, together with the steeple, which is now [1739] supported by iron cramps. Part of its metal was sold in 1708, towards repairing the church, which was then new paved, together with the chancel, at the charge of Mr. John Barker, then rector, and Elizabeth his wife, by whom the chancel was new roofed at that time; she gave also a new set of clothes for the desk and pulpit, of purple velvet, with a neat purple cloth carpet, wrought with gold, and a cushion for the pulpit, of the same, with cushions to lay round the altar rails, and a large cedar chest to lay them in, on the lid of which are the arms of Tilney impaling Read, being the arms of Francis Tilney, rector of Brisingham, her father, and his wife, daughter of Thomas Read, Esq. her mother, under which is written,

Under an arch in the north wall, about two or three feet from the east end, lies an effigies of a priest in his habit, carved in stone, having had four priests kneeling in their surplices by him, two on each side. This lying level with the floor, had contracted moisture, and began to decay very much; and therefore, in order to hinder its decaying further, I caused it to be taken out of its place, and the whitening, with which it had been washed over, to be scraped off cautiously; upon which, I discovered the colours with which it was first adorned, and found that the large stone on which he lies was green, representing the earth; his head lies on a pillow, and that on a cushion, both which were red, the cushion being flowered with silver, and the pillow with gold; his feet lie on a buck couchant ermine, which is the crest of the Boises; his gown was black, his cassock red, gilt all over, in imitation of embroidery, and powdered all over with ermine; round his waste is a girdle, which was green, buckled with a black buckle upon his breast; from the neck to the girdle was the complete arms of the Boises, which may still be seen in two of the chancel windows; the circumscription was in French, the letters being only painted on the stone which he lies on, and is all lost but these words, -----: KI: -----: AVERA:----- . However, we are not at a loss to know who he was, for from the arms and crest it is plain he was a Bois, from the habit, that he was a priest, and from the arch that he lies in, (which must have been made when the chancel was built, as any one upon sight of it must own,) that he was builder of the chancel; so that it can be nobody but William du Bois, priest, rector here, who, when he built the chancel, reserved this place for his own interment. He afterwards resigned this rectory, and was instituted to Garboldisham All-Saints, which he resigned some years after, for the vicarage of Great Conerth in Suffolk, of which place he died vicar, about 1352. At the removal of the effigies I found it was joined in the midst, and hollow, being full of burnt coals, which were put there to suck up the moisture, and keep the stone dry, that its colours might not be injured. I had it raised above a foot high from the ground, and painted in its original colours, causing this inscription to be put on a plate, and fixed to the wall:

“ William du Bois, Priest, Founder of this Chancel, Patron and “ Rector of this Church, and of Garboldisham All-Saints, Vicar of “ Great Conerth in Suffolk third Son of Sir Robert du Bois, Knt.
 “ and Brother to that Sir Robert, who lies buried in the South Isle;
 “ He died about 1352.”

Upon the ground, close to the arch, lies a large raised coffin-stone, with a cross on three grieces, the monument, perhaps, of his father; both which are here presented to your view.

There are two stones in the chancel disrobed of their inscriptions, but never had any arms or effigies.

On the south side of St. Anne's chapel, in the south isle, under the window, in an arch in the wall, lies an effigies of a knight, armed cap-a-pie, cut out of one piece of oak, which being in a dirty condition, I had it taken out and washed very clean, and upon removing it, found it hollowed and filled as the former, with burnt coals: the plank on which it lies was painted green, with flowers, grass, and leaves: the effigies is exact six feet, and proportionable in all parts; a sword hangs on du Bois Priest.

St Robert du Bois Knight died in 1511

This lies at William du Bois's right hand

a belt by his side. Under the head was a board, having on it, when I first took it up, the arms of Bois and Latimer very perfect, and in Latimer's coat was a label of three, arg. which very plainly proves who he was that was buried here. The colours of the arms scaled off in two or three days, after they were exposed to the air, for which reason I had them painted on the pillow under his head. His helmet and gauntlets were powdered with ermine, and every other folding of his military cassock, which hangs down lower than his armour, was the same, it being the field of his own coat; the other foldings were gul. the field of his wife's; his feet rest on a buck couchant arg. spotted with ermine, being his crest. His armour was mail, gilt all over with gold, and on his breast-plate was his perfect coat, erm. a cross sub. His head lies on a pillow painted with red, and flowered with silver, and that lies on a cushion painted as of green velvet, flowered with gold, with which his spurs are covered; several embellishments were gilded on a cement, and let into the wood in several places, on his belt, sword, and spurs, and on the edge of the plank that he lies on, and then covered with glass, but most were defaced: those that remained were, a man's head cooped at the neck, with leaves in his mouth, a spread eagle, a dog meeting a hare, a dog fighting a lion, a bull attacking a dog, and a lion couchant, with an eagle standing on him, picking out his eyes; all which seem to intimate, that the deceased delighted chiefly in war, and rural exercises; but on a very large one that came off the edge at his feet, was a representation of a building with arches, under which were two hands joined, holding up a book, to signify (as I take it) his founding this isle. The inscription was on the edge. After removing the seats that stood before it, I caused it to be painted in the same colours, as near as could be, and added this inscription:

“ Sir Robert du Bois, Knt. Son of Sir Robert, and Grandson of “ Sir Robert du Bois, Knt. Founder of this Isle, Lord of this Ma“ nor, and Patron of this Church, died in 1311, aged 43 Years.
 “ He marry'd Christian, Daughter of Sir Wm. Latimer, Widow of “ Sir John Carbonel, of Waldingfield in Suffolk, by whom he had “ Sir Robert his only Son, who died unmarried in 1333, and Alice an “ only Daughter, who married Sir John, son of Sir John Howard, Knt.
 “ and carried the whole Estate of the Bois's to that Noble Family.”

The windows of the isle, and in particular the east window of the chapel, were formerly beautifully adorned with paintings on glass, of the Twelve Apostles, the Blessed Virgin, and St. Anne her mother, to whom the chapel was dedicated. She had a famous image standing in it, and a large gild kept to her honour,<sup>2</sup> to which most that died, in this and the adjacent towns, generally gave something, and often left money to find wax candle, and lights, continually burning before it. From this place processions were usually made to a well or spring about 60 yards from the north gate of the churchyard, at the foot of the hill, which is still called Tann's Well, being a corruption for St. Anne's Well. There was a separate chaplain that served here from its foundation, to 1411, and then it was united to the parish church, the rector being obliged to find a chaplain, which from this time was removable at his pleasure. I meet with but few of their names. In 1477, Sir William Manuel served here, and at his going off, Sir Reginald Cooper succeeded. The windows were glazed by Sir John Howard, knt. whose effigies remained in the east window when Mr. Weaver published his book; (see fol. 801;) and it is very plain from the arms about it, (which were preserved in the pedigree of the Howards;) that it was that Sir John who married Margaret, daughter of Sir John Plais.

The first coat being HOWARD impaling CORSWALL, arg. a lion rampant gul. in a bordure engrailed sab. bezante; the arms of his great grandfather and grandmother.

The second is BOIS and LATIMER; his grandmother being a Bois, and her mother a Latimer.

The third is HOWARD quartered with PLAIS, being his own and wife's coat.

The fourth is CHITTONS impaling HOWARD; the coat of Margaret Howard, his only daughter by Plais, who was then married to Sir Constantine Chifton, knt.

And as a further memorial of him, we find that every window is still [1736] filled with the following letters; the first is a J and an H joined, with Howard's arms in it, for John Howard. The second an M with six escalops in it, to signify Margaret Scales, his mother.

In the windows are the following arms, all which now [1736] remain, except the two last, which are gone, as also the arms of Ufford and Beck quartered; Howard impaling Spencer; Howard impaling Plais; Clifton impaling Howard; Mortey, Courtney with a label az. impaling Scales; Shardelowe, ermine a cross gul. impaling Scales; and there still remain these impaled coats, Ufford and Scales, Howard and Scales, Bois and Latimer, though they are somewhat broken. The lion rampant is collared az.

On another stone in shape of a coffin :

He willed to be buried here, and gave 6 marks to repair the church ; to the altar 3s. 4d.; to St. Ann, mother of the mother of God, 2s.; to keep up the common torches of the town, 12d.; to the friars preachers at Thetford, x.s.

Before the pulpit lies a large stone, having had a plate of brass on it formerly, which being lost, the townsmen had the following inscription cut upon the stone :

In the west end of the isle is a small but exceeding strong vestry, it having been the repository for the relics, plate, evidences, and ornaments of the church, at which no one could heretofore come, without passing eleven locks, a plain demonstration that there hath been plate of good value, though now [1736] there is only one cup left.

On an altar monument by the south chancel wall in the church-yard,

Here lieth the Body of Mr.
John Barker, who was Curate
Here from July the 7th 1681 untill Augt. the 2d 1685, from that Time Rector, until March the 15th 1728-9, then deceased,
A good Christian, and one of the best of Husbands;
Aged 72 Years.

Mrs. ELIZABETH BARKER, Widow, died Oct. the 2d, 1731.
Who by Will settled a Tenement & Lands, lying in Brisingham, upon the Rector
& Church-wardens, and their Successors.
The clear Profitts of which, are to be applied, in teaching as many poor Children of that parish above 8, and under 10 Years old, to read, write, spin, and learn the Church
Catechism, as the Profitts will pay for;
She also tied her House and Land, called ten Acres, to keep up this tomb, on failure of which, the Church-wardens of Fersfield are empowered to seize on the same, and repay themselves what Monies they shall be out of, in Repairing and Beautifying it, together with their Charges.

There are several head-stones for the Houchins, who had a good estate in the parish: the family extinguished in Mr. Robert Houchin, who died Apr. 10, 1717.

In the time of the rebellion, this church was purged of superstition, (as they called it,) by the rebels, who defaced the carvings on the heads of the seats, with their swords, and hacked the effigies of the Bowes, what few brasses there were, were all reaved, and several arms broken out of the windows, and the altar rails pulled down: the Evidences, the King's arms, &c. were taken away before by Mr. Piddock the church-warden, who justly returned them at the Restoration.

In 1698, Henry Clark of Diss, George Francis, and Robert Skurle of Fersfield, informed against Arthur Womack, rector of Fersfield, Mr. John Piddock, and Mr. Robert Houchin, of the same, charging them with endeavouring to prepare, at their cost, a horse and man for the King of Scots, (as King Charles was then commonly called.) and with harbouring malignants in all their houses; and the said Arthur was particularly charged with speaking these words :<sup>4</sup>

“ Here is a health unto his Majesty,
 “ Pray God confound his foes,
 “ And the devil take all Round Heads,
 “ For we are none of those !”

And also that he abused the government thus :

“ Hey-ho ! for a two-penny halter,
 “ When you are hang’d you shall have good quarter, “ Oh ! ’twould be a brave sight, to see
 “ All the Round Heads hang on a tree.
 “ Oh ! yee rogues ! ye must all come to it.”

And further, that he offered to raise 500*l.* for the King of Scots, and often drinks the King’s health, and prosperity to the Royal Family.

There was a copy of verses also laid to Mr. Piddock’s charge, which were not among the other papers, though the following lines are there, and were made by some Royalist, in praise of them :

“ Hail, loyal poet, thy inspired breast
 “ Doth keep the rhyme, though thou forget’st the rest,
 “ Good <sup>5</sup> small drink verses truly, and no doubt, “ They’d better been, but that the strong was out;
 “ The zeal I like, thou poet may’st commence,
 “ For though there’s want of feet, there’s none of sense,
 “ The things he writes are true, the verses false,
 “ The author’s loyal, that’s enough applause.”

Upon these informations they were carried before Thomas Sheriffe of Diss, Esq. then justice of peace, who committed them to Ipswich gaol, where they continued some time; but by the assistance of the said Mr. Sheriffe, who by private letters informed them of all that was intended against them, they were all discharged, after they had gotten certificates, according to his advice, of their good behaviours, from the towns of Diss and Fersfield; upon which he had orders to examine the witnesses apart, and then they confessed, that they had maliciously informed against them, and forsworn themselves, in hopes of getting advantage by so doing; all which confessions they signed before witnesses; and thus, after much trouble and expense, they were at last freed.

This Arthur was ordained by Samuel Bishop of Norwich, 21st Sept. 1628, instituted 1642, and subscribed 15th Aug. 1662.<sup>6</sup>

This town contains about 40 families, and 200 inhabitants; it paid *1*l.* 14*s. when the taxes were raised by tenths, and was valued at 750*l.* to the association rates, and now to the King’s tax, at 557*l.* [1736.]

In the time of King Edward III. the great plague reached even this obscure village; for in the court rolls a year or two after, the deaths of many of the tenants are presented; and it is said, that they died in the great pestilence. At this time the parish was almost all wood, there being no less than four large woods, besides several groves, among which, Home Wood, or Great Wood, is first named, and said to contain above 400 acres, Winley Wood, Wilcox and Riche's Woods, being of no small extent, all which are now cleared.

SHELFHANGER.

THIS village hath gone by these following names, Scelcangra, Schelfangyll, Shelfangles, Shelfhangre, and now Shelfhanger, the signification of which I cannot the least guess at.

The CHURCH stands against the road leading from Diss to Winfarthing, and hath a square tower and four bells; the nave is thatched, the chancel and north porch are tiled. It is dedicated to all the Saints, as was the gild that belonged to it.

It is a rectory, and had anciently two rectors, each having institution to a mediety; the patronage of one belonging to Bosvile's, afterwards called Hoc's, manor, and the other to Visedelieu's.

On the font I saw the arms of Bosville, (a I suppose,) carved in stone, with A on one side, and B on the other, being the initial letters of the name of Adam Bosville, who was patron in 1362, about which time this might be set up; and in a south chancel window I find the same arms quartered by Noon, viz.

And in the same window it quarters arg. two chevrons az. the whole in a bordure gul. and over them this broken inscription:

In another south window this, ---- on a band a: six de-lises or.

Before the altar rails lie three large stones, robbed of their arms and inscriptions; under the first lies Henry, son of Sir Henry Noon, who died in 1487; under the next lies Eleanor his wife.

The arms of Vicedieu were on a stone in the chancel, but are now gone, as is this coat, az. gul. three chess-rooks ermine.

Under a small freestone is buried Robert, son of Robert Cashourn of Isleham in Cambridgeshire, Esq. and Abigail his wife, who died March 27, 1722, aged five years.

There is a town-house for two dwellers, a titheld close of 3 acres, let at about 50*l.* a year, half the profits of which are given to the poor, and the other half to be applied to what uses the church-wardens please. The rector hath also a close of 3 acres, given to find bell-ropes, called Bell-rope Close.

In 1738, Mrs. Sarah Frankland gave 100*l.* with which there was titheld land purchased in the parish, the rent of which is to find 2*s.*
worth of bread to be distributed to the poor every Sunday, by the rector and church-wardens.

The Commons are inconsiderable, except their intercommonage with Busingham on Boylard Green; (see p. 72;) and a large tract of meadows which are common from Lammas to March, and are called the Lammas Meadows.

This parish is in the archdeaconry of Norfolk, and deanery of Redenhall. In 1603, it had 112 communicants, hath now near 40 dwelling-houses, and contains about 200 inhabitants. It paid to the old tenth 27*s.* was taxed to the association rates at 980*l.* and now at 763*l.* 10*s.*
[1739.]

Here was a chapel dedicated to St. Andrew the Apostle, but when or by whom founded I cannot certainly learn; but most probable, by some of the Feres, lords of Winfarthing; it stood on the great road leading from Shelfhanger to Winfarthing, and by its not being mentioned in the Institution Books, appears to have been a free chapel; it was standing in 1518, for then Matthew Halyett of Winfarthing gave a bell to the chapel of St. Andrew in Shelfhanger. It was supported by lands given by the founder, all which at the Dissolution came to the Crown, and so remained till the 12th of Elizabeth, and then she gave them to Nicholas Myunc, Esq. and John Hull, Gent. and their heirs; and in 1587, they were held by the Cleres, of the manor of East Gillingham, by fealty only. They are said to lie in Deep Meadow, and in other places in Shelfhanger and Winfarthing.

The Prior of Ege had a portion of tithes given them by Hugh de Alders, out of his demean lands here, which were confirmed to the rector by that house, for a pension of 5*s.* 9*d.* a year,* which, at the * Reg. Fye, fol. 33. a. Mon. Ang. tom. 1. 357.

Dissolution, went to the Crown, and was granted for 21 years, by Queen Elizabeth, to George Petre. The register of this priory, called Danoun,<sup>5</sup> which now [1736] belongs to Mr. Thomas Martin of Patgrave, tells us the lands' names from which this portion issued, viz. Whytlow's, Bullock's Close, Breche-Loud, and Chappell-Loud, of which the prior to have two tithe sheaves, and the rector one.

The monks of Thetford had also a portion of tithes here, viz. two garbs out of three of all the demean lands of Winfarthing tenement, being 50 acres, which they granted to the rector for 18*d.* a year pension.

The inhabitants of North Lopham hold a messuage, called Eltwines, and 13 acres of land, and one acre in South Meadow, and other lands, formerly demean of Shelfhanger, Vicedelieu manor;<sup>6</sup> all which, in 1412, were manumised by Edmund Noon, Knt. lord of that manor, and granted to Richard Bosse, and his heirs, to be held by the rent of a red rose yearly. This Richard infeoffed William Ty, parson of Shelfhanger, and others, to hold it for ever to the use of the parish of North Lopham, to repair their parish church. And in 1454 the said William Ty infeoffed Henry Noon, Edmund Bokenham, Esqrs. John Halle, parson of Garboldisham, and others to the same uses. This land is still enjoyed by that parish. [1736.]

The town was in divers parts at the survey; Colo, a freeman of Nasgre Stalre, in King Edward's time, had one manor, which, in the Conqueror's time, Hervicus or Hercy held, and Modephefe, a free-woman of Algar's, had another, both being held of Alan Earl of Richmond. The town was a league long, and half a league broad, and paid 9*d.* to the Geld or tax.<sup>7</sup>

And from this time they continued separate, till they united in the Norfolk family; the one was afterwards called Hoe's, and the other Vicedelieu's, to each of which a moiety of the advowson was appendant.

HOE'S MANOR

Was held all along of Richmond honour, and soon after the Conquest, belonged to

HUELINE DE HUGETHALE, (or Uggesthale), so called from the place of his habitation, whose son

ROGER was surnamed de Hoc, for the same reason, and

PETER, son of the said Roger, was called Peter de Shelfhanger, and sometimes de Ho. Roger de Ho gave lands here to Sibton abbey, and added to the manor by purchasing of Robert de Morley, and Roger de Gissing, Knts. lords of Reydon, much land in that town, which occasioned this manor to extend thither. He lived about 1196, and

Sir GILBERT DE HO, alias de Schelfangels, was his son and heir.

JOHN DE HO, son of Sir Gilbert, augmented it more, having divers lands granted him by Alexander Abbot of Silton, after him.

HENRY DE HO occurs in a deed without date, and Osbert de Ho, alias Sheltangls.

In 1218, GAULO or EUDO DE HO, alias de Shelfangre, was lord, who the same year had a grant of free-warren to his manor;<sup>8</sup> he is sometimes in evidences called Eudo Fitz-Osbert, from his father; he granted his moiety of the advowson, in 1227, to

RALPH, son of Reginald, and his heirs, who left it to his son William, whose son John, in 1256, sold it to

JOHN DE HO; and then it was joined again.

In 1275 he was Sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk, and paid the third penny of the county to the Earl of Norfolk. He held much land here of Bury abbey, and many rents and services, to the value of 112 acres. To this Sir John succeeded.

LAUDO in 1276, in whose time it was first called Hor's manor; he claimed streys and had it allowed in 1220. Walter de Shelfangre, one of this family, was Sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk, and was fined for extortion; but whether he was ever lord or no I cannot say.

In 1280, ROGER DE HO had it, who left it the same year to

JOHN DE HO; he granted a messuage, lands, and commonage in Shelfhanger, to Walter of Shelfhanger, uncle to John de Shothroke, who became Walter's heir in 1286, in which year this John de Ho is said to hold it of the honour of Richmond, and had strey allowed him. In 1302 it belonged to another.

ROGER DE HO, who in 1307, upon marrying Agnes, (surnamed Norwich probably, for William de Norwich, clerk, was deforciant in the fine,) settled it on them and their heirs. How it continued till 1315 I know not certainly, though it seems to be in a family surnamed

DE LA POLE of Brisingham;<sup>9</sup> for in 1331, this advowson was settled by Henry de la Pole of Brisingham, and Margaret his wife, on themselves and their heirs, which Margaret might be heiress to Roger and Agnes de Ho; and it is probable that De la Pole's daughter might marry Bosville; however, thus far I am certain, that in this year

ROBERT DE BOSVILLE, or BOSVILLE, had the manor which was lately Roger de Ho's. In 1362,

ADAM BOSVILLE was lord, and so to 1375; in 1423,

THOMAS TORRELL, Esq. had it, from whom it went, in 1455, to

HENRY NOON, from which time it hath passed, joined with Vice de Licu's manor, as it is at this day. [1750.]

THE MANOR OF VICE DE LOU,

Which was the part held by Modophele, had its name from the lord's thronor; Hunfridus Vice de Lou, or Wolf's Vice, (for such is the signification of the name,) lived in the time of the Conqueror, and held lands in Berkshire, as Domesday informs us, whose descendant,

WILLIAM DE VISE DE LOU married Rose, sister and heir of Elizabeth de Shotisbroke. He it was that procured a grant of free-warren to this manor, which he settled, with the moiety of the advowson, which had always gone with it, on

Sir THOMAS VISE DE LOU, Knt. his son, which Sir Thomas left two daughters coheirresses, between whom it was divisible :

ISABELL, married to Sir John Verdon, Knt. and Margaret to Thomas Mossells, Esq. This ancient family was some time seated at Shotley, in Samford hundred in Suffolk, and continued above seven descents, possessed of a large revenue in Shotley, Snape, &c. They bare arg. three wolves heads erased gul. from which bearing they might have their name.

The moiety of the advowson went with Verdon's part,<sup>1</sup> (for John de Verdon, Knt. lord of Briclesworth, presented here often,) and descended with the manor to

Sir IMBERT NOON of Shelfhanger, who married Isabell, the daughter and heiress of Sir John Verdon, by Isabell, his second wife, about 1408, who presented in 1410. In 1412,

Sir HENRY NOON, Knt. succeeded, who this year had a grant of free-warren, and liberty to enclose 310 acres for a park; but he died before he had completed his design, leaving

HENRY NOON, Esq. his son and heir, who, in 1417, renewed the grant for his free-warren and park. This Henry much increased his estate, by his valiant exploits, being a brave soldier, and an experienced officer: he constantly attended Henry V. in the French wars, where he behaved so gallantly, that the King gave him the castle, lands, and lordship of Toude in Normandy,<sup>2</sup> which was late the Earl of Mortaigne's, being 2000 scutes a year. He died in 1465, leaving this manor to

ELIZABETH his wife, till Henry his son came of age, and then to him and his heirs; which

HENRY enjoyed it till his death in 1487, as appears by the probate of his will, who, according to his desire, was buried under a large grave-stone in this chancel, the inscription of which is now torn off, but his arms, impaling a chevron in a bordure between three eagles legs erased, lately remained. His wife Eleanor, after his decease, married to William Lancaster of Brisingham, Esq. and after that to Robert Wyngfield, with whose consent she made her will, dated the 4th of November, 1506, in which she ordered to be buried in this chancel by her first husband, and to have on her stone the arms of Wyngfield siding Lancaster.

HENRY NOON, son and heir, succeeded; who, upon marriage in 1510, settled the manor on Antony Wyngfield, Robert Kemp, Esq. and Robert Bonde, clerk, in trust, to his use and his heirs, by Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Wingfield of Letheringham in Suffolk; in 1519, the said Henry, and Robert Holdich, who was lord of the other moiety, manmised a great part of the manor, among which, to Robert, son of Matthew Hallyat of Winfarthing, three enclosures, Brendaleswong, containing 60 acres, Bullock's Close 20 acres, and

Breck Close 40 acres, at 10s. 40l. tinent. Whether it was this Henri, or his son Francis, that sold the manor, I cannot say, but it was purchased by the Duke of Norfolk, who kept court here in 1532.

The other moiety went with Margaret, the other daughter, to

Thomas Mossells, Esq. her husband, who having no issue male, it came to their daughters,

Mary and Jocys, so that this moiety was divided again.

Mary after married Edmond Stratton, Esq. and was his widow in 1579, and left it to her daughter, who married Richard Yarley, squire, and by her had two sons, Thomas Yarley, clerk, the eldest, who succeeded Richard Yarley, his brother, and his heirs. This Richard, in 1529, purchased the other moiety of this moiety, of

Thomas Feltons, Esq. which Thomas was son of Robert Felton, Esq. her Margaret his wife, sister and heiress to Sir Thomas Sampson or Thomson of Suffolk, knight, which Robert was son of John Chapman, alias Leone, by Jane, the other daughter of Thomas Mossell, Esq. This Richard Yarley had it settled on himself and Richard H. Hich, his trustee, in 1527, and so held it to 1552, when he and Anne his wife sold it to

Thomas Duke of Norfolk, and his heirs, who having purchased the other moiety of the Noun, as also Hoe's manor, became now sole lord and patron; and it hath been ever since, and now remains in that honorable family. The present Duke being now lord and patron. [179.]

Here was another manor, called

FRIER'S,

Which belonged to the abbey of Silton in Suffolk; this was formerly the possession of Edric, Falconer to the Confessor, and had only 10 acres demans at that time.<sup>1</sup>

This Edric was ancestor to Robert Mallet, lord of Ege honour, who in the Conqueror's days, or soon after, infeoffed

WALTER DE CAPOSTO (Caam, or Caus) in the barony of Horsford, to be held of his honour, with which this passed.

ROBERT, son of Walter, succeeded in William Rufus's reign, who left

JONES, his son, surnamed Liccomes (or Sheriff, because he had that office.) He was Baron of Horsford; he vowed to build an abbey of monks in his own land, but dying soon after, left

WILLIAM, his brother, his heir, whom he commanded to perform his vow. This William was called afterwards de Caynto, de Chethmoy, or Chequey, who, according to his promise, founded the abbey of Silton in Suffolk, in his own land, in the year 1119, endowing it with many revenues, and among them with this manor, which was then very small, but was soon after augmented by divers gifts given to that house; among which, Rolph, son of Nicholas Lovell of Shelthanger, gave them Robert, son of Bartholomew de Demerch, with his service; Willelm, son of Godfrey of Westhac, gave them 30. rent in Reddon, of the fee of Gilbert Fitz-Ralph, for the souls of his father and mother, and Mary his wife, of whose patrimony it was; John de Ferdon, lord of Brisingham, gave them the going or commonage of pasture for 200 sheep on Brisingham Great Green, and many others gave other lands, all which are particularly described in a chartulary of the priory of Cluniack monks at Thetford, fol. 23, which book is now among Mr. Le Neve's Collections. In 1361, it was let to Bosevill, at 40s. per annum. In 1336, the abbot new-built Frier's Hall, at the expense of 50l.; the demeans were then 50 acres. In 1403, John Abbot of Sibton, and the Convent,<sup>6</sup> leased out their whole possessions here to John Lancaster, Esq. for seven years, at 3l. 1s. per annum, the demeans being excepted; it now extended into Shelfhanger, Reydon, Brisingham, and Diss in Norfolk, and Thrandeston and Yaxley in Suffolk. About 1530, Henry Noon farmed it with one acre marsh in Brisingham, and the commonage of 200 sheep there; and so it continued till the 28th Henry VIII. in which year the abbot and monks, foreseeing what was coming upon them, bargained with Thomas Duke of Norfolk, and resigned their house to him and his heirs, with all that belonged thereto, the Duke having procured leave of the King that he might receive it, and hold it to him and his heirs for ever, which was confirmed by Act of Parliament, anno 31st Henry VIII. and then it was joined to the other manors, with which it now continues.<sup>7</sup> [1736.] The resignation of this abbey may be seen in Dugdale's Monast. vol. iii. fol. 33, and was signed by Wm. Flatbury, abbot, Robert Bungay, prior, John Facon, sub-prior, Tho. Hadley, celerer, Wm. Dunwich, Robert Dunwich, and Peter Elmham, monks. The commonage of the 200 sheep was laid to Vise de Lieu's, or Shelfhanger Hall, as it is now called, and Frier's Hall was soon after demolished; it stood just by the gate going from Brisingham common to Shelfhanger Hall.

SHELFHANGER MANOR, ALIAS D'AVELER'S,

Was originally the demeans of the Confessor, afterwards given (either by him or some other) to St. Edmund's abbey at Bury, of which it was held in the Conqueror's time.

The first parcel constituted the manor called

D'AVELER'S.<sup>8</sup>

The second was in the abbey till the Dissolution, with other lands that were afterwards given. The third was joined to Brisingham manor, and always attended it, so that I have no occasion to speak any more of the two last in this place.

RICHARD DE BURG, the other in

WILLIAM DE LOVERD, or LORD, whose son John sold half of it to

BARTHOLOMEW, son of Robert de Amalricus, the successor of Richard de Burg, so that he had two parts out of three; this part was held of the said William, by the service of a pair of gloves yearly; but I must observe, that Alequin de Sottegood, or Sottgood, had the Burg's part, in which family it continued two or three generations, and then came to Robert, father of Bartholomew above said.

In 1190, HUGH DE VILLER was lord, and after him

BARTHOLOMEW, his son, who, about 1227, left it to his son

RICHARD, who was in the custody of Casmer, his mother, by grant of Hugh de Burgh, Justiciary (Chief Justice) with whom she compounded for 20*l.* The possessions of this Richard, which laid here, and in Brome and Exercantou, (now Exercot, u.) in Suffolk, were then worth 10*l. per annum*, and were all held by s<sup>er</sup>v<sup>an</sup>ty, viz. by the service of conducting the foot soldiers of the two counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, for 40 days, at the King's summons, from St. Edmund's Ditch (now called Devil's Ditch on Newmarket Heath) to the King's army in Hales, for which he was to have 4*d.* of each, for conduct money, and the rest of their maintenance was to be at the King's cost, and by this tenure it always passed. The Abbot at first was to do this service, till he granted this part chargeable with it.

In 1253, RICHARD D'AVILLERS, and Beatrice his wife, had it; and in 1269,

BARTHOLOMEW D'AVILLERS inherited, who died in 1274, leaving it to

JOHN his son, who died in anno 1318. This John sold all to

WALTER DE SHELLHANGER and JOHN DE SOTEBROOK, or Stokebrook, who afterwards became one of the heirs of the said Walter; and, in 1280, took possession by the King's license, and had free-warren allowed him in all his lands. This manor had a house and park, 80 acres of arable land, one acre and a half of meadow, a mill, and 10*s.* rent.<sup>2</sup> That in Brome had a messuage, 60 acres of land, 4 of meadow, and 4 of pasture, &c.; all which were to be held of the said John D'Avillers. This John married Isabel Cufford, who was endowed in Exercot manor, by whom he left

BARTHOLOMEW, his son, who became lord of all these manors; by which it seems, that the grant of this and Brome was only for life. He married Jean, relict of John, son of William de Caldecote, and died 15th April, 1339, leaving her a widow, and four daughters, his coheirs; Isabel, married to Sir Robert Bown, Knt, had Exercot; Cath, to Beau de Hylotrag, and had Brome; Margaret and Jean, one of which (I have some reason to think) married to Richard

Daniel, who had Shelfhanger: the whole came afterwards to Isabel Bacon, (probably for want of issue of the other sisters,) who afterwards married to Sir Oliver Calthorp, and carried the three manors into that family. The D'Aviliers arms were, arg. three incenseburns gul. and are now quartered by Bacon and Calthorp, by the name of D'Ylers. It was after divided into many parts, by which the manor was all lost, except some trifling rents, which were in the Duke of Norfolk in 1536; it was then called Sherwood's in Shelfhanger. It remains now [1736] with the other manors.

The other part, which was

LOVERD'S,

Made a free tenement, called by the owner's name, to which many services belonged, and daily increased, as the owners of the tenement sold off their lands, all which they made payable to the celerer of the abbey, to discharge the capital tenement of the rent and service due from it to the abbey; and when enough was sold to answer that purpose, it became a freehold only, and as such has passed ever since; this was finished in 1266, by John le Loverd,<sup>3</sup> when the lands of the abbey were extended, and all their revenues settled on the sacrist and celerer, who let them to Guy of Shelfhanger, who was to answer all rents and services for them. The lords of Hoe's manor usually farmed them and received the rents. The Black Register tells us, that Hunmond Peccatum<sup>4</sup> (or Pecche) confirmed to Abbot Anselm all that land, and 2s. rent, which his grandmother Jenetta, and his mother Eslyly, had given to that convent; all which, in 1281,<sup>5</sup> were valued to answer 20s. per annum clear.

These came to Henry VIII. who gave some of them to divers persons, and others were granted to Norton, &c. by Queen Elizabeth, to be held free of the manor of East Greenwich in Kent.

Here was another free tenement, called

WINFARTHING TENEMENT,

From its situation on the great road near that place; it laid in Shelfhanger, and anciently belonged to the Berdewells, being held of their manor of Gatesthorp, by the annual rent of a pound of pepper; half of it, in 1280, was owned by Walter de Winfarthing, and in 1298, by Robert, his son and heir, who paid half a pound of pepper for himself and all his tenants, which were about thirty in number; some of them were obliged to double service for their lands, viz. to pay one rent to the lord of the tenement, and another to the chief lord of the fee, and all together were to pay 2s. 5*l.* and the fourth part of a tithing, to the King's scutage, whenever it happened, the whole contained in demesne 50 acres, the tithes of which were divisible, one tithing sheaf to Shelthanger rector, and two to the monks of Thetford. The other half was held by John le Lord, and his tenants, by the same services, the manor of Gatsthorp (or Gasthorp in Norfolk) had this rent always paid to it, and is said to extend into Wintarthing. In 1492, the whole pepper rent was laid upon one acre, in one piece, and was then received, I am apt to think, this was that part of Wintarthing manor that reached into Shelthanger, and that it was granted by the lords of Wintarthing to the lord of Gatsthorp, for Domesday informs us, that Wintarthing<sup>2</sup> reached hither.

And this is the whole I know of these manors, all which in 1532 were in Thomas Duke of Norfolk, and being then joined, have continued together, without any other distinction, as they do at this day, [1739,] the style of the court running thus, Shelthanger, Isdaleha, Hor's, and Frier's.

THE CUSTOMS are these: the eldest son inherits; they can fell timber, pull down, build up, plant, and cut down on the copyhold, and waste, without license; but the fines are at the lord's will.

The Leet belongs not to the manor, but hath passed with D. hundred, the lord of which keeps it at this time, and hath 2s. for leet fee. [1739.]

BURSTON.

THE Church and Gild here were dedicated to the Blessed Virgin; it was a rectory<sup>8</sup> appropriated by John of Oxford, Bishop of Norwich, to Butley priory,<sup>9</sup> who were patrons, it being given them by King Henry I. at their founder's request, before he gave the manor to the Fitz-Walters. In 1293, their temporals were taxed at 26s. 6d. and their spirituals at 17l. 6s. 8d. The impropriation was confirmed by the archbishop, and the vicar had a pension of 26s. 8d. payable by the prior, out of the great tithes, all which were afterwards disappropriated, by the prior and convent's resigning up the church and tithes, and presenting a rector. In 1510, upon Drayles's institution, a pension of 40s. per annum was reserved to the prior out of the rectory. The lands that belonged to the priory were granted by Queen Elizabeth to different persons, some to Edward Dyer, Hugh Cressiner, and others.

RECTORS AND VICARS.

1299, 2 kal. Mar. The rectory was void, and a sequestration granted to Adam de Cokefield,<sup>4</sup> who was presented to it, with this clause, that the bishop might recall it when he pleased.

1304, 5 ides June, Richard de Schadenfield, priest, was instituted to the vicarage, with certain portions newly assigned by the Bishop, at the presentation of the Prior of Butley, who presented the following vicars:

1314, 11 kal. July, Alan de Bedyngtone, priest.

1325, 15 kal. July, Robert, called Baldewyne, priest. He resigned in 1331, id. Dec. and Richard de Botone, priest, succeeded.

1349, 2 July, Walter Stannard de Diss, priest.

1349, 28 July, John Mortimer, priest.

1351, 14 Octob. Robert Mast of West Lexham, priest.

1401, 22 Jan. John Cok, priest.

1408, 9 Septem. Richard Bailly, priest.

1424, 26 June, William Balle, priest.

1432, 2 Dec. William Smythe, by lapse; and the year following the 16th of April, the prior resigned the impropriation; and in capital lord of whom this manor was held. I cannot find how it went from the Brockdish family; but it was in the

BOYLANDS, from whom it passed by Maud, the heiress of that family, to

JOHN LANCASTER of Brisingham, and went<sup>1</sup> as Boylond Hall, till about 1500, when it was aliened to

SIR JOHN SHARPE, Knt. who, in 1514, obtained license to alien it to

WILL. TYLER, or TYLOR, and his heirs, to be held as formerly, by the service of a red rose yearly, payable to the Duke of Suffolk, to his honour of Eye. In 1518, this Sir John Sharpe, Kt. and Wm. Tyler, Knt. &c. lords of Brockdish Hall, and John Mellegate, Prior of the priory of the holy Virgin, and St. James the Apostle of Old Bokenham, and the convent there, lords of the manor of Meldynghall, agreed to divide the two manors, which having for a long time been farmed together, were now so intermixed, that they knew not their separate rights; wherefore they got two books in indented bindings, the one having the convent seal affixed thereto, and the other the seals of the two knights, &c. in these the division was entered, and the one was delivered to the prior, and the other to Sir John Sharpe, &c. which is now among the evidences of the manor, from which I collected, that Meldyng Hall abuts on Knot's Lane north; the demesns were about 137 acres, copyhold held of it 430 acres, the quit-rents about 18*l. per annum*. Brockdish Hall abuts upon Northgate Green north, and was then, with 15 acres adjoining, copyhold; this manor was about half the value of Meldyng Hall, John Mellegate, prior, Tho. Beverly, sub-prior, and Tho. Biorne, sacrist, signed it. Brockdish Hall paid then 10*s. per annum* freerent to Winfarthing: it appears that

ROBERT BROWNE was cousin and heir to Sir John Sharpe, from whom it came to the

PETTUSES, and from them to BOLTON, and from Bolton to

THOMAS PROCTOR, senior, clerk, whose kinswoman and heiress married to

JOHN BIXTON of St. Margaret's, who finding no license for the alienation from Bolton to Proctor, was forced to get a royal pardon,<sup>2</sup> from which time both these manors have been in that family, ELIZABETH BIXTON, a minor, being now lady [1730.]

MELDING HALL MANOR

Was purchased by Sir PETER DE MELAULING, of MELDING, of King Henry I. to be held by his seneantry of service, that the owner of it should always sell the beasts taken in Norfolk or Suffolk for the King's debts; it was then valued at 8*l. per annum*.

WILLIAM, his son, had it next; and after him

PETER, his son, who owned it in 1226; and in 1249 sold it to

SIR ROBERT DE BOIS of Versfield, reserving a rent of 4*l.* and the service of a quarter of knight's fee, the whole of which he gave with his sister in marriage to Regnald de Nuttan; for which alienation the King seized the serjeantry, which was taken off this manor when it was sold, and laid on Meling manor in Suffolk, according to a feoffment made by this Peter de Meling to Laurence de Meling; but he gave them the value in exchange. Sir Robert du Bois, senior, left it to

Sir ROBERT his son,<sup>1</sup> who gave it to

JOHN DE BOSCO, his brother, who, in 1286 had weif here; but before 1308 it was again in Sir Robert de Bois and Christian his wife, who afterwards settled it on

Sir WILLIAM CARBONEL, Knt. her son, (this Christian being widow of Sir John Carbonel, Knt. when Sir Robert married her,) who was lord in 1315; and in 1397,

ROBERT CARBONEL, Knt. and MARGERY his wife, had it, and John was his son and heir, 14 years old; Robert died seized this year, on the 21th of Sept. to which Mr. Le Neve's Collections agree, though he says it had been out of the Carbonel family in that time, and was the inheritance of

Sir ROBERT DE CASTON, and descended to Margery, wife of Sir Robert Carbonel, and Mary, wife of Sir William Fastolf; however it was,

JOHN CARBONEL, son of Sir Robert, inherited, who gave it to

Sir ROGER SWILLINGTON of Ditchingham, and Joan his wife; he died seized of this and Old Hall manor, in Swillington in Yorkshire, and soon after his wife died also, upon which, the King received the homage of

ROBERT DE SWILLINGTON, brother and special heir of John, according to the form of the gift made to Roger. Some time after it came to

Sir JOHN SWILLINGTON, Knt. at whose death it was divided; and in 1424,

Sir JOHN GRAA, Knt. had two parts of the manor, in right of Margaret his wife, sister of Sir John Swillington; all which was mortgaged to Thomas Murstede, Esq. for 200 marks. From this time to 1454 I know nothing of it; but in that year

Sir ANDREW OGARD, Knt. died without issue, seized of this manor of Melding Hall; and it looks as if he gave it to

BOKENHAM PRIORY: for it appears from the Book of Accompts of that house, that this manor belonged to it, and in 1479 was let at 15*l.* 10*s.* at which time the prior hired the other manor, at 5*l.* 10*s.* per annum, and let them together; and from this time it continued in the convent till its dissolution, and then went to the CROWN, and being afterwards granted off, it belonged in 1570, to

FRANCIS BOULTON; and in 1573 it came by exchange to

THOMAS and MICHAEL HENEAGE; and after that, having passed through divers families, though but with small continuance in any of them, it came to the BUXTONS, and was then joined to the other manor.

Mr. Le Neve says, there was a manor here, (which was this, as I take it,) that all along attended the fate of the Albanies of Bokenham castle, from whom it came to the Orrehys; John of that surname had it in 1315; from thence to the Cuitys, and so to the Cliftons, and was settled by Sir John Clifton, Knt. in 1447, by his will, on Joan his wife, and her heirs, whose daughter Margaret married Sir Andrew Ogard, Knt. of the Rye in Hertfordshire, who died seized as aforesaid.

This might be held of them as capital lords, under Ege honour, till the whole fee came to Sir Andrew, about 1450, whether by marriage, purchase, or descent, I cannot learn. The ancient family of Burston or Burston, bears,

Here is 10s. a year given to the poor, payable out of Mr. Alpe Ward's farm, and was given by one of the Alpes, and also two town-houses.

In 1603, here were 80 communicants, and now [1779] there are 48 dwelling-houses, and about 250 inhabitants.

The old tenth was 2*l.* 12*s.* The valuation at the association, was 780*l.* and that to the King's tax is 125*l.* per annum.

The COMMONS are Pound Green, Church Green, and Burston or Northgate Green, where they common solely.

The CUSTOM OF THE MANOR is to the eldest son, and the fine at the lord's will.

The Lect belongs to the hundred, to which it pays 2*s.* lect fee.

OSMUNDESTON, OR SCOLE,

JOINS to the east part of Diss, and is bounded by the Waxeney on the south; I cannot find who this Osmund was, that gave name to the town, but imagine him to be a Saxon, and owner of it. Scoles was a hamlet to Osmundeston, in the time of Edward III. and gave name to a numerous family, one of which was rector of Trenze in 1397; the ancient Institution Books have no such name, though it now stands in the last Valor, by the name of Osmundston, alias Schole, which last name prevailed about the time of King Henry VIII. when this hamlet was increased, so as to become the chief part of the town, and might first receive its name from the shoals or shallows of the river on which it is situated.

Here are two very good inns for the entertainment of travellers; the White Hart is much noted in these parts, being called, by way of distinction, Scole Inn; the house is a large brick building, adorned with imagery and carved work in several places, as big as the life. It was built in 1655, by John Peck, Esq. whose arms, impaling his wife's, are over the porch door. The sign is very large, beautified all over with a great number of images of large stature carved in wood, and was the work of one Fairchild; the arms about it are those of the chief towns and gentlemen in the county, viz. Norwich, Yarmouth, Duke of Norfolk, Earl of Yarmouth, Bacon of Garboldisham, Hobart, Cornwallis impaling Bukton, Tege, Thurston, Castleton, and many others. Peck's arms are arg. on a chevron ingrailed gul. three crozlets pattee of the field; his wife's are arg. a fess between two crescents in chief, a lion rampant in base gul. which coat I think is born by the name of Jetheston. Here was lately a very large round bed, big enough to hold fifteen or twenty couple, in imitation (I suppose) of the remarkable great bed at Ware. The house was in all things accommodated, at first, for large business; but the road not supporting it, it is in much decay at present, though there is a good bowling-green and a pretty large garden, with land sufficient for passengers horses. The business of these two inns is much supported by the annual cock-matches that are here fought.

Concerning the capital manor, I find that Ralph de Felgeres had it a long time, and at his death left it to his posterity; for in 1206,<sup>2</sup>

RICHARD DE FENGERES had it, from whom it came to

SIR AYMER DE BERRILL, of whom it was held anno 1270, by HENRY DE SCELTON, by the rent of 2s. 2d. per annum; this was a separate manor then, and the demcans 15 acres.

There was also another part in Osmundeston, which this Henry de Shelton united this year to the manor aforesaid, which part was held by Hugh de Corban, of Roger Bigot;<sup>3</sup> and afterwards by this Henry in 1270, when the Escheat<sup>4</sup> tells us, that he held here, of the Earl of Arundell's fee, 100 acres of land, and 6 acres and an half of wood, a mill, and several rents of assize, by the service of half a knight's fee; at his death

ROBERT DE SHELTON, his son, inherited, who held this manor, with those of Shelton, and Bedingham, in 1286, when he had liberty of free-warren in all his manors allowed in Eire.<sup>5</sup>

ROBERT DE TATESHALE held in capite 3 fees<sup>6</sup> in Shelton, Bedingham, and Osmundeston, all which were held of him by this Robert de Shelton, and Isabel his wife, who in 1305 settled the advowson and manor on themselves for life, and their sons, Thomas and Henry, remainder to the right heirs of Robert, which Robert died seized, and then held this manor by the fourth part of a fee of Robert de Tatteshalle; from which time I find the following persons of this name to be lords and patrons:

1488, 21 Dec. JOHN SHELTON, Knt. died seized, leaving his manors of Scoles, Snoryng-Magna, &c. to

JOHN SHELTON, his son.

From this family it came to the Althams, in the year 1553,

JOHN ALDHAM of Shumpling was lord and patron, who left it to

WILLIAM ALDHAM, who in 1561 levied a fine, and conveyed it to

SIR THOMAS CORNWALLIS, Knt. in whose time the style of the court ran thus: Osmundeston, nuper Altham's quondam Shelton's. In this noble family the manor hath ever since continued, the present Lord Cornwallis being now [1736] both lord and patron.

BEZILES, OR BOYLAND'S MANOR,

Was that part of Osmundeston<sup>1</sup> that was in the Crown in King John's time, and was then worth sl. 13s. 4d. per annum, it being an escheat of the Normans lands. This King gave it to

RALPH Earl of Chester, for life, at whose death it came to

King HENRY III. who granted it to

INGERRARD DE TANE, for life; who dying soon after, the same King gave it to

SIR WILLIAM DE SYVAC (or Sinagon) for life, and at his death to ALMARIC DE BERRILIS<sup>2</sup> (or Beziles) and his heirs, in 1272, to be held of him by knight's service, in capite; the manor then was thus valued, viz. the rent of assize of the freeholders at 6l. 12s. 7d. per annum, and of the copyholders in soccage, 32s. 6d. 1q.<sup>3</sup> In 1206, 8th of King John,<sup>4</sup> Adam de Stazwell held it of that King, who had it in an escheat, it being held of Richard de Feugers, lord of the capital manor.

SIR AYMER (or Almaric) died in 1279, and the eschator seized on his lands for want of an heir;<sup>5</sup> he was born beyond sea, as the jury affirmed, who mention Emma his wife, and Peter de Berrils, his grandson, to be living, but where, they knew not. It appears at this time, that one third of it laid in Stirton in Suffolk, and near one third in Trenze, and the rest here. The King after the seizure did not hold it long; for, in 1284, Edward I. granted in fee to

Berrill held of him here, and in Sturston, at half a knight's fee, from whom it took the name of Boylund's fee. He, jointly with Elen his wife, daughter of Phillip de Cotvile, held this manor and one in Brisingham, one in North Walsham, and lands in Titshall, Wilby, and Ringsted, in the year 1295, when John was their son and heir, and 24 years old.<sup>5</sup> This Richard was a great lawyer,<sup>6</sup> and one of the justices of the King's-Bench, he left it to

Sir JOHN BOYLUND his son, from whom (but whether by purchase or not, I cannot tell) it came to

JOHN DE LOWDHAM, who, in 1345, paid x.s. for his relief, for the manor late Sir John Boylund's called Boylund fee, from which time it continually went as Frenze manor,<sup>7</sup> till John Lowdham sold one moiety of it to

JOHN WODEHOUSE, the other moiety went with his daughter to the

BLEVERHASSETS; and in 1561, John Bleevehasset granted it to

THOMAS CORNWALEIS, Knt. whose heirs purchased the other half, after many conveyances of it from Wodehouse to Gryme, and from Gryme to Rant and others; and in this family it hath continued ever since, it being now [1736] annexed to the capital manor.

The CHURCH is dedicated to St. Andrew the Apostle, having a square tower, and but one bell, though not long since there were five. The church, chancel, and south isle are leaded, the south porch is tiled.

In 1603, here were 81 communicants, and now [1730] there are about 40 dwelling-houses, and 230 inhabitants. It paid *1*l.* 17*s.

THORP-PARVA, OR LITTLE THORP,

Is a small village on the east part of Scot, having only four houses in it, the name of Dorp in Saxon signifies a manor-house, and this is called in ancient evidences, Thorp Maneriacu, probably from Ralph de Maneris, (or Manors,) lord thereof, and Little Thorp, or Parva Thorp, to distinguish it from Thorp-Abbots, which lies near it.
 It paid to the tenths *1*l.* 4*s. out of which 4*s.* was deducted; the parliament valuation was 14*l.* and the present valuation is 12*l.*

It is a rectory, but a siacure; the church, which is dedicated to St. Mary the Virgin, being quite demolished, the ruins of the steeple, which was round, appear in this manner:

A is the west part. B the south.

In 1683, in the manuscript called, the Answers of the Parsons, it is thus entered, “Robert Dale, farmor of this benefice saith, that “there are about five communicants, that it is a rectory presentative, “valued in the King’s Books at 4*l.* that Edward Doyly, Esq. is “patron of it, (as it is said,) who receiveth the tithes, and so hath “done of a long time, that the parishioners hear divine service at “Billingford.” It is in Redenhall deanery, and Norfolk archdeaconry, and being sworn not to exceed the clear yearly value of 30*l.* per annum, is capable of augmentation, and neither pays first fruits nor tenths; the advowson now is, and always was, appendant to the manor.

In 1469, William White, Esq. of this parsh, who was lord and patron, ordered his body to be buried in the chancel of the church of the Blessed Virgin, at Thorp-Parva, so that the church was in use at that time, and I believe, long since.<sup>6</sup>

It afterwards came to the Mantchenics, who held it of the honour of Ege, which was held of the King in capite. In 1206,

LUCY, his wife, daughter of Ralph de Manerijis, (or Manors,) who was lord here in trust, during his life; and then Lucy aforesaid kept the courts in her own name. In 1299,<sup>4</sup> she had the lect, and assize of bread and beer. In 1308, she settled it by fine on herself for life, and after on

JOHN DE NEKETON, who owned it in 1315, and, in 1324,<sup>5</sup> settled it on himself and

KATHERINE, his wife, in tail, who was lady in 1345,<sup>6</sup> and paid 40s. for her relief; at her death it went to

EDMUND DE NEKETON, who, in 1377, settled it, with the advowson, by fine, on Roger Wolferston, Thomas rector of Titshull, and Richard Dautrys, in trust; he was succeeded by

ISABELL, late wife of John de Necton, son of the said Edmund, about 1401; she afterwards married William Braytoft of Thorp-Parva, after whose decease it came to the Whites; for in 1469,

WILLIAM WHITE of Thorp-Parva, Esq.<sup>7</sup> by will dated March 30, gave the manor and advowson to Mary his wife, to maintain his children, till Richard, his third son, should be 22 years old, and then he was to have it in tail, remainder to Robert, his second son, then to John his fourth son, and then to Bartholomew, his eldest son, remainder to his daughters equally;

According to which, Richard, the third son, succeeded, and held it till 1492, 8th Henry VII.; but being then attainted of high treason, his estates were seized by the King, who granted them to Henry Wiot, and his heirs male; but the attainder being taken off, it reverted to the family; for John, the fourth son, who was doctor of divinity, instituted to Filby rectory in 1505, which he resigned in 1512, inherited on the entail, and in 1515 settled the whole on Henry Wyatt, John Cutte, Richard Chamely, Knts. Richard and John Wiat, clerks, William Sparke, and William Dampport, and their heirs, in trust, but to what uses does not appear. However, notwithstanding this, he is found to have died seized, leaving

EDMUND, his son, (as I suppose,) his heir, who died in 1551, and left

ANNE,<sup>8</sup> his sister, his heir, who was then the wife of Henry Doyly of Shottesham, who held it of the King as of his honour of Eye. In 1572, this

HENRY was lord, who in 1584 levied a fine of it to Thomas Townsend, Esq. and others, in trust. In 1596, it was held by Doylic, and and in 1632,

HENRY DOVLY was lord and patron. In 1715,

WAS always one manor,<sup>o</sup> which in King Edward's time was held by Etric,<sup>1</sup> of Etric, for one carucate; and in the Conqueror's time by Hubert, of Robert Malet, lord of Ege; it was then worth 15*s.* per annum, being five furlongs long, and four broad, and paid 3*d.*
Danegeld.

It was always held of Ege honour at one quarter of a knight's fee, and paid x*s.* relief. I do not meet with any lords' names<sup>2</sup> before 1280,<sup>3</sup> when John de Ludham was lord and patron, whose family took their surname from a village so called in Suffolk, in Walford hundred,<sup>4</sup> which they held many ages. In 1297, it was settled on

WILLIAM DE LUDHAM, and Alice his wife, and John their son, and his heirs. In 1320,

JOYNS, wife of Sir John Ludham, and John Lowdham, Knt. son of chased several large parcels of land of Ralph de Shimpling, and Katherine his wife, being the first of this family that had Boyland's manor; both which, together with this advowson, in 1343, they settled by fine on themselves, and the heirs of John; Edmund de

Thomas, son of John, and Joan his wife, held it, jointly with Maud his wife; he died in 1385, and

Sir ROBERT CORBET, senior, Knt. held it, as guardian to John Lowdham, who dying, left it to his wife;

And in 1401, the lady which was the wife of Sir Robert Corbet, senior, Knt. held Boyland's in dower, and Sir Robert Corbet, junior, her son, held Frenze, during the minority of John Lowdham, son of Thomas de Lowdham and Maud his wife, who, when his father died, was but seven years old. This John died 28th April, 1428; Alice his wife surviving him: he left only one daughter, JOAN, then 14 years old, married to Thomas Hevenyngham, Esq. and after that to Ralph Blaverhasset, Esq. both which she outlived, not dying till June 20, 1501, being 97 years of age: she was seized of Boyland's, the other moiety of which was granted by John Lowdham to John Woodhouse.

JOHN BLAVERHASSET was her son and heir, being 77 years old at his mother's death. This is a very ancient family, taking their name from Bleverseta, or Bleverhayset, in Cumberland, where the eldest branch continued a long time. In 1382, Alan Blaverhasset was mayor of the city of Carlisle, as was John, in 1430.<sup>5</sup> In 1412, Ralph Bleverhayset was parliament-man for that city, and so was Thomas, in 1584. In 1510, this John died, in the 87th year of his age, seized of Frenze, and a moiety of Boyland's; he had two wives; Jane daughter of Thomas Heigham of Heigham Green in Suffolk, Esq. by whom he had Sir Thomas, his son and heir, now 49 years of age; and Jane, daughter of Sir Thomas Tindall of Hockwold in Norfolk, Knt. He came from South-hill in Bedfordshire, to Frenze, which estate he gave to John, his son by his second wife, who dying without issue, it was divided among his four sisters, Margaret, married to Robert Warner of Besthorp, after to William Drury of the same; Jane, to Sir Phillip Calthorp; Anne, to Sir Henry Grey of Wrest in Bedfordshire, Knt.; Ellen to Miles Hobart of Plumstede in Norfolk, Esq. second son of Sir James Hobart, Knt.

Sir THOMAS died seized of Frenze and Boyland's, June 27, 1531, leaving

GEORGE, his eldest son by his first wife, his heir: he died in 1543, and by his will gave Frenze to Margaret his wife for life, and Boyland's moiety to Mary, his daughter and heiress, then married to Thomas Culpepper, Esq. she being to have Frenze also at Margaret's death. This Mary, by fine, settled Frenze on

FRANCIS BACON, Esq. her second husband, and Edmund his son, for their lives, both which had it, Edmund Bacon of Harleston being seized of it in 1572: after whose death it reverted to

JOHN BLEVERHASSET, who had enjoyed Boyland's ever since the death of the said Mary. This John was brother to George, her father: he sold the moiety of Boyland's to Sir Thomas Cornwallis, Knt. and his heirs, but Frenze continued in this family; for in 1587,

GEORGE BLEVERHASSET held it; and in 1595,

SAMUEL BLEVERHASSET. How or when it went from this family I do not find; but in 1666, 24th Nov.

RICHARD NIXON, Esq. died seized, and

RICHARD WAS HIS SON AND HEIR, whose son, Diamond Nixon, sold it to

SIR ROBERT KEMP, Bart. whose son, Sir Robert, is now lord and patron. [1736.]

The CHURCH is a small building, of equal height, covered with tile; and having no steeple, the bell hangs on the outside of the roof, at the west end: there is no partition between the church and chancel, but there is a beam fixed across the east chancel window, on which the rood was conveniently placed. The church is about 24 yards long, and 7 yards wide, the south porch is tiled. It is dedicated to St. Andrew the Apostle, as appears from the will of Ralph Blevethasset, who desired to be buried in the chancel of St. Andrew at Frenze. The meanness of the fabric hath preserved the inscriptions from being reaved, for it looks like a barn, at a distance. In the chancel, according to his will, is buried Ralph Blevethasset, Esq. whose effigies, standing upon a lion, still remains on a stone, and this inscription.

Die facit venerabilis Vir Radulphus Blevethasset

There are four shields still remaining.

1. Blevethasset with an annulet quartering Orton;
2. Ditto impaling Lowdham;

The inscription for his wife is now lost, but was, as we learn from Mr. Anstr's MSS. (marked G. 6, fol. 39.) as follows:

Here lieth Mrs. Joane Blevethasset, the Wife of Ralph Blevethasset, Esq. the Daughter and Heir of John Lowdham, who died the 20th Day of June 1501.

The same MSS. hath the following inscription, now gone:

"Here lieth the venerable Gentleman John Blevethasset, Esq; who died the 27th of March, in the Year of our Lord, 1514."

On a stone by the south door is the effigies of a woman bidding her beads, with three shields under the inscription.

1. Hasset with an annulet, quartering Lowdham;
2. Ditto impaling Tindall, quartering Vecklin;

It is a small village, having only 6 houses, and about 60 inhabitants. [1786] In Norwich Domesday it is said, that the rector then had a house and 20 acres land, not taxed. The old tenth was 1*l. 5s.* the association valuation, 20*l. per annum*, and the present valuation is 149*l.*

THELTON,

THELTON, or, as in the Conqueror's time, Telvetun, had two manors, besides a part that belonged to the honour of Ely.*

The manor that belonged to Ely was granted from that church, among others, to Henry de Rhai, who, in the Black Book of the Ercheques, is returned to hold three knights fees of the church of Ely, and was afterwards, by the Marshals, who succeeded in that honour, given to the Scalases, who, in 1282, held both the manors; for in the inquisition then taken at the death of John le Marschall, Joffery de Scalarys (Scalers or Scals) is presented to hold the manor of Thelveton at one fee, together with the other manor there, of the Bishop of Ely's fee, by one fee more, which manor also belonged to the tenure of the said John le Marschall, as belonging to his barony of Rhye, both which the said Joffery died seized of the year following, as held of Aliza le Mars hall, as of her manor of Hockering, Thomas son of Joffery de Scalarys, junior, his grandson, being his heir, who had livery hereof this year, together with Whaddon manor in Cambridgeshire.

This Thomas was born at Beligne, when the Queen, mother to the King, was there, in time of war, as the record shews us.† He had

The advowson of the rectory was given to the convent of St. Mary Overy in Southwark, very early, by some one of this family; all the rectors, that are to be met with in the Institution Books, being presented by the priors there, till the Dissolution, and from that time by the Crown, where the patronage now remains. The priors had a portion of 5s. paid out of the rectory, which was taxed at 6d.<sup>7</sup> In 1304,

THOMAS DE SCALARIJS held it of William le Marschall, and had the King's license to alien 40s. per annum rent out of it. In 1342, THOMAS, his son, succeeded to Waddon and Thelton, which he held of Sir Robert de Morley at one fee, and he of the Bishop of Ely, and he of the King.

JOHN, son of Thomas, and grandson of this Thomas, was heir. He married Amy, one of the daughters of Sir John de Welbetham Magna, Knt. which John left three daughters, Margery, married to John de Sutton of Wivenho, Knt. and Mary to Michael de Bures, between which three his inheritance, sc. the manor and advowson of Great Welbetham, and the manor of Alpheton, &c. was divided in 1371. In 1387,

JOHN DE CHALERS, lord here, had Thomas a son, then aged 13, whose son

JOHN held it in 1401, of Robert de Morley, he of the See of Ely, and that of the King, being then the King's ward, in custody of John de Heveningham, Knt. which Sir John held a quarter of a fee of Julian, sister of John de Thelcton, as of the manor of Thelcton, and was a part of it, which was held of the Abbot of St. Edmund, and laid in Gissing, and was alienated by Thomas de Scalarijs as above, to one of the family surnamed de Thelcton. This John de Scalers (or Scales) died in 1466, leaving Thelton, and Whaddon to

MAUD his wife, who died in 1470, and left three daughters co-heiresses; Alice, married to John Moore; Anne, to John Harcourt; and Margaret, unmarried; but to which this was allotted I find not, neither can I tell who owned it till 1538, 10th March, and then it belonged to

BEATRIX HARMAN, sole daughter and heiress to Henry Moine, Esq. who was lord of Thelcton, by whom it was settled on John Watts, clerk, to the use of the said Beatrix; and this year the said John Watts infeoffed Beatrix in it for her life, remainder to George Bougham, Esq. next kinsman and heir to the said Beatrix, and immediately after she released her estate for life to the said George and his heirs; this George the same year settled it on

WILLIAM ROGERS, and Catherine his wife, and their heirs; in 1540 George Bougham, William Rogers, and Catherine his wife, infeoffed it in Thomas Codde, and William Loues, (or Love,) and their heirs; and in the same year George Bougham released to all those feoffees, all his right in it; and then Love and Codde infeoffed William Rogers and Catherine his wife in it, to hold to them and their heirs: Catherine surviving her husband in 1554, 24th April, sold the manor to

JOHN STUBBE, Gent. who gave it to Elizabeth his wife, for life, and then to John Stubbe his eldest son, who gave it to Anne his wife, to be sold, of whom

THOMAS HAYERS of Wautarthing, Gent. in 1592, purchased it, and died 1605, and left it to Elizabeth his wife, for life, then to his eldest son, from which time it hath passed in a lineal descent in this family.

The *HAYERS*s had their rise under the Norfolk family, which they have served for many generations; John Hayers was Gentleman of the Horse to John Duke of Norfolk, and attended him in the battle at Bosworth Field, where that duke was slain; John Hayers of Wautarthing, in Norfolk, was Steward to the family, as was Thomas Hayers, his son, who purchased the manor, and built the present mansion-house, which is a good brick building and very uniform; John, his second son, was Bailiff to the Earl of Arundell in 1630; Edward, his third son, was Steward of his courts; and Thomas, his fourth son, was farmer of the parks; William Hayers continued the same office at his father's death, and Thomas Hayers, the present lord, [1736.] now hath it.

Their arms are of ancient date, but were confirmed with the addition of a crest, by Robert Cooke, Clarenceux, in these words:

“Coulde, on a fess sables, three chess rooks of the field.

“Crest, on a wreath gold and sables, a griffin passant erm. with a crown for a collar, chained and mantled gul. doubled arg.”

As appears from the said confirmation, under seal of the office, now remaining in the family.

THE CUSTOMS OF THE MANOR are these: the copyhold descends to the youngest son; the fine is at the lord's will; the tenants cannot waste their copyhold houses, nor fell timber without license; it gives no dower.

This rectory is in the archdeaconry of Norfolk, and deanery of Reddenhall, and being discharged of first fruits and tenths, is capable of augmentation. It hath a rectory-house, which, with 3 acres of land belonging to it, was given to the church in 1375, when the rector obtained a license in mortmain, to confirm it.

At the time of the Lincoln taxation, the rector had 22 acres of glebe, the rectory was valued at 17 marks, besides the Prior of Southwark's portion of v.s. out of it, and paid xij. d. Peter-pence, and in the Norwich taxation, the portions of the canons of Southwark were taxed at vii. marks.

The Church is a small building, consisting of a nave, chancel, and south porch, all tiled, and a square steeple, and two bells only, one being formerly sold to repair the church, which is dedicated to St. Andrew the Apostle, as appears from the will of John Perion<sup>9</sup> of this town, who, in 1460, ordered to be buried in St. Andrew's church-yard here, and gave 6s. to mend the steeple, and 12d. to the high altar.

On the font are four shields; on the first, the emblem of the trinity; on the second, three cups, on each a water, as an emblem of the sacrament; on the third, a plain cross; on the fourth, a cross floree, the arms (I suppose) of the donor.

On two flat stones by the altar, the first hath Havers's arms:

Here lieth Anne eldest Dawghter of Thomas Bramton of Norton Esq, first married to Edward Kene & had Issue, Edward, Henry, Roger, Edmund, Bridget, after with Thomas Nash & had Issue Anne, dyed the 16 of December 1625.

On a small mural monument on the south side of the chancel:

In 1507, John Awncell who was buried in the church gave to St. George's Gild, in St. George's church at Shim- chigues, with his shield, viz. arg. a plain cross gul. is to be seen in a south window of the chancel, and seems to be as old as the building, which in all appearance was in the beginning of the thirteenth century, (though the steeple is much older,) for then William de Shimpling was lord and patron, whose arms still remain under this chigues, viz. arg. a chief gul. a fess between six de-lises sab.

Here was a Chil in honour of the same saint,<sup>6</sup> and a Chapel dedicated to St. Mary, which stood in Shimpling Hatha, of which there are no remains. This had some endowment, for Gerrard the Prior, and his Chapter at Norwich, with the Bishop's consent, granted to Richard the chaplain of Shimpling, 7 roods of meadow in Roreker in Shimpling, &c. in perpetual alms, paying yearly 5d. at the high altar in the cathedral, to which John Pierson of Gissing, and others, were witnesses,<sup>7</sup> so that this must be before 1201, for in that year Gerrard the Prior died; this was down before the general dissolution, for I meet with no grant of it at that time.

St. George and the dragon, and the arms of Shimpling, are carved on the font; the chancel is covered with large grave-stones, all disrobed of their brasses; several of them were laid over the rectors, as appear from the chalice and water upon them, that being the symbol of a priest; the rest that had arms, I take to be laid over the Shimplings and the Shardloas. The arms of

On a small stone towards the west end of the church:

Richard Lesingham, ob. 5 die Octob. Anno Dni. 1705, Ætatis suæ ----

Here let him rest,
Memory stile him dear,
Till our Redeemer
Shall in the clouds appear.

Potter, sab. a fess between three mullets arg. Crest, an elephant's head erased arg. gutte de sang.

valne. This, as one manor, was given by the Conqueror to Roger Bygod, who gave it to Robert de Vais, (de Vallibus, or Vaus;) it being then a mile and a quarter long, and a mile broad.<sup>2</sup> The whole paid 5d. Geld. There was then a church and 10 acres glebe, valued at 12d. and several other manors extended hither, of which I shall afterwards treat in their proper places. The Vaises held it of Bygod's successors, till 1237, in which year Oliver de Vallibus granted it to Richard de Rapella, (afterwards called Rokele;) settling it on him and his heirs by fine,<sup>2</sup> to be held of him by knight's service; he died in 1287, at which time he held it of John de Vallibus. This Richard granted it to be held of him and his heirs by Richard de Boyland, in trust for Ralph Carbouell,<sup>3</sup> who held it of Maud, wife of William de Roos, who was daughter and coheir of John de Vaux. This Ralph conveyed it to

ROGER DE SCHYMPLYNG, to be held by knight's service of Richard Rokels's heirs; and in 1280, the said Roger<sup>4</sup> was lord, the manor being settled upon him, and Emma his wife, in tail; after their deaths it came to William de Schympling,<sup>5</sup> their son, who held it of Richard Rokell at half a fee, he of the Earl-Marshal, and he of the King in capite. This William married Margaret de Tacolveston,<sup>6</sup> on whom the manor was settled for life in 1305, it being then held of William de Roos and Maud his wife, and Petrouell de Vaux, her sister. This William purchased a great part of the town of divers persons. He had a son named Roger, who presented in 1328, and held it till about 1345, when he was dead, and Emma his wife had it, at whose death it fell divisible between their three daughters:<sup>7</sup>

ISABEL, married to John Kirtling, to whom this manor was allotted;

JOAN, who had Moring-Thorp manor, and

KATERINE, married to William de Elyngham, who had Dalling manor in Flordon. Isabell had issue, Roger and Emma, who left none, so that this manor and advowson descended to Roger, son of William de Elyngham and Katerine his wife, daughter of Roger de Schympling, which said Roger de Elyngham held it in 1401, by half a fee, of John Coplestick, Kut. who held it of the Lady Roos, she of Thomas Mowbray, and he in capite of the King. How it went from the Elynghams I do not know, but imagine it must be by female heiresses, for in 1521, Humphry Wyngfield had a moiety of it, and John Aldham had another part, he died in 1558, and was buried in this church, leaving his part to John his son, who held it jointly with Bonaventure Shardelowe, in 1571, Mr. Aldham had a fourth part of the manor, and a third turn, and Mr. Shardelowe three parts and two turns. The patronage and manor was in Mr. John Motte, who was buried October 7, 1640, and John Motte, and his brother James, presented in 1640. It looks as if the Mottes had Aldham's part, and after purchased Shardelowe's of Mr. John Shardelowe, who held it till 1611, together with Dalling manor in Edmund Skipwith, Esq. and Antony Barry, Gent. and they to Thomas Wales, and John Busby, Gent. who conveyed it to the Mottes, from whom, I am apt to think, it came to the Proctors, for John Buxton of St. Margaret's in South Elmham had it, in right of his wife, who was kinswoman and heiress of Mr. Proctor, rector of Cissing; after this it came to Robert Buxton, Esq. who died and left it to Elizabeth his wife, who is since dead, and Elizabeth Buxton, their only daughter, a minor, is now [1736] lady and patroness.

The Tact belongs to the manor, and the fine is at the lord's will.

As to the other parts of this village,<sup>9</sup> they being parts of the manors of Titchall, Fersfield, and Bresingham, it is sufficient to observe, that they went with those manors, except that part held by Fulco, of which the register called Pinchbek, fo. 182, says that Fulco or Fulcher held of the Abbot in Shimplingaham and Cissing, 70 acres, and 4 borderers, being inclosed by Abbot Baldwin in the time of the Conqueror, this, about Edward the First's time, was in Sir John Shardelowe, a judge in that King's reign, in whose family it continued till 1640, when it was sold to Mr. Mott. The seat of the Shardelows is now called the Place, and is the estate of the Duke of Grafton, and (as I am informed) formerly belonged to Isaac Pennington,<sup>10</sup> alderman of London, one of those rebels that sat as judges at the King's trial, for which villainy he was knighted. He lived to the Restoration, when, according to his deserts, his estates were seized as forfeited to King Charles II. who gave this to the Duke of Grafton; upon the forfeiture, the copyhold on the different manors were also seized, which is the reason that the quitrents to Gissing, Tytshall, &c. are so large, they being made so when the Lords regranted them.

This part belonged to the honour of Eye, of which it was always held to this time, I have seen several old taxations of this town, where we meet with these distinctions, viz. That this part belongs to the manor, this to the honour, and this to the free land held of the Abbot of Bury, as of his manor of Titchall.

I have seen an ancient deed made by John Camcrarius, or Chambers, of Shimpling, to Richard de Kentwell, clerk, and Alice his wife, and their heirs, of 3 acres of land in this town, witnessed by Sir Gerard de Wachesam, Knt. and others, which is remarkable, for its never having any seal, and its being dated at Shimpling in the churchyard, on Sunday next before Pentecost, anno 1214.<sup>2</sup> This shews us that seals (as Lambard justly observes<sup>3</sup>) were not in common use at this time; and, therefore, to make a conveyance the most solemn and publick that could be, the deed was read to the parish, after service, in the churchyard, that all might know it, and be witnesses, if occasion required. The Saxons used no seals, only signed the mark of a cross to their instruments, to which the scribe affixed their names, by which they had a double meaning; first, to denote their being Christians, and then, as such, to confirm it by the symbol of their faith. The first sealed charter we meet with is that of Edward the Confessor to Westminster abbey, which use he brought with him from Normandy, where he was brought up; and for that reason it was approved of by the Norman Conqueror; though sealing grew into common use by degrees, the King at first only using it, then some of the nobility, after that the nobles in general, who engraved on their seals their own effigies covered with their coat armour; after this, the gentlemen followed, and used the arms of their family for difference sake. But about the time of Edward III. seals became of general use, and they that had no coat armour, sealed with their own device, as flowers, birds, beasts, or whatever they chiefly delighted in, as a dog, a hare, &c.; and nothing was more common than an invention or rebus for their names, as a swan and a tun for Swanton, a hare for Hare, &c., and because very few of the commonalty could write, (all learning at that time being among the religious only,) the person's name was usually circumscribed on his seal, so that at once they set both their name and seal, which was so sacred a thing in those days, that one man never used another's seal, without its being particularly taken notice of in the instrument sealed, and for this reason, every one carried their seal about them, either on their rings, or on a roundel fastened sometimes to their purse, sometimes to their girdle; nay, oftentimes where a man's seal was not much known, he procured some one in publick office to affix theirs, for the greater confirmation: thus Hugh de Schalers, (or Scales), a younger son of the Lord Scales's family, parson of Harlton in Cambridgeshire, upon his agreeing to pay the Prior of Bernwell 70s. for the two third parts of the tithes committive to the said Prior out of several lands in his parish, because his seal was known to few, he procured the archdeacon's official to put his seal of office, for more ample confirmation: * and when this was not done, nothing was more common than for a publick notary to affix his mark, which being registered at their admission into their office, was of as publick a nature as any seal could be, and of as great sanction to any instrument, those officers being always sworn to the true execution of their office, and to affix no other mark, than that they had registered, to any instrument; so their testimony could be as well known by their mark, as by their name; for which reason they were called Publick Notaries, Nota in Latin signifying a mark, and Publick because their mark was publickly registered, and their office was to be publick to all that had any occasion for them to strengthen their evidence. There are few of these officers among us now, and such as we have, have so far varied from the original of their name, that they use no mark at all, only add N. P. for Notary Publick, at the end of their names. Thus also the use of seals is now laid aside, I mean the true use of them, as the distinguishing mark of one family from another, and of one branch from another; and was it enjoined by publick authority, that every one in office should, upon his admission, choose and appropriate to himself a particular seal, and register a copy of it publickly, and should never use any other but that alone, under a severe penalty, I am apt to think, in a short time we should see the good effects of it, * for a great number of those vagabonds that infest our country under pretence of certificates signed by proper magistrates, (whose hands are oftener counterfeit than real,) would be detected; for though

* The use of the seal mark, were it used by the dead, that * that is, all registers of a benefice, note but their peculiar mark, with which their mark. (All these registers are in a gold stamped with the coat of arms,) whereas the distinctness of seal mark, to be found on the windows, and grave stones, in the town of Great town, in Norwich, is a thing, by which the memory of the registers, still preserved, it being very obvious to all that search into the records of those places, to find who used such a mark; and then, if we see it on a house, we may conclude it to have been that man's dwelling; if on a disurbed gravestone, that it was his grave; if on a church window, or any other publick building, that he was a benefactor thereto, and nothing of greater use than ancient deeds, to make out their marks by, for they always sealed with them.

it is easy for an ill-designing person to forge a handwriting, it is directly the contrary as to a seal; and though it is in the power of all to know the magistrates names, it is but very few of such sort of people that could know their seals; so that it would in a great measure (if not altogether) put a stop to that vile practice; and it would be easy for every magistrate to know the seals of all others, if they were entered properly, engraved, and published: and it might be of service, if all the office seals in England (or in those foreign parts that any way concern the realm) were engraved and published, for then it would be in every one's power to know whether the seals of office affixed to all passes, &c. were genuine or no; for it is well known that numbers travel this nation, under pretence of passes from our consuls and agents abroad, and sometimes even deceive careful magistrates with the pretended hands and seals of such, it being sometimes impossible for them to know the truth, which by this means would evidently appear. And thus much, and a great deal more, may be said to encourage the true and original use of that wise Conqueror's practice, who can scarce be said to put any thing into use but what he found was of advantage to his government.

This rectory is in Norfolk archdeaconry, and Redenhall deanery: it had 69 communicants in 1603, and hath now [1736] 23 houses, and about 130 inhabitants. The town is valued at 300*l. per annum*.<sup>6</sup> Here are 3 acres of town land, one piece is a small pightle abutting on the land of Robert Leman, Esq. another piece is called Susan's pightle, lying in Gissing, and was given by a woman of this name, to repair the church porch, (as I am informed,) the other piece lies in Diss Heywode, and pays an annual rent of 5*s*.

The COMMONS are Kett's Fen, which contains about 4 acres; Pound Green, 1 acre; Hall Green, 4 acres; the Bottom, 6 acres; and the Lower Green, 6 acres.

<sup>6</sup> The dole of bread, mentioned in page 156, was given by W. Denington of Mendham, yeoman, and the land tied for the payment lies in Shimpling. And I am lately informed that the glebe amounts to about 20 acres.

GISSING.

THE CHURCH is dedicated to St. Mary the Virgin, and in 1209 was a rectory, a moiety of its patronage being then settled on Butley priory,<sup>7</sup> by John, son of Geffrey, about 1217, Thomas de Hastings, with the consent and joint act of John Bishop of Norwich, granted to the monastery of St. Mary at Butley, in Suffolk, the perpetual advowson of the other part, and Roger de Skerning not only confirmed it, but agreed to appropriate the whole to that house; and in 1271, the 56th of Henry III. endowed the vicarage with all the offerings, the tithes of the mills, a vicarage-house and meadow, and an acre of land adjoining, and twenty acres more of the church's free land, and all other small tithes, except hay, which, with all the corn tithes, and the rest of the glebe, together with the rectory manor, and all its appurtenances, were to belong to the prior, who was always to present to the vicarage.

1668, 24 Dec. John Gibbs, A. M. presented by King CHARLES II.; he continued rector till 1690, being then ejected as a nonjuror; he was an odd but harmless man, both in life and conversation; after his ejection he dwelt in the north porch chamber, and laid on the stairs that led up to the rood loft, between the church and chancel, having a window at his head, so that he could lie in his narrow couch and see the altar. He lived to be very old, and at his death was buried at Frenze.

The impropriation, according to Butley Register, was confirmed by several Archbishops of Canterbury,<sup>3</sup> and was taxed at 16*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and paid 33*s.* 4*d.* tenths. It appears also by the said register, that Sir John Aumbler, as rector of Gissing, acknowledged a pension of 26*s.* 8*d.* to be yearly due to the Prior of Butley, out of the rectory, which was now in effect disappropriated, and united to the vicarage, all but the manor, the impropriate glebe, and its tithes, which remained in the prior, and fell to the Crown at the Dissolution, in which they continued till Queen Elizabeth by letters patent, dated the 16th day of April, 1563, granted to *Edw. In 1360, the Priory Church in Crossing and Burston, containing 30 acres, and other lands of the value of 20l. per annum were granted to Nic. Yetesworth and Barth. Brokesby.

It is called in the King's Books, Gosling alias Crossing, and is thus valued, viz.

There was a chantry in honour of all the Saints, in a chapel of that dedication in the churchyard, founded by Sir Nicholas Hastings, Knt. and confirmed by William Bishop of Norwich, about 1280; for in that year the said Sir Nicholas, and Sir Adam de Gosling, Knt. endowed it with a messuage, and divers lands, which were sometime Robert of Crossing's, father of Sir Adam, and were copyhold of Sir Nicholas's manor, all which were manumised by the said Nicholas; it was for one priest only, who was bound daily to sing for their souls, and those of their ancestors: it is now quite gone, and we know not in which part of the churchyard it stood.

In 1344, it appears that the township held of Crossing cum Dagworth manor (tenement called Buckenham's, which abuts on the way leading from the church to Titheborn Long Boke east, and of Crossing Kempes cum Dalling's manor, and a tenement called Oule's, and one acre of land lying between the lord's meadow north, and the common way west, and also one piece called the Meadow-Pightle, which abuts on the droeg-way north. In 1548, Sir Anthony Hecveningham, Kat. lord of Gissing cum Dagworth, settled three acres of land upon the church-wardens, towards the maintenance of the poor, and ordered that Bartholomew Kempe and his heirs should pay 3s. a year to the same use, out of his estate.<sup>7</sup>

1550, John Taylor gave 26s. 8d. to repair the cawney.

1598, Joan Freeman gave 13s. 4d. to the church.

1621, Mr. Tho. Prockter, clerke, late of Gissinge, deceased, gave 40s. for town stock, to be put out by the church-wardens, to two poor men, resident in the said town, they to have the benefit for one year, lying in good security, and then the next year, to two others, &c.<sup>8</sup>

Here is a very good parsonage-house, with a barn and stable, built all of brick, by Mr. Catver, late rector, (in whose time the old parsonage was burnt,) with a garden, orchard, and other conveniencies, and 49 acres of glebe.

The Church hath a low small round steeple joined to its west end, but yet it contains five bells; on the first and second is this,

The nave is leaded, the chancel is tiled, and hath a chapel joined to each side of it, both which are leaded; that on the south side hath no memorials in it, the vault for the family of the Kempes being under it. There is only a cup belonging to the altar, on the cover of which our Saviour's head is poorly engraved, and this, GYSSEING A<sup>o</sup> 1567.

There is nothing in the nave, but this inscription on a free-stone :

In the chancel there are no memorials of any kind. In the north chapel, which is dedicated to the Blessed Virgin, there are several grave-stones which have lost their brasses, but the arms were as follow, as Mr. Astis's MSS. (marked E. fol. 29.) hath them :

Here were several manors, free tenements, and other small lordships, of which I shall give the best account that I can, though I must own that in some of the small manors the fees and tenures are so intricate, that there may be some mistakes.

The capital manor, afterwards called

HASTINGS MANOR,

at the survey was included and valued as a Berewick to Titchall, with which it was given to the Abbot of Bury,<sup>1</sup> who was lord at the Conquest, and immediately after, the abbot assigned it for life to Edgar,<sup>2</sup> at whose death, Abbot Baldwin intended one Ricard in it,<sup>3</sup> together with the head stewardship of that abbey in fee. From him it came to Raph de Flamavile of Aston,<sup>4</sup> Flamavile in Leicestershire, who was steward in fee of Bury abbey in the time of Henry I. and from him to Robert his son, who died without issue, leaving Fulburg, daughter of Hugh Flamavile, his niece, his heir. She married Hugh de Hastings,<sup>5</sup> son of William de Hastings, Steward to King Henry I. with whom this manor, and the stewardship of Bury, with Aston, Flamavile manor in Leicestershire, and all Robert Flamavile's estate, came to this family, which was surnamed from the port of Hastynge, the fastage of which, with that of Rhye, they for a long time tinned of the Crown. This Hugh left William his son and heir, who was Steward to Henry II.<sup>6</sup> as well as to the abbey; he obtained a grant of confirmation of that King, of all the lands which William de Hastings his grandfather, and Hugh his father had enjoyed. He married Margery, daughter of Roger Biggod Earl of Norfolk, by whom he had William, his son and heir, who paid 100 marks for his relief. In 1193, sixth Richard I. he left Henry, his eldest son, his heir, though it seems he had several sons, and among others John, to whom this manor was assigned, and John assigned it to Thomas de Hastings, who was in all likelihood another brother. This Thomas had assise of bread and ale,<sup>7</sup> free-waren, liberty of enclosing, and liberty of taldage, throughout the town, as well in other folks lands as his own, which, upon a Quo Warranto in 1227, were allowed him, upon pleading that William de Hastings, his ancestor, was seized of this manor, with those of Tibbenham, and others, of the fee of St. Edmund, in the time of Henry II. and that he then peaceably enjoyed all these liberties, which were confirmed to him by the charter of King Richard I. in the seventh year of his reign. A 1191, after whose death they were peaceably enjoyed to this time. This Thomas left it to Hugh de Hastings, who got a confirmation of it from Henry, son of John de Hastings. This Hugh married the daughter of Hau de Heston,<sup>8</sup> by whom he had Thomas, who inherited, he married Amicia, who survived him, and Nicholas de Hastings, Knt. who was then son and heir, had this manor, which, in 1240, he assigned to Amicia his mother, as part of her dower, she being then married to Sir Robert de Bosco of Tersfield, Knt. In 1269, he renewed his charter of free-waren; he married Emelina, daughter of Halter Heron, by whom he had six sons, Hugh, Henry,

Edmond, Nicholas, Richard, and William; he died in 1285, leaving Gissing to Emeline his wife, for life, as her dower. It was this Nicholas that in 1249 granted by fine to the Prior of Pentney,<sup>8</sup> a messuage and two carves of land in Gayton-Thorp, and East-winch, to be for ever held of his manor of Gissing by one knight's fee and a pair of gilt spurs, or 7*d.* a year at Easter. This was afterwards confirmed by Hugh de Hastyngs, his son; and in 1382, there were 100*s.* due for a relief for the fee, to the lord of this manor, by reason of the resignation of Peter Byshop, late Prior of Pentney, for the manors of Gayton-Thorp, and East-winch. He sealed with a maunch, and a label of three for difference.

HUGH DE HASTYNGS, eldest son of the said Nicholas, succeeded; he married a wife named Beatrice, and died before 1301, when she impleaded Emeline, her mother-in-law, for the third part of this manor, as her dower, to which it was answered, that Hugh her husband, after his father's death, assigned this manor to his mother for her dower, upon which Emeline was dismissed. In 1299,

NICHOLAS, son and heir of Hugh, came to it; he released to Nicholas his uncle, and his heirs, all his right and claim to those lands in Gissing, which Nicholas de Hastyngs his grandfather gave to William his son, and in case that Nicholas his uncle should die without issue, he granted that Richard de Hastyngs, and the heirs of his body, should enjoy them, with a remainder to his own right heirs. This Nicholas, in 1276,<sup>9</sup> being then a knight, was retained by Ralph Lord Greystoke, (according to the custom of those times,) by covenants dated at Hilderskelf in Yorkshire, to serve him both in peace and war, for the term of their lives; viz. in time of war, with two yeomen well mounted and arrayed, and in time of peace, with two yeomen and four grooms; in consideration of which, he was to be furnished with all accoutrements for his own body, as also with one saddle, according to the dignity of a knight; and in case he should lose any great horse in the war, he was to have recompense according to the estimation of two men. Furthermore, wherever the Lord Greystoke resided, so that it was in Yorkshire, he should repair to him upon notice, having allowance for his reasonable service in war and peace. On account of this retainer, Sir Nicholas had the manor of Thorp-Basset, in Yorkshire, from this Lord, paying a fee-farm rent of 8*l.* a year. I could not omit taking notice of this, to shew the custom of that age, abundance of the knights then being retained in the same manner. This Sir Nicholas left two sons, Ralf and William, between whom this manor was divided, one part being henceforward called Gissing only, and the other Hastyngs in Gissing.

WILLIAM, the youngest, had GISSING assigned to him, which he left to his son (as I take it) Phillip de Hastyngs, whose daughter Isabell, in 1324, married Alan Kemp of Weston, in Suffolk, Esq. to whose son John the said Phillip granted the manor called Gissing, and to his heirs for ever, from which time it hath continued in that family.

Sir RALPH, the eldest, had HASTYNGS'S manor in Gissing; and in 128. He renewed his charter of free-warren for it, after the division, he married Margaret, only daughter of Sir William de Herle, of Kirby in Westershire, who after became sole heir to Sir Robert de Herle her brother, in 1336. He was Governour of York castle, and Sherif of that county, and lived in great honour till 1345, in which year being in the second battalioe of that Northern army raised by the invasion of David de Bruce King of Scotland, upon St. Luke's day he was mortally wounded, of which he died in a few days, and was buried, according to his will, in the abbey of Salthu, of which he was patron. This engagement was called the battle of Nerth-Cross near Darham, in which the King of Scots, and most of the nobility of that kingdom, were taken prisoners, and their army routed; and it appears by Sir Ralph's will,<sup>2</sup> that he had taken one of those nobles, for in it he disposed of that prisoner, whom he took in war, unto his nephew, Edmund Hastings of Rousby, and to John de Kirby, to be shared between them; leaving Margaret his wife alive, and

Ralph, his son and heir, who was a knight in 1349, and retained by indenture John Kirby of Wiggenthorp in Yorkshire, a gentleman of an ancient family, to serve him for term of life, and not to be displaced without good cause, whereof Sir Brian Stapleton, Knt. and others were to be judges. The said Ralph was himself retained by Henry Duke of Lancaster, to serve him both in war and peace, for 40 marks per annum, out of his manor of Pickering in Yorkshire: and upon the death of that Duke, he had a confirmation thereof from John of Gaunt, son of King Edward III. Duke of Lancaster, Earl of Richmond, and High Steward of England, who had married one of the daughters and heirs of that Duke. The rest of this great man, and of his predecessors and successors, may be seen in Mr. Dugdale's Baronage, from the 579th page of the first volume, to the 580th page of that book, from whence I have extracted great part of this account.

In the year 1353, Sir Ralph sold the manor of Hastings in Gissing to Thomas Gardiner of Chedeston, and John Pickering, and John Alleston, his trustees, which Thomas held it to 1369, and then leased a fine to John Harcourt, and other trustees, by which this manor of Hastings, with Darling's manor in this town, were settled on

Thomas Gardiner of Gissing, his son and heir; this Thomas had two wives, Cecily and Elizabeth: by the former he had a daughter, named Joan, who inherited Darling's manor, and dying without issue in 1409, she left it to Sir Robert Butteclun of Flordon, Knt. who was lord of Hastings manor, by his marrying Katerine, daughter of the said Thomas Gardiner, by his second wife, and half sister to this Joan, so that now both these manors were vested in the said

Sir ROBERT BUTTECLUN, who was descended from an ancient family of that name in Northamptonshire, of which William Butteclun, before the 12th century, founded Pipewell abbey: he bare as this family ever did, ar. three crescents gules.

He left Robert his son his heir, who left another Robert, his heir, whose inheritance came to William his son, and then to Robert, son of William, which Robert was killed in Scotland, with the Earl of

Gloucester, June 24, 1314, leaving a son, whose heir was this Sir Robert of whom we now speak, whose son, Sir Robert Buttevelyn, junior, in 1401, is said to hold the manor of the Lord Grey of Ruthyn, at half a fee, which was heretofore Nicholas de Hastyng's, and another part of it, of the abbey of Bury, at a quarter of a fee; and another part of it of Shimpling manor; and in 1403, he settled his manors called Hastynges, and Dallings, upon Sir Simon Felbrigge, Knt. Sir Robert Buttevelyn, senior, his father, Richard de Cotesbrook, parson of Cotesbrook, John Reynes, John Clere, Esqrs., and Henry Lonnour, junior, and others, and their heirs in trust, for the wife of Sir Robert Buttevelyn, junior, for her life and the heirs of their bodies. Upon the death of this Sir Robert the Abbot of Bury seized his ward, by reason of the chief part of the manor which was held of him by knight's service; but this settlement being produced, he was forced to release his seizure, and at her death, WILLIAM BUTTEVELYN,<sup>3</sup> her son and heir, inherited the manors of Florendon, Hastynges, and Dawlings; he died without issue about 1465, leaving these and Cotesbrook manor in Northamptonshire, and Fenwick and Thorndich in Bedfordshire, to his sisters, Elizabeth and Julian; Elizabeth married Edmund Chaterton, and left one daughter only, named Elizabeth, who married Thomas Herteshorne, alias Hartstrong, of Gissing, Esq.; Julian married Robert Duke of Brampton in Suffolk, Esq.; and left only one daughter, named Alice, who married John Kemp of Weston, Esq.; between which John, and Thomas Herteshorn aforesaid, the estate came divisible, and by agreement they divided it; Thomas had Cotesbrook, Fenwick, and Thorndich, and John had Florendon manor and advowson, and Hastyng's and Dalling's manor in Gissing, so that now he was lord of three of the manors in this town.

The CUSTOMS of this MANOR extracted from the Extent Roll in 1327, A° 2 Edward III. which was a renewal of the old Roll made in the 5th of Edward II. in Sir Nicholas Hastyng's time, (1311,) were as follow:<sup>5</sup>

A villein cannot divide his tenements, but all shall remain to the eldest issue; and if such issue withdraws out of the homage, he forfeits his tenements.

A prepositor and messor to be yearly chosen out of the tenants; the messor to have the custody of the fields, meadows, and woods; he shall sow all the lord's seed, and give an account of all trespasses to the lord, and shall keep a man all seed-time, to fright the vermin: the messor shall come to the lord's diet (or maintenance) the first day of harvest, and shall be maintained all harvest time: he is to collect the lord's rents, and profits of court, and to warn the labourers and all others to their duty; and is to be paid his wages by the tenements that are eligible into that office.

The bondmen to fine for their marriage at the lord's will.

The tenement of every copyholder, at each death is heriotable, by the best beast; and if they have no beast, they shall give 5s.

there is a verbatim transcript of this roll among Mr. Le Neve's Collections.

The heir of the tenant shall take his inheritance by fine, at the will of the lord.

And shall give for hegrynde* 20 Sd.

All bond tenants also shall make redemption of their blood, and shall not put themselves under the protection of any other lord.

Every heir (according to the custom) is of full age at 14 years.

The jury also present, that the whole manor is held of the heirs of the lord Thomas de Hastings, 717, of the lord Laurence de Hastings, as of the fee of the Abbot of St. Edmund's, by the service of one knight's fee, and no more.

And that one fee in East-Winch and Gayton-Thorp, were lately given by the ancestors of the aforesaid lord Thomas, in pure alms to the priory of Pentney, to be held of the manor of Gissing, and the said lord Thomas gave the said manor of Gissing, with the appurtenances, and the tenants in Middlton near Egton, and in East-Winch, and in Gayton-Thorp, to Sir Nicholas, his younger son, who was then a knight, and to his heirs; and this before the 31th of Henry III. all which he was to hold of the said Thomas, and his eldest son, and their heirs, for ever, by the service of one knight's fee; and that the said Nicholas, his heirs and assigns, should pay for the aforesaid Thomas de Hastings, and his heirs, to the Abbot of St. Edmund, every 20 weeks, 2s. 4d. for the castle-ward of St. Edmund, to Norwich castle, for these manors, for ever to continue. And they say, that in this manor there are certain tenements held of the heirs of Moutcheuse, as of the Outsoken of Winfarthing, 717, 30 acres of land, and 3 acres of wood, of which the heirs of Stephen de Brokedish held of the lord of this manor 24 acres.

The lord hath belonging to this manor liberty of faldage and closure through the whole town of Gissing, as well in other men's lands as in his own.

And also free-warren in his own lands.

And the correction of the assize of bread and ale of all his tenants; all which were allowed the said Sir Thomas de Hastings in an Eyre at Norwich, before Hugh Abbot of Bury, and his fellow justices, in the 12th of Henry III. which liberties the lord hath, and now doth peaceably enjoy.

In the rolls of the 9th of Edward III. the jury present, that William Goodwin, a villain by blood, (of the lord,) was a rebel, and ungrateful towards his lord, for which his tenement and all his goods in the lordship were seized, his offence was, that he falsely and maliciously said, that the lord received and maintained a thief, and knowingly kept four stolen sheep in his fold, by which the lord was damaged 10*l.*

In the 22d and 23d of Edward III. it appears, that all the tenements are heriotable, and 31 tenants paid their heriots this year.

Robert Roos (testator certis et et ale-commor.) was amerced for not doing his office.

The Le-Hard paid the lord 1s. for her use to marry.

Another paid 20s. that she might live out of the lordship, and marry whoever she would.

In the 32d Edward III. a tenant forfeited all his copyhold, only because he claimed to hold it free.

* It signifies a fine paid by the tenant to his lord, for defaming a bondswoman.

The widow of the copyholder, during the nonage of the heir, is his guardian by custom.

16th Edward IV. the manner of the lord's taking stray is thus set forth: a horse came within the jurisdiction of the manor, and was seized as a stray, and proclaimed according to custom, and nobody challenging him in a year and a day, he was appraised in open court, and sold.

I could not forbear observing these customs, because they shew us the former slavish condition of the villeins and copyholders.

GISSINGHALL MANOR IN GISSING,

Was held by Alstan, a freeman under Edric (the ancestor of Robert Malet,<sup>7</sup> lord of Eye) in the Confessor's days, and by William, (surnamed De Gissing,) of the said Robert, in the Conqueror's time,<sup>8</sup> as of the honour of Eye, and soon after the Conquest, the manor of Gissinghall in Roydon was joined, and constantly attended this manor till 1579.

The other parcels also were afterwards added to this manor, and that is the reason that it was partly held of Eye honour, and partly of the Abbot of Bury; for in Henry the Third's time it was thus distinguished:<sup>9</sup>

In 1179, WILLIAM DE GISSING held it; he left it to Bartholomew de Gissing, his eldest son, who, in 1189, sold his inheritance to Walter de Gissing, his brother; for in the Pipe Rolls of the 34th Henry II. and the 1st of Richard I. it is found, that Walter de Gissinges paid King Henry II. one mark, that it might be recorded in the great roll, that Bartholomew, his elder brother, and heir to his father, released his inheritance to him in the King's Court. This shews the regard which those times had for the Rolls of the Pipe, there being many instances in those Rolls of such entries, a collection of which hath been made, and several of them printed, by Mr. Maddox, in his History of the Exchequer. This Walter left it to

ROGER, his son, in 1198, at whose death it descended to

SIR ROBERT DE GISSING, Knt. his son, who settled Roydon on his wife Joan; by deed dated 1287, he confirmed to Thomas de Hastyns, and his heirs, for his homage and service, and two besants fine, all the tencement which the ancestors of Thomas held of his ancestors in this town. In 1286, he settled this manor on

SIR ADAM DE GISSING, his son, who the year after joined in a deed with his father, to settle Roydon on Joan, his mother, for life; in 1296 he had assize of bread and ale of all his tenants in this town. Agnes his wife seems to be the daughter of Matthew of Thelctham, of whom Matthew she is said to hold her tenement here, at a quarter of a fee, for whom it was settled for her use. In 1315, Gising and Roydon manors were conveyed by Nicholas de Straubete, and other trustees, to

Sir Robert, son of Sir Thom of Gising, who at his death left them to

Joys his widow, who kept court here in her own name, the two manors being settled on them and their heirs in tail. In 1322,

Sir Eustace, son of Sir Robert and Jean his wife, owned them; in 1307 he had great possessions in Cambridgeshire, being patron of Kilgoston, &c. He was in the army with Edward the Black Prince in Expeditio, during which time Thomas Montmorency of Verton in Cambridgeshire carried away his wife, for which, at his return, he recovered 100*l.* damages.<sup>1</sup> He attended the King into Gascony,<sup>2</sup> he had two wives, Agnes, who, jointly with him, conveyed the manor of Stantail to Sir Constantine de Montmor, Knt.; and Joan, who survived him. He died in 1382, and was (according to his will) buried in the collegiate church of the Blessed Virgin in the Fields, at Norwich, (now called Chapel Field.) In 1384, he granted divers lands in Gising by deed, to Thomas Gavaine, and Thomas his son. His wife lived to 1388, when she died,<sup>3</sup> ordering in her will that she should be buried in the same church, near the tomb of her husband Thomas. They left only one daughter, their heiress, viz. Joan, who kept her first court in 1382, on her father's death. This ancient family bore for their arms, arg. on a bend az. three eagles displayed or, membered and armed gul.

This Joys married Sir John Heveningham, senior, Knt. who gave Gising and Roydon to his sons, Philip and Thomas, for life only, remainder to his eldest son John and his heirs, but whether he possessed it or not I cannot say; but

Sir John Heveningham, Knt. grandson of the first John, had Gissingholt in Gising, which was formerly Agnes de Gising's, being partly held at a quarter of a fee of Julian, sister of John de Thelctham, and she of the Abbot of Bury, and he of the King, together with another manor here, called Dagworth's,<sup>4</sup> which he purchased, it being held at half a fee of the Lord Grey of Rathby, as of Haintworth Hall manor, which half fee Sir John Dagworth formerly held. This John left them to John Heveningham, Banneret, his son, from whom it went to Thomas, his eldest son, and from him to his son John, who left it to Anthony Heveningham, Knt. his son and heir, who had two wives, Katherine, daughter of Colthorpe; and Mary, daughter of John Shelton. He held his first court in 1581; by the first, he left only one son, Henry, in the first fee; the daughter of Sir Edmund Wytham, Knt.; secondly to Elizabeth, wife of Eden of Salthouse, but leaving no issue, the manors of Gising and Dagworth, and the manor of Greenbottle in Roydon, which was a fief of the Queen as of Ege honour, at a quarter of a fee, descended divisible between his three sisters ;<sup>6</sup>

MARY, then married to John Smyth,

ANNE, to Edward Everard, and

JANE, unmarried, who seems to have after married to Edward Suliard, who bought in all the parts, and then sold them to

Sir ARTHUR HEVENYNGHAM of Heveningham, Knt. who was the male heir of that family, being the eldest son of Sir Antony Heveningham, Knt. by his second wife. He kept his first court in 1579, and soon after manumised the manor in Gissing, by selling every tenant their own part, so that the united manors of Gissinghall and Dagworth's were lost,<sup>7</sup> all but the royalties and fair, which the said Arthur sold to Richard Kemp of Westbrook in Suffolk: but the manor of Gissinghall in Roydon still continued in him, though he manumised a great part of that also.<sup>8</sup>

DAGWORTH MANOR

Was, in the Confessor's time, part of Earl Algar's manor of Winfarthing, under whose sole protection the freemen then were; but upon the Earl's forfeiture, it fell to the Conqueror, with Winfarthing, with which it was committed to Godric's custody,<sup>9</sup> and remained in the Crown till King Henry II. in 1189, gave it to William de Munchensi, Knt. in which family it remained with Winfarthing, and went as that did, till Hugh de Vere granted it to

Sir JOHN DE DAGWORTH,<sup>1</sup> who was lord in 1315. Thomas, his son, succeeded him; and Sir Nicholas, his son, followed; all these were great men and famous warriors in their days, but designing to speak of them in Blickling, where they were lords, and where the said Sir Nicholas is buried, I shall refer you thither, and shall only add, that Eleanor,<sup>2</sup> widow of Nicholas, in the same year that he died, viz. 1401, conveyed it to

Sir JOHN HEVENYNGHAM, Knt. who held it of Winfarthing Hall manor, by the service of a quarter of a fee; from which time it always passed with the manor of Gissinghall in Gissing, till 1570, when HENRY, son of Antony Heveningham, died seized, and

ANNE, his wife, daughter of Sir Edward Wyndham, enjoyed it for life, as part of her settlement; at her death it reverted again to the Hevenyngams, of whom

Sir EDWARD SULLYARD purchased it with Gissinghall in Gissing, and Gissinghall in Roydon: he sold it to

Sir ARTHUR HEVENYNGHAM, Knt. who, after he had manumised great part of it, sold it with the manor of Gissinghall in Gissing, to

RICHARD KEMP of Westbrook, in Suffolk, and so, in 1595, it united to his other manors in this town.

DALLINGS, ALIAS DAWLING MANOR

STEPHEN FITZ-WALTER, one of the lords of Dun hundred, installed Walter Le-Bretone in the service of several villens of blood, belonging to Gissing, with a messuage, and the homage and service of William Taylor, and other free tenants, to hold them of him and his successors, lords of the hundred, at the rent of 6d. a year, payable at Whitsontide and St. Andrew's, and 2d. yearly at the shrine of St. Edmund the King and Martyr at Bury.<sup>1</sup> This Walter married Alberta, daughter of Sir Thomas, and sister of Sir Hugh Hastings, by whom he had Guido, or Guy, his son, who granted four of his villens, which Sir Thomas Hastings had granted with his mother, from his manor of Gissing, to Sir Hugh Hastings, Knt. son of Sir Thomas. In this family it continued till Henry Le-Bretun of Stanton-Wyck in Leicestershire, sold to Master RICHARD DE BOYLAND, clerk, and his heirs, the inheritance in this manor, which Eveline and Imy his aunts lately held; and towards the latter end of Henry III. the inquisition say, that Matild of Boyland had it. In 1283,

JOHN, son of Sir Richard of Boyland, after the death of Matild or Maud his mother, sold it to

SIMON DE DALLING, and Isabell his wife. This Simon purchased of Robert Le-Bretun of Stanton-Wyck, and Helen his wife, an annuity of 10l. rent, which he was to receive out of this manor, by the grant of his uncle, Robert Le-Bretun; and soon after, he purchased all his right in the manor; and to augment it, bought all the lands that John, son of Sir Richard de Boyland, had here: and to complete the title, they had a release from Isabell, widow of Robert Le-Bretun. Simon and Isabell left issue,

JOHN DE DALLING, or Wode-Dalling, who in 1335, settled it on Maud his wife; they left issue, a daughter, who seems to have married William of Shimpling,<sup>2</sup> who left a daughter by her, Joan, married to one Hervey; for in the inquisition taken at Will. de Shimpling's death, Joan Hervey is said to hold the sixth part of a fee of Will. Shimpling, which was formerly Matild of Boyland's. It looks as if she had no heirs, for

ROGER of SHIMPLING died seized, leaving three daughters, of which

KATHERINE, married to Wm. Elingham, had this manor; they left

ROGER their son and heir,<sup>3</sup> from whose descendants (if not from him) it came to

THOMAS GARDINER, who joined it to this manor of Hastings, with which it went joined to the

KEMPS; and thus having joined all these manors in that family, I shall now speak of their rise and descent, observing that this manor always continued in the oldest branch, except when it was held in jointure.

KEMP.

The name KEMP is derived from the Saxon word to kemp or combat which in Norfolk is retained to this day, a foot-ball match being called camping or kemping; and thus in Saxon a kempen signifies a combatant, a champion, or man of arms. This family hath been of long continuance in this county; Galfrid Kemp lived at Norwich in 1272, Robert Kemp in 1306, and soon after, or about that time, lived,

NORMAN KEMP, whose son

ROGER, left

RALPH, who married a daughter of De-la-Hant's.

WILLIAM KEMP, their son, married a daughter of one Barnstaple, or Bainspath, whose son,

ALAN KEMP of Weston in Suffolk, Esq. married Isabel, daughter to Sir Philip Hastings, and had issue John and Alexander, to which

JOHN, Sir Philip Hastings, his grandfather, in 1324, gave the manor of Gissing; this John married Alice, daughter to Robert Duke of Brampton in Suffolk, coheir to Julian Butevyleyn, and had for his share of her inheritance, the manors of Hastings and Dallings in Gissing, and left issue Robert, Ralph, John, Alice, and Anne. He is sometimes called in evidences John de Flordon, Esq.

ROBERT, the eldest, married Mary, daughter of Bartholomew White of Shottisham, Esq. He had another wife named Agnes, and a third, (as some pedigrees,) viz. Katherine, daughter of Roger Hankere of Redenhall; but left issue by Mary only, viz.

JAFFREY KEMP of Weston, Esq. who married the daughter of Sherington of Cranworth, Esq. and left issue,

ROBERT KEMP of Gissing, Esq. who married Margaret, daughter of William Curson of Sturston in Suffolk, and by her had issue, Robert; and Edmund, who married Elizabeth, daughter of John Style of London; John; and William, who was rector of Sturston: Ralph; and Cecily, who married John Melton of Sturston aforesaid; and Alice, a nun at Barking.

ROBERT KEMP of Gissing, Esq. the eldest son, had two wives: Elizabeth, daughter to John Appleyard of Braken-Ash, Esq. by whom he had three daughters, Mary, married to Thomas Jernegan of C. of Thelth, who was Lady of the Bedchamber to Queen Catherine in 1527, and died unmarried; and Anne, married to Richard B. of Thelth, in Norfolk. His second wife was Anne, daughter to John Clifford of Robishale, Esq. and by her he had issue, Elizabeth, and Margaret, married to Robert Blechisset of Princesburg, in Hampshire; Lucas, who had a remainder in tail in these manors; and Theresa, married to Richard Woodhall of Framstun, in Suffol.

Bartholomew, the eldest, kept his first court in 1527, and married Elizabeth, daughter to John Horn of Bury St Edmund's, Esq. and Cotland, his wife, daughter and heiress of William Gelding, by whom he had issue, Robert, Bartholomew, who married Barbara Sharp of Caubrotgeshale, Anthony, Edward, who married Mary, daughter to Edward De Grey of Merton in Norfolk, Esq. John, and unmarried, William, Frences, and Elizabeth, married to Thom. Theltherton of Thelth. This Bartholomew died in 1554, and was, according to his will, buried in St. Mary's chapel, on the north side of Channing chancel, by his wife. Their stones are disrobed of their brasses.

Robert Kyrre, Esq. succeeded, who had two wives, Elizabeth, daughter to Edmund Southwicke (or Saughting) of Buckinghamshire, by whom he had Richard, and John, first married to Anne, daughter of C. Caban of Weston in Suffolk. Secondly, to Anne, daughter to ----- Carthorp of Antingham in Norfolk; Margaret, married to Thomas Ruse of Cranford in Suffolk; and Anne, to Anthony Deury of Bethorp in Norfolk; his second wife was Elizabeth, daughter to Thomas De Grey of Merton in Norfolk, Esq. by whom he had three sons and one daughter; Thomas, married to Anne, one of the heiresses of John Moore; Robert, married one of the heiresses of William Stanton, Esq.; William, married Thomasine, daughter of William Haldgrace, Esq.; Elizabeth, married John, son and heir to Robert Barton, Esq. This Robert died seized of all the manors in this town in 1593, Elizabeth his wife surviving, who was jointured in Flordon manor.

Richard Kyrre, his eldest son and heir, married Elizabeth, daughter of John (or Phillip) Cockshon of Honstead in Widdesey, Esq. being 20 years old at his father's death, before which time he had settled his reversions in the manors of Flordon, Gissing, Dalling's, Batecyllop's, and Dezcoth, (which he had purchased,) together with Gissing Ten. on his wife. He was a barrister at law, and left

Robert Kyrre, Gent. his son and heir, who settled Flordon, Gissing, and Dalling's on his wife Dorothy, daughter of Arthur Harr of Witcham Martine, in Essex; and by an inquisition it appears, that he held Hastings's, alias Batecyllop's, alias Kemp's manor, of the King, as of his manor of St. Edmund's Bury by half a ten.; Dezcoth manor of Edmund Bekeham, Esq. as of his manor of Theltham; Dalling of John Sharchelove, Gent. as of his manor of Sheppington-Edingham; at the eighth part of a fee; Flordon manor and advowson of Henry Earl of Northampton, as of Tornet manor, &c.

<sup>1</sup> O. C. tells; he had more children: they died young and unmarried &c. &c. are not mentioned in this account, but one fee; and Burnett's of William Grey, Knt. as of Hadestun or Bunwell manor. He left two daughters, Dorothy and Elizabeth, and one son,

SIR ROBERT KEMP of Gissing, Knt. and Bart. created March 4, 1642;<sup>8</sup> he married Jane, daughter of Sir Matthew Browne of Surrey, Knt. and left Robert, Thomas, Matthew, then married, Richard, and Jane, married to Thomas Waldegrave of Smallbridge, Esq.

SIR ROBERT KEMP, Bart. had two wives; Mary, daughter of John Kerridge of Shelley Hall in Suffolk, Esq. by whom he had four children, but all died in their minority; his second wife was Mary, daughter and sole heiress to John Soame of Ubbeston in Suffolk, Gent. by whom he had issue, Robert, John, who died young, William,<sup>9</sup> who had Antingham in Norfolk given him by will, Mary, married to Sir Charles Blois of Cockfield in Suffolk, Bart. and Jane, married to John Dade, M. D. of Tannington in Suffolk.

SIR ROBERT KEMP of Ubbeston, in Suffolk, Bart. eldest son of the aforesaid Sir Robert, had four wives; first, Letitia, daughter to Robert King of Great-Thurlow, Esq. by Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Steward of Barton-Mills, Esq. widow to Sir Robert Kemp of Finchingfield in Essex, Knt. by whom he had one daughter only that survived, viz. Mary, married to Sir Edmund Bacon of Garboldisham in Norfolk, Bart; his second wife was Elizabeth, daughter of John Brand of Edwardston in Suffolk, by whom he had Sir Robert, the present Baronet, [1736,] John, a merchant, Isaac, a barrister at law, Thomas, now rector of Gissing and Flordon, and Benjamin of Cains College in Cambridge, Elizabeth, unmarried, and Jane, relict of William Blois, Esq. son of Sir Charles Blois, Bart. besides Edward, Letitia, and Anne, who died young. His third wife was Martha, daughter of William Blackwell of Mortlock in Surrey, by whom he had William, sometime of Pembroke Hall, in Cambridge, and Martha, a daughter unmarried, besides a former daughter named Martha, that died an infant. His fourth wife was Amy, daughter of Richard Phillips of Edwardston in Suffolk, widow of John Barrrough of Ipswich, Esq. who is now [1736] living; by her he had no issue.

SIR ROBERT KEMP, Bart. of Ubbeston in Suffolk is now [1736] lord and patron of Gissing, Flordon, and Frenze in Norfolk, and Ubbeston in Suffolk.

I meet with two great men of this name, John Kemp, born at Wye in Kent, LL. D. of Merton College in Oxford, Archdeacon of Durham, Dean of the Arches, first Bishop of Rochester, then of Chichester, then of London, Archbishop of York, and afterwards of Canterbury, Cardinal of St. Balbine, afterwards of St. Rufine, which was signified by this verse:

Bis Primas, Ter Præses, et Bis Cardine functus.

He died a very old man in 1453 (as Mr. Weaver, fol. 229, where is much more to be seen of him, as also in Nexcourt's Repertorium, vol. i. p. 22, and in Godwin, p. 248.) The other was Thomas Kemp, his nephew, who was consecrated Bishop of London in 1449, by his uncle the Archbishop, of whom you may read in Weaver, fol. 361, and in Nor-court, vol. i. fol. 23, and in Godwin De Præ &c. 183; but whether they were any way related to this family I cannot say.

THE HALL.

was an ancient building, being the seat of the HASTYNGSES, after of the KEMERS, till Sir Robert, (father of the present Sir Robert.) upon his removal to Ubboston, pulled it down. The windows were adorned with the following coats:

In a MSS. of Mr. Austin's CL. 20, fol. 29, these arms are said to be in Gissing Hall, at that time the seat of Richard Kemp, Esq.; when the chapel was new glazed, in the chamber by the hall door were the arms of Gissing, Elton, and Framingham, and the pictures of two laborers thrashing wheat-sheaves, or garbs, in allusion to Kemp's arms, and this coat, viz. Kemp quartering

Duke, and on an escutcheon of pretence Hastynge's arms.

Kemp's crest is a pole-arm lighting upon a garb or.

WINFARTHING.

THIS rectory is capable of augmentation, being sworn of the clear yearly value of 45l. The monks of Thetford had a portion of tithes here, formerly valued at 20s.<sup>4</sup> It is in Redenhall deanery, and Norfolk archdeaconry.

The Church is dedicated to St. Mary the Virgin, in honour of whose assumption there was a gild founded in it, and another to St. John Baptist, to both which, in 1548, Nath. Hallyet was a benefactor,<sup>5</sup> who at the same time founded a light of wax before the image of our Lady of Peace yearly, to the value of 2s. for which he tied a close called, Cockkys Close, for ever: he was buried in this church, which was confirmed by Henry II. to the monks of Butley in Suffolk, to whom it was soon after appropriated by John of Oxford, Bishop of Norwich, which was confirmed by John De Grey and Tho. de Blundevile, his successors; a pension of 26s. 8d. payable quarterly, being reserved out of the great tithes to the vicar; all which was several times confirmed by the Archbishops of Canterbury; and so it continued till 1424, and then Reginald De-Gray Lord Hastyns, &c. recovered the advowson from them, and presented a rector; from which time it hath continued a rectory. It seems they could produce no grant from the King for the advowson, nor no confirmation from the Pope of the appropriation. Here is a small rectory-house, barn, stable, back-house, and 24 acres glebe, and a piece without contents.

In the south isle there is a black marble for Elizabeth Belville, alias Michell, who died April 5, 1683, aged 43.

Modesty, sobriety, and grace,
Was the ornament, of her face.

Here was a clock formerly, which now stands disused in the south aisle; and in a chapel at the upper end thereof was placed a famous sword, called the Good Sword of Winfarthing, of which Becon, in his Reliques of Rome, (printed in 1563,) to. 91, gives us the following account.

In Winfarthing, a little village in Norfolk, there was a certenne sword, called the Good sword of Winfarthing, this sword was counted so precious a relique, and of so great virtue, that there was a solemn pilgrimage used unto it, with large gittes and offerings, with vow makings, crouchings, & kissings: This sword was visited far and near, for many & sundry purposes, but specially for thinges that were lost, and for horses that were either stolen or else run astray, it helped also unto the shortning of a married mans life, if that the wife which was weary of her husband, would set a candle before that sword every Sunday for the space of a whole yeare, no Sunday excepted, for then all was vaine, whatsoever was done before.

I have many times heard (says that author) when I was a child, of diverse ancient men and women, that this sword was the sword of a certenne thief, which took sanctuary in that church yard, and after wards through the negligence of the watchmen escaped, and left his sword behind him, which being found, and laid up in a certaine old chest, was afterward through the suttility of the parson and the clerk of the same parish, made a precious relique, full of vertue, able to do much, but specially to cure the bot, and make fat the parson's pouch.

Algar, a freeman of Heralds held all Wineferthing as one manor in the Confessor's time, when it contained 6 carucates of land, two in demean, and four among the tenants: at the survey it was in the Conqueror's own hands, and then extended into Burston, Shimpling, Litshall, and Shelfhanger; it was valued in the first survey at 40s. and by the Conqueror at 8*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* with the freemen; he committed it to Godric's care, who answered 7*l.* and no more. It was two miles long, and one mile broad, and paid 9*l.* geld.<sup>2</sup>

This town is privileged as ancient demean, the tenants being excused from serving as jurors at the sessions or assizes, or any where else out of the manor, and from toll in markets and fairs, upon renewing their writ every King's reign, and having it annually allowed by the sheriff of the county.

It remained in the Crown till King Henry II. gave it to

Sir WILLIAM DE MONTE-CANISO, (or Munchensie.) Knt. who gave a 100 marks to have seizin of this manor in 1189. He was grandson to Hubert Munchensy, who lived in the Conqueror's time, and son of Warine de Munchensy, and Agnes, daughter of Pain Fitz-John, his wife, and brother to RALPH, who died without issue, and left Sir WARINE, his cousin, his heir, he married Joan, second daughter to William Marshal Earl of Pembrook, and in 1222, had seutage of all his tenants that held by military service in Norfolk, Suffolk, &c. ; and in 1241, he was at that famous battle of Xantoiné, against the French ;<sup>1</sup> in which, by his valiant deportment, he won great renown. In the 34th of Henry III. the King ratified to him all the liberties belonging to the lauds of Ralph de Munchensy, his uncle, whose heir he was, all which were first granted by King Henry II. ; among which, the tenants here were excused from the sheriff's turn, and from toll, and from serving upon any juries out of their manor, and he had assize of bread, ale, and wine, with court-leet <sup>2</sup> allowed him, and this further privilege, that the King's bailiffs should not enter his bailiwick of Winfarthing to take any distress, but the bailiff of that bailiwick should do it. He died in 1255, being then reputed one of the most noble, prudent, and wealthy men of all the realm, his inventory amounting to 4000 marks, a prodigious sum for that time. He left

WILLIAM, his son, his heir, who had a park well stocked with deer in this parish. In 1259, in the 46th of Henry III. he was one of the discontented barons then at difference with the King, upon which account he received notice, that in case he did not personally repair to the court, to sign the agreement, (as divers of them did,) he might send his seal, for the better confirmation thereof ; and in the 48th of the same King, having been one of the chief commanders on the part of the rebellious Barons in that fatal battle of Leaves, where the King was made their prisoner, the next year, when they summoned a parliament in the King's name, he was one of the chief of those Barons that then sat therein, but not long after this, being taken at Kentworth, in that notable surprise made by the forces of Prince Edward, a little before the battle of Leesham, his lands were seized, and given to William de Valence, half brother to the King, and Earl of Pembrook, who had married his sister Joan; whereupon Dionisia, his mother, who was daughter and heir of Nicholas de Anesty, undertook to bring him, before the feast of St. Hillary, in the 51st year of that King, to stand to the judgment of the King's Court, in pursuance of the decree called Dictum de Kentworth, but being not able to perform it within that time, by reason of his sickness, she promised to bring him upon that very day, when he had such fair respect shewn him for his sister's sake, that William de Valence, her husband, freely restored him his lands again; after which, in 1277, he had a full pardon for his rebellion, and all the liberties granted by King Henry II. to his ancestors, confirmed at large, with this additional one, that he might keep dogs to hunt the hare, fox, and wild cat in his forests. In 1289, he went with the Earl of Cornwall (then governour of the realm in the King's absence) into Wales against Res Ap Griffith, at that time in the castle of Drosselau; (who had made great depredations in those parts;) and as he, with divers others, endeavoured to demolish that castle, by undermining it, he was with them overwhelmed and killed with the fall thereof, at whose death, Dionisia, his mother, had custody of his daughter and heirress, named also

DIONISIA; and immediately after Hugh de Vere, a younger son to Robert Earl of Oxford, who was then the King's servant, obtained license, and married her in 1296; and in consideration of his great services in the French wars, had hery of her inheritance; Dionisia, her grandmother, being then living, who being a devout woman, founded Waterbiche nunnery in Cambridgeshire, in 1293; she died in 1303, and her lands descended to

HUGH DE VERE, who had no issue by his wife Dionisia, so that her inheritance reverted to William de Valence, who had married Joan, sister to the last William de Munchensi, who, after the death of the said Hugh, had view of frankpledge, assize of bread and ale, and a tumbrel, or cucking-stool, allowed to this manor. And thus much of the ancient family of the Munchensis.<sup>3</sup>

WILLIAM DE VALENCE Earl of Pembrook died seized, in right of Joan his wife, aunt to the last Dionisia, and sister to William de Munchensi, leaving

AUDOMAR, or Ajmer, de Valence Earl of Pembrook, his heir; who, in 1321, held it by one fee of the barony of Munchensi, and the manor or tenement called Hey-wood, of Robert Fitz-Walter, by the fourth part of a fee. He died in 1323, leaving no male issue, so that his sisters inherited, and this manor was allotted to

ISABELL, who married John Hastings Lord Abergavenny, by whom he had

JOHN DE HASTINGS, who succeeded him, and Elizabeth, a daughter, married to Roger Lord Grey of Ruthin; John was succeeded by his son,

LAURENCE, who was five years old at his father's death, and by the King's license was in the custody of Julian his mother, who within a year after her first husband's death, married to Thomas le Blount, after whose death she married a third time to William de Clinton Earl of Huntingdon; this Earl, in 1351, is said to hold the manors of Winfarthing and Heywood, as guardian to the said Laurence, who, as soon as he came of age, was declared Earl of Pembrook, and the year following, being the 14th of Edward III. he attended the King in that great adventure against the French at sea, where he worthily shared in the glory of that victory obtained against them near Sluys in Flanders: but this was not the only brave action of this Earl, for he behaved himself valiantly all his life, as we find in Dugdale's Baronage, (p. 576,) where his brave achievements, and those of his family, are amply treated of. He died in 1347, leaving

JOHN HASTYNGS Earl of Pembrook, his son and heir, who married Anne, daughter of Sir Walter Manny, Knt. Being very active in the French wars, in 1371, he was made Lieutenant of Aquitain, at the special request of the inhabitants of that province, and was then about 25 years old; but unlucky it was for him that he had that honour, for upon his coming to the port of Rochell, which was then beleaguered by the French, no sooner was he got into the haven, but the Spanish fleet fell upon him, before he could put his men in order to fight, so that he was taken prisoner, his ships burnt, and all the English killed or taken, with no less than 20,000 marks, sent over by the King to maintain the war. After he had undergone four years imprisonment, with most inhumane usage, for a sum of money he was to have been enlarged, upon which he came to Paris, where falling sick, he hastened to Calais, but died on his journey, April 16, 1374, seized of these manors, which, among others, were assigned to

ANNE, his widow, for her dower: she died in 1383,

JOHN DE HASTYNGS, their son, being then about eleven years old. This John, at the coronation of Richard II. (being then not five years old,) claimed to carry the great golden spurs, and shewing sufficient evidence of his right to do that service, Edmund Earl of March (whose daughter Phillipa he married) was allowed to perform it for him, by reason of his minority. He had no issue; for in the 13th Richard II. being then but seventeen years old, the King keeping his Christmass at Woodstock, and holding a tournament there, this young earl ventured to tilt with Sir John St. John, by an unlucky slip of whose lance he was run into the bottom of his belly, upon which his bowels burst out, and he soon died, to the great grief of many, being a person of so noble a disposition, that for bounty, manhood, and courtesy, he exceeded all of his age, and most of his degree. His untimely death was, at that time, thought a judgment upon his family, in regard that Aymer de Valence Earl of Pembrook, his ancestor, was one of those that passed sentence of death upon Thomas Earl of Lancaster at Pontfract; for it was observed, that after that judgment so given, none of the succeeding Earls of Pembrook ever saw his father.<sup>5</sup> At his death,

REGINALD Lord Grey of Ruthyn was by some inquisitions found to be his cousin, and heir of the whole blood, as descended lineally from Elizabeth, sister to John d. Hastings, father of John, grand-father of this Earl; and by other inquisitions, Hugh de Hastings, son of Hugh, son of Hugh, son of the same J. in de Hastings, by Isabel, the daughter of Hugh Le Desp'cher, his second wife, was found his heir male, but of the half blood, for which reason he did not inherit, though there was a great struggle for it, as there was for the arms of the Hastings, between Edward Hastings, great-grandfather to this Hugh, and Reginald Lord Grey of Ruthyn; it lasted little less than twenty years, in the Count, before the Countess and Marshal of England, and in the end, the said Edward, though he was heir male, was not only condemned in 1079, 17s. 10d. costs, (Grey swearing that he had spent 1000 marks more,) but he was imprisoned sixteen years for disobeying that sentence, which was reputed a very hard and unjust one, and so Hastings thought it, for with extreme anguish of mind he died, leaving God's curse, and his own, upon his descendants, if they did not attempt the vindication of their right.

But to return, Roger Lord Grey of Ruthyn, by the said Elizabeth Hastings, had Reginald Lord Grey, whose son

REGINALD inherited; and from an extent of this manor it appears, that there was then a hall, or manor-house, with a park well stocked with deer, all which were nothing worth above their outgoings, and repairs; and another enclosure, called a park, fenced in with pales, containing above 80 acres of arable land, worth 2d. each acre; that there were 8 acres meadow, worth 8d. each acre; that the quitrents were 10l. besides 600 days works in winter, worth a half-penny each day; and 300 days works in autumn, worth 1d. each day; together with a wood called Hulker Wood, the underwood of which was worth 12s. a year; there was also a chase upon Winfarthing Common and Benham Green, worth 6d. a year; a windmill worth 2s. a year; the suits and perquisites of the courts worth 1s. 6d. a year clear. But though the Lord Grey inherited the rest of the Earl of Pembroke's estate, this and Hogwood manors were in dower, and held by Philippa, widow of the last earl, till 1400, in which year she died, having enjoyed it, notwithstanding Edward Hastings' claim. He married Margaret, daughter of Sir William de Roos, by whom he had John, who married Constance, daughter of John Holland Duke of Britany, and relict of Thomas Mowbray Earl-Marshal; he died before his father, leaving two sons, Edmund and Thomas, at his grand-father's death which was in 1400.

EDMUND became heir to his father and estate; he married Catherine, daughter to Henry Percy Earl of Northumberland, and in the 14th of Edward IV. was created Earl of Kent; at his death in 1458, he left these manors in dower to Catherine, his widow, who died about 1500; and then they went to

GEORGE Earl of Kent, their son, who by suffering a recovery, settled it on King Henry VII. for payment of a great debt, with a remainder to himself and his heirs. After this, it was settled on Catherine, his second wife, who enjoyed it for her life; and then it went to

RICHARD GREY Earl of Kent, who died in 1523, having greatly wasted his estate. This and Heywood was part of the jointure of Elizabeth his wife; but in 1505, with her and her trustees consent, he sold them to

ROBERT LE'STRANGE, and his heirs, and a fine was levied accordingly, viz. of 2800 acres of land, 30*l.* rent in Winfarthing, Diss, Shelfanger, Titshall, and Bokenham castle; and thus it passed from that family;<sup>7</sup> this Robert Le'Strange dying seized, and left it to

JOHN LE'STRANGE, his executor, to sell, of whom it was purchased by

THOMAS Duke of Norfolk, from which time it went with that family, till Thomas Earl of Arundel and Surrey sold this and Heywood, about 1643, to

SIR JOHN MARSHAM of Cuckstone in Kent, Bart. who died seized in 1692, leaving it to his son,

SIR JOHN MARSHAM, Bart. who died under age, and unmarried, in 1694, so that it came to

SIR ROBERT MARSHAM, Bart. in 1697; he was one of the six clerks in Chancery, and uncle to Sir John; he was succeeded by

SIR ROBERT MARSHAM, his son, who, by letters patent, was created Baron of Romney in Kent, and, in 1720, obtained an Act of Parliament to sell this estate, and to settle another in Kent already purchased, to the same uses; upon which it was vested in

In Queen Elizabeth's time there was a great suit for these manors, between the Earl of Surrey, who recovered, and the Earl of Kent, at which time Heywood manor was 26*l.* and Winfarthing 14*l.* per annum.

The lect belonged to the court-baron,<sup>9</sup> and the courts of the insoken and outsoken of this manor extended into Brisingham, Kenninghall, &c.

Here were two parks, viz. the old and new park, and the rector had the herbage of both, for the composition of which 29*s.* 4*d.* was paid him; the rent of Hulker Wood was 6*d.* To this manor belongs Banham Heath, a great part of which lies in Diss hundred, which is divided by the Mere called the Hundred Mere, which divides the hundreds of Diss, Shropham, and Giltercross; and the drift of it, as far as that Mere belongs to Winfarthing, and is in the bounds of that

In 1604, this park was full of deer, and Sir Bawingbourn County of West-Herling, Knt. had every year a tee doe and buck, and liberty of hunting the m in that park, which was then my Lord of Arundell's.

This parish hath lands belonging to it, now [1736] let at 16*l.* per annum, of the gift of divers persons, out of which 2*l.* 11*s.* (called taxes and tithe's gitts) is annually at Easter to be divided among such poor as are not collectors, by the rector and churchwardens, the rest was given to repair the church. They have also three town-houses, one hath an acre of land adjoining to it, and another was the old Gildhall, the lands of which gild, were seized by the Crown, and were given by Queen Elizabeth, in the 27th year of her reign, to the Hallpats.

In 1600, there were 189 communicants, and now there are 50 dwelling-houses, and about 200 inhabitants. It paid 1*l.* 10*s.* to the tenths, was valued at 1236*l.* to the parliament valuation, and now at 9*l.* to the land tax. [1736.]

The CUSTOMS OF THE MANOR are these: the eldest son is heir; the fine is at the lord's will; it gives no dower; the tenants build up, pull down, plant on the waste, and fell timber, without license.

The leet belongs to the hundred.

THE CUSTOMS OF THE RECTORY were first exempted A° 45 Eliz. and after that A° 8 James I. 7 June, and are these:

They pay 1*d.* a year for each cow, in lieu of lactage.

For every calf under seven, 1 ob. the seventh being due in kind to the rector, he allowing 1 ob. for each calf above seven, and under ten.

Instead of tithing hay, or herbage, the parishioners pay 2*d.* an acre to the rector, except all tithing hay growing on the common meadows, which is due in kind.

They pay for every coal 1*d.* a year, till it comes to work.

And for every heifer 1*d.* a year, till it is milked, or otherwise converted.

Every inhabitant on All-Saint's Day pays 1 ob. in lieu of all tithing for fruit, and all fuel spent in the town.

Tithing pease are due every tenth sheaf, as soon as they are cut by the owner; all corn, and other small and great tithing whatsoever, are due in their proper kind, the small tithing on Lammas Day, the rest as they are separated.

DICKLEBURGH

Is a large parish, containing the whole town of Semere,<sup>2</sup> which, at the Conquest, was as large as Dickleburgh itself, to which it is now a hamlet. This town was anciently divided into four parts or portions, each of which had a rector of its own, and served in their turns in Dickleburgh church. The first portion was called sometimes Fouldon, sometimes the Portion in the Marsh, (it being the lowest part of the town,) sometimes the Portion of Henry, who was rector in 1256, but most commonly, the Portion of Richard, who was rector of it when the Lincoln taxation was made, it being then valued at x. marks; out of this portion the Abbot of Bury had an annual pension of xv.s. The second was called, the Portion in the Fields, (it being the upper part of the town,) sometimes the Portion of Henry,<sup>3</sup> and sometimes Culphoe's Portion, John de Culphoe being rector at the Lincoln taxation,<sup>4</sup> and John of St. Edmund's Bury, at the Norwich taxation, when it was valued at c.s. and paid a pension to the Abbot of St. Edmund of ix.s. yearly. The third portion belonged to that part of the town which is now called Langmere,<sup>5</sup> and is still a hamlet belonging to it, all which lies in the hundred of Earsham, and hath a separate leet, which now belongs to Dickleburgh Hall manor, and its jurisdiction extends to all that part of the town which lies in Earsham hundred. The leet and royalties of the other part in Diss hundred belonging at this time to the lord of the hundred, but there are no leet fees due to either of them; this was in the Conquest included in Semere, of which it was near the half, and was given to Butley priory, after the decease or cession of Ranulf the chaplain, who had been presented thereto by William de Aubervil, and Maud his wife, which Maud was daughter to Ranulf de Glanvil, and belonged to the land that the said Ranulf held of Thomas Noell; at the Norwich taxation it was valued at x. marks, and in the Lincoln at xiii. marks; it was appropriated to that convent about 1180, by John of Oxford, Bishop of Norwich, without any vicar to be endowed, they being obliged to find a stipendiary chaplain only, who was to administer the sacrament, and perform all duties to the parishioners of that portion only;<sup>6</sup> this was confirmed by several Archbishops of Canterbury, and by Thomas de Grey, and Thomas de

<sup>3</sup> This was one Henry Freeman, who was rector of it in 1231, in which year there was a fine levied, to confirm the agreement made between the Abbot and him, the Abbot remitting to him and his tenants of the rectory manor, the services of carrying part of the Abbot's wine from Norwich, or Yarmouth, to Palgrave Bridge, and from paying part of the tallage of Titshall, for a yearly pension of 15s. 1d. ob. per annum to be paid to Bury monastery for ever.

Winkleyde, or Biericote, Bishops of Norwich; and thus it continued till 1324, when it was disappropriated by consent of all parties, and consolidated to the other Portions, the Abbot of Bury giving the prior security that the future rectors should ever pay to that priory, a yearly pension of v. 4l. a year, clear of all service due from the said portion. The prior also had lands in this part of the town, given by King de Colant, which were taxed at 1d. ob. The fourth Portion was called Somere,<sup>2</sup> and contained the other half of Somere, that lay in Desshundred, and was some times called Matthew's Portion, from Matthew; who was rector of it at the Norwich taxation, when it was taxed at vj. marks; it was after named Alexander's Portion, but most commonly John's Portion, from John de Hemenhale, who was rector of it at the Lincoln taxation, in which it is valued at 6 marks and an half; this portion was of the smallest value, because it was chargeable with a pension, (valued in the Norwich taxation at 8s. and in the Lincoln at 10s.) payable every year, to the Prior of St. Faith's at Horsham; concerning this pension, I find in a register formerly belonging to Bury abbey,<sup>3</sup> a grant made by Reginald, Prior of St. Faith's, to Sir Ralph Hemenhale, parson of the fourth part of Deckleburgh, and his successors for ever, of two parts of the tithes of the demesns formerly of Sir William de Chequy, of the fee of his barony of Horsford in this town, by the authority and consent of Ralf de Walpole Bishop of Norwich, and his chapter, for the annual payment of 10s. sterling, which tithes were given by the said William to that monastery; all which demesns, with their several quantities, names, and tenants, are recited therein. The deed was sealed by the Bishop, the Abbot, the Prior of St. Faith's, the Rector, and the Prior of Norwich; and for this pension the Prior was to allow and pay 4d. tenths.<sup>4</sup> The two Portions called Louddon and Somere were consolidated in 1320,<sup>5</sup> and in 1339, they were consolidated to the Portion in the Fields; and in 1353, the appropriation of Langmere Portion being resigned, it became one rectory, chargeable with the annual pensions of 3s. 4d. to the Prior of Batley, 10s. to the Prior of St. Faith's, and 24s. 1d. ob. to the Abbot of Bury; and hath so continued ever since.

This advowson, with the manor now called TIT RECTORY MANOR, was procured by Sigard, a monk of Bury, at which time it belonged to the manor of Tatshall,<sup>6</sup> and with that was given to this monastery, there being at that time only one chaplain or parish priest, but before the Conquest, the Abbot had given the manor to the church, and intitled it in two priests, who held it at the survey; these, with the parochial priest, made three portions, all which were in the presentation of the Abbot of Bury till the Dissolution,<sup>7</sup> each rector having a house, with a carucate of land, a third part of the manor, (which they divided,) and the tithes of their separate portions; at the Dissolution, the advowson went to the Crown, and was granted, in 1536, to Thomas and James Bacon, Esq. and the heirs of Thomas; in 1547, they aliened it to Nicholas Bacon, Esq. and his heirs; and he, in 1550, to Thomas Godsalve and his heirs, who, in 1557, sold it to William Mingay, and he soon after to Stephen Lacy, Gent. and he to John Whitman, who, in 1567, aliened it to Charles Le-Grice, Esq. and his heirs, who kept it but a little while; for in 1570, it belonged to John and Thomas Whipple, and John Whipple of Pulham-Market, in which family it continued some time; for in 1603, William and Thomas Whipple were patrons, who left it to their daughters; the one married to Robert Boicns, the other to George Gawdie, both which held it in their wives' right in 1632,<sup>8</sup> from whom it came (I suppose by sale) to Thomas Buxton, who at his death left it to Thomas, his son, and he dying without issue, left it to his wife, and her heirs; and soon after it belonged to one Congham of Wells, of whom George Chamberlain, D. D. Fellow of Trinity-College in Cambridge, purchased it, and presented his nephew Samuel Needham to it, after whose death he gave it to the Senior Fellow of Trinity-College for ever.

The rector hath a good house and 80 acres of land adjoining to it, together with the RECTORY MANOR, the CUSTOM of which is, that the copyhold descends to the youngest son, and the fine is at the lord's will. It is in the deanery of Redenhall, and archdeaconry of Norfolk, and liberty of his Grace the Duke of Norfolk, and is thus valued, the pensions being bought off:

<sup>1</sup> He was secretary to Bishop Walter Lyhart, rector of Hevingham, and prebendary of the college of Stoke-Clare, rector of Rollesby; (for which church he resigned this;) he willed to be buried in this chancel, under a black marble stone prepared, with an inscription thereon put, with mention of John Bulman, his father, and Beatrix, his mother, who are there buried. He gave divers vestments to keep his and their obits, and a pair of silver candlesticks, weighing 60 ounces, a little silver cross gilt, a gilt silver cup, two osculatories of silver, two crewets of silver, his best missal, altar-clothes, &c. and ordered a priest to officiate five years after his death, for his and his father's and mother's souls, and his good lords, Thomas Browne, and Walter Lyghert, formerly Bishops of Norwich, Richard Hedge, William Ivot, and Margaret his wife, and Stephen Brasier, and all his benefactors.

1647, Trinity-Church had it, at the dispossession of Mr. Barnard;<sup>2</sup> he signed the attestation of the ministers of this county, A. 1648.

1662, Mr. Barnard was restored, and the 22d. Sept. in this year, he subscribed the Articles, being at that time master of arts.<sup>3</sup>

The Rev. John Baker, D. D. the present [1756] rector, succeeded at the death of Dr. Whitfield. TRINITY-COLLEGE, Cambridge, patrons.

In 1643, Christopher Barnard, " was dispossessed by the Earl of " Manchester, who tendered him the covenant, and offered him to " keep his place if he would take it, both which he generously re" fused, and by necessary consequence brought on himself the " common calamities and fate which then attended loyalty and " fidelity to his Majesty, for his house was plundered and filled of a " great deal of plate, linen, and other goods, he was also seized and " dragged away towards Norwich castle, but by his excellent life and " doctrine, he had so much recommended himself to his parishioners,
 " that they thought a greater judgment could not befall them, than
 " to loose him, and so by consent they followed the party that had " him in custody, and rescued him: they also gave this further testi" mony of their affection towards him, that when the villains had
 " designed to plunder his house a second time, unknown to him,
 " they voluntarily went, and by force secured the remainder of his " goods in their own houses, and even the very women and children
 " assisted in this perilous undertaking, to the manifest hazard of " their safety, perhaps of their lives, if it had been discovered. He " had at the time of his sufferings, a wife, and at least three young " children, which helped to compleat his misery, and sufficiently " aggravated the barbarities which were exercised upon him: 'tis " remarkable he had always a firm persuasion of his Majesty's " Restoration, which he afterwards lived to see, and was himself
 " one of the first ministers restored in this county, after which he " enjoy'd his rectory 20 years, and having been admitted about the " year 1629, and not dying 'till 1680, (in the 84th year of his age)
 " he must in all have been rector of it near 60 years."

Thus far Mr. Hather, in which account there are some small errors, all which may be corrected by this inscription on his stone in the church, c. 7.

The Church is a regular building, having its nave, two isles, with a chapel at the east end of each of them; the chancel, vestry, and south porch all covered with lead, a square tower and five bells at its west end, on the second, third, and fourth bells are these verses:

2. Sonitus Egidi accendit ad Culmina Celi.
3. Dulcis Sisto melis, Campana vocor Michaelis.
4. Sum Rosa pulsata mundi, Maria vocata.

It is dedicated to the honour of all the Saints, and had a gild held in the south isle chapel, which acknowledged St. Peter and Paul for their patrons. The guildhall now stands on the west side of the churchyard, and is used as a town-house.

The following arms were in this chancel as Mr. Anstis's MSS. tell us:

Bishop LYHART, ar. a bull passant in a bordure sab. bezanté.

England with a label of five az.

Wakering, ar. three falcons leures sab.

And in the upper windows of the church there still remain the cross-swords and cross-keys, the emblem of St. Peter and Paul, the patrons of the gild, the emblems of the Trinity and of the Sacrament; the instruments of the Passion; the arms of Bury abbey; of the East-Angles; and of St. George, and also an imperfect coat of three escalops, the arms of the bishoprick. Erm. a fess lozenge gul. Gul. a fess ar. Az. a cross floree between five martlets or.

Round the step of the font is this:

On a stone in the middle aisle near the pulpit,
1720 Arms, with a crescent for difference. Crest, from a coronet a demi-eagle displayed.

Anne the wife of William Owls, minister of Billington, daughter of Thomas Sayer, was buried here in 1620, as appears by a circumscription on a stone in the altar rails.

On a black marble in the chancel:

Arms are, a bend between two cottises ingraled, impaling a lion rampant.

On the north side of the chancel is a noble mural monument, of various sorts of marble, with a lady holding a book, and under her the following inscription:

In July 1651, he put into the Port of Messina with a very rich Prize, and posted to the Court at Palermo, where he met with an Hon<sup>ble</sup> Reception, for the several good Services he had performed, but at 4 Days End, he there fell ill of a violent Fever, wherof within 8 Dayes he died, aged about 35 Years, and by the Princes Order, had an honourable Interment & much lamented there, but much greater cause at Home, leaving no Issue, but a sorrowful Wid<sup>ow</sup> & sad Childless Parents; the said Dame Frances dyed at Billingford-Hall the 9th of Sept. 1659, from whence by her own desire she was brought, and interred in this Parish, to which she often manifested a Charitable Affection.

On the east side of this monument is an ancient painting on the wall, half of which hath been lately renewed, viz: CHRIST bearing his cross, the other part that is still obscure, I take to be CHRIST rising from his sepulchre.

The plate belonging to the altar is very fine; the flaggon holds about two quarts, on which is this

The cup is a very good one, and was purchased by the parish in Queen Elizabeth's time, together with a neat small salver for its cover, on it is this,

THE TOWN LANDS AND GIFTS

Are, a messuage called Clerks, and a close adjoining, lying in Thorp-Abbots, abutting on the highway south, and the common called Thorp Green, and a close called Langlound, north, and abuts west on Thorp Green, and also one acre in Thorp, the west head abuts on Thorp globe, and also a piece of meadow in Thorp, together with 14 acres in Titshall, all being freehold; the Thorp lands were given by John Bilborne, chaplain, anno 1483, and the Titshall lands by William Hopt of Dickleburgh, anno 1484, and were all settled by deed of entailment, dated Febr. 10, 1500, to the use of all the inhabitants of the town and parish of Dickleburgh,<sup>2</sup> as well those that inhabit in the greater part of it, which is in the hundred of Dysey, as those that inhabit in the hamlets of Langmore and Lancroft, which lie in the hundred of Hersham, towards the payment of the tallages and interchests of our Sovereign Lord the King, on this condition, that the sixth part of the profits shall go towards discharging the hamlets aforesaid. This land now belongs to the parish.

They have also a pightle of one acre, called Dove-house Pightle, and a close of two acres, called the Wain Close, both which belonged to the gild, and were purchased by the parish with the gild-hall.

"monstre of silver gilt, to be made by the executor's advice, to serve in the church for the sacrament to be borne in, to be ministred to the parishioners for ex. 1, and a vestment of white bandkyn, a pair of Latin candlesticks to stand in the cancel, and a vestment of red and blew to Shymplyng church."

There is a gift also of 20s. a year, called Chapman's Dote, paid out of lands in Burston, which was given by Ralph Chapman, anno 1618.<sup>1</sup>

THE EARL'S, OR DICKLEBURGH HALL MANOR,

Was the most considerable in this town, (except that which was granted by the Abbot to the rectory,) though its beginning was very small, as we learn from Domesday;<sup>2</sup> but soon after the Conquest it was enlarged, by the Abbot's infeoffing the Earl of Norfolk, in this part, and all those lands, services, &c. which belonged to the Abbot's capital manor, and were not granted with the rectory manor; and in this family it continued, till the death of Roger Bygod, the last Earl of that line, who held it jointly with Alice his wife in the year 1306, at which time it contained 180 acres of land in demean, 7 of meadow, 7 of pasture, 40 acres wood, 2 windmills, &c. and was held of Robert Fitz-Walter, lord of Diss hundred, at 2s. per annum rent, paid to his hundred of Diss, to which the leet of this part always did, and now [1736] doth belong. This Roger died in the 35th of Edward I. without issue, upon which it came to the Crown, and was granted anno 6th Edward II. to Thomas de Brotherton, Earl-Marshal, with the barony of the Bygods; in 1315, the Countess-Marshal had it. In 1351, John Lord Segrave of Fulkestone in Kent had it, in right of Margaret his wife, daughter of Thomas de Brotherton. In 1360, Edward Mountague,<sup>3</sup> (or de Monte Acuto;) and Alice his wife, one of the daughters and heirs of Thomas de Brotherton, held one moiety as part of the barony of that Earl, and Joan their daughter, then wife of William Ufford, was their heir. In 1371, Walter Mauney, Knt. held the other moiety in right of Margaret his wife, late wife of John Lord Segrave, and one of the heiresses of Thomas de Brotherton. In 1381, William de Ufford Earl of Suffolk died seized of one part: and in 1399, Thomas de Mowbray Duke of Norfolk, who had been banished for speaking disgracefully of King Richard II. <sup>4</sup> died in banishment at Icnice, of the plague, in his return from Jerusalem, seized of this among other manors in 1406, and it was after held by Elizabeth his widow, who after married to Sir Gerard de Uffete, and died July 8, in the 3d year of King Henry VI. leaving it to John Mowbray Duke of Norfolk, who, in 1432, held it as of Forucet manor; and in this family it continued till the male issue failed, and then it descended to the Howard family, and continued in it till seized by Queen Elizabeth in 1572, upon the Duke of Norfolk's attainder; notwithstanding which, in 1576, Nov. 17, William Dyx of Wickmere, Esq.; and William Canterell of Norwich, (Gent. as trustees to the Norfolk family) let to Thomas Whipple of Dickleburgh, Gent. the liberty of fishing and fowling in Semere Moor, and the Damm's Dyche in Dickleburgh, that is, as much as to that manor belonged, for 21 years, at 3s. 4d. a year. Lord* kept their first court, as trustees to that family, and in 1005 they afterwards sold it, with their consents, and by their order. In 1006, J. de L. Esq. (L. Gent. was lord), and in 1019, Fluke Lawrence, Esq. kept court here. In 1034, Joh. Lindall kept his first court, which was conveyed to him by Fluke Lawrence. In 1039, M. de L. Esq., widow, kept her first court, and in 1057, Robert C. Esq., clerk, had his first court, in 1058, he leased it to Thomas Burton, Gent. and John C. Esq., in 1060, Anne Consham, widow, was lady of it, in 1077, Thomas Burton, and Robert Howard, Gent. kept court, and in 1081, John N. Esq., clerk, was lord. In 1072, Anne Noblet, widow, in 1078, Thomas Burton, Esq., in 1081, Thomas Burton, Gent. had his first court, in 1098, Elizabeth Burton, widow, in 1700, John Michael, clerk, in right of his wife, in 1710, Elizabeth Michou, widow, who during her widowhood granted it to Samuel N. Esq., clerk, rector of Dickleburgh, and his heirs, after her decease; who at his death gave it to Luiza N. Esq., his wife, who kept court in 1724, and she, jointly with Mr. Henry Natham, late rector of Moulton-Magna, her eldest son, sold it, in the year 1735, to

His Excellency Horatio Weyroter, Esq. who is the present lord. [1736.]

The CUSTOMS OF THIS MANOR are these: The eldest son is heir; the tithes at the lord's will, it gives a third dower, the tenants cannot waste their copyhold-houses, nor fell timber upon the copyhold, or waste, without license.

There were formerly three other manors, all which belonged to Samere, and are now taken into Dickleburgh Hall manor, of which I meet with the following accounts.

The chief of Samere was, at the Conquest, in the Abbot of Bury, who held it as a manor, worth at that time 100, it being a mile and quarter long, and as much broad, and paid 6*l.* geld.

This was soon after the Conquest divided into three parts, the first of which belonged to the Glanvills, and was given by Ranulph de Glanville, with Maud his daughter, to Walter de Ruberyal, who married her, and was one part of that land which belonged to Thomas North, of whom it was then held, it was after changed with Cecily Carshel, for other lands which she had in Wantshead. In 1219, Richard Cobham was lord of it, and had the assize of land and heir of all his tenants, as the inquisition at that time shows us. From him it went to Hugh de Samere, who held it of the Abbot, and in the latter end of Henry the Third's reign, John de Samery held in Samere the fourth part of a fee: it continued in his family till 1401, and then was aliened by John de Samery, to John de Bonne, and not long after seem to be joined to the latter manor.

1. Samere in the reign of Edw. I. was divided into three parts, the first of which was given to John de Bonne, the second to John de Bonne, and the third to John de Bonne. The first part was given to John de Bonne, the second to John de Bonne, and the third to John de Bonne. The first part was given to John de Bonne, the second to John de Bonne, and the third to John de Bonne. The first part was given to John de Bonne, the second to John de Bonne, and the third to John de Bonne.

The second part of Semere was, in the Conqueror's time, held by Walter, under Robert Malet,<sup>1</sup> lord of Eye, to which honour it was appendant for some time; and about the year 1200,<sup>2</sup> Sir William Cheyny had it, as part of his barony of Horsford, from which time I meet with no accounts of it till 1370,<sup>1</sup> when it belonged to Robert Bacon, who was outlawed for felony; he is said to hold it of Edmund Ufford le Cousyn, by knight's service, as of his barony of Horsford.<sup>2</sup> It then contained two messuages, 120 acres of land, &c. and Joan was wife of the said Robert, who, in 1391, sued the King for it as her right, at her husband's death, in 1414;<sup>3</sup> she had license granted her by the Bishop of Norwich, to have mass said to her in any decent place. These licenses were then usually granted to aged people that could not come to church, or to people of distinction that lived at a distance, in which case the priest always had a consecrated portable altar to officiate at. In 1455, Richard Bacon had it; in 1598, John Shelton and Anne his wife conveyed it by fine to Henry Whipple, in whom it was joined to the Earl's manor.

MANTELAKES, OR MANCLERK'S MANOR,

Was the third manor in Semere, and had its name from some of its former lords, though I meet with none of them of that name. In 1191,<sup>4</sup> a fine was levied of it, Alan and William Walter (two brothers) being petents, and Rogèr de Dicclesburc tenant, whereby they released it to Roger and his sons, Ivo, Thomas, and John; this Robert enlarged it by purchasing many lands of Robert de Cokefield and Postalina, his wife, in Titshall, Dicclesburc, and Riveshall, in 1267. I know nothing more of it till the 15th century, and then Thomas Abbes held it of the Duke of Norfolk, as of his manor of Fornect. In 1514,<sup>5</sup> Ric. Spooner held it of the King, by the service of 12s. per annum, and it was then valued at 10 marks. In 1544, Thomas, son and heir of John Cornwaleis, Knt. died seized. In 1556, Thomas Gawdye had it, and Thomas, his son the year following, who seem to be trustees only; for in 1598, Thomas Spooner, Gent. sold it to William Holmes and Thomas Edwards, and then it extended into Sethyng, Mundham, and Loddon; and in 1683, there were divers lands in Sethyng held of this manor, and soon after it was lost in the Earl's manor, to which it had some time been joined.

Diccles-Burc, or Burgh, may take its name from some remarkable Saxon that settled here, and raised a fortification, of some sort or other, to defend himself and his adherents against the insults of the Danes, for Burgh originally signifies a fortified place, or a place of defence,<sup>6</sup> and is pronounced differently in divers parts; in the south parts, bury, in others burgh and brough, and often berry and barrow. The reason we meet with so many places thus called, in all parts, merys are very ancient; besides those mentioned as lords, I find Jordan de Semere lived in Ed. the First's time.

may be this, because the Saxons were obliged to get together in fives under their leaders, and to tortify themselves in the best manner they could, against the continual incursions of the Danes, and therefore in those times, wherever the head tortification of every district was, (it may be allowed to call it by that name,) there they assembled in great numbers, and fixed their habitations, as well to guard their persons and goods, as their dead bodies, from the insults of these pagans, and in honour of their first leaders, that raised these fortifications, they generally called them after their names, thus Fitchburgh, Dickleburgh, &c. seem to have had their names, though in some cases the name of burgh only continues, without the personal addition, but in such I believe often the name of its founder may be omitted long since its foundation; Burgh in Lothungland is an instance of this kind, it being anciently called Cauber's-Burgh, from Camberus; and thus it is very plain, that all places that retain this name have without doubt been places of more than common note in early ages, and the great number of them that still retain this name make me enlarge thus much upon it, that it may suffice for them all.

In 1603, here were 223 communicants, and now there are about 80 houses, and 300 inhabitants. It paid 5*l.* 10*s.* tithes; the parliament valuation was 10*2l.* and the present one is, for Langmere part, 33*l.* and for Dickleburgh part, 69*8l.* [1736.]

In 1428, the Abbot of Bury was taxed at 3*l.* 2*d.* 0*d.* for his temporals in this town, it being part of the land belonging to his manor of Fitshall, that extended hither, together with a teneiment given to the abbey in 1120 by Thomas Noell; the customs and services remitted by the Abbot to Henry Freeman and Mathew de Cambridge<sup>a</sup> are said to be these, viz. that the tenants of the rector's manor were before obliged to do suit of court every fifteen days, at Triteshale court, and to pay aid and tallage whenever it was had on the town of Tifteshale, and to carry part of the Abbot's wine and bord from Norwich, or Yarmouth, to Palgrave Bridge, and to hedge and ditch round Tifteshale Stack-yards and to plow one day and reap another, the Abbot finding them dit. In 1274, the rector's had assize of bread and beer of all their tenants allowed them upon a Quo Warranto.

"151, to be paid yearly, and upon New-year's day, as Chapman's date is, by my son William, during his life." He was grandfather to the present Mr. Rant.

The House called Dickleburgh Hall is a good old seat, having about 23 acres of land belonging to it, and is owned by Henry Hatfield, Esq. of Crowfield Hall, in Suffolk.

And whereas it is said in Norwich Domesday, that all this town is the King's,<sup>1</sup> (tota villa est Regalis,) when the Crown was never concerned in the manors, it will be proper to observe, that it is meant of the jurisdiction and special privileges which the Crown had in this and many other towns, all which were granted by Edward IV. to John Duke of Norfolk, and is now in the present Duke, whose liberty extends all over this town, as before observed, and will be treated of at large under Lopham.<sup>2</sup>

TITSHALL

Is variously written in different ages, first, Totessala, or Tiveteshall, after Tifteshale, now Titshall; these churches and manor were begg'd<sup>3</sup> of his parents by Syward,<sup>4</sup> a monk of Bury, whom Leofstan the abbot had made dean, who at his request gave it to that monastery. And by an inquisition taken in 1274,<sup>5</sup> it appears that he was son of Osulph (Le-Sire) and Leverun his wife,<sup>6</sup> who held it of the Crown in capite, by the annual rent of 20s. which the Abbot paid quarterly at Norwich castle, by the name of waytefee, and held it as part of his barony, having court-lect assize of bread and ale, and liberty of free-warren; the whole was allotted by the Convent to the Abbot's own use, who was taxed for his temporalities here, at 30*l.* 12*s.* 4*d.* and paid yearly 5*s.* 10*d.* to the lord of the hundred, to excuse him and his tenants from all suit to his hundred court. In the Confessor's time there were two churches, with 40 acres land, and the manor extended into Gissing and Shimpling, and was then valued at 7*l.* and in the Conqueror's time at 9*l.* 15*s.* it being then a league and 4 furlongs long, and half a league broad, and paid 17*d.* Geld;<sup>7</sup>

He died seized in 1549, at Isheringge, (or Ishridge.) in Buckinghamshire, and is buried under a noble monument in Berkhamsted church<sup>3</sup> in that county, leaving it to

SIR THOMAS CORNWALLYS, Knt. his son and heir, who had then livery of it, he being Sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk in the last year of Edward the Sixth's reign, raised great forces against the opposers of Queen Mary's title, for which services he was first sworn one of the privy-council, then made Treasurer of Calais, and after Comptroller of her Household. At his death in 1604, it went to

SIR WILLIAM CORNWALLYS, Knt. of Brome in Suffolk, who died seized Nov. 13, 1610, leaving it to<sup>4</sup>

FREDERICK CORNWALLYS, his son and heir, who was created baronet by King Charles I. by letters patent, dated May 4, 1627, and "having served that prince both in court and camp with great fidelity, for which he suffered in those unhappy times, both imprisonment, exile, and the loss of his estate: in testimony of which, to reward his great merits and accomplishments," he was by King Charles II. in 1661, made a baron of the realm, by the title of LOUIS CORNWALLIS, Baron of Eye in Suffolk, with remainder to the heirs male of his body. At his death it went to value,<sup>4</sup> it was after held by the Le Neves, from whom it was called Neve's Tenement: Robert Neve,<sup>5</sup> one of the owners, ordered to be buried in St. Margaret's churchyard; he left it to John Neve his son, in which family it continued till the 16th century.

CHARLES LORD CORNWALLIS his son and heir, who is buried at Culford in Suffolk; he left it to

For another part of this manor that extended into Gissing, see p. 168, note 9.

Besides these, there were several tenements, or manors, as they are often called, all which had their originals by the Abbots feoffments, and are now included in the great manor.

In 1307, William Bateman, Bailiff of Norwich, a man famous in his time, from whom sprung William Bateman Bishop of Norwich, purchased a free tenement here.

It appears in the register called Pinchbek, fol. 195, that Walter, the son of Norman the Dean of Norwich, held a free tenement, with 60 acres of land, and divers rents and services of the Abbot's grant; he was succeeded by Thomas his son: it belonged afterwards to Thomas de Pakenham, then to John de Ho, who infeoffed Sir Richard de Boyland in it, who jointly with Elen his wife held it in 1294.<sup>6</sup>

UPIHALL MANOR.

The manor called Uphall, had its first rise in the time of Samson Abbot of Bury, who first infeoffed Thomas, son of John of Tifteshall, in it; and soon after it came to Adam of Tifteshall, Knt. from him to John his son; and in 1266, William of Uphall of Tifteshall was lord. In 1285, it was in Thomas, son of John of Tifteshall of Uphall, who left it, about 1290,<sup>7</sup> to Robert of Uphall, his son; he quite left off the surname of Tifteshall: in 1292, he gave it to Isabel de Bokland, of Hergham, by the name of UPHALL MANOR, and in that year the said Robert and Isabel, jointly with Maud, widow of Robert, son of Thomas of Uphall, daughter of Isabel de Bokland, released all their right to Sir John Thorp, and William their son, in this manor. In 1294, Robert,<sup>8</sup> son of Sir John de Ayschewellethorp, and Maud his wife, granted to Robert Carleford of Shotesham, this manor, in exchange for the said Robert's manor of Nelonde; and afterwards the said Robert de Carleford released this manor again to Sir Robert de Thorp aforesaid, and Maud his wife. In 1304, it was settled on John de Thorp, and Alice his wife;<sup>9</sup> he died in 1323, and then held it of the Abbot at 5s. per annum, it being then valued at 3l. 5s. 8d. It seems to continue in this family till it was sold to Sir Edward Jenney's father, for so the said Edward declares in his will, in 1522,<sup>1</sup> when he gave it to his brother, and the next heir male; from the Jenneys it came to the Crown, and was granted in the 24th Henry VIII. to the Duke of Norfolk, who afterwards conveyed it to Edward White of Several lands, allotted for obits, and other superstitious uses, were seized in 1547, and were granted to Thomas Wadchouse, Gent. and his heirs, to be held in socage of the King's manor of Broke.

The CUSTOMS OF THE MANOR are these: the fine is at the lord's will; the copyhold descends to the eldest son; they cannot waste their copyhold-houses, nor fell timber without license.

In 1206,<sup>3</sup> there was an extent made of this manor, at which time the copyholders of Fitshall and Shimpling, if the lord was at Bury, were obliged to carry two parts of the Abbot's provision, and the men of Dockburgh and Saure,<sup>4</sup> the other third part; the lord had then a large park, and a sneid or suth fenced round, which was repaired by the tenants yearly; William de Uphall held this manor by the payment of 4s. 2d. per annum, and 8d. a year to the Abbot, to be free from suit of the hundred court, for which freedom the Abbot paid 7s. a year for the whole town. Galfry de Bosco and his partners, and Walter Fitz-Roger and the homages of John Fitz-Jeffrey, and of John de Uphall, and of Hubert de Schimpling, and the homages of the Abbot in Schimpling, and Leo the chaplain and his homagers, and the homage of master Inshue, and Hubert de Shimpling and his parceners, (all which held free tenements or small manors under the Abbot,) were to do suit to the Abbot's court, and to plough and cart, with all the cattle they had, for the lord, and were to pay a third part of the Abbot's general aid for Fitshall and Shimpling, and to find a third part of the lord's wine, and carry it to Palgrave bridge, and to fence in the park, sneid, and stack-yards, and repair them yearly. These free tenements being first granted by the Abbots, to be held of their chief manor upon these conditions.

Here are two CHURCHES, about a mile distant from each other; the mother church is dedicated to St. Mary the Virgin, the other is a parochial chapel, whose patroness is St. Margaret, both of ancient foundation, even before the Conqueror. It was always a single institution, appendant to the manor, as it still remains, though the parishes are separate, and hath now, and ever had distinct officers.

<sup>3</sup> In 1206, the consuetudinary, or copyholder, belonging to the manor, were 37 in number, and each had 12 acres, 20 of them, for which they were to do 20 of the lord's work, by whom they were to be maintained, and to have 8d. apiece every summer, and a perch of grass, and a bundle of hay, and 6d. every autumn. *Tab. 1307, 2 non. May, Sir Tho. de Batteturte, sub-deacon, one of an ancient and good family in this county, was instituted, but upon his institution was obliged to swear to William de Knapton, then Arch-deacon of Norwich, that whereas he was then a pluralist, and held Eustoue and Trostoue livings in this diocese, both of which had care of souls, that he would immediately resign one, unless he obtained a dispensation from the Pope, as soon as he quietly received the profits of Titshall.

1701, March 2, Charles Gibbs, A. M. the present [1736] rector. CHARLES LORD CORNWALLIS.

St. Mary's is the mother church,* over which the Bishop and Archdeacon's visitatorial power extends, to whom it pays 15 synodals, and 7s. 7d. ob. procurations; it is an old building having its nave, chancel, and south porch thatched; a square tower, and five bells; on the biggest is this:

Petrus ad Eternam, ducat nos Pascha Vitæ.

The following arms were formerly in the windows of the church, steeple, and chancel, but are all lost, except these first three, viz.†

Boutetourt, erm. a saltire ingrailed gul. Fitz-Otes, bendy of six, or and az. a canton er.

Or, a saltire ingrailed sab. England, St. Edward the Confessor, the Last-Angles, St. Edmund, Boyland, Kerdeston, Ufford single, and with all the following differences, viz. a label; a de-lis; a baton az.; a baton erm.; a baton chequy az. and gul.; an annulet, Lowdham, Norwich. Gul. a chevron between three estoils sab.; or and sab. masculine surtout, Lowdham with a label gul. impaling az. on a chief gul. three leopards or. and again siding gul. on a chief or. two annulets sab. Bacon. or a fess gul. impaling Scales. On the Rood-loft, an escutcheon of the Lady Jarnegan; viz. 1. Jarnegan; 2. Ingaldesthorp; 3. Fitzosbert; 4. Moitimer, or semi-de-lises sab.; 5. er. on a chevron sab. three escalops erm.; 6. Purpoint. 7. or. a saltire ingrailed in a bordure sab.

On a grave-stone were Aylmer's arms, viz. er. on a cross ingrailed sab. five bezants between four magpies proper; it lies in the chancel, but the chizies, arms, and inscription are gone.

Here are two black marbles, one hath an escutcheon of a griffin and a crescent, for John Boys, rector, who died Dec. 30, 1661; the other is for Hellen his wife, who died September 1, 1661.

* He was prebendary of Norwich.
 † In St. Mary's church was held a guild, dedicated to her honour, which was dissolved in the 2d. of Edward VI. In 1555, Margaret Cock, widow of this parish, gave by will, "to paynt the Tabernacle of our Lady 12. to paynt the Fronte Tabernacle 8. 8. to the bell, to adorne St. Nicholas and St. John Baptist clove, to paynt a place above our Lady's Tabernacle 20. to the framing of a house 20. to the bell frame 12. to a torch 3. 4. to the high altar 12. for a yereday for myself, Agnes and Margaret Cock my daughters, the rightell called Derby's for ever, 4 marks for a prest to syng for me half a yeare in the church."

 1513, 2 Sept. John Grace of Tat hall willed to be buried in this church near Margaret his wife. Regi. Briggs, fol. 35. MSS. F. 6, fol. 23, 4, penes J. Anstis, G. 1.

I find in Register Johnson (fol. 127) that Mrs. Olfka sister of Gentlewoman of Fytshale, was buried in this church.

In the churchyard, on the south side, is an altar-tomb, covered with a black marble, for Mary wife of Robert Kettle, daughter and heiress of Mr. William Fuller of Brisingham, who had four children, Henry, Mary, John, and Grace, all buried by her, obiit Feb. 27, 1728, aged 63.

The parochial chapel of St. Margaret acknowledges no visitatorial power but that of the Bishop only, for it pays the archdeacon no procurations; but as much again as the mother church does to the Bishop for synodals.

The nave and south porch are leaded, the chancel thatched; the tower is square, and hath five bells in it, on one of which is this,

SANCTE EDMUNDE ORA PRO NOBIS.

On the screens are Aylmer's arms in proper colours. In the chancel, under an arch in the north walk, is an old freestone altar monument, with a cross formy on it, but no inscription to discover who he was, though without doubt it was for some religious person that founded the chancel. On a brass,

Hic jacet Brigitta nuper uxor Antonij Barry, Generosi que obiit
4th Die Maij A<sup>o</sup> 1635, Ætat. 21.

Here are three black marbles, the first for Christopher Burrell, late rector, who died Jan. 6, 1701. The second for Charles, son of the Rev. Mr. Charles Gibbs, rector, and Elizabeth his wife, who died much lamented April 22, 1721, aged 16 years:

The third for Mrs. Margaret Stannard, relict of Mr. John Stannard, late of this parish first married to Thomas Halls, Gent. whose character as a wife, mother, mistress, and friend, needs no encomium, she died Sept. 1, 1735, in the 75th year of her age.

THE CUSTOMS OF THIS RECTORY are these; they pay 6*d.* for every calf under seven, and 1*d. ob.* for every cow instead of tithe milk; and 1*d.* every house for harth-silver, for all wood burnt in the town, all wood sold out of the town pays tithe according to its value, and all other tithes belonging to this rectory are paid in their proper kinds.

The parish of Titshall St. Mary hath a small cottage situate near the church, a piece of land containing half an acre, which abuts on Mill Green north, south, and east, and on Henry Goodwin's lands west; a small piece called Sent's Yards, about one rood, rented at 6*s. per annum*, 10*l.* in money, the interest of which is given to the poor yearly upon Easter Monday, and the poor receive yearly 10*s.* from the church-wardens of St. Margaret's.

The parish of St. Margaret in Titshall hath 6 acres of land lying in Moulton, part is copyhold, and part free, which is rented at 3*l.* 10*s.* a year, and was given by Jeffery Neeve; it abuts on Moulton Common on the west, and Mr. Fulcher's on the south, and on the way leading to Moulton High Green on the east; the rent is received by the church-wardens; 10*s. 8d.* is paid every Easter to the poor of St. Margaret's, and 10*s.* to the poor of St. Mary's as aforesaid; the rest is given towards repairing the church.

The COMMONS are Titshall Green, Bateman's Green, Mill Green, Pound Green, and Beck Green, all of them containing about 100 acres.

In 1601, there were 93 communicants in St. Mary's parish, and 108 in St. Margaret's, there are now [1736] about 33 dwelling-houses in St. Mary's, and 160 inhabitants, and 40 in St. Margaret's and 180 inhabitants, they were valued at 3*l* together to the tenth, and 139*l* to the parliament valuation, but now they are assessed single to the land tax, viz. St. Mary's at — l. and St. Margaret's at 24*l.*

The whole Hundred is enclosed, and abounds much with wood; it being reckoned as part of the woodland half of Norfolk. The roads are very bad in winter, especially this part by Grising and Titshall. The lands in general are moist, occasioned by their being flat, and having a blue clay within a foot or two of the earth's surface, through which the water cannot pierce, it containing 20 or 30 feet in depth in many places. The soil is in general rich, and about one half of the land is used for the plough, the other for the dairy, and grazing; it produces much wheat, turnips, clover, and all other grain in abundance, except buck or bran, and cole-seed, of which there is but

THIS Hundred takes its name from some remarkable cross that was gilt, which either stood in it, or was to be seen in great part of it; though Mr. Neve observes it was spelt anciently Gydecross, from some cross that was a guide to travellers; and I am apt to think it might be Rowdham Cross, which at that time was seen in great part of this hundred, and was certainly a very remarkable one, that town taking its name from it, Rowdham, or Roodham, as it is anciently written, signifies the Town of the Cross; and thus also Bridgeham in this hundred was so called from the bridge which was the passage to this cross, which, with the road, became remarkable, from being the common way by which pilgrims took their journey out of Suffolk, and other parts of the country, to our Lady of Walsingham. This hundred contains thirteen towns, all which are in Rockland deanery, and Norfolk archdeaconry. It was in the Confessor's hands, as belonging to the manor of Kenninghall, and came to the Conqueror, who held it at the survey, as belonging to the same, it being then worth 20s. a year, the soc of the whole hundred belonging thereto, all which was committed to Earl Godric's care, who had it but a little while, for the Conqueror gave it with Kenninghall, Bokenham, Snetsham, and Wymondham manors, to William de Albaniaco, or Albany, who came into England with him, all which were to be held by the service of being the King's butler on the coronation day; William de Albany, or D'Aughbiny, his son, succeeded; and in this family it continued till Hugh D'Aubigny died seized in 1243, leaving it in dower to Isabel, his wife, daughter of William Earl Warren and Surrey, and foundress of Marham abbey. But as this hundred hath continually gone, and still remains with the manor of Kenninghall, I have no occasion to trace its owners any further. In 1236,<sup>1</sup> it was found by a jury, that the King had more right of pleading in his county court, pleas of withernam,<sup>2</sup> and of taking cattle, than the hundreds of Frethebridge, Smithdon, Gildcross, and Shrop-ham, had in their hundred courts; upon which Hugh de Albany being asked, Whether he had any charters of liberties? answered, That he knew not, his deeds being deposited in Wimondham priory, for which reason he desired time to search — the court ordered him to find security to answer the King all arrears from the time of his coronation, upon which Hugh surrendered seisin of the liberties to the King, and the King deferred amercing him for damages, till he had spoken with the Earl Warren. This gives opportunity to observe, that the King was then present in the court, and judgment was given by him, though in his own cause, which is directly contrary to the opinion of divers great men. And this assertion may be further proved, by a record in the 25th year of this King, where, in an appeal for felony, the entry on the roll is thus: "And because our Sovereign Lord the King was absent, and there being but few of his council there, they which were present would not give judgment for a duell, nor do any thing else in the absence of the King, or the major part of his council;" so that we see generally the King was present, or if not, there was no judgment passed, unless the greater part of his council were there. In 1249, return was made, that Isabel Countess of Arundel held 40*l.* a year in land in this hundred, that her marriage was in the King's gift, and that the hundred was worth 7 marks a year, and had not liberty of return of writs, nor other liberties as some hundreds had,* and that it paid yearly 40*l.* to the King's use. In 1274, Henry Le-Noble, Sheriff of Norfolk, let Gildercross and Brothercross hundreds for 12*l.* a year, which used to be let at 15*l.*, this was when the King had the marriage of Isabel aforesaid, or when he seized some of her estates, for her bold but true speech, that she made unto him, which you may see in Dugdale's Baronage, vol. i. fol. 124. In 1286, when Roger de Montcalt held it, it was then valued at 15*l. per annum*, out of which he paid the King 40*l.* yearly, and the liberties allowed to the hundred, in an Eyre at Norwich, were these, sc. view of frankpledge, assize of bread and beer, a galloway, and a cyf. In 1311, in an inquisition then taken, it was found, that Roger de Montcalt, and Emma, his wife, held it as a member of their manor of Kenninghall. In 1397, it was worth 6*l.* 1*3s.* 4*d.* a year. In the court-book of this hundred, in 1578, which is among Mr. Nice's Collections, I find the following manors are held of it, by certain yearly payments, viz. the manors of Uphall and Bolnham's in Garboldisham, of Furncote in Middle Herling, of Sockford's in West Herling, Mannecring's, Furconer's, and Pelbrigge's in East Herling, Bronchall and Sencre's in Blox Norton, Madelqui's manor in Quadenham, and Hockham's manor there, Marshe's, Grey's, and Beckhall in Banham; Esthaze's, or College manor in Rushworth, and Boldham's manor there, which also belonged to the College; Uphall and Wyctham's in Gaithorp; Clarke's tenement in South Lopham, and Porter's in Rushworth; Steward's and Russell's tenements there; Goodson's tenement in North Lopham, with divers other lands; all which do suit and service to the hundred court at Kenninghall, every three weeks, each suit being valued at 2*s.* The tenement or manor of John Church of Garboldisham, and Pakenham's manor in Garboldisham, owe suit every three weeks, or 2*s.* each suit. The hundred court was always kept at Kenninghall every three weeks, but on account of that market's being disused, it was removed, and kept at Market-Herling.

to the King's Herby, which was after granted to the Duke of Norfolk.

It is bounded on the east by Diss hundred, on the south by the river Ouse, that parts Norfolk and Suffolk, on the west by Thetford, and on the north by Shropham hundred, which is divided from it by the river that runs from Quidenham Mere to Thetford; the superiour liberty, as to the game, and many other privileges, belongs to his Grace the Duke of Norfolk, as lord paramount of the hundred, all which is in his peculiar liberty and jurisdiction called the DUKE OF NORFOLK'S LIBERTY, the original of which you shall have under Lopham; and as for the rest of the owners of it, I shall refer you to

KENNINGHALL,

A town of large extent, and great antiquity, so called from Lynn, which in Saxon signifies a King, so that Cyning or Kenninghall, signifies the King's House, and according to the etymology, it hath been a seat of the East-Anglian Kings, who are said to have had a castle here, which indeed seems true; the site of it is now called the Candle-Yards;<sup>5</sup> (because the offices for that purpose were built in it, when Thomas, the great Duke of Norfolk, built the palace, this place being distant enough, to hinder the smell reaching it;) it is south-west of the palace about a furlong, being a square of four acres, encompassed with a spacious trench, at each corner is a mount, but that to the south-east is much the largest; the manor-house continued through all its changes in this place, till the Duke pulled it down, and built that stately house at the distance before mentioned, which was after called KENNINGHALL PALACE, or PLACE; it fronted east and west, and was built in form of an (H), having a porter's lodge, and all things else in the grandest manner. It was situated in the midst of a large park, which contained 700 acres, well stocked with deer, the north side guarded with woods and groves, being distant at least a mile from the town, which lies westward. At the Duke's attainder it was seized by the King, and settled on the then Lady Mary, who kept her court here. To this castle (as Stow calls it) she removed from Hunsdon in Hertfordshire,<sup>6</sup> and hither resorted to her several lords and knights of this county, as Sir John Shelton, Sir Henry Bedingfield, Sir Henry Jerningham, and others, at the death of Edward VI from whence they went to Framlingham castle. Afterwards it was in Queen Elizabeth's hands, who was often here; she it was that ordered her tenant Chapman, who then lived in Fersfield lodge, to lay out the way now called Chapman's Entry, out of her own ground, the old way being so strait that the Queen could not conveniently pass through it; it is now disused, and is called Queen Bess's Lane, from her being scratched with the brambles in riding through it, as tradition tells us. It continued in the Norfolk family as their capital seat in this county, till about 90 years since, when it was pulled down, and the materials sold for a trifle, with which great numbers of chimnies and walls in the neighbourhood are built, as is evident from the Moxbrays and Arundels arms which are upon the bricks. Spelman, in his Iccuia,<sup>7</sup> hath nothing more of this town, than that it was the seat of some of the chiefest barons. That it belonged to the Crown in the most early times is plain, for the Conqueror had it in his own hands,* it being then worth 10*l.* a year, and 5 sextaries† of honey, but it was risen by the Conqueror's time to 24*l.* of uncoined money, to be paid by weight, and 6*l.* of coined money, which was paid by tale, and a fine at each king's accession, (for so I take Leppuma in the Saxon to signify.) It had a freeman and 50 acres belonging to it in Coateshall, and West Herling also was chefeate to it. It was then three miles long, and one mile broad, and paid 2*5d.* Danegeld. It always was and is now, privileged as ancient demean, the inhabitants being excused from toll, passage, and stallage, and from serving on any juries out of the lordship, and paying towards the charges of the knights of the shire, upon renewing their writ of exemption on the death of every king, and having it annually allowed by the sheriff of the county.

It remained but little while in the Crown, being given by the Conqueror to William de Albi, Albimaco, or Albany, and his heirs,‡ together with the lordship of Bokenham, &c. to be held by the service of being chief butler to the Kings of England, on the day of their coronation, upon which account he was after called Pincerna Regis, but as I must treat of this family largely under Bokenham, the priory there, as well as that at Wimondham, being founded by them, I shall say no more of them here, than what is necessary, as to the history of this manor, which is this, that it always went with Bokenham, till the division of the Albany's estate between the four sisters and coheirs of Hugh de Albi, who died without issue, leaving this manor in dower to Isabel his wife, daughter of William Earl Warren and Surrey, who, in 1243, had it, among others, assigned to her by the King's license, at her death it went to Roger de Montcalt, or De-Montcalt, who had married Cecily, one of the sisters and coheirs of Hugh de Albi, this Robert died seized in 1273,§ leaving it to Robert de Montcalt, and Emma his wife, who had it settled upon Roger of Rising, parson of Hawardyn, her trustee, for her use, upon a writ of ad quod damnum, which was brought, the manor being held in capite of the King; the writ is dated at York, March 6, 1276, and the return thereof was the 5th day of April following, when the jury, sc. Roger del Hill of Harlyng, John, son of William of Garboldisham, Richard at Quidenham-Bridge, and others, found that it would be no damage to the King, if the manor was settled on Emma and her trustee; and they further say, that this manor, with Bokenham and Wymondham, are held in chief of the King, by the service of butler, as aforesaid, and that it hath a certain capital messuage, called East Hall,<sup>3</sup> and another called a Grange, with a ruinous dove-house, and 400 acres of land, 100 of which are arable, and yearly worth 10*l.* besides 18 acres of meadow, worth 18*d.* each acre, a windmill let for 13*s.* 4*d.* a large park, the herbage of which is yearly worth 5*l.* and the underwood 40*s.* a year. There is a market kept every Monday, which is let at 20*s.* a year, and also a fair, let at 2*s.* a year; the yearly quitrents are 8*l.* payable by equal portions, at St. Martin, Christmas, Easter, and Midsummer; also 1200 days works in autumn, worth 1*d.* each day, also the fishery called the Seacr, worth 2*s.* a year, the pleas, perquisites of courts, and views of frankpledge, and leets belonging thereto, are yearly worth 8*l.* To this manor also belongs Gillcross hundred, the pleas and perquisites of the hundred court, with all the views of frankpledge and leets belonging thereto, are worth 5*l.* a year, the whole of the value being 44*l.* 15*s.* And the jury further say, that the said Robert hath the manors of Rising and Snetesham, and the hundred of Smithdon, and the fourth part of Lyn Tolbooth unsettled, all which are valued at 80*l.* per annum. From this Robert it came to Roger de Montcalt,<sup>4</sup> who, in 1286, had the following privileges allowed to this manor, viz. free-warren, view of frankpledge, assize of bread and ale, a pillory, cucking-stool, galloes, and weyf, with a yearly fair, on the day of the Tronstation of St. Thomas [Becket],<sup>5</sup> and a weekly market on Monday.<sup>6</sup> In the 1st year of Edward III.<sup>7</sup> this Robert petitioned the Barons of the Exchequer, to be admitted chief butler on the coronation day, by reason of his manor of Kenninghall, which office he recovered against the Earl of Arundell, who claimed it as belonging to his earldom, and performed the office accordingly, and obtained a decree, that that office henceforward should be performed by the several lords of the manors of Kenninghall, Bokenham, and Wymondham, or their deputies, by turns, upon proving that Hugh D' Aubeney, late Earl of Arundell, held these and Snetesham manors, of King Henry III. by the said office, which he performed at that King's coronation, and died so seized, upon which Bokenham and Wymondham descended to Sir Robert de Tateshall, whose heir now holds them, and is under age; and Kenninghall and Snetesham came to the said Robert de Montcalt, (or Mohant;) who now holds them; and at the coronation of King Edward II. he claimed, and offered to perform, his part of the said service, in right of his said manors; but Edmund Earl of Arundell, by his great power (though he never had any of the said manors) performed the said service, to the disherison of him and his posterity, for which reason now, at the coronation of King Edward III the said Robert claimed and performed the whole service, Futeshale's heirs being under age. The return upon search of the records says, that as to Suctesham having a turn in the office, they at present could find nothing of it, but that at the coronation of Eleanor, daughter of Hugh Earl of Provence, grandmother to the present King, Hugh de Albani, then Earl of Arundell, in right of these manors, and not of his earldom, served the said office by his deputy, the Earl Warren, because he was then excommunicated by the Archbishop of Canterbury, for taking away the archbishop's dogs from him, as he hunted in the said Earl's forest in Sussex, the archbishop alleging, that he had a right to hunt in any forest in England, whenever he would. This office still continues by turns to these manors, though in a petition directed to the Lords commissioned to receive all claims of services to be performed at the coronation of Queen Jane, by reason of their tenures, I find that Charles Earl of Carlisle, Earl-Marshal of England during the minority of Thomas Duke of Norfolk, and Earl of Arundell, who was then out of the realm, claimed to perform this service, in a double capacity, viz. in right of this manor and of his earldom, setting forth that he held the manor by this grand serjeantry, which was performed in right of it at the coronation of Eleanor aforesaid, and at the coronation of Richard II. by the Earl of Arundell and Surrey, and of Henry IV. by Thomas then Earl of Arundell and Surrey, and by Henry Earl of Arundell, at the coronation of Edward VI. in right (as was said) of the earldom of Arundell, and by Henry Duke of Norfolk and Earl of Arundell, by his deputy, at the coronation of King William and Queen Mary, who then received all the fees and profits belonging to the office, viz. the best gold cup that the King drank out of on the coronation day, with the cloths, napkins, and linen then used, the cups both of gold and of silver used that day in the King's wine-cellar; with all wine vessels, pots, cups, glasses, &c. In 1327, a fine was levied between this Robert,<sup>3</sup> who was then Steward of Chester, and Emma his wife, by which this manor was settled on themselves, and their heirs male, remainder to Isabel Queen of England for life, and then to John of Eltham, the King's brother, in tail, remainder to Edward King of England, and his heirs. Robert and Emma had no male heirs, and so it came to Queen Isabel, and John of Eltham dying without heirs, the reversion after the Queen's death was in the King, who, in 1336, gave it to Sir William de Montacute, or Montague,<sup>4</sup> who, upon paying the Queen 600 marks, had a release from her, and immediate possession of it: he died seized in 1333, and was buried in the White Friars, London, leaving the manor to William de Montague,<sup>5</sup> his son and heir, in whom it continued till 1377, and then he settled it upon Sir William Montague, knight, his son, upon his marriage with Elizabeth, daughter to Richard Fitz-Han Earl of Arundell, and the issue of their bodies, but he being unhappily slain upon a tilting at Windsor, by his own father, in 1382, he left no issue. Upon his death King Richard II. kept court here, but soon after delivered it up to Elizabeth, widow of the said William, who according to the settlement, enjoyed it for life, and at her death it was to revert to her father-in-law, William Earl of Salisbury and Lord of Man. This Earl it was who, in 1355,<sup>4</sup> (before he had settled it on his son,) granted to Albred de Pakenham of Garboldisham a fold course for 300 sheep and 30 muttons, with common of pasture for his cattle, through the whole year, from a place called Howardsty, northward, partly to Kenninghall Gap, and from thence westward to Ringmere, and thence by the way leading from Kenninghall to Bury, as the way leads to Garboldisham Field, paying him a yearly rent for it, which right is now enjoyed, as belonging to Garboldisham, Uphall, or Pakenham's. This lady held the manor in 1388, at which time she was married to Thomas Lord Mowbray, Earl-Marshal of England, who was to hold it for her life in her right; and this year Richard Fitz-Alan Earl of Arundell and Surrey,<sup>5</sup> her father, purchased the perpetual inheritance of it, of William Earl of Salisbury aforesaid, and had a fine levied to settle it on him and his heirs, Sir Payne Tiptoft, Knt. and others; being trustees, but upon his attainder in 1397, the King granted the reversion of the manor and hundred, they being forfeited to the Crown, to Thomas de Mowbray Duke of Norfolk, and he being banished the year following, the King granted it by letters patent, dated at Leicester, to John de Montague Earl of Salisbury,<sup>6</sup> his great favourite, to be held by him of the Crown, in as free manner as William de Montague, his uncle, Richard Earl of Arundell, or Thomas Duke of Norfolk ever held it; but he dying in 1399, never enjoyed it, it being then held by Elizabeth Duchess of Norfolk, who was then married to Sir Gerard Usset, her third husband. In 1411, Edmund Blankpaine is said to hold the manor and hundred, as trustee only, I suppose; for in 1422, it was settled by Elizabeth Duchess of Norfolk, late wife of Gerard Usset, on divers trustees, to several uses; this was upon her fourth marriage with Robert Gowshall, Knt.<sup>7</sup> who, in 1426, held the manor and hundred in her right; she died soon after, for in 1428, Thomas de Montague Earl of Salisbury died seized,<sup>8</sup> leaving them to Alice, his only daughter by his first wife, then married to Richard Nevill, eldest son to Ralph Nevill, Earl of Westmorland, which Richard, on her account, was made Earl of Salisbury, and had livery of her lands this very year; but soon after, he gave this manor and hundred in marriage with Joan, his daughter, to William Fitz-Alan Earl of Arundell,<sup>9</sup> who in the Feodary is said then to hold it; he, in all likelihood, sold it to John Duke of Bedford, who about 1435 sold it again to the Prior of Thetford, in trust for John Mowbray Duke of Norfolk, who settled it on Elizabeth his wife, for life, and their heirs; he died in 1475, and she enjoyed it to her death, when it descended to Sir John Howard, Knt. son of Sir Robert Howard, Knt. by Margaret his wife, who was one of the coheiresses of Thomas Mowbray first Duke of Norfolk, it being assigned to him as part of the half of the Mowbray inheritance. This John was created Duke of Norfolk in 1483, by King Richard III.

and was slain with him in Boosorth Field in 1485, at whose death it went to his eldest son, Thomas, then Earl of Surrey, and afterwards Duke of Norfolk, he being restored in 1488, to that earldom and estate; in 1509, he had special livery of all the lands his father died seized of, was made Earl-Marshal of England by Henry VII. in the second year of his reign, and afterwards Duke of Norfolk, he died in 1524, leaving Thomas his son, heir to his estate and honour.

In 1537, the quitrents were 3*l.* 3*s.* 1*1d.* a year, the farm of the hundred 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* the agistments of the park, and perquisites of the fair, 5*l.* besides the warren, windmill, and fishery. This Thomas being attainted, his estate was seized, and settled on the Lady Maria, who resided here; but it was restored to him again, upon her coming to the Crown, and he came and died here in 1547, leaving Thomas, his grandchild, his heir, who resided here with Margaret, daughter of Thomas Audley Baron Audley, his second wife, in 1560, he was beheaded in 1572, from which time it passed as Leisfield manor, the Duke of Norfolk being now lord.

In 1610, the quitrents were 47*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* the farm of the hundred 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* the profits of the fair 5*l.* the keeper of the palace's wages per annum 5*l.* 10*d.* the park-keeper's wages 3*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.* the gardener 4*l.* per annum, the whole park within the pale contained 700 acres. There was a rent paid out of the New Park, which was due to the late priory of Thetford, with which it came to the Duke, and then ceased. In this year the townsmen purchased the sheeps-walk of the lord, and so made their lands whole-year lands: at this time also the inhabitants paid a small sum to the lord, as an acknowledgment, or fee-rent, for their new entrenched grounds, they having by consent enclosed their common, called the Park Common, and appropriated the several parts to divers uses; but this remained but a small time, for the commoners disagreeing among themselves, they were all laid common as at first, though the banks and trenches are still visible. [1730.]

The CUSTOMS OF THIS MANOR and the RECTORY MANOR are the same; i. e. the copyhold descends to the youngest son; the fine is certain, at 6*d.* an acre; they give dower, and the tenants can waste their copyhold-houses, fell timber, plant, and cut down wood and timber on the waste against their own lands, without license.

THE RECTORY MANOR

Went with the rectory till its appropriation, and then became part of the possessions of Bokenham priory, till its dissolution, and was then granted, with the impropriation, to the Norfolk family, forfeited at the Duke's attainder in Queen Elizabeth's time to the Crown, and by her, with the impropriation, given to the Bishoprick of Ely, from which it was seized in the Rebellion, and the manor only, in 1554,

sold by Sir John Woolaston, and others, trustees for sale of bishops' lands, according to an ordinance of Parliament, to Robert Benson, and his heirs, it extending then into Quidenham and Herling, the church and churchyard being excepted out of the conveyance, as also all lands and tithes, except a messuage or tenement with the curtilages thereto belonging, called the Granary,<sup>3</sup> which belonged to the said rectory. In 1657, it was again sold by Robert Benson, Gent. for 149*l.* to Thomas Kendall of Thetford, and Thomas West, from whom it was seized by the Bishop of Ely, at the Restoration, and by him leased out; (the advowson of the vicarage being excepted;) and having passed through many hands, is at this time in Mr. Phillips Gretton, clerk, who is now, by virtue of the Bishop's lease, both lord and impropiator [1736]

This manor, when the rectory was appropriated, had a lect, and the amerciaments of all its own tenants, with the assize of bread and ale, and corrections of weights and measures, and also common of pasture on a common called Suchach, or (Southagh, now Southwell,) in the said town, this common being appropriated to it. It was taxed in 1428, with the other spirituals of that priory in this town, at xvi. marks.

THIS VICARAGE

Is in Rockland deanery, and Norfolk archdeaconry, valued at 5*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.* and being sworn of the clear yearly value of 40*l.* is discharged from first fruits and tenths, though it still answers 2*s.* for synodals, and 7*s.* 7*d.* ob. for procurations, there being a mean vicarage-house joining to the east end of the churchyard, and 5 acres and a half of glebe.

It was originally a rectory, in the gift of the lord of the manor, to which belonged a manor, and a good quantity of demean lands, and such it continued, till William de Albany, the second Earl of Arundell of that name, gave it to the priory of St. James at Old Bokenham, which his father had founded. This William died the 4th of the ides of October, 1176, from which time the Prior presented to this rectory, till about 1223, and then, at the petition of Walter the then prior, and the convent there, Pandulff Bishop of Norwich appropriated it to that convent, reserving power to ordain a vicarage worth 8 marks a year, to be settled upon the vicar, which was accordingly done, and was to consist, according to the endowment, (the original of which, Mr. Le Neve says, is in the hands of the Dean of Norwich) in all the alterage, and all other small tithes whatsoever, together with the small tithes of the Earl's House, and all the hay, and great and small tithes of 140 acres of free land, which belonged to the rectory, before the appropriation, and in other things particularly mentioned in the endowment. By this means the convent got into their hands all the tithe corn, and the rectory manor with all its rents and profits, with most of the glebe. The rents of assize were 3*l.* 7*s.* a year, as I learn from the account book of that priory, fo. 2;<sup>4</sup> but for this they were obliged to give the nomination of the vicar, for ever to the See of Norwich, the Bishops of which ever after nominated to the Prior such persons as they pleased, and if they did not immediately present the person nominated, the Bishop collated him according to the agreement, and least there should be any future claim from the lords of the manor of Kenninghall, to which the advowson formerly belonged, the Prior and Convent of Reverend Mountalt, then had, to confirm to them the advowson, manor, and appropriation. I do not meet with any of the vicars names, but the

The Church is situate on a hill, having a large square tower at its west end, which was designed to be carried to a greater height, but was never finished, its head being shortened by the misfortunes of its founder, Thomas Duke of Norfolk, whose crest remains on the buttresses at this time [1736.] Here are five very large tuneable bells; on the three biggest are these inscriptions:

On the third, Dona repende pia. Rego Magdalena Maria.

On the fourth, Hac non vade via, nisi dicas Ave Maria Sic semper sine te, qui Michi dicat Ave.

On the fifth, Triplex Persona, Trinitas, nunc gaudia dona, Qui Regnas trinus Personis, et Deus unus.

The nave is 40 yards long and 7 broad, having a porch joined to its south side, and an isle to its north, all which are covered with lead, and seem to be much older than the tower; the chancel is also leaded, and was built by John Milgate, the last Prior of Bokenham, whose monument remains in the south wall, though it is robbed of its arms and inscription, which remained in Mr. Weaver's time, for he tells us, fo. 859, that it appeared by his tomb that he built the chancel, though there are two grand mistakes in his relation of it, for he is called there Shildgate, instead of Milgate, and said to be Prior of Windham, instead of Bokenham. He bare for arms three escalops, which are to be seen on a brick in the chancel wall, two lions being the supporters, as also upon a wall of a house at Thompson, in which Roger Colman, clerk, lately dwelt, with this under them:

PERPETUIS ANNIS, MILGATE MEMENTO JOHANNIS.

HELP HANDIS.

By which it should seem as if this house also was built by him. Whether these were his paternal arms or no, I cannot say, but rather think they were not; the escalops might be assumed (for want of arms) as the badge of St. James, to whom his priory was dedicated, and the rampant lions might be placed significantly enough as supporters, that house being founded by William de Albany Earl of Arundell, whose arms were, gul. a lion rampant or. In digging a grave for one Mr. Watts, near this tomb, they happened on a vault close to the wall, in which this prior's bones till that time laid undisturbed. To the north side of the chancel joins a chapel or chantry, now converted into a school-house, and vestry; it hath D. R. cut in stone over the north door; and in a window is a broken effigies kneeling, and this,

DOMINUS MICHI GRACIA. IN DOMINO CONFIDO.

The step up to the altar still remains, and the altar stone is taken down, and laid level with the pavement, north and south, exactly as it stood, before which lies a large stone which hath been taken up, and hath this lately cut on it:

Here lyeth the Body of Habba<sup>k</sup> Layman, Surgeon, who departed this life the 5th Day of April, An<sup>o</sup> Dom. 1699. Ætatis suæ 51.

This stone is robbed of a large brass effigies and four shields, by which I learn, that it is the grave-stone of George Hassel, (or Blezerhasset.) Esq. who first married the daughter of Jarnegan, and after the daughter of L'Estrange, for I find in a MSS. of Mr. Astley, marked E. 26, fol. 29, that he is here buried under a fair grave-stone, with his arms quartered, and there is no stone here that ever had any arms, but this only, and the W. S. cut in stone over the door of this chantry might signifie William Bleverhasset, by whom it is very likely it might be founded.

The screens between the church and chancel, and the cover of the font, which is neatly carved, are old, and seem to be put up at the expense of one Oakelye, for in the arch there is carved on a stone, an acorn on an oaken branch, and here under it, as a rebus or device for that name.

On an old seat in the nave are two images, much defaced, under which with difficulty this may be read, Orate pro Animabus Roberti Wattyg, et Elizabethæ uxoris eius.

Some of the Wattses are still living here.

On another old seat, which seems to have been part of the screens of the chantry, at the east end of the north isle, is this,

Orate pro anima Johannis Lunn

In the nave are several stones pillaged of their brasses; but on a very large one before the desk, the portraitures of a woman and five boys and five girls are still left, the inscription and man's effigies being lost; under this stone, it is probable, Roger Dennis is interred, for whom, in Mr. Worcester's time,<sup>6</sup> this was remaining,

Orate pro anima Rogery Dennis, Seneschalli Castal :

In the chancel is a small altar tomb against the north wall, having had an effigies, inscription, circumscription, and four shields, which are all gone: Worcester says it was erected for George Lord Audley, and his wife, the daughter of the Earl of Bath; and indeed the arms on the south side of it, which are painted, and now whited over, did intimate, that it was erected for some of that family, the first being

Audley, gules, a net or, quartering Touchett, ermine, a chevron gules.

Thomas Howard, Duke of Northfolk, and Margaret Audley, his second wife, resided here in 1569, about which time he adorned the windows of the church with the following arms, some of which are now lost:

Audley quartering Touchet, in a garter.

Audley impaling Bourchier, argent, a cross engrailed gules, between four water-boudgets sable.

Exayne, gules, a fess between six billets or. Quartered with Audley.

De-Warren, quarterly gules, and argent, per fess indented.

Audley impales gules, three bows argent.

Audley impales Baldesmore, argent, a fess between two bars gemels gules.

Here resteth the Body of JOHN KETT, late of Diss, Gentleman, who died Oct. the 1st 1728, aged 76 Years: Also the Body of MARY his Wife, who died Augt. the 21st 1729. To whose Memory their Kinsman Mr. JAMES WATSON of this Parish, Surgeon, erected this Tomb.

On an altar tomb in the nave under the gallery,

Here resteth in Hopes of a joyfull Resurrection the Body of Elizabeth the Wife of JOHN BURRISII of Banham, who departed this Life the 25th of June 1728, in the 62d. Year of her age, And also Eliz. Robt. and Ann Foster her Grand-children, Eliz. died Jan. 26 1724. Robt. died June 19th 1728, Ann died Apr. 21, 1732, all in their infancy.

As in a Moment we are gone,
And as our Time do's fly,
Let us always prepared be
For blest Eternity.

There is a stone in the chancel for Andrew Burlingham who died May the 24th, 1735, aged 55 years.

All you that stop to read my Stone,
Consider how soon I was gone,
Death sometimes doth no Warning give,
Therefore be carefull how you live

There are four old stones in the nave, in shape of coffins, but no inscriptions. And on a stone in the wall of the porch is a horse carved.

Though there are no memorials of any kind remaining over the places of their sepulture, yet I find that on the 30th day of June A<sup>o</sup> 1595,<sup>1</sup> here was buried Jane Countess of Hesmoreland, wife to Charles Lord Neale of Hesmoreland, lord of Raby, Standrop, Branspeth, Warkworth, Shryghton, and Middelham, daughter of Henry Howard Earl of Surrey, and sister of Thomas Howard Duke of Norfolk.

Here lieth also, Elizabeth Dutchess of Norfolk, who was buried the 18th of Sept. 1567, she was 3d wife to Thomas Howard 4th Duke of Norfolk, daughter of Sir Francis Lebourne, Knt. and widow of Thomas Lord De Vere of Gillesland and Greystock.<sup>2</sup>

Thomas Duke of Norfolk, who died at his palace here in 1554, is not buried here, (as by some asserted,) but at Framlingham in Suffolk.

On an altar tomb in the churchyard, by the south side of the nave,

Here lieth the Body of FRANCIS GROOME, who departed this Life, May the 3<sup>o</sup> 1711, Aged 83 Years. And also FRANCES his Wife who died Sept. 3, 1712, Aged 92 Years. Also the Body of NICHOLAS GROOME, Son of FRANCIS GROOME, and FRANCES his Wife, who departed this Life Octob. the 3<sup>o</sup> 1728, in the 67th Year of his Age.

On a coffin stone against the chancel, though at some distance,

Here lieth the Body of Robert Button, who died June the 29th betwixt 6 & 7 a Clock at Night, aged 74 Yeares.<sup>3</sup>

Though they were so punctual for the hour, they forgot to insert the year of his death, which was in 1711.

Another altar tomb not far from the porch hath this,

In hopes of a joyfull resurrection, lieth the Body of SUSAN, the Wife of WILLIAM SARE, who died Dec<sup>r</sup> the 9th 1727, aged 67 Years. Also WILLIAM SARE, her Husband, died Jan. the 1<sup>o</sup> 1727, Aged 74 Years.

This church is dedicated to St. Mary, as appears from the will of Jeffrey Burlingham, who gave 5 marks towards building the bell collar.<sup>4</sup>

<sup>3</sup>The most eminent person that this town hath produced among our authors, was Brother John of Kenmynghale,<sup>4</sup> who became a Carmelite, or white friar, in the convent at Norwich, and afterward<sup>5</sup> was provincial prior of the whole order throughout all England; he died April 28, 1451, and was buried in that monastery. He wrote divers treatises on several pieces of Aristotle, and twelve sermons upon CHRIST's death and resurrection, with other works that are now lost. Bale,<sup>6</sup> from Leland, gives us an account of another, who from his name seems to have belonged to this town, and that was Peter Kenningall, a Carmelite friar and noted preacher, of a good family, born indeed in France, but of English parents; he studied at Oxford for several years, and died there anno 1494, and was buried in his convent. He wrote certain Sermons, or Discourses to the People, and some disputations.

The COMMONS belonging to this town are very large, containing more than all the enclosed lands, and are thus called: the Park Common, because it joined to the park, Southache, or Southagh, now Southwell Common, the Heath, which is appropriated for sheep, (as the others are for great beasts,) besides other small greens which are common, though of no great extent.

The TOWN LANDS are: three pieces in Quidenham Fields, let to the farmer at Quidenham for 10s. per annum; one acre in Gobbit's Close, let to the vicar (the rest of that close being glebe) for 6s. per annum; Barly-Clove's hempland, lying against the park common, let at 7s. 6d. per annum; one acre in Mill Close, let at 6s. per annum; one acre in Camping Close, let at 6s. per annum; five roods in Upper Furlong, and one acre in Pollswill Furlong, let at 10s. per annum; Hilbridge Close about 2 acres, lying by Harling Field, let at 10s. per annum. Mrs. Dorothy Gawdie gave 20s. a year, to be paid out of lands in Garboldisham, to the poor of Kenninghall.

In 1603 there were 370 communicants, and now [1730] there are about 114 houses, 132 families, and 700 inhabitants. It paid to the tenths 3*l.* 10s. and is now valued to the King's tax at 1059*l.* 15s. It is a neat compact village, standing round the market-place, which must be a very convenient one, when the market was kept there.

I am lately informed [1736] that there is exactly eleven acres and one rood of glebe, that there is a cup which weighs 6 ounces, and a cover of the same weight; that the 1st bell weighs 700 lbs. the 2d 1000, the 3d 1200, the 4th 1400, and the 5th 2500.

LOPHAM

Jords to the south part of Kenoughill, what this town's name signifies, I know not, and which is remarkable, it never altered its spelling from the Conqueror's time to this day, for in Domesday we find it the same. In the Confessor's time Lopham was two distinct towns, and different manors, Lopham-Magna, now North Lopham, belonged to Osli,<sup>1</sup> a freeman, his manor having three carucates of land in demean, and the other Lopham, called afterwards Lopham-Pirca, and now South Lopham, belonged to Alsius, a freeman, whose manor then contained two carucates in demean. This Alsius had a manor in Norton, which in the Conqueror's days he joined to this, making it a bercat to it, after which it came into the Conqueror's hands, who gave them to Roger Bygot Earl of Norfolk, who joined the two Lophams, and granted oil the Norton part to Harel an Englishman;<sup>2</sup> from this time Lopham hath continued as one manor to this day, though they are two distinct parishes, each having their separate bounds and officers.

ROGER BYGOT, who was possessed of this manor at the survey, died in 1107,<sup>3</sup> and was buried in the abbey of Thetford, which he had built, leaving William, his son and heir, who gave the church of Lopham to the monks of Thetford,<sup>4</sup> in the time of Henry I., which was appropriated and then confirmed to that house, with all its appurtenances, by King Henry II. This was South Lopham church, which by its conventual form, and Gothick tower, was in all likelihood built at this time, and it is probable some of those monks had a cell here, and served it for some time, and this is the reason that this church never had any institution, though the monks quitted all their right in it to the lord, who had a release of it from the abbey, and added it, with the appurtenances, to the rector of the other church, who took the cure upon him from that time; this must be very early, for, before 1340, it was taxed at 26 marks, a value that must include the whole. This William being Steward of the Household to King Henry I. perished with that King's children, and divers other of the nobility, by shipwreck, as they came from Normandy into England in the year 1119,<sup>4</sup> leaving

HUGH BYGOD, his brother, his heir, who by King Stephen was made Earl of the East Angles, or Norfolk, which was again confirmed to him by King Henry II. together with the stewardship of that King's household; yet, notwithstanding all these favours, he took part with the Earl of Leicester, in the rebellion began by him, adhering to young Henry (whom King Henry his father had crowned) in his rebellious practices; but meeting with no success, he was forced to make his peace with the King, for a fine of 1000 marks, and not long after, he went into the Holy Land with the Earl of Flanders, and there died in 1177, upon which the King seized all his treasure, and retained it in his hands.

ROGER BYGOD, his son, inherited, who in 1189, was restored by King Richard I. to his earldom, stewardship, and estate, upon paying a fine of 1000 marks for these favours:<sup>5</sup> he died about 1218, for then

HUGH BYGOD, his son, had livery of his lands, performing his homage; he died in 1225, and left

ROGER, his son and heir, who died without issue in 1269, and his inheritance went to

ROGER, his nephew, son to his brother Hugh, who had then livery of that great inheritance, being 25 years old, but he also having no issue, in 1301, settled all his estate (except the manors of Acle and Castre, and the advowson of Celdeston church in Norfolk, and others in Yorkshire) upon King Edward I. after his and his wife Alice's death, together with the marshal's rod, upon condition to be rendered back in case he should have any children; though at the same time John Bygod, his own brother, and heir apparent, was living, who by this means was cut off from all, but the manors that were excepted. This Roger,<sup>6</sup> jointly with Alice his wife, held this manor of the King's grant upon the settlement, at which time the manor house had a demean of 335 acres of land, 15 of meadow, and 20 acres of pasture, with a park, 2 windmills, and the fourth part of Harting mill. He died about 1305,<sup>7</sup> seized of this and many other manors, leaving John, his brother, 40 years old, his next heir,<sup>8</sup> who inherited nothing but the part excepted, the estate going to King Edward I.<sup>9</sup> From which time it remained in the Crown till Edward II. in the 9th year of his reign, gave it, with the rest of the Bygod's estate,<sup>4</sup> to

THOMAS DE BROTHERTON, his brother, whom he this year created Earl of Norfolk, and Marshal of England, he died in 1338, leaving his two daughters his heirs, Alice married to Edward de Montacute, and Margaret first married to John Lord Segraze, and after to Sir Walter Manny, Knt. of the Garter, to whose share, this, among other manors, was allotted—in her right John de Segraze became Lord and patron, upon Thomas de Brotherton's death, and held it till he died in 1351, leaving Elizabeth his daughter and heir, then married to John, son of John Lord Mowbray, though this manor remained in the aforesaid Margaret's hands, and came to her second husband, Walter de Manny, Knt. who had it till he died in 1374, from which time it continued in the said Margaret, till the 24th of March 1399, when she died. She was created Duchess of Norfolk for term of her life, by Richard II. in 1397. It appears that there were great uneasinesses between her and the Lord Segraze, her first husband,<sup>1</sup> for she went in person to Rome, in order to obtain a sentence of divorce from him, of the Pope, having obtained letters of safe conduct for her and her retinue, of the French King; notwithstanding which, she and her servants were all arrested and taken in their journey, at the instigation, as was thought, of her husband, who was then under excommunication for not going to Rome, according to the Pope's citation, though he had pleaded that being a Baron of England, he was not compellable to appear at that court; by this means he stopped her appearing against him at Rome, at the day assigned, and the matter afterwards was made up between them. At her death it descended to

Thomas Lord Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk, her grandson, who was son of her daughter Elizabeth, married as aforesaid to John, son of John Lord Mowbray, who died at Venice in 1399, leaving this Thomas his son, then 14 years old, who, in 1401,<sup>2</sup> had this manor, though the advowson and part of the demesns belonged to Elizabeth his mother,<sup>3</sup> in right of her dower, he never was duke, being beheaded at York, with Richard Scrope Archbishop of Canterbury, in 1405.

John, his brother, then 17 years old, being his heir, who was restored to the title of Duke of Norfolk in 1424, and dying in 1432,<sup>4</sup> John his son, then 17 years old, succeeded him; but this manor was assigned in dower to Catharine his mother, daughter to Ralph Nevil Earl of Hertfordshire, who afterward married to Thomas Strangleknappe, Esq. after that to John Viscount Beaumont, and lastly to John Walsale, brother to Anthony Earl Rivers, all which were lords here in her right. At her death John Duke of Norfolk, her son, enjoyed it, and died seized in 1461, and John his son inherited, he died in 1474, leaving Anne his sole daughter, then two years old, afterwards married to Richard Duke of York, second son to King Edward IV. who was murdered in the tower in 1483, and dying issueless, it fell to the share of John Howard, Knt. son of Sir Robert Howard, Knt. and Margaret his wife, who was one of the two daughters and coheirs of Thomas Mowbray, first Duke of Norfolk,

This manor was held as parcel of Earl Roger's barony, and in 1285 had view of frankpledge, assize of bread and ale, and free-warren belonging to it. In 1609, the quitrents were above 2*l. per annum*; in 1641 the park was farmed at 390*l. per annum*. The Lect belongs to the manor,

The CUSTOMS of which are, that the fines are at the lord's will; the copyhold descends to the eldest son; the tenants can build and pull down, fell timber, and plant on the waste against their own lands, without license.

GOODSON'S MANOR, OR FREE TENEMENT, IN NORTH LOPHAM,

Was held of the hundred, by the service of 1*s.* a year, to which belonged many copy and freeholders;<sup>9</sup> the whole at first contained a carucate of land, which was granted by Earl Roger, to Richard of Lopham, who died in 1194, in which year Ivo of Lopham, his son, gave 20*s.* to have a recognition of the death of his ancestor, for a carucate of land in Lopham, against Gundred the Countess; and in 1198,<sup>1</sup> the said Ivo granted half of the said carucate, with Ivo, the steward of Lopham, his family, and posterity, to Earl Roger, and Gundred his Countess, and agreed to hold the other half of them by the rent of 5*s.* a year, and 20*s. 6d.* sentage, so that now this Free Tenement, as it was then called, contained half a carucate; the 5*s.* rent was afterwards released, and it came to be held of the hundred, and not of the capital manor, at 1*s.* a year rent. In 1248, Henry (of Lopham) the chirurgion, had it; and in 1335, Henry, the son of Robert; (of Lopham;<sup>2</sup>) afterwards it was owned by John Goodson, vicar of Pakenham, whose name it still retains. From this family it went to John Hawes, and from him to Robert Leader, then to John Leader, and from him to Robert Warnes the elder, and then to Robert Warnes the younger, who had it in 1635, by which time the copyhold was all manumised, and the freerents sold off, all but 16*s. 10d. 3q.* a year. In 1684, Robert Warnes, son of the last Robert, held it, by the rent of 12*d.* a year, in lieu of all suit of court to the hundred.<sup>3</sup> It after belonged to Francis Bogas, Gent. who died in 1692, leaving it to his widow, who afterwards married Mr. Samuel Browning of Thetford; and at her death it went to Mr. Samuel Browning, his son, who sold it to Mr. Thomas Saunders of Thetford, the present [1736] owner; but there are no rents now remaining.

THE RECTORY MANOR

Always belonged to the rector, as it now doth, [1736.] its customs being the same as the great manor; there is a rectory-house, and 46

This rectory is in Norfolk archdeaconry and Rockland deanery, valued at 17*l.* 0*s.* 5*d.* and is still charged with first fruits, and 1*l.* 13*s.* 0*d.* yearly tithes. The synodals are 3*s.* and the procurations 7*s.* 7*d.* 0*d.* [1736.]

South Lopham Church is dedicated to St. Nicholas; being built in the conventual form, the tower is square, being a very large Cotluck building,* in it are 6 good bells, the chancel, the nave, south aisle, and porch are leaded, there are no arms nor inscriptions any where in it, except this on a stone in the chancel, very obsolete, Die tacit Dominus Willus Ueling.

And on the outside, between the south windows, are the initial letters for JESUS MARY, &c.

In Mr. Instit's book† it appears the following arms were formerly here, viz.

Segrave, Brotherton, Mowbray, Walter de Maney, or, three chevrons sub. Vert. Ufford; and erm. a bend gul. cottised or.

Cote, ar. a chevron between three coots sub. Harvey, ar. on a bend gul. three trefoils vert. for Christopher Cote, and Barbary Harvey, his wife. Of this family more will occur in Blow-Norton; this Christopher had a lease of this manor. Matthew, his eldest son, was born in 1503; in 1546, Leonard, son of Robert Cote, was buried; 1580, 15 June, Francis Cote, Gentleman-Usher to Queen Elizabeth, was buried in this chancel, in which the following inscriptions were formerly on brass plates.

In 1526, Robert Saundis was buried in this church, who gave 20*s.* towards the repairs of the steeple.

North Lopham Church is dedicated to St. Andrew the Apostle; the tower is square having five bells in it, it was begun to be rebuilt about 1474, for then Thomas Jente, who was buried here, gave 4 marks towards its building, but was not finished till about 1526,§ for till that time most that died here left something towards it; there

* The tower, as before observed, in all likelihood, was built by William Bygod, about the time he gave it to Thetford monks, but the present church was rebuilt long since, most likely by the parish, when Nicholas de Horton, rector here, rebuilt the chancel, between the years 1361, and 1382.

The nave and chancel are thatched, the south isle leaded, and the south porch tiled, in which there is a stone, fixed in the wall, for Simon Aldrich, who died the 5th day of June, 1715.

In the south window of the chancel, a bishop, in his pontificatibus, is represented as dead, lying along.

In the church is a black marble for Francis Bogus, Gent. who died the 6th day of July, A° Dom. 1692. Arms, two fesses and a canton.

Filius Virginiæ Mariæ dat Nobis gaudia vite.

Here were two Gilds,<sup>9</sup> one dedicated to St. John, the other to St. Peter, which were endowed with lands, seized upon by the Crown in the 1st year of Edward VI. and so continued till King Phillip and Queen Mary, in the 3d and 4th year of their reign, gave them to Thomas Reeve and George Calton, who sold them the same year to Thomas Brooke, and William Woodferme, who sold them again immediately to the inhabitants, who now enjoy them, viz. a tenement and half an acre at the west end of the churchyard; three acres of land in North Lopham, the first is called St. John's Acre, because it belonged to that gild, and lies in Well, or Willbush Furlong; the second is St. Peter's Acre, so called for the same reason; this abuts upon the common towards the west; the third is called Lamp Acre, and abuts on the glebe, and was given to maintain a lamp burning in the church; all which are now held of the manor of East Greenwich, by fealty only, without any payment, and were settled to the use of the poor.

In 1412, Sir Edmund Noon, Knt. lord of Shelfhanger, granted a tenement called Elwine's, and 13 acres of land, part of his demesns, to Richard Bosse, to be held free by him and his heirs for ever, by the payment of a red rose every Midsummer Day at Shelfhanger manor, all which lands, with others joined to them, he gave to this town to repair the church for ever, settling them to that use upon William Tye, parson of Shelfhanger, John Pycot, John Clare, and John Gyles, clerks, who, in 1454, conveyed them to Henry Noon, Esq. Edmund Bokenham, Esq. and John Halle, parson of Garboldisham, from which time it hath been held by feoffees, as it now [1736] is, and the profits applied to that use, it being now let at 8*l.* per annum.

In 1500, Robert Bolle of North Lopham gave a rood and half at Willbush, to repair the church for ever.

In 1607, the inhabitants held a piece of land given by Thomas Jente; a tenement called the Town-house, and a croft of one acre, given by Catharine Turnor; a piece of pasture in Lynge Furlong of 2 acres, abutting on Kenninghall Common north.

The other town lands are let at 12*l*. per annum, whereof 1*l*. 10*s*. a year lies in Garboldisham, and 1*l*. a year in South Lopham.

Here is a town-house inhabited by five poor people.

Elizabeth, Mrs. Mary Wythamson of Garboldisham gave a meadow, called St. Ipe Meadow, in Garboldisham, and another meadow adjoining to it, to this parish, the church-wardens of which are annually to receive the rent, and to bind out a poor child every year to a trade, and if there be no poor child in the parish, then they are to lay it out to clothe the poor people of the said parish.

In 1730, the church-wardens leased out a cottage for 60 years to come, to Tristramus Sheppard, at the annual rent of 1*l*. 2*s*.

SOME OF LOPHAM hath an estate of 30*l*. a year at Wortham in Suffolk, which was given by one Purdy for the repairs of the church, and if there were any overplus, to charitable uses, such as the tithes would apply it to, for the good of the town; the houses, and the greatest part of the farm, is to hold.

Tradition has it, that Purdy was a Wortham man, and a leper, and gave his estate to this town, because they were willing he should be buried among them, which Wortham was not: but this being a common story told in most places where there are gifts of this nature, I look upon it as tradition only.

Here are three small cottages for the poor, by whom they are now [1730] inhabited.

This town hath also 60 acres, called the Fith, taken off the common by the lord's consent, of whom they now hold it; it is marsh ground, and let at 8*l*. per annum, the income of which is given to the poor by the tithes every Christmas and Easter. And also a messuage, barn, and 16 acres of freehold land, lying in the parish, now rented at 15*l*. per annum, settled to repair and beautify the church for ever; and before the tenure of knight's service was abolished, it paid scutage, and a relief of 2*s*. 2*d*. ob.

Not many years since the inhabitants purchased a freehold estate in Duckburgh, rented at 8*l*. a year.

THE COMMONS contain as much land as the whole towns beside, on all which North and South Lopham are joint commoners, but no other parishes intercommon with them; they are called the Great or Mull Common, North Green, North Common, and the Ten Common, and the inhabitants heretofore had all Chambook Meadow,<sup>1</sup> a common, which they granted to the lord to make his fishery, agreeing to quit all right of commonage in it, and on all other the lord's wastes, on the east side the hundred ditch, and park banks, for which the lord agreed to lay them out an equivalent of other lands upon their Great Common, which was done accordingly, reserving the trees, tuze, and bushes, growing, or which should ever hereafter grow on the lands so laid out, which privilege the lord still enjoys, the lands being then called the Secretals, and now the Allands, or Olhills.

In former times this town was most wood, though now it doth not more abound with it than its neighbours; for it appears from a fine sued in 1383, that there was then great plenty; for in that year the Countess of Norfolk settled 60 acres of wood, and the pannage and keeping one boar, and 24 swine in her park here, with liberty of gathering acorns for three days, with 25 men, on herself for life, remainder to the Countess of Pembrook for life, after to Sir John Hastyngs, Knt. Earl of Pembrook, her son, and the heirs of his body, remainder to the heirs of the Countess.

The honour of Clare extended into this town, there being divers lands here, formerly held of that honour.

Sir ROWLAND HILL is now [1736] patron, and Mr. Hall aforesaid is incumbent, who hath published a volume of Sermons, and another of Catechistical Lectures, in 8vo. and a Sermon on the Peace.

This town is remarkable among the country people for the three WONDERS; (as they call them;) the first is, the Selfgrown Stile, being a tree grown in such a manner, that it forms a regular stile, and serves for such in a common footpath. The second is, the Ox-Foot Stone, which lies in a meadow so called; it is a large stone of the pebble kind, on which is the fair impression of an ox's foot, which seems to be natural; the fable of it is, that in a great dearth (nobody knows when) there came a cow constantly to that place, which suffered herself to be milked (as long as the dearth lasted) by the poor people; but when that decreased, she struck her foot against that stone, which made the impression, and immediately disappeared. The third is called Lopham Ford, at which place the Ouse and Waveney (those disagreeing brethren, as Spelman<sup>3</sup> calls them) have their rise, and though there is no greater division than nine feet of ground, yet the former goes west by Thetford to Lynn, and the latter in a direct contrary course, by Diss, and so to Yarmouth, including this whole county; Leland calls it Lopham Market, (without any authority,) and says that it belonged to Richmond fee, being led into that error, I suppose, by its being the place where the gaol of the Duke of Norfolk's liberty was kept, of which Swaffham is the head town in this county, where the coroner for the liberty generally resided, and that town belonging to Richmond fee, might possibly lead him into this mistake; and as this liberty is of large extent in the county, it will not be amiss to give you an account of its rise and privileges in this place, because it hath been generally reputed to be, as it were, annexed to this manor.

King EDWARD IV.<sup>4</sup> by letters patent under the broad seal of England, dated at Westminster the 7th of December, in the 8th year of his reign, and in the year of our Lord 1468, granted to JOHN Duke of Norfolk, and ELIZABETH his wife, and their heirs, for ever, the return of all writs whatsoever, and of all bills, summons, precepts, and mandates of the King, and of all acting under him, within the liberty, manors, and hundreds following, viz. within the manors and demans of Fornet, Framlingham-Parva, Ditchingham-Parva, Ditchingham, Loddon, Syselund, Halvergate, Southwalsham, Cantley, Strumpshaw, Castre, Winterton, Dickleburgh, Boyton, and Bayfield,

in the county of Norfolk, and also within the whole hundred of Earshom, and the half hundred of Gildercrosse in the said county, and also in the towns, parishes, and demesans, of Kelsale, Bonnagaie, Peosenhall, Calcote, Stonham, Dennington, Brundish, Ilketshalle, and Cratsheld, in Suffolk; and in the rapes of Lewis and Bramber, and all the parts and parcels thereto belonging; and in the hundred and lordship of Bosham, and the town of Stoughton, in Sussex, in the manor and lordships of Reygate and Barkyng in Surrey; and the town, manor, and lordships of Harwich and Dovercourt in Essex; and in all parcels, precincts, and jurisdictions of all the aforesaid rapes, hundreds, towns, manors, and lordships, so that no sheriff, or any other officer whatsoever, should enter the said liberty, but that every thing should be transacted by the officers of the said Duke, appointed for that purpose. Furthermore, the King granted to the Duke and his heirs, all manner of fines, profits, amerciaments, penalties, &c. of all residents in the said liberty, with all other things that should accrue to his royal crown and dignity, with full power for the Duke's officers to seize for any of them, in as full a manner as the King's officers should have done, if this grant had not been made. Further, the King granted to the said Duke and his heirs, all weyfs and strays, felons' goods, and forfeitures; and also, that the residents in this liberty shall not be sued or forced to answer in any other court, than that of the liberty, for any sum under 40s. And further, the King granted to the said Duke, full power and authority, to have his own coroners, and clerks of the markets, in his liberty, with the same power that those officers of the King have in any other place; together with a steward of the liberty, who shall have power to determine all actions under 40s. so that they arise within the liberty; all which privileges the King confirmed to him, in exchange for the castle, manor, lordship, and burgh of Chepstowe, the manor of Barton, and the manor and lordship of Tuddenham, in the Welsh Marshes, to which all the aforesaid privileges (and much greater) belonged, and had been enjoyed by the Duke and his ancestors, time out of mind, but were now by the Duke, at the King's earnest request, conveyed to Wm. Earl of Pcmbrook, and his heirs, and a fine levied accordingly. This liberty, with all its privileges, was enjoyed by the said Duke, and his successours, till Queen Elizabeth's time, and then were exemplified under seal, at Westminster, the 4th of July, 1558, at the request of Thomas Duke of Norfolk, who was then seized in fee, and so continued till 1568, when he settled this, among other large estates, on Tho. Cornwallis, Knt. Nich. L'Estrange, Knt. Tho. Timperly, Wm. Barker, Rob. Higford, and Edw. Peacock, and their heirs, to his own use for life, and to whatever other uses he should declare, by any will or deed that he should make; and soon after he declared by deed, that they stood seized to the use of the faithful and beloved servants of the late Duke, John Blevhasset, W. Dixe, William Contrell, and Laurence Bannester, in trust, that they should truly pay the debts and legacies of the said Duke, and the overplus to remain to Phillip Earl of Surrey, and his heirs, remainder to Thomas Lord Howard, and William Lord Howard, and their heirs; but upon the attainder of the Duke, and Phillip Earl of Surrey, it was seized by the Crown, where it continued till James I. by letters patent, dated at Westminster in the year 1602, being the first year of his reign, gave and granted to his faithful counsellors, Thomas Lord Howard, baron of Walden, and Henry Howard, brother of Thomas late Duke of Norfolk, and son of Henry late Earl of Surrey, and their heirs, this liberty, with the honour, lordship, and manor of Fornet, and the manors of Earls, or Little Framlingham, Halvergate, Ditchingham, Siseland, Dickleburgh, Loddon, and Laundich hundred in Norfolk; the castle, soke, and manor of Bongeye, and manor of Cratfield, in Suffolk; (all being part of the possessions of the late attainted Duke;) together with all lawloys, amerciaments, views of frankpledge, &c. the one moiety to Thomas Lord Howard, and his heirs, the other to Henry Howard, and his heirs; and the year following, on the 3d day of April, the King, by other letters patent, granted to Thomas Earl of Suffolk, Lord Chamberlain of his Household, and to Henry Earl of Northampton, Guardian of the Cinque Ports, (those titles being conferred on them in the mean time,) and their heirs, the manors and advowsons of Ditchingham and South Walsham, late the attainted Duke's; and by other letters patent, dated at Westminster, Nov. 22, in the 6th year of his reign, he gave them the half hundred of Gylt-cross in Norfolk, and Cratfield and Kelsale manors in Suffolk, late the said Duke's, with all their liberties, &c.; together with the barony, burgh, and manor of Lewes in Sussex, and the barony and manor of Bramber, with the office of itinerant bailiff, and of clerks of the markets within the said baronies in Sussex, together with Darkyng cum Capell manor in Surrey, with all the liberties of the late Duke of Norfolk, as leets, views of frankpledge, lawdays, assize of bread and beer, pleas, weyfs, streys, forfeitures of felons, fugitives, deodands, knights fees, cscheats, heriots, free-warren, return of all writs, precepts, &c. in as full and ample a manner as ever Thomas Duke of Norfolk enjoyed his liberty, before his attainder; by means of which grant, each of them was seized of a moiety, all which premises they divided by indenture, dated the 13th day of May following. The manors of Fornet, Ditchingham, Loddon, Syselaud, Halvergate, South Walsham, Laundich hundred, and the half hundred of Earsham, with the manor of Bongey, were assigned to Henry Earl of Northampton, and his heirs, of which he died seized in 1613, and they descended to Thomas Earl of Arundell and Surrey, (who was restored in blood, in a parliament at Westminster, March 19, 1602,) as cousin and next heir, then aged 25 years,<sup>5</sup> he being son of Phillip late Earl of Arundell and Surrey, deceased, son and heir of Thomas late Duke of Norfolk, and elder brother of the said Henry late Earl of Northampton. And after this, Henry Earl of Arundell and Surrey, by indenture dated March 1, 1617, purchased to him and his heirs, of Thomas Earl of Suffolk, all his part, right, and estate, in the hundred of Gylt-cross, Kelsale and Cratfield manors in Suffolk; the rapes of Lewes and Bramber and Noman's-Land in Sussex; Darkyng and Capell manors in Surrey, the barony, manor, and burgh of Lewes, with the office of bailiff itinerant; the manors of Lewisburgh, Rymer, Ilford, Seaford, Meching, Middleton, Brithelmeston; the free chase called Clers; liberty of the sheriff's turn of Noman's-Lands, Sheffield, and Grinstead manors; the barony and manor of Bramber, with the itinerant bailiff there; the burgh of Horsham, burgh of Shorambury and Beding New Park; the burgh of Steyning, and the manor of Sompting-Abbots;

the office of clerks of the markets in Lewes and Bramber baronies, Sheffield and Langfield manor, the fourth part of Barkyng and Capell manors, the tollbooth of Southwark, and Guilford in Surrey, and all privileges that Thomas late Duke of Norfolk had in the letters patent of Queen Elizabeth; and particularly all those liberties, commonly called the Duke of Norfolk's LIBERTY, by virtue of which, Thomas Earl of Arundell and Surrey aforesaid was seized of the whole in fee, and so continued till the 12th of August, 1641, and then he and the Lady Alathea Countess of Arundell, his wife, and Henry Lord Mowbray and Maltravers, their eldest son, and heir apparent, Henry Bedingfield, Knt. and John Cornwaleis of Earl-Soham, their trustees, settled it (among many other estates) on Lionel Earl of Middlesex, Henry Lord Pierpoint, Edward Lord Newburgh, William Playters, Knt. and Bart. and Richard Onslow, Knt. in trust, to whatever uses the Earl, his lady, and their son, should declare by deed; and on the 16th of August, in the same year, they declared it was absolutely to the use of their trustees, and their heirs, in order that they should make sale of all, or any parcels of the said baronies, lands, tenements, hereditaments, liberties, advowsons, &c. aforesaid; and that the money from thence raised should be by them applied to pay the debts of Thomas late Earl of Arundell and Surrey, and the overplus to remain to the Lord Maltravers, or his heirs; and whatever remained unsold, after the debts paid, they were to stand seized of, to the use of the Lord Maltravers and his heirs; (and that the title might be perfect, Will. Howard of Maynard, in Cumberland, Knt. joined in the indentures;) and thus they stood seized till Henry Lord Pierpoint, by the name of Henry Earl of Kingston upon Hull, Marquis of Dorset, by deed dated the 6th of Feb. 1656, at the request of Henry Howard, son of Henry late Earl of Arundell and Surrey, released to Will. Playters, and Rich. Onslow aforesaid, and their heirs, all his right in the premises, by virtue of which they were solely seized, and being so, by indenture, dated the 30th of July, 1659, they conveyed them to Arthur Onslowe, Knt. and William Turner, citizen and draper of London, and their heirs; (Fornect, Marshal's, and Grey's manors in Banham, being particularly named;) and the said Arthur and William, by indenture dated the 4th of Nov. 1660, jointly with, and at the request of, Henry Howard, Esq. second son of Henry Earl of Arundell, deceased, and Rich. Onslow of West Clandon, Knt. Arth. Onslow, his son and heir, John Fowcell of Fowellscom in Devonshire, Esq. and Rich. Marriot of Clement's Danes in Middlesex, Knt. conveyed the whole absolutely to John Taseburgh of Bodney in Norfolk, Esq. and his heirs, in trust, and to the use of Rich. Onslowe, Arth. Onslowe, John Taseburgh, and Will. Turner, and their heirs, to the intention that they should sell the whole, or any part of the premises, with the woods or timber, to raise money to pay all the debts of the aforesaid Hen. Howard, with all their own expenses in the affair, and the remaining overplus, whether in money, or estates unsold, was to be to the sole use of the said Henry Howard, and his heirs, and of whomsoever he should assign it to, upon which the said Rich. Onslowe, Arth. Onslowe, Will. Turner, and John Taseburgh being solely seized of the liberty, &c. beg that the liberties, &c. might be allowed and confirmed to them, which was done, upon their producing the charters and grants, all which were allowed by Jeffry

Palmer, Bart. Attorney-General, and at the request of Henry Lord Howard, were exemplified under seal at Westminster, the 2d of April, 1669, and soon after (the debts being paid) it was again vested in the Howard family, the Duke of Norfolk being now lord, who nominates a steward and coroner, and keeps a gaol for debtors, either here, or elsewhere, as he pleases.

In 1603, there were in both Lophams 351 communicants, and now [1736] there are 76 dwelling-houses, 95 families, and 470 inhabitants in South Lopham; and 74 dwelling-houses, 92 families, and 460 inhabitants in North Lopham. They paid 5*l.* 12*s.* to the old tenths, being valued together, but now they are assessed single to the King's tax, viz. South Lopham at 785*l.* per annum, and North Lopham at 772*l.* 10*s.* each of them paying a lect fee of 18*d.*

N O R T O N,

Now called Blow-Norton, corruptly for Norton Bel'cau, as it is anciently spelt, which signifies the north town upon the fair water, or river, on which it is situated, and by which it is divided, on its south part, from Suffolk. It had four distinct manors in the Conqueror's time.

The first of which belonged to William Earl Warren,<sup>6</sup> and was held by Fulcher under him, of his castle of Lewes, and laid in Kenninghall Soken, before the Earl had it. This was afterwards called Brome Hall manor, and was held of the Earl Warren's castle at Acre, by the service of the fourth part of a fee, which service descended with that castle and honour; it was after held of Tateshale barony.

The second was held as a distinct manor in the Confessor's days, and in the Conqueror's belonged to Alsius, who then added it to his manor of Lopham,<sup>7</sup> as a berewic; from him it became part of the estate of Roger Bygod, under whom, at the survey, Alured, an Englishman, held it. It was given very early by the Bygods to the Bromes, and so became part of Brome Hall manor, being always held of the Earls and Dukes of Norfolk, by the service of a quarter of a fee.

The third part belonged to the Abbot of Bury, and was held by a soeman,<sup>8</sup> of his in the Confessor's days, and by Joceline,<sup>9</sup> in the Conqueror's, the whole town being then a league long, and half a league broad, and paid 8d. ob. 1q. Danegeld; there were then 5 acres of land belonging to the church: this was called Semere's manor, from the Seymors, or St. Maur's, lords thereof, and was held of the abbey by the service of a whole knight's fee.

The fourth part belonged to Ely abbey;<sup>1</sup> but I do not find who gave it, though imagine it was given with Garboldisham, to which it might then belong; it is plain it was seized as that was, and recovered from Roger Bigot in the Conqueror's days, after which the Abbot held it but a little while, for it came to the Earl Warren, whether by feoffment or purchase I cannot say; one of those Earls granted it to William de la Snore, to be held of the castle at Aere, by the service of a quarter of a fee; from which time I find nothing of it till 1288, and then William de Blow-Norton held it by that service. In 1345, Adam de Norton was lord; in 1401, John Armiger had it; in 1570, one Chittock had it; but it was soon after purchased and joined to Semere manor. It is now called Brent Hall, or Burnt Hall, because the mansion-house was burnt down; it still retains a place in the style of the court, which runs thus: Brome Hall and Semere's, with Brent Hall in Blow-Norton.

BROME HALL MANOR

Was so called from the family of the Bromes, who had one part of it of the grant of the Bygots, in very early days, the other part coming to them from Roger de Somery, whose ancestors had it of the Earl Warren's gift. It seems that Roger, son of William de Brom, married Petronilla,<sup>2</sup> one of the heiresses of Roger de Somery; for in an inquisition taken in the time of Henry III. it is said, that he held it jointly with her, as part of the inheritance of Roger de Somery, of the Earl of Arundell; this was about 1280; in 1302, they settled the manor and advowson on themselves for life, then on William de Brom, their son and heir, remainder to Robert, their other son, Henry de Brom (brother to Roger) being trustee. In the next year Roger died, and left William, his son and heir, who died before his mother, so that Robert de Brom, his brother, at his mother Petronell's death, which was before 1443, inherited the whole, it being settled by her on him and Joan his wife, in tail, in the year 1336, by a fine then levied between them and Edmund Bacon, parson of Corton, in Suffolk, and Robert de Jernemuth, or Yarmouth; in an inquisition in 1345, it is said that he held both the parts of this manor, and paid a relief of x.s. to the Earl of Arundell, for the half part held of him, at a quarter of a fee, and x.s. to the Earl Warren, as a relief for the other half, that being held of him at a quarter of a fee. In 1363, he held it jointly with Roger Brom, his eldest son. In 1401, Robert Brome, Esq. son of the last Roger, had it, who died intestate in 1453, leaving Olive his widow, who administered, John Broome, Esq. his son, being very young; he afterwards was lord, and left it, at his death, to Henry Brome, his son and heir, who left it to James Brome, his son and heir, who died without issue about 1510, and it descended to his two sisters, viz. Mary Jermy, and Anue, first married to Rob. Stede, Esq. after to John Brampton, and then to Rob. Rookwood, Gent.; at her death the whole went to Thomas Brampton, her son and heir, who had purchased the other moiety in 1533, of Edward Jermy, son and heir of Mary Broome, by Jermy, her first husband, she and Ralph Shelton, Esq. son of Sir John Shelton, Knt. her second husband, joining, to make a complete title; and thus it was joined to

<sup>2</sup> This Petronell was certainly daughter of sir Rob. de Maltaby, Knt. and Olive, his wife, as appears from many deeds in my collections, to one of which her seal is fixed when she was a widow, on which she places Maulby's arms before her husband's. How she came to be one of Somery's heiresses I cannot say.

SEMERE HALL MANOR,

Which was part of the revenues of Bury abbey, and belonged to Joceline, brother to Abbot Baldwin, who infeoffed him in it in the Conqueror's time; it after came to the Bygods, of whom it was held in the eleventh century, by the family surnamed de Cadomo, or Caam; Rich de Caam was lord and patron of St. Andrew's in 1280, and in 1285 Olive his widow, who held it in dower, remitted all her claim and right to Sir John de Dykele, Knt. who seems to be heir general to Rich. de Caam; and in the same year Sir John granted it to Ralf de Sancto Mauro,<sup>3</sup> or Seymore, and Alice his wife, and their heirs; and the said Olive, and William de Turri, her second husband, confirmed the grant, for which Ralf and Alice gave them an annuity of 7 marks, and a gown every year worth one mark, during the life of the said Olive; in 1311, Ralf being dead, Alice his widow settled the manor and advowson, after her own death, on Edmund, their son, and Joan his wife, who was lady in 1315; and in 1345, John de Seymor was lord, son, I suppose, of Edmund: he held it of John de Segrave, as of his manor of Fornect, he of the Abbot, and the Abbot of the King, at half a fee, and paid 20s. relief. In 1423, John de Seymor had it; in 1435, a fine was levied between Ralph Gunton, and Walter Walton of London, mason, and Joan his wife, by which it was settled on Ralph and his heirs; about 1510, it is said to be in the heirs of John Boteram, of whom, in all probability, it was purchased by Christopher Coote, Esq.<sup>4</sup> who had it settled on him and his trustees by fine, in 1521; he died Sept. 17, 1563,<sup>5</sup> seized of Seymor's manor here, Rich. Coote, his son and heir, being 34 years old, who had immediate livery; he was afterwards knighted, and lived to the age of 124 years; Sir Charles Coote, Knt. and Bart. who translated himself and family into Ireland, where he was Lieutenant in King Charles the First's time, and was killed in 1642, the last of the family that had this manor, it being joined to Brome Hall manor by the Brampton's, who purchased it, and so had all the manors and the whole advowson; the pedigree of which family, as far as it concerns this town, here follows.

<sup>3</sup> This Ralph was attached to answer the King, that whereas he had commanded him to attend him personally at Carlisle, with his whole service, in his army against the Scots, 15 days after Easter, or before that time to appear at the Exchequer, and fine for that service; he despising the mandate neither came to do the service, nor appeared to fine for it. He pleaded that the precept was not delivered, and that he held nothing of the King for which he ought to do that service; upon which he was dismissed. Madox Hist. Excheq. 461.

relating to it are very large; it is said that Sir Nicholas Coote, Knt. who lived in Queen Elizabeth's time, was a retainer of the Duke of Norfolk's, and upon his cause, happened to strike the Attorney-General, for which he was fined 20,000*l.* and laid in prison for it a long time, and at last was forced to sell his estate to pay the fine, with the consent of Sir Charles, his son, who was created A<sup>o</sup> 1660, Earl of Monrath. See Lopham, p. 232.

The Lect belongs to the hundred, the lect fee being 14*d.* The lord of the hundred is lord paramount, having weyff and strey, view of frankpledge and free-warren, assize of bread and beer, &c. for when the lords of the several manors were forced by quo warrantos to produce their charters, and plead what liberties had been immemorially used, the lords here did not claim any.

The CUSTOMS OF THE MANORS are these: the fines are at the lord's will; the copyhold descends to the youngest son; it gives no dower; the tenants cannot fell timber, nor waste their copyhold-houses, without license. In Brome Hall manor every free tenant, upon purchase of any freehold, pays a year's freerent to the lord, as a customary relief.

I do not find the religious were much concerned here.

The monks of Thetford's portion<sup>o</sup> of tithes out of St. Andrew's was taxed at 10*s.*

The Prior of the canons of Thetford, in 1428, was taxed 12*d.* for his temporals here.

monks, by Richard de Caam, lord of belonging to that manor. Mon. Ang.

The Prior of Ixworth was taxed 2s. 6d. for his temporals here, and
The Prior of Bokenham 14s. for his temporals in this town.

1343, 7 April, Galfr. de Dychyngham, priest. ROBERT DE BROM. After his death it laid without any institution till 1394, when ROBERT DE BROM, the patron, obtained a perpetual union of it to the church of St. Andrew, upon proving to the Bishop that the revenues were so small, that nobody would accept it; and it appearing that the church was much decayed, both in its roof and walls, and the parishioners very poor, and unable to repair it, and that St. Andrew's church, standing close by it, in the same churchyard, was big enough to hold all the parishioners of both, he licensed them to pull down St. Margaret's church, May 13, 1394, upon which it was levelled to the ground, in such a manner, that at this day there appear no remains of such a place. When Sir ROGER DE BROM was patron, Norwich Domesday saith, that it had a house and 10 acres of glebe, it then paid 12d. synodals, and 2s. 2d. procurations; from this time each manor had an alternate presentation to 1430, 3 July, Sir Stephen Smith, priest. JOHN ALMOT of Melles, and JOHN BERTRAM, of Hepworth.

From the evidences and annals of Caius College in Cambridge I learn, that this Sir Stephen gave all his lands and tenements in Barningham, in Suffolk, for the maintenance of a fellow to be a priest, to perform divine offices for the dead, in that college, and to preach thrice every year at Barningham, viz. on St. Margaret's Day, in Advent, and in Lent, and in his sermons to make mention of him, his benefactor, and that he should be called Stephen Smith's priest; the lands given were then 4*l. per annum*, and in Dr. Caius's time 5*l.*; he is the fifth senior fellow on the foundation. The estate now consists of a convenient farm-house, and 70 acres of pasture, 24 acres 3 roods of arable, all well wooded, the money rent being 8*l. 6s. 8d.* the corn rent 2 quarters and a half of wheat, and 3 quarters and 3 bushels of malt [1376].

1474, Smith resigned, and Rob. Woodward succeeded. JAMES BLUNDELL, and OLIVE his wife.

1722, The Rev. Mr. Nathaniel Rye, on Vincent's death, who is the present [1736] incumbent, and holds it united to Hepworth, being presented by Mr. R. BROWNE, patron.

This rectory is valued at 5*l. 6s. 8d.* and being sworn of the clear yearly value of 38*l. 5s.* is discharged of first fruits and tenths. There is a rectory-house, and 25 acres of glebe. Here was a Gild dedicated to St. Peter.

The CHURCH is a mean fabrick, of one isle only, which is thatched, as is the chancel; the north porch is tiled, the tower is square, and hath in it three bells, on which are the following inscriptions:

1. Sancte Johannes, ora pro nobis.
2. Sancta Caterina, ora pro nobis.
3. O Martir Barbara, pro me Deum erora.

There is no inscription in the nave, this being now lost :

Orate pro Anima Margarete Cootte Generose que ob. 1<sup>o</sup> die mens.
Sept. 1<sup>o</sup> Dni. 1521.

At the entrance of the chancel lies a stone robbed of its brasses which had this, viz.

Of your Charitie pray for the Soules of Thomas Garneys Esqr. & Alice his Wife, the which Thomas deceased the first Day of August in the Yeare of our Lord God 1544, on whose Soules Jesu have Mercy.

Garneys with a mullet on the chevron, impaling a fess dancette between three crescents.

Another hath Stede impaling Brome. It is robbed of this inscription :

Of your Charitie pray for the Soul of John Stede Esqr. the which deceased the 20 Day of Dec. in the Year of our Lord God 1540, on whose Soul Jesu have Mercy.

Another stone was laid over a priest, the cup and wafer, the emblems of the priesthood, still remaining.

On three brass plates upon a stone at the north-east corner of the chancel.

Here lieth interred Thomas Brampton Esquier who deceased the iv

At the upper end of the chancel, on the south side, was a raised tomb, covered with a marble, under which Mr. Christopher Cootte, who died in 1563, was interred; this is now taken down, and the stone laid on the pavement.

The house right over against the church is called the Place, which name it assumed when it was rebuilt by John Brampton, its old name being Brome Hall.

In the kitchen window (before it was repaired) I saw these arms:

STEDE.

LOVE AND GRACE, DWELLE IN THIS PLACE.

William Calthorp married Cecily Brome, and was owner of an estate here, in 1536.

The arms of Stede were imperfect, and seemed to have been parted per pale; and there was an imperfect coat of Brampton.

In 1603, there were 110 communicants, and now [1736] there are 32 houses, and 160 inhabitants. It paid 50s. to the old tenth, and now is assessed at 660*l.* to the land tax.

Here is about 1 rood of land, which lies at Furze Common, a house being lately pulled down there, and another rebuilt more convenient, for two dwellers, on the waste, which hath about a rood of land laid to it.

The COMMONS are, New Cross, which contains about 10 acres, Furze Common about 30 acres, South Fen about 30 acres; and there are about 80 acres of common car and fen, on all which they common solely.

GATESTHORP

Is a small village, known by travellers by the name of Gasthorp Gate, which is a publick-house that hath a gate for its sign, contrived at first, I suppose, from the name of the town; it stands on a great road which crosses the river here: it seems to take its name from some owner of it, Gastorþ, or Gatesthorp, signifying the village or mansion of some one of that name.

The CHURCH is dedicated to St. Nicholas, and is a rectory, discharged of first fruits and tenths. It hath no parsonage-house, but there are 30 acres of glebe.

- 1681, 30 June, Thomas Barnes, A.M. on Rayner's death. Sir ROBERT DRURY, Bart. He was instituted to Riddlesworth the same day, and held them by union till the 19th of December following, and then he obtained a perpetual consolidation. See Riddlesworth.

The church stands alone on a hill, it is a very mean building of one isle only, and a chancel, both of which are thatched; the tower is square, having only two bells, a third being sold in 1607, to repair the church; there is not one inscription, nor any thing else remarkable, except several very ancient coffin-stones with crosses upon them, which were laid over some of the rectors, or other religious persons that were interred here. Since the consolidation, Service is performed here but once in a fortnight.

This village was always small, being but half a league long, and half a league broad, and paid but 7*d. Danegeld*. It belonged to the Conqueror, who committed it to Earl Godric's care; it had then one carucate in demean, and was held by a freeman in King Edward's time, and was in Kenninghall soken.<sup>8</sup>

The Abbot of Bury had a part here worth 5*s.* in the Confessor's time, and 10*s.* in the Conqueror's, when it was held of him by an Englishman.<sup>9</sup>

The whole town, except the Abbot's part, remained in the Crown, till King Henry II. gave it to William de Albany Earl of Arundel, before 1198, and the year following, at his death, it went to William, his son and heir, who made a feoffment of the whole, to

WARINE DE GATESTHORP, and his heirs, who were to hold it of him and his heirs, by the service of two knights' fees, and this is the reason that all the manors here were afterwards held of Tateshale barony. Soon after this it was divided, for the Prior of Thetford had the advowson and half a fee, and JOHN DE BERDEWELL, and his partners had another half fee, each of which constituted a manor. Gatesthorp's whole fee was afterwards called, West Hall, or Wrotham's; the Prior's half fee, East Hall, or Garlek's; and Berdewell's half fee was called Up Hall.

WEST HALL, OR WROTHAM'S MANOR,

Was, after Warine's death, in Sir Adam de Gatesthorp, then in Galfrid de Stanton, and soon after in Adam de Wrotham; in 1346, in James his son, and in 1350, Nic. de Wrotham was lord; in 1364, James de Wrotham, and Alice his wife, owned it; in 1366, James was dead, and the manor belonged to Roger de Felbrigge, John Seckford, Knts. and others, trustees of Alice, his widow, who after married to John Cocket, who was lord. In 1398, Tho. de Redelesworth,<sup>1</sup> was lord, who left it to Jeffry de Redelesworth, his son, who by will dated 1415, ordered to be buried at Gasthorp, and gave his manor there to Thomas his son, in tail, remainder to Sir William Berdewell, and Robert his son, who was executor, and inherited about 1450, Thomas Redelesworth, son of John, dying soon after without heirs, as did his two sisters, Agnes and Margaret, upon which

ROBERT, son of Sir William Berdewell, Knt. did homage for it to Ralf Lord Cromwell, as belonging to Tateshale barony, of which it was held by one fee; and thus it was joined to the other manor, and hath continued so ever since.

EAST HALL, OR GARLECK'S MANOR,

Came, some way or other, very soon from Thetford Prior (who kept the advowson to himself, and part of the demeans, valued in 1302 at a quarter of a fee) to

JOHN DE FURNEAUX, Will. and Roger de Maynwaryn, Hugh de Snitterton, and Nich. de Beaufeau, who were lords in 1280, being Furneaux's trustees; after this it belonged to

JEFFRY BAINARD, whose son Roger was lord in 1294, and lived at Wramplingham; he settled it on Will. de la Menewaryn, rector of East-Herling, who, in 1336, conveyed it to Sir Walter de Fakenham, rector of Gasthorp, together with the reversion of the dower of Marion, late wife of Jeffry Banyard, who was still living. In 1346,

AVELINE, late wife of Roger le Menewaryn, was lady. In 1349,

ALICE, late wife of Hugh de Bokenham, had it; and the same year Roger Baniard became lord, who was succeeded by Robert Baniard and Maud his wife, who left a daughter named Margery; she and John, son of Sir John Furneaux, Knt. and Alice Avenaunt, daughter of Rose atte Wyk of Fakenham-Parva, niece to Rob. Baniard, released all their rights to

JOHN GARLEK, of Gatesthorp, before 1361; and he, in 1381, settled it on Nic. de Whicheingham and others, who in 1388 released their rights to Walter Garlek of Sporle, his son, and Adam Monk of Lerling, who conveyed it to Tho. Jenney, Knt. Henry and Edmund de Pakenham, in trust, and so it continued till about 1398, and then it was purchased of the said Walter by

SIR WILL. BERDEWELL of West-Herling, Knt. and joined to his manor of Up Hall, both which, by will dated in 1391, he settled on Margaret his wife, and Robert his son, in tail, naming Tho. Jenney, Tho. Hemgrave, Knts. Henry and Edmund de Pakenham, his trustees.

UP HALL, OR BERDEWELL'S MANOR,

Was granted to John de Berdewell, who was lord in 1285; at his death Sara his wife had it; she was daughter to Sir John de Furneaux, and lady in 1290. In 1330, Thomas, her son, was lord; in 1342, Ric. Rob. and Thomas, grandsons of John and Sarah de Berdewelle, were lords. In 1348, John de Berdewelle; and in 1375, James de Wrotham had it, during the life of Alice his wife, by grant from Tho. Berdewelle. In 1399, Sir William Berdewelle, Knt. was lord, whose trustees, John Cokam, Tho. Derham, and Ric. Alfred, in 1403, settled it on Robert, son of Sir Will. Berdewelle, and Elizabeth his wife, after the death of the said Sir William, and Margaret his wife; and in 1433, Sir William released Up Hall and Garleck's to his son Robert, in whom all the three manors became united, and have passed as West-Herling to this time; for which reason I shall refer you thither.

In the Custom Roll of West Hall Manor, made in Sir John de Gatesthorp's time, this peculiar custom is entered: That every tenant of that manor that marries out of the homage, is obliged to pay the lord a bed, bolster, sheet, and pillow; this was constantly observed, and there are abundance of entries in the rolls of such payments; but in Richard the Second's time the bed was omitted by the lord's kindness,<sup>2</sup> though the rest were paid in Queen Elizabeth's time, or a composition for them. Every woman that had a bastard paid 2s. 8d. teyrwite, but the widows did not so. The dower of this manor was a third part of all free and copyhold lands, and a moiety of all lands held in soccage.

It was fine certain, and the copyhold descended to the youngest son; the tenants could not plant, nor fell timber, nor waste their copyhold-houses without license. The greatest part (if not the whole) is purchased by the present lord, so that there are but few if any tenants at this time [1736]

In 1419, the town of Crathesthorp held a piece of pasture called the Rodys, and then the cullet<sup>3</sup> that went in the lord's flock, and

lecta) or collect of sheep, was a collection of different men's sheep, that had a laid in his fold, paid as many small rents as amounted to 4s. per annum.

In 1390, Richard de Boulant's tenants in Wilby were attached to do fealty and homage to East Hall manor, and also the tenants of Wymeferthing<sup>4</sup> for the same, and for one pound of pepper annual rent, issuing out of the tenement, and 50 acres of land, which lies between the way called Bokenham Gate, and the tenement of Sir Hugh Le Vere, and abuts on Wymeferthing town, the tithes of which belong two garbs to Thetford monks, and one garb to Shelfhanger rector. This laid in Winfarthing and Shelfhanger, on the road that leads from Shelfhanger to Winfarthing. The rector of Winfarthing paid 20s. to the monks of Thetford for his portion, and Shelfhanger rector 18d.

KEMPE'S MANOR

Was that part which belonged to Bury abbey; in 1288, Adam Kempe had it, and paid 2s. 6d. a year to that abbey; in 1289, Gilbert Kempe owned it; in 1294, Will. Kempe, who gave part of it with his daughter Lettice, in marriage to Will. de Norwich; in 1297, he was dead, and she married again to Simon de la Maynwaryn of Herling, and that part fell into East Hall manor; the other part, in 1330, at Emma Kempe's death, came to John Kempe her son; and in 1341 was Will. Kempe's, by which time it was so far divided and aliened, that there remained no rents.

This Norwich family was the most ancient of any that I meet with, that lived here; I have a deed without date, by which John de Norwich, who lived at Gasthorp, manumised Richard son of William Godhewe, of Herling-Parva, and all his posterity.

The Lect belongs to the hundred, the lord of which is lord paramount, and hath weyf, strey, and all other liberties, the lords of these manors not claiming any, upon the quo warrantos brought for each lord to set forth his privileges. The lect fee is 12d.

Mrs. Margaret Gawdie gave 20s. per annum to the poor of this parish, which is now [1736] paid by the parish of Garboldisham.

In 1603 here were 27 communicants; and now there are 9 houses, and about 60 inhabitants. It paid 38s. to the tenths, and is now [1736] assessed at about 150*l.* to the land tax.

right to go in the lord's flock, paying the usual yearly rents; and in such places where these cullets were, the office called the cullyorship was to collect those rents, for thus saith another old roll; memorandum, "That tenant that beryth colyoursip oone yer, beryth "the reveshypp the next yer."

GARBOLDESHAM,

GERBODES, or Gerbold's Town, is so called from some Saxon who was owner of it, þam in their language signifying a house or village; it is bounded by the Lophams and Kenninghall on the east, by Market-Herling north, and by West-Herling and Gatesthorp west; it contained several manors, all which were united in Thomas Duke of Norfolk in King Henry the Eighth's time, and continue so to this day: the biggest manor was called Wica, afterwards Wykes, now Wicken; the common called Wicken Lyng is the only memorial now remaining of that name.

The capital manor, in the year 1045, belonged to the abbey of Ely, Wilfric, the sixth abbot of that house, being lord of it:<sup>5</sup> this Abbot had a brother called Gudmund, who proposing marriage to a nobleman's daughter, was refused, because though he was of noble extraction, yet not having 40 hides of land, he could have no place among the noblemen; the Abbot to supply this, privately makes over to him these manors belonging to his abbey, sc. Gerboldesham, Marham, Lyzermere, Nacheuton, Acholt, &c.; the monks reclaim them, the Abbot retires to Aholt, and there dies with grief, and is buried at Ely: Thurstan, his successour, prosecuted the claim, and came to this agreement, that Gudmund should enjoy them for life; in the mean time the Normans invaded the land, and Hugh de Montfort, a valiant Norman who came in with the Conqueror,<sup>6</sup> (to whom he was sometime standard-bearer,) seized those lands, and kept them from the church.

MONTFORT'S MANOR

Had always 2 carneates of land in demean; in the Confessor's time it was worth 3*l.* and in the Conqueror's 6*l. per annum*. The whole town, with all its manors, was a league long and a league broad, and out of every 20*s.* Danegeld laid upon the hundred, this town paid 34*d. ob.* Hugh lost his life in a duel with Walcheline de Ferrers,<sup>7</sup> leaving issue, Hugh his son, who by his first wife had issue, Robert and Hugh, which Robert was William Rufus's general in 1098; but favouring the title of Robert Curthose, in opposition to King Henry I. he was called in question for infidelity, whereupon being conscious of his guilt, he got leave to go to Jerusalem, and left all his possessions to the King; they both died in pilgrimage without issue.

This Hugh granted the manor to William de Francheville, whose son William, in 1179, confirmed two parts of the tithes of the demesns of his manors of Wikes or Gerboldesham, Langford, Boduen, and Nachton, to the monks of Bermondsey in Surrey,<sup>5</sup> to whom the said Hugh de Montford had given them; this portion was issuing out of St. John Baptist's church, the moiety of which advowson belonged to this manor; and in 1428, the Prior was taxed for his spirituals here, at 13s. 4d.<sup>6</sup> This William was called the elder, being succeeded by William his son, who in 1240 was married to Freschentia de Banham, daughter and heiress of Ralph de Banham, she being then under age, and in custody of Warine de Muntchensi, against whom Alan de Hekingham brought an action for the moiety of the moiety of the advowson of St. John's, the said William de Francheville, her husband, having presented last in her right; he recovered against Alan, by proving that it belonged to William, son of Jeffry, father of the said Ralf de Banham, as belonging to his manor, so that by this marriage he had a moiety of a moiety, another moiety belonging to him before; and in the same year the manor was charged with an annual rent charge of five marks, payable to Laurence de Boyton, and his heirs, which, in 1250, was confirmed by Ralf de Francheville, then lord, to Lauretta de Boyton, together with the manor of Langford, to be held of Ralf; and his heirs, by the service of two pair of white gloves, and one penny yearly; Ralf was succeeded by Robert his son, who sold it to

ROBERT DE CANTILUPE, who covenanted to pay 6 marks yearly out of it, to the said Robert Francheville and his heirs, so that there were now in two annuities 11 marks issuing out of it; and immediately after it was conveyed to him, he agreed with William de Banham, that he should present to St. John's one turn, in right of his manor called Escois, and the said Robert the other turn, in right of his manor, late Francheville's, which was settled accordingly by fine; and thus this advowson continued till 1280, when it was sold by Robert son of Peter de Bokenham (who had got the sole right of presentation, by purchasing the turn from this manor) to Sir Rob. de Bosco and Isolda his wife, and their heirs, from which time both the advowsons went with their manor. In this or the next year, John de Cantelupe, son of Robert, sold it to

WILLIAM DE PAKENHAM, and Joan his wife; he was afterwards knighted, and became justice itinerant; he made great purchases in this town, all which he settled on Joan his wife for life, and then on John, his fourth son; she was a widow in 1277, and at her death John de Pakenham became lord, at whose death Peter de Pakenham occurs in 1315; he was succeeded by Albred or Aubrey de Pakenham,<sup>7</sup> who in 1345 paid 20s. relief for half a fee, which he then held of the Earl-Marshal; he made a feoffment of it to William Curson, to the use of Henry Pakenham, who was lord in 1380, and died in 1421, part of the manor being then held by knight's service of John Hastyngs Earl of Pembrook. In his and his father's time many of the demean lands were granted off, and certain barley rents reserved, to be paid from them; he left Henry his son, who died in 1445, half a fee being now held of the Lord Grey of Ruthyn, and William Beauchamp; this Henry, just before his death, settled it on Thomas Tuddenham and Rob. Conyers, Knts. Rob. Berdewell, Edm. Bokenham, Will. Grey, Will. Warner of Thompston, Esqrs. and John Lalle, vicar of Shropham, to the use of Rob. Pakenham of Shropham, Esq. and his wife, and their heirs, remainder to William, brother of Robert, remainder to Phillippa Mownteneye his sister, remainder to Rob. Berdewelle, Esq. and his heirs. This Rob. Pakenham inherited, and died seized of this and Ferly's manor in Suctesham, and a manor in Shropham, Snitterton, and the adjacent towns, in 1463 Margaret his wife being to hold it for life, and then it was to go to Henry Pakenham, his son and heir, 30 years old at his father's death; he died seized without male issue, and in 1495 an inquisition came to enquire what lands were in the King's hands at his death, and were so still, by reason of the marriage of Anne, one of his daughters and heiresses? I cannot say how many heiresses there were; but this

ANNE married to John Dobbes, or Dowbes of Garboldesham, Esq. who purchased all the parts; for in 1526 he was sole lord of Pakenham's manor; he left one only daughter,

ANNE, married to Sir William Barwick, who was knighted by King James at Whitehall, May 30, 1604; he, jointly with his wife, and John Malloves of Bury in Suffolk, Gent. Thomas Traverse, late of East-Herling, Gent. and Edw. Barwick, Gent. brother to Sir William, in 1607, sold it to

Sir JOHN HOLLAND of Kenninghall, and Sir Tho. Holland his son, in trust for the Earl of Arundell. The site of the manor was dilapidated, and contained 5 acres; to it belonged large demean, divers heriots, freerents, and rents of assize, barley rents, and a fold course called Pakenham's Tripp. It appears in 1571, that John Dobbes, lord of Pakenham's manor, was dead, that he held Tasebourne's lands of 100*l. per annum*, and was bond and regardant (as it is expressed) to Claxton castle in Norfolk, and that Henry Jernegan, Esq. had formerly an interest in this manor. By this purchase the Norfolk family became sole lords of all the manors in this town, though they had not the advowson, and so continued till 1627, and then the Earl of Arundell and his trustees sold the demean lands of this manor, and its fold-course for 500 sheep and their followers, in Garboldisham and Kenninghall, and all the barley rents, to Framlingham Gawdy, Esq. of West-Herling, and his heirs, (the weyfs, streys, and all other royalties, together with all the freerents and wastes being particularly excepted, to the Earl and his heirs;) and in 1629, the said Earl sold the manor of Pakenham Hall, (Up Hall, Wigen Hall, and Bokenham's being included in it) to

Sir DRUE DRUEY of Ridlesworth, who kept his first court immediately after the conveyance, the said Earl charging it with the whole sum of 10*l.* a year rent charge, which now issued out of this and the other manors that were joined to it, and obliged Sir Drue to give securily to Framlingham Gawdy, Esq. to indemnify him and his heirs against any claim that should be made for any part of the 10*l.* out of the said demerans, fold-course, or barley rents, which were conveyed to the said Framlingham. After Sir Drue's death it went to Sir Drue his son, then to Sir Robert Drury, Bart. who left it to his wife, the present Lady Drury, who is now owner of it [1736.]

The Leet belongs to the hundred, the leet fee is 5*s.* the castle-ward was 12*d.* every seven weeks. In 1609, the rents of assize of all the manors were 22*l.* 8*s.* 3*q.* It extended into North Lopham, Gasthorp, Shropham, and Norton.

The barley rents being sold to Framlingham Gawdy, as aforesaid, he in 1629 sold off 40 combs, 3 bushels, 2 pecks and an half, to Rich. Peade of Bury St. Edmund's, Gent. Tho. Warren of Great Thurlow, and John Warren, Gent. of Garboldesham, his son and heir, which issued out of divers lands formerly held by the Cootes, Barwicks, Tillots, &c. the rest of them being recovered by decree in Chancery, (some of the tenants refusing to pay them), continued in the Gawdys, till Sir Bassingbourne Gawdy, the last of that name, or his executors, sold them to Rob. Haylet of Garboldisham, Gent. who hath lately sold every one their part; the whole sum at first was 51 quarters 6 bushels and an half issuing out of the demer lands of Wigen Halls, Bokenham's, and Pakenham's manors, which laid dispersedly among the tenants lands; for which reason the lords demised them to such as kept ploughs, for maintenance of their tilth, some at two bushels an acre, and some at three, some at more and some at less, according to the goodness of the land.

The rent charge of 10*l.* a year issued out of the manors of Pakenham's and Wigenhale's; in 1288, John de Wigenhale acknowledged that he ought to pay 5 marks 2*s.* 2*d.* per annum out of his manor to Nicholas Weyland, of whom he held it at the third part of two fees; and it appears, that the said Nicholas had the other annuities issuing out of Pakenham's manor, settled upon him; for in 1290, he was seized of 10*l.* rent issuing out of the manors of Garboldesham, which he settled upon Robert his son, from which time it hath passed continually with the manor of Oxboro, from the Weylands to the Tudenhams, and from them to the Bedingfields, Sir Henry Bedingfield of Oxboro being now [1736] possessed of it.

The next manor was called

BOIS'S, ALIAS UP HALL,

Domesday is called Gerboldesham; it had two carucates in demean, was valued in the first survey at 30s. and in the second at 40s.

It was granted from the Crown to

HUGO BYGOD Earl of Norfolk, and passed from that family along with Fersfield, to William du Bois, Knt. from which time it went exactly as Fersfield did, to which I refer you.<sup>3</sup>

To this manor the advowson of Garboldesham All-Saints wholly belonged; and in 1280, St. John's advowson was joined to it, being purchased by Sir Robert de Bosco, and Isolda his wife, as is before observed, both which continued with it till 1533, when the manor came by exchange, to the Duke of Norfolk; (the advowsons being excepted;) it was always held of the Norfolk family at one fee, its relief being 40s.; and in 1246, Sir Rob. du Bois, then lord, had these privileges allowed him to this manor, viz. a weekly market every Wednesday,* a yearly fair for three days, viz. on the vigil, the day, and day after, St. Luke the Evangelist, a pillory, a tumbrel or cucking-stool, with liberty of free-warren, it being obliged to do suit to the hundred court, or pay 2s. a year.

The manors of Wigen Hall and Bokenham's were both joined to this before 1386, for then the style of the court was, Up Hall, Wigen Hall, and Bokenham's in Garboldesham, and thus they continued till 1607, and then were joined to Pakenham's, the Earl of Arundell becoming lord of the whole; and so it remained till 1627, when he sold Up Hall, Wigen Hall, and Pakenham's demean, with the sites of all those manors, their barley rents, their fold-courses for 350 ewes with their followers, with all the pastures and shackages belonging to that course in Garboldesham, (all royalties, weyfs, strays, and money rents being excepted, all which the Earl still kept whole and undivided till he sold them, in 1629, to Sir Druc Drury of Ridelsworth;) to Fram. Gawdy, Esq. in which family they continued till 1666, Sept. 14, and then Sir Will. Gawdy of West-Herling, settled all his estate on Mary his only daughter, to raise 2500*l.* for her fortune,<sup>5</sup> and made Fram. Gawdy, Esq. her uncle, executor, who sold the Garboldesham lands to Wentworth Garneys, Esq. of Boylant Hall in Morning-Thorp, the heirs of whose family at this day enjoy it [1786.]

WIGEN HALLS MANOR,

At the survey, belonged to Bishop Osbern,<sup>6</sup> and had two carucates in demean; it was valued at 20s. in the Confessor's, but was risen to 50s. at the Conqueror's time, when it was in in Kenninghall soken.

This afterwards belonged to the Bygods, by whom it was granted to the Heveninghams, of which family it was always held by the third part of a fee, of Totham-Parca manor in Essex, as parcel of the barony of Tolshunt, of the honour of Hakenet, the relief being 8s. 4*d.*

In King Richard the First's time, John de Garpenville was lord; at his death John de Jarpeville his son had it; he it was that confirmed the grant made by his father John, to John, son of Robert de Garbaudisham, and his heirs, as appears under Garboldesham's free-tenement; in 1239, Maud his mother being then a widow, for an annuity of 7 marks a year, released unto the said John the third part of a messuage, 160 acres of land, and 9 marks rent, which she held in dower of his inheritance; and the same year she impleaded Adam de Wygenhale for her dower, in divers lands which he had of her husband's gift; in 1249, Roger de Charpenwill was the King's ward, by reason of his land here, whose wardship the King granted to Robert de Cantilupe, who married him. How it came to the Wygenhales I do not find, though imagine it must be from the Weylands, for John de Wygenhale held it of Sir Nic. Weyland, by the service of a rent charge of 5 marks a year, payable to him and his heirs, for which Sir Nic. Weyland distrained Henry de Clerbek, to whom John de Wygenhale had granted the third part of a third part of this fee, to be held of the said John, by the service of 5 marks, 2s. 2d. a year, and doing foreign service: but upon John's satisfying Sir Nicholas, Henry was discharged. In 1304, Agnes de Wygenhall had it, and settled it on Reginald her son. In 1345, another Agnes de Wygenhale had it, after which it soon fell into Bois's manor.

ESCOIS AND BOKENHAM'S MANORS

Belonged to William de Warren Earl of Surrey,<sup>7</sup> in the Conqueror's time, and had two carucates in demean, then worth 40s. it being given him by the Conqueror, as one carucate, the whole of which was then in Kemminghall soken; after he had it, it was annexed to the castle of Leves; this was afterwards divided into two manors.

ESCOIS MANOR,

Which was the first part, was held of the Munchensies, by the family surnamed de Banham;<sup>8</sup> the Munchensies had it of the Bygods, they of the Escoises, and they of the Earl Warren. In 1235, William de Banham held two fees here and in Banham, of Warin de Munchensi, of those fees which he had of Roger Bygod; and soon after Ralph de Banham had them, whose only daughter Freschentia, in 1240, was married to William de Fraucheville, lord of Pakenham's manor, to which this part was then joined, as was the moiety of the moiety of St. John's advowson, which belonged to it, as you may see under that manor, though the Banham family still continued to have a free tenement and many rents here, which was granted by this William, out of the fortune that Freschentia brought him ; for which see Banham's tenement.

BOKENHAM'S MANOR

Was the second part, and was given by Roger Bygod Earl of Norfolk, with Adeliza his daughter, to

AUBREY DE VERE, second Earl of Oxford, of whose family it was held at half a fee, and the eighth part of a fee ; a part was after held of Tateshale's barony, and another small part of Munchensie's : Alan was first infeoffed, who left Elias, who had three sons, Alan, William, and Robert, who all died without issue, and Emma, a daughter, who married Ralph de Chadesgrave ; she and her husband brought an action against Stephen de Gissing, whom Peter de Bukenham had called to warrant the manor to him, (which then consisted of a mesuage, 100 acres of land, 19 acres of meadow, 8 of marsh, and 22s. rent in Garboldesham, and the moiety of the moiety of St. John's advowson,) upon which, Stephen comes and warrants it to the said Peter, by proving that Alan, grandfather of the said Emma, who now claims it, granted it to Simon de Blakney, who gave it to Henry de Neketon, who left it to Henry de Neketon, his son, who granted it to Tho. de Peytenia, and he to Stephen de Gyssyng, who granted it to Sir Peter de Bukenham, and that all had released their rights in it, upon which Emma's suit was dismissed. In 1277, Peter de Bukenham was lord ; he left Robert his son, to whom, in 1284, the said Ralf de Chaddesgrave and Emme his wife released all their right, by a fine then levied ; and in 1286 he had weyf allowed to this manor, and the moiety of St. John's, the whole advowson of which he sold in 1280 to Sir Robert de Bosco, having purchased the parts that belonged to Pakenham's and Escois manors ; in the same year, Peter son of Robert de Bukenham had it, who died before 1345, for then it was Robert de Bukenham's, and the year following was settled by Aubrey de Pakenham, and William son of Rich. de Boyland his trustees, on himself and Catherine his wife for life, with the reversion of the third part, which Cecily, widow of Peter de Bukenham, held in dower, remainder to John, their son, remainder to Peter, their other son, who inherited. About 1378, Robert de Bokenham was lord, and Leonard de Bokenham in 1380, in whose time it was joined to Bois's manor ; for in the feodaries in 1402, we find, that the lady Margaret Howard held the third part of a fee, which Leonard Bokenham held ; but though this family parted from the manor, their descendants continued to have a good estate here, and some small freerents belonging to it. In 1454, Rob. Bokenham of Garboldesham died intestate, and Sir Tho. Bokenham, chaplain, administered ; in 1476, Sir Ralph Bokenham of Garboldesham, Jantylman, desired in his will to be buried in St. Peter's church of Much Liversmere.

CHURCHIE'S MANOR, OR FREE TENEMENT,

Took its name from its owners, who were so called from living near the church of this town ; at the survey it was part of Mantfort's or Pakenham's manor, and so continued till it was granted from it by the Francheviles to

HUGH at the Churche of Garbaudesham, who is the first that I meet with of this family; but there being no date to the deed, I cannot ascertain the time; in 1290 it belonged to Gilbert at the Cherche, from whom it went to Jeffry, and from him to John atte Cherche, senior, and from him to John his son, who was lord in 1429, as the rental, in my own custody, shews me; he was succeeded by William atte Cherche about 1432, from which time I meet with no more of it till 1540, and then Richard Lothwæyk had it; but the rents were now sold off, the rental being only 5s. 9d. per annum. I meet with no more of it afterwards, so that it shews as if those rents were either sold off, or the lands purchased to the tenement, one of which was generally the end of these small manors. The parish of St. John's held 3 roods of land at Hobbyn's Mill, near St. John's rectory-house, late Margery Wright's, by the freerent of 2d. a year, and the town of Garboldesham held a messuage, called the Camping-Lond, late Will. Flower's, after, Robert Heed's, by the freerent of 6d. a year.

GERBAUDES HAM'S FREE TENEMENT

Had its rise in Richard the First's time, it being till then part of Wygen Hall's manor, which John de Jarpenville, lord thereof, granted to Robert de Gerbaudesham, for his homage and service, and 8s. 6d. a year rent, and 4d. 3q. a year ward money to Dover castle, and 12d. 3q. scutage, out of every 20s. that should be laid upon Jarpenville's manor of Garboldesham, and one suit of court at Easter, and another at Michaelmas, together with all his right in a fourth part of all that land which Alwyn de Garbaudesham had of the gift of Will. de Francheville, senior, and all the land of Robert the priest of Garboldesham, which the said Robert had of the same William, viz. 31 acres of land, and liberty of a fold belonging to it; and in consideration of this grant, the said John, son of Robert de Garboldesham, was to marry Maud, daughter of Thomas, son of Will. de Ravenyngham: witnesses to the grant were, William, son of Galfrid, William his son, William de Francheville, Robert, son of Tho. de Ravenyngham, Alexander, son of Will. de Ravenyngham, Walter and Hunfry, his brothers, William, son of Roger of Garboldesham, and Thomas his son, Will. Carpel, Hugh, son of David, Galfrid, son of Hercy, Thomas, son of Gilbert Percen of Garboldesham, and Alan de Heckyngham, who lived in 1240, which may shew something towards the date of the deed, though there is none in it. This family was very numerous; those that I meet with I shall here add, though I do not imagine that all of them were lords of this tenement.

ALEXANDER DE GERBAUDES HAM, lord; Gilbert, son of Alexander, was lord: 1270, Hugh, son of David of Gerboldesham; 1290, Rich. son of Jeffry, William, son of Gilbert of Gerboldesham; 1318, John, son of William of Gerboldesham; 1345, Henry, son of Jeffry of Gerboldesham.

From this family it passed to the Monks, another numerous family in this town, so named from Alan Le-Moyme, or the monk, who had lands here very early, as several deeds without date shew me. In 1290, William, son of John Le-Monk of Garboldesham, had a messuage and 10 acres settled on him, after the death of John, son of

Rich. Le-Monk, and of Jeffry and Robert, sons of John, if they had no heirs. In 1327,

JOHN LE-MONK had this tenement, which he then held with the 10 acres aforesaid, by the service of the hundredth part of a fee, and 2s. per annum to the ward of Dover castle, and also 45 acres and two messuages, which he held of Peter de Banham at 2s. rent. In 1328,

RICHARD LE-MONCK, his son, had it released to him by Alice, widow of John Le-Monk, his father, John and William, his brothers, being witnesses, and at this time William de Banham released all his right to him, in all his possessions in Gerboldesham, so that now he had both Gerboldesham's and Banham's free tenements; but how they went after I do not find, though the family continued somewhat longer in the town, Richard, son of Will. Monck, and Agnes his wife, John and Robert Monck, and Alice, late wife of Richard, son of Alan Monck, lived here in 1332.

BANHAM'S FREE TENEMENT

Had its rise out of Escois manor, since 1240, and consisted of several lands and rents of that manor, granted by William de Fraucheville to the Banham family, after he had married Freschentia, the heiress of Ralph de Banham; and in this family it continued till 1328, when Will. de Banham released it to Rich. le Monck, Robert de Banham, his father, having sold or mortgaged it before to John le Monck, father of Richard, by which release it fell into Monk's tenement, as before observed. Of

HOPTON'S TENEMENT

I know but little, only find it often named in evidences, and that Adam de Hopton, lord of it in 1268, was disceized by John le Dikegh, of his common of pasture in Blow-Norton, which belonged to his free tenement in Garboldesham.

The CUSTOMS OF THE MANOR are these: the copyhold descends to the eldest son; the fine is at the lord's will; the tenants can fell timber on the copyhold, plant, and cut down on the waste without license; it gives no dower; it hath liberty of free-warren, wcyf, strey, and all other privileges, except the leet, return of writs, office of coroner, clerk of the market,<sup>9</sup> and assize of bread and ale, all which were excepted, when it was sold to Sir Druc Drury, who after his purchase sold off his part of the demeans, and settled the rent charge of 10*l. per annum* upon that part, from which it is now paid by the owner of Up Hall in Garboldesham, who hath the demeans of the several manors, except those of Bokenham's manor, which belong to Sir Edmund Bacon of Garboldesham, Bart.

THE RECTORY MANOR

Belonged to the rectors of St. John's, who were always lords of it. The CUSTOMS are the same as the great manor.

The ADVOWSON OF ALL-SAINTS wholly belonged to Bois's or Up Hull manor, and that of St. John's was purchased to it in 1280, by Sir Robert de Bois and Isolda his wife, as is before observed under that manor, from which time they both passed with it, till 1533, and then being parted, went as Fersfield advowson did, till 1632,<sup>1</sup> and then that advowson, or rather moiety of both advowsons, that belonged to Sir Thomas Cornwaleis, Knt. came to Sir William Withipoll, Knt.; and in 1637, Lucy Withipoll, and Tho. Cleer, presented by his grant; at his death it went to Elizabeth Withipoll, his heiress, who married Leicester Devereux Viscount Hereford,<sup>2</sup> he was succeeded by Leicester his son and heir, who died in 1682, and was succeeded by Edward Devereux, who died issueless in 1700, leaving Anne his sister his sole heir; she married Leicester Martin, Esq. of Christ Church in Ipswich, who sold it to the Honourable Sir Edmund Bacon of Garboldesham, Bart. the present [1736] patron.

The other advowson, or moiety of both the advowsons, belonged to the Wingfields, and passed as Fersfield, from the Wingfields to the Earl of Rochford, the Right Honourable Frederick Earl of Rochford being now [1736] patron.

The religious concerned here were, the Prior of Thetford, the Prior of Bermondseye, and the Prior of Camps, to whom Robert Ashfield aliened lands in 1391; and in 1381, John Plais and others aliened lands and tenements here, of 40*l.* value, to the chantry at Ravennyng-ham.

There were several ancient good families inhabiting in this town, besides those already mentioned; one was surnamed Atte Stone of Garboldesham, another De-Ponte, or Atte Brigge, another Le-Wode-ward, which family hath continued to this time. The Taseburghs had a good estate here, of which John Taseburgh, Gent. was owner in 1540.

The names of the streets in 1413 were; Wykyn-street, Nethergate-street, and Church-gate-street; and there is a way much spoken of called the Palmer's-way; I suppose it is that which leads from Gatesthorp-gate, by which the pilgrims used to pass in pilgrimage to our Lady at Walsingham; there is also a large ditch, commonly called, Little Devil's Ditch, which runs from Gatesthorp moor to Herling moor, and is said to have been an ancient intrenchment; but by the proper name, I take it to have been made to divide Gerboldesham from its neighbouring parishes, as it still does, it being called the Boundary.

After the Dissolution, divers small pieces of land settled to superstitious uses, as for obits, lamps, &c. were granted to the following persons:

One acre and an half in the tenure of Robert Rockett, given to find an obit and light in the church, to John Parret, Knt. to be held of East Greenwich manor, by the twentieth part of a fee.

Other lands were given to the Duke of Norfolk, others to Edw. Fines, Knt. Lord Clinton, to be held of the honour of Hampton Court by fealty only; others to Wymark, and Clerc; and others in All-Saints parish, to Grey and his heirs.

The Church of St John Baptist is a good building, having the nave, two isles, with the chapels at their east ends, north vestry, and north porch, leaved, its chancel thatched, a tall square tower, and six bells; the church, isles, and chancel are ancient, but the tower and north porch are not so, being built about 1500, as is evident from the name of William Pece, who was then a chaplain in this church, and chief benefactor to the work; for on the front of the porch is this inscription, now partly filled up with mortar:

Orate pro Anima Willi. Pece, Capellani.

And round its bottom this,

Christe, Sancte Johannes Baptista, Zacharie, Elizabeth, Johannes.

On the tower are the names of several other benefactors.

There is only one brass plate left which is thus inscribed:

Here lyeth buried the Bodie of John Carlton, late while he lived of Garboldesham, Mercer, who had to his Wyfe Elizabeth, & of her fower Sonnes, and nyne Daughters, which John died the thyrd of April, in the Yere of our Lord God, 1579.

Post tenebras Spero Lucem.

In the east chancel window were these arms,

BARDOLPH.

HOWARD.

SCALES.

And three knights kneeling, one in a surcoat of Howard, another of Scales, and another of Bardolph, which being remarkable I shall here exhibit it to your view, it being lately destroyed, with many other arms and antiquities, when the windows were repaired.

In the windows of the north isle were these arms,

BOIS.

HOWARD. CORNWAL.

FELBRIGGE.

In a south chancel window, Scales's arms with an escalop for a crest; Howard and Scales impaled, Howard with a label of three, arg.

In the windows of the isles, Brotherton, Howard, and Plaic.

Howard impaling, per pale indented or and gul. a bordure of the second bezante.

Felbrugge impaling Scales.

Or, a dove vert. quartering gul. an annulet or.

The Borcs arms are in many windows. At the east end of the north isle is a chapel, which belonged to that family, in which there was an officiating chaplain for the dead, and probably another in the opposite chapel, in the south isle, the names of some of them that served here, and in Bois's chapel in All-Saint's church follow, as I extracted them out of evidences of lauds in this town. Sir Adam Daey; 1365, Sir John Bryan; 1385, Sir Tho. Ashley; 1408, Sir John Walsingham; 1414, Sir Rich. Bolle in All-Saints, and Sir Peter de Criston in St. John's; 1429, Sir Tho. James; 1473, William Lecy; 1500, Sir William Pece; 1505, Rob. Woodward; 1539, John James and Will. Curson; 1553, Tho. Dawcy; 1554, Sir Tho. Bolenham.

In the vestry, under the east window, was an old altar standing, over which, on the wall, I saw a rude painting of the Last Judgment.

Towards the west end of the churchyard, are two altar tombs thus inscribed

† In Memoriam Johannis Williamson, Gen. hic Lapis positus est, obiit secundo die Martij, 1690, Anno Ætatis sue, 32.

VIGILANTE ET ORATE.

He jacet Maria filia Johannis Williamson, Gen. Virgo vere pia et Pura, amicis clara, omnibus benigna, desideratissima, obiit 22<sup>da</sup> die Augusti, 1697, Anno Ætatis sue 22<sup>ta</sup>. Pauperum mopiam, in Garboldisham, Isophamque septentrionali, et Waddingfield parva viventium, reddito sublevavit, monens eum Trecentas ipsos Libras legavit in perpetuum.

Lector! abito, et tu fac similiter. — Luc. cap. 10, ver. 37.

The site of the rectory-house joined to the east end of this churchyard, till the present incumbent built a new one, near a quarter of a mile north-east of the church.

ALL-SAINTS CHURCH stands north of St. John's about half a furlong, or somewhat more, and was officiated in till the death of Mr. Talet in 1726, from which time service was left off by degrees, and upon a petition of the patrons, incumbent, and parishioners, in 1734, licence was obtained of the Bishop to suffer it to dilapidate, upon which the roof of the nave was unthatched, and that of the north isle unlead, and both were taken down, the tont and seats pulled up, the five bells were taken down, all which, with the other materials, (except the least bell, which was carried to St. John's;) were sold, and the money applied to repair and beautify St. John's church † Le Neve, vol. i. p. 77.

The bodies of the Bacon's buried in the chancel were taken up and carried to a vault belonging to that family in Redgrave church, and the marbles that laid over them were removed and placed in the vestry of St. John's church, where they now lie. The windows both of the nave and isle were chiefly painted glass, and very well done, but were all broken to pieces; the roof of the nave was board, painted all over with the names of JESUS and MARY, and this in the midst :

Betwixt syn nis and ye Rode Loft, He Youngling han paid for nis cost.
That Lord pat deyd for alle Mankynde have mercy upon hem at her Ende.

by which it appears, that it was done at the charge of the parishioners, soon after 1450, and that John de Vere Earl of Oxford, who was then patron, would not assist them, for he must be the youngling here meant; and indeed it seems as if he designed to have had this church (when he consolidated it to St. John's) fall down, it being then much in decay, as is plain from the great repairs then done to it, the parishioners not consenting to it, but on the contrary, shewed their dislike by these verses, which it will not be amiss to render into more modern language :

Between this place and the rood loft,<sup>4</sup>
The youngling han't paid for this cost,
That lord that died for all mankind,
Have merery upon them<sup>5</sup> at their end.

The roof of the chancel also at that time was repaired; and because it should not be too burthensome to the rector, many pious people contributed, as is apparent from these two verses still remaining on it :

Alle alle hevr holpe to nis good deed
God send hyer Sowle helpe to hyer mede.

All, all, [that] ever helped to this good deed,
God send their soul help for their need.

The cancelli or lattices between the church and chancel were erected about the same time, being neatly carved and adorned with the images of St. Mary Magdalen, St. German, St. Agnes, and others, and were made at the expense of William Bole, and Catherine his wife, as this painting intimated :

Pray for the Welfare of Wylliam Bole, and Kateryn his Wyffe.

The windows also were new glazed, all of painted glass, and adorned, some of them with the twelve Apostles, others with saints and confessors, others with the arms of the benefactors at whose cost they were put up, and others with their effigies kneeling, by which it appeared, that some were made at one person's cost only, others by three or four that joined, and in most of them were the donors names, all which were decayed except these in the north isle windows :

Orate pro Anima Ricardi de Brom, qui istam operam fieri fecit ***** Anima Walteri de Brom, ***** hanc fenestram *****
 Their effigies remained.

On a south window,

In another, Lucy's arms gul. crusuly three luces, or pikes, hauriant ar. impaling gul. a fess and label of three ar.

Chequy, or and sab. a fess ar.

At the east end of the isle was a chapel, which hath laid in ruins many years; it was founded (as I take it) by Thomas de Bosco, rector of this church, for his own interment, the initial letters of whose name still remain carved in stone on its buttress; the entrance out of the isle was by a large cross arch.

There is a good square tower at the west end, built much about that time, and as tradition hath it, in this manner, the foundation was laid by a tailor, continued by a woolcomber, and finished by the parish: now I do not pretend to aver its truth, but mention it, because, agreeable thereto, I find a stone fixed in the building, about 10 feet from the ground, on which is cut a large pair of tailor's sheers, and on another about 10 feet higher, is a wool comb.

On one of the bells this was to be read :

Sancta Maria ora pro nobis.

The church is almost whole as to its walls; the roofs still remain on the chancel and south porch, though great part of the thatch is gone; the doors are taken off; the grave-stones still lie in their places, some of which had brasses formerly on them, but they were lost long before the church was ruined.

On two black marbles that were in the chancel, but now removed to St. John's as aforesaid,

Bacon, impaling a fess wavy between three de-lises.

Under this Marble is buried the Body of Sir Robert Bacon, Bart. who departed this Life on the 31st of June, in the Year of our Lord 1704.<sup>6</sup>

Here lyeth interred the Body of Mrs. Jane Bacon, the Eldest Daughter of Sir Robert Bacon, and Dame Elizabeth his Wife, (that was buried at Wighton in this County) who died on the 14 Day of October, in the Year of our Lord 1705.

This joined to the south side of the former, and hath Bacon's arms in a lozenge.

<sup>6</sup> Le Neve, vol. ii. p. 207. This laid and four and an half from the east about three feet from the north wall, wall.

Sir William Barwick, who died after 1607, is said to be buried here, but I am not certain of it.

In 1506, John atte Cherche of Garboldesham was buried in the churchyard of All-Hallows there, and gave 8 marks for an obit for a year, and 40s. for a pilgrim to go to St. James in Gales, in the next year of grace; and to a pilgrim to St. Thomas of Canterbury 3s. 4d. and to a pilgrim to St. Mildred 12d. and to a pilgrim going to St. Walstone's 6d.

The Honourable Sir Edmund Bacon, Premier Baronet of all England, Knight of the Shire for Norfolk, hath a seat in this parish, at which he mostly resides, of whose family I shall speak at large under Riburgh, where he is lord.

RECTORS OF ALL-SAINTS,

" that both when joined would maintain a rector, but were not sufficient to do so single: and besides the tithes were so mixed that
" they caused disputes on all sides, and the clergy so thin by reason " of the great plague, that it was difficult to procure a clerk, upon " which it was agreed, that a consolidation should pass upon the " following terms, viz.

" That the church of St. John Baptist be henceforward the principal and mother church, for all sacraments, for all the parishioners,

This town is called in Domesday, Redelefuorda, that is, the pop $\delta$ , or village abounding with reeds; it belonged to Orgar, a freeman at the Confessor's survey, and to Humfry, son of Alberic, at the Conqueror's, who had only this in the county; it always had a carucate in demean, and was half a league long and as much broad, and paid xi. d. ob. geld.<sup>5</sup>

This afterwards became the lordship of Ralf Peverell, of whose honour of Peverell it was held, at the fourth part of a fee. In 1255,

JEFFRY TREGOZ held this manor of the King, at a quarter of a fee, of whom

PETER DE MEALINGS, or MELDING, of Burston, held it by that service; this Peter, in 1249, had settled it by fine on

HENRY DE BATHONIA, justice itinerant, and Philip de Flegg released his right to him. Mica de Bathonia, relict of Henry, died in 1273, leaving it to John, her son and heir. Nic. de Yatingdon was her second husband. In 1276, this John was summoned to attend King Edward I. in his expedition against the Welsh; in 1290, he held it of Remigius de Melding, and John de Bohun was his son and heir, who married Eleanor, daughter and coheir of Jeffry de Auncell, and dying this year, left only Joan, their daughter and heiress, 23 years old, married to John de Bohun, or Boon, it being settled in trust, at their marriage, on Humfry de Bohun, who released it to John de Bohun, at John de Bathonia's death. In 1279, it was held of Simon de Furneaux, as of his manor of Midle-Herling, who held it of Rob. de Montealt, and he of Remigius de Melding; at John de Bohun's death, Joan his widow, had it for life; she died in 1316, and left John de Boon, her son and heir. In 1330,

THO. LE-ARCHER, rector of Elmsete, and Richard his brother, were lords; and this year they settled it by fine on Roger le-Archer of Floketon, and Agnes his wife, and Roger their son, with remainders to Thomas and Agnes, their brother and sister; I suppose Agnes the mother was heiress to John de Bohun. In 1341,

ROGER, son of Roger le-Archer, married Alexandrina, daughter of William De-la-Mote, Knt. and settled this manor on her for life.

In 1345, he is said to hold it of Tregoz, and he of the King, it being the quarter of a fee, formerly Humfry de Boon's. In 1375, Alexandrina aforesaid, then a widow, had it, who was dead before 1384, for then

JOHN ROOS, Knt. presented, and had it, as I imagine, in right of Beatrice his wife, the heiress of Roger le-Archer, who presented in DRURYS,<sup>6</sup> who took their name from a village in Normandy, whence their ancestor came with William the Conqueror, and had no other name than that of Drury; his son, John Drury, Esq. settled at Thurston in the county of Suffolk, at which place John, his son, Henry, his grandson, and John, his great-grandson, lived many years: Henry Drury of Thurston, Esq. son of the last John, had two wives; by Hawise Greene of Barkway, his first wife, he had three sons, the two youngest of which, viz. Nigell was sheriff of London, and Sir Roger was parson of Bradfield in Suffolk; John Drury, of Thurston, Esq. the eldest son and heir, married Amable, daughter of Tho. John, his eldest son, *Will. being quoted for what is said; but having no opportunity to make proper extracts, I could add nothing to this account, (which I had collected before,) else should not have passed by such an ancient family in such a cursory manner.

The Customs are these: the eldest son is heir; the fine is at the lord's will. This manor is become very small, the whole town being purchased in, so that there are not above 4 or 5 acres held by copy of court roll of it.

The Leet belongs to the hundred, the leet fee being 2s. and all liberties belong to the leet, the lords of this manor never claiming any, it not being once named in the returns to the quo warrantos. The manor pays a rent of 7s. per annum to the Duke of Norfolk, as to his hundred of Gyltross: there was a rent of 1d. a year paid to the lord of Midle-Herling manor,<sup>9</sup> of which it is held, by the said payment and suit of court, for which Tho. Sakcyle, lord of Ridlesworth, in 1472, was distrained, as was Sir Drac Dray, Knt. in 1589, and again in 1598, when he had two horses seized for this and other rents, for lands that he held in Ridlesworth.

Here are three houses, and about 30 inhabitants. It paid 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* to the tenths, and is now assessed at 170*l.* to the land tax [1736.]

The family surnamed DE REDELESWORTH, is very ancient, and had a good estate here, and in Gatesthorp, where they were sometime lords; they bore for their coat armour, vert, a bull passant or. Crest, a boar's head cooped sab. an oaken branch in its mouth proper, the acorns or.

In the Hall there are several family pictures, some of which are much injured, and a curious old painting on board, containing ten persons, each having his arms, or a cipher over his head, and an inscription at his feet.

1. JOHANNES DE LACY, Constable of Chester, and first founder of St. Bennet's abbey, at Stanlowe [in Cheshire.]

RUSHWORTH,

OR the place abounding with rushes, (for so I take the name to signify,) was, in King Edward's days, one league and a half long, and one mile broad, and paid 11*d. ob. geld*;<sup>6</sup> at the survey the abbey of Ely had a carucate of land then worth 20*s.* but was sunk to 8*s.* value at the second, when it was held by John, nephew of Waleram;<sup>7</sup> and alter, of the Earl of Glocester, at a quarter of a fee, by the heirs of Bartholomew de Beaumont, who in some records (by mistake) is called Breamysson; but in Henry the Third's time, this part was in Nicholas de Gonwyle, whose son and heir John de Gonwile in King Edward the First's reign, paid x.s. relief for it to the Earl of Gloucester, from which time it continued in that family, joined to the head manor, till the foundation of the college, on which it was settled; and when the head manor came to the college, was joined to it again, and so hath continued ever since. This part was some time called Boldan's manor, and seems to lie on Suffolk side, except a part of it, which was in Shadwell.

At the first survey one Uluric had 60 acres here, which he held of the abbey, all which he forfeited to the Conqueror by not paying 8*l.* that he had forfeited to that King, who gave it to John, nephew of Waleram

Nicholas de Gonvyle, Gunevyle, or Gonvile, lived in the reign of King Henry III.

John de Gonvile, his son, in the time of King Edward I.

Wm. de Gonvile, his son, in 1285, had the King's protection, being summoned to go into France with him, to join the French King against the King of Arragon.

Matild. or Maud, his wife, heiress of the Lerlings, married in 1204.

Wm. de Gonvile, rector of Thelvettham, resigned it A° 1350.

1350, 14 May, Edmund de Gonvile, a shaveling, instituted to Thelvettham, on his brother's resignation.

Sir Nicholas de Gonvile, Knt. brother & heir to Sir Edm. de Gonvile, the founder.

John Gonvile, Esq. son of Sir

Nicholas, paid x.s. relief for his manor in Schadwell and Rushworth, of his own inheritance, to the Earl of Gloucester, and x.s. for Rushworth manor, which was of his grandmother's inheritance.

Sir Edmund Gonvile, priest, founder of Rushworth College, of Gonvile Hall in Cambridge, and (as some say) of the friars preachers in Thetford, and of St. John's Hospital at Lynn; he was first rector of Thelvettham, or Feltam, in Suffolk, instituted December the 4th, 1320, by Adam de Tyrington, rector of Hopton, his proxy, he being then in priest's orders; he resigned this for Rushworth rectory in 1326, and after he had established it a collegiate church, in 1342, he was instituted to Terrington, of which he died rector in 1350.

Edm. Gonvile, Esq. son and heir of Sir John.

John Gonvile, presented by his father to Lerling in 1344, and resigned it for East-Herling in 1349, which he also resigned in 1357.

John Gonvile, Esq. son and heir in 1402.

Eliz. dr. of Sir John Jarnegan of Somerly, in Suffolk, Knt.

Sir Rob. Herling, Knt. married

Joan, or Jane, heiress general of Gonvile.

1. Sir Wm. Chamberlain, Knt. of the Garter, buried with his wife under the arched tomb in East-Herling chapel.

2. Sir Rob. Wyngfield, Knt.

Anne, their only dr. and heiress, Lady Scroop, A° 1500, buried with her first husband, married to Lord Scroop in 1492, a great benefactress to this college.

3. John Lord Scroop of Bolton, by his will dated 1494, at East-Herling, ordered, if he died in Norfolk, (as he did, viz. 12 of July, 1494, at Herling) to be buried in the Black Friars at Thetford.

In 1470, this lady procured license for the master and fellows to receive 40 marks per annum, in mortmain, upon which she and her trustees, Sir John Hevenyngham and Sir William Calthorp, Knts. William Berdewell, jun. Esq. and Hen. Spilman, settled her manors of Rushworth and Lerling, then valued at 20*l.* a year, in part of the said sum of 40 marks, and thenceforward they continued in the college till its dissolution, and then passed with it to the Earl of Surrey, as you will see in the account of the college.

There was another manor or capital messuage, consisting of 200 acres of land, 8 acres of meadow, 20*s.* rent, a fold-course and separate fishery, in this town, and in Brettenham, Bridgeham, and Thetford, held at half a fee of the honour of Clare, by William de Brettenham, and John de Brokedish, in 1297, and by Rob. Baynard and others, in 1333, and by William de Brettenham, Simon Fitz, and Rich. Baynard, in 1398. In 1411, the 8th of May, King Henry IV. licensed Hugh Stoppusly to grant the whole in mortmain, to the Prior of the monks at Thetford, on condition that the King should be paid 50s. every vacancy.

In 1459, it was held of Robert Baynard, who held it of Anne, wife of Edmund Earl of March, as of Clare honour; it went with that house, at its dissolution, to the Norfolks, and at the Duke's attainder, fell to the Crown. In 1591, Queen Elizabeth granted to William Tipper, and Rob. Dawe, and their heirs, all the manor, fishery, lands, foldages, &c. in Rushworth, Thetford, and Gatesthorp, in Norfolk and Suffolk, which late belonged to the monks at Thetford, to be held by the rent of 2s. per annum, of her manor of East Greenwich, in socage, and not in capite; and soon after it was joined to Rushworth manor, with which it now remains.

As to the separate fishery belonging to it, that laid in Schadwell,<sup>2</sup> (which is a hamlet to Rushworth,) and extended from Schadwell Mill, to Berdewell's Mill, in Herling-Thorp, on the south side of the river, and had liberty of a boat, and a pool, or wear; towards the latter end of the twelfth century, Philip de Schadwell, who lived by the river, owned it; in 1362, Adam de Schadwell conveyed it to William de Rothyng, parson of West-Herling, Hcu. de Rothyng, and Cecily his wife, and their heirs, by the name of East-Fen Fishery; they were to hold it in as free a manner as John de Schadwell his father held it; and at the same time Agnes, widow of Philip de Schadwell, released her right in it; in 1399, James de Brettenham had it, and sold it to Tho. Gardiner, clerk, and in 1411, it was conveyed to Thetford priory, as aforesaid.<sup>3</sup>

In 1252, the Abbot of Waltham in Essex had lands here, and in Scarning and Geyst, in all which he had free-warren allowed him, for which he paid a rent of 12*d.* a year to Gouville's manor.

Rushworth was a rectory, and so continued till Sir Edmund Gouville, or Gouyle, who was both patron and rector, founded a college for a custos, or master, and five chaplains, who were brethren, or fellows, and were to elect their master, and present him at Lerling, to the founder's heirs, who, if they were there, were to present him to the Bishop, and not otherwise, after which he was to be installed, by mandate to the archdeacon. Upon this foundation the church was appropriated to the college, and no vicar endowed, because the cure of the parish was wholly laid upon the master; and each of them paid 8 marks first fruits at their installation; at the Dissolution it was granted to be held in the same manner, as the master held it, so that it hath been served ever since by a stipendiary curate, nominated by the impropiator, who, in 1603, is returned in the Answers of the Parsons, to receive 15*l.* a year of the proprietary for his stipend, Tho.

now lord, built a neat box, which he hath named Schadwell Lodge.

Wolf, clerk, being then curate, there being then 66 communicants in the parish, and now [1736] there are 7 or 8 houses, and about 60 inhabitants.

The church of St. John the Evangelist had a chapel, dedicated to our Lady, on its north side, which is now down.

1351, 17 Nov. Hugh Herbert, chaplain and fellow, was elected master, and presented by Sir JOHN DE GONVILE, parson of East-Herling, and Edmund his brother, who were patrons. He was succeeded by

Tho. de Watton, who resigned, and in

1364, 2 May, Tho. Heyward (or Howard) of Rickinghall, late fellow, was elected with the consent of EDMUND GONVILE, their patron. He resigned, and in 1371, 21 Jan. Sir Tho. Le-Mey was elected by the Fellows, who had no presentation, the Gonviles being not resident at Lerling: the fellows' election was returned to the Bishop, and the mandate made out upon it; at every admission the master was sworn by the Bishop to observe the statutes, to alienate nothing, to make no new feoffments, not to mortgage nor pawn any thing belonging to the college, whether moveable or immoveable, without the consent of every member.

1374, 19 July, Rob. de Asshele, priest, fellow there, elected on Le-Mey's resignation.

1376, 10 Octob. Rob. de Wrotham, fellow, elected master.

1381, Rob. Carter<sup>a</sup> of Asshele, chaplain and fellow, elected master.

1385, 25 June, Alexander Thelyk, priest, late fellow, obtained license from Pope Gregory XII. dated June 3, 1409, that one benefice more with cure of souls, might be appropriated to the mastership, and that he might hold it with the mastership; but if any master holds a benefice with his mastership, before one be appropriated to it, he shall not receive his stipend of 50s. per annum, over and above the benefit of the church of Rushworth, as he usually did before this license. The petition to obtain this sets forth; that the college was founded by Sir Edmund Gunwyle, late rector, the rectory being turned into a collegiate church, for a custos, or master, and five brethren chaplains, to pray for him, his ancestors, successors, and benefactors, which master was to have the cure of souls, and the benefit of the church there, and that he designed to endow it much better, but died in the meantime. The Bishop consented to this license, and in 1414, this Alexander was presented to the rectory of Lerling by the fellows, and held it with his mastership to his death; yet notwithstanding the Pope's bull, and the King's license upon it, they could never get their rectory of Lerling appropriated to them, as they designed.

1421, Edmund Cooper elected.

1436, 16 July, Tho. Sigo, fellow, elected on Cooper's resignation, by THO. HALYDAY and ROB. FEN, fellows.

1443, 13 July, Rob. Crask, chaplain.

1443, 27 Sept. Crask resigned, John Wurltych, priest, elected.

1444, 29 April, he resigned, and Edmund Couper, bachelor of the decrees of St. John's College, Cambridge, was elected, (the same man, I take it, that resigned in 1436.)

1446, 9 June, Ralph Beauford, on Couper's resignation.

1450, at Beauford's death, Lawrence Gerard, priest, elected.

These last five, were elected by THO. HALYDAY, J. KAYE, and JOHN BARKER, chaplains and fellows.

1472, 27 Feb. Gerard resigned, and Hen. Costesey was chosen. WILL. HALYDAY and JOHN MAYNARD, fellows. This Costesey, Cosse, or Cossa, was also rector of Banham and Wilby, of all which he died possessed in 1483, in which year, Aug. 18, John Bulman, priest, was elected, by HALYDAY, MAYNARD, and JOHN KELLYNG, fellows.

1488, Bulman resigned, and they elected John Baudys, A. M.

1508, John Bremneys (or Baudys) died, and

John Purpelt, fellow, was chosen master.

1526, 22 Aug. the Bishop collated Edward Anson, priest, to a fellowship, it having been void above six months.

1529, 17 July, George Windham, A. M. archdeacon of Norwich, was elected master, at Purpelt's resignation, who was the last master. it being dissolved in his time; he continued archdeacon till 1543.

The site of this college, with all its revenues thereto belonging, sc. the impropriation, college manor in Rushworth, Lerling manor and advowson, and a manor in Elden in Suffolk, were granted to the Earl of Surrey, to be held in capite by Knight's service. In 1545, Henry Earl of Surrey, by the King's license, aliened a manor in Etveden, and two manors in Rushworth, one in Suffolk, and the other in Norfolk, together with the site of the college, and the impropriate rectory, with the other revenues of that college, in Fakenham, Thetford, Weston, and Schudewell, to Thomas Duke of Norfolk, by whose attainder they fell again to the Crown, where they continued till King Edward VI. in 1550, granted Rushworth manors and rectory to Sir John Cheke, Knt. and his heirs, who, in 1552, let them for 20 years to George Alyugton of Stoke by Clare in Suffolk, Gent. who had married his sister. In 1557, Sir Rich. Fulmerston, had the manor late the college's: in 1570, the Earl of Surrey had the manor late Fulmerston's; in 1600, the rectory and site of the college, &c. was granted to Lord Howard of Walden, who had license, in 1601, to sell it to Rob. Buxton, on whom the whole was settled by fine, and at this time it continues in his family, Rob. Buxton, Esq. being now owner of both the manors and impropriation (of whose family I shall treat under Tibbenham.)

There are a rank of ten or eleven tumuli, or mounds of earth, in the field between Rushford, Euston, Barnham, and Thetford, where (I verily believe) was fought that dreadful battle between King Edmund and the Danes, in the year 871.<sup>5</sup>

This indeed seems very true, for in the Abbreviation of the Life of King Edmund, in Register Curteys,<sup>6</sup> fol. 211, we find this account: In the 15th year of King Edmund's reign, the Danes came again to East England, to revenge themselves further of the King, at which time they burnt the monasteries of Croiland, Thorney, Peterburgh, Ramsey, Seham, and Ely, with most of the religious in them, and from thence passed through the country from west to north, seizing and spoiling all they could, Ubba staying to guard their spoils, and what they had taken, at or near Ely: Ingwar with his army entered East England, and went to a city of King Edmund's, called Theodford,<sup>7</sup> where he encamped, and entered soon after, and burnt it, killing old and young, and ravishing both virgins and matrons; King Edmund, who was then at Eglesden,<sup>8</sup> received a message from Ingwar, that if he would renounce Christianity, and worship his idols, then they would divide the treasure with him, together with his kingdom; as soon as King Edmund received this message, he marched with his army against the enemies, and engaged not far off from Theodford, where they fought sharply from morning until evening, a great number being slain on both sides, for which King Edmund was much grieved, as well for the pagans deaths, as for those martyrs of his army, who died there in defence of their Faith; on the morrow the Danes departed, and the King, with what remained of his army, returned to Eglesdune, resolving never more to fight against the pagans, but if it was necessary, to yield up himself a sacrifice for the people, and for the Faith of Christ. Ingwar, much vexed for the loss of his men, went again to Theodford, where Ubba came to him with 10,000 men, and joining forces, went to Eglesdune, and there martyred the King, in the year of our lord 871, of his age 29, and of his reign 15.

At this time, without doubt, was that large mount and ramparts, called Thetford Hill, raised by the Danes, in which they encamped; for its being round is a plain demonstration it is a Danish work, raised to that height, in all appearance, to command the opposite hill, on which King Edmund's army then lay, on the extremity of which, some of these tumuli are placed. The most remarkable one is called Tut Hill, under these the bodies of the slain were buried, it being usual, in these days, to heap the slain upon the earth, and raise hills over the heaps, that being more likely to continue their memory, than interring them in a pit or grave level with the earth's surface; and usually where any commander or great men were laid, they raised the hill over them to a larger size than ordinary, which might be the reason of this hill's being bigger than the rest.

The COLLEGE revenues at its dissolution were valued at 85*l.* 15*s.* It had a manor, and the impropriate rectory,<sup>9</sup> and 102 acres of land in Rushworth, a manor in Elveden, and Lerling advowson,<sup>1</sup> and other tenements of their founder's gift, who built them a college, on the south side of the churchyard, with a dormitory, refectory, chapel, and other convenient offices, part of which are still standing, and others are in ruins. About 1392, the master obtained license in mortmain,<sup>2</sup> for Peter Frost, Robert Aishele, Tho. Smetheson, and Rob. Fullere,<sup>3</sup> to settle a messuage and a carucate of land, 60 acres of pasture, 4*s.* rent, and the rent of a pound of cinnamon, on his college; and at the same time Roger Cornwayle, Adam Foxle, and Tho. Bray, were licensed to settle two messuages, a carucate of land, 60 acres of pasture, and 4*s.* rent in Elveden, aforesaid, and the said Peter and Will. de Shelton, and Tho. Balle, settled a toft in Rushworth on the college, and Peter and Tho. Fullere, 3 tofts and 24 acres of land there; Rob. Wortham, John Benhale, and Tho. Fullere, by the same license, settled a toft and 60 acres in Brethenham; and in 1470, the lady Anne Wingfield, by the consent of Sir Rob. Wingfield, her second husband, settled in mortmain, her manors of Rushworth and Lerling, called Gonville's manors. This was the chief of its endowment, though it had other lands and tenements in Thetford, Fakenham in Suffolk, West-Herling, and Weston. It was governed by statutes, confirmed by Tho. Piercy Bishop of Norwich in his visitation, the heads of which, as they shew the state of the college, it will not be amiss to insert.

The college had a master or custos, and five brethren or fellows, who were to obey their master in all things lawful, the master to have the cure of the parish, and all of them were to pray for the souls of Sir Edmund Gonville their founder, and of all his ancestors, successors, and benefactors, every day, and to say such daily masses and collects as are therein ordered, and to keep the founder's anniversary, in a particular manner, all which would be to no purpose to enlarge upon; as the revenues increase, the number to increase, and every new fellow to have 10 marks per annum at least, and neither the master nor fellows to be removed, unless for such crimes as would remove a rector; they are all to sleep in one room, and to eat in common together, unless in sickness; the master to receive a stipend of 50*s.* a year, and each fellow 30*s.* (over and above their other stipend.) The master to be elected by the fellows; if he be one of the college, the majority is sufficient; but if he be not, then there must be two parts of the fellows, and if the votes be equal, and two chosen, <sup>9</sup> The rectory was taxed at 8 marks according to the Lincoln taxation, and after its impropriation, paid according to that valuation to the Bishop, at every vacancy of the mastership.

&c. in Elveden, which they had of the feoffment of William de Lerling, it being the whole they had there, except the manor and other revenues settled on Rushworth college.

the Bishop is to choose which he pleases; every master thus elected, before he be confirmed by the Bishop, must go to the manor of Lerling, and present himself to the founder's heirs, if they be there, and if not, he may go to the Bishop, who is to confirm him; and if they do not choose in three months after a vacancy, it lapses to the Bishop, who must collate one of that college. In every vacancy the fellows are to choose one of themselves, to look after the college affairs, who is to account to the next master; the fellows to choose the fellows, and each fellowship void above six months lapses to the Bishop; every fellow that leaves the college shall leave half his goods to it, and at their admission, shall swear obedience to their master, and to promote their college; the fellows were obliged to constant residence, and could not lie one night out of the college, without their master's leave; the master was at full liberty as to his residence, but could not have any of his own family admitted to any office in the college, without the consent of the majority of the fellows; the college to have a common seal, which, with the evidences and treasure, shall always be kept in a chest, with three locks, the master to have one key, and such two fellows as all the fellows shall choose, to have the other two; the master and fellows to make up their accounts every Michaelmas, and lock up one part of the account in the chest, and the master to keep the counterpart. The Bishop reserves power for him and his successors to visit, correct, and reform, what he thinks necessary, together with all episcopal power, jurisdiction, and other rights whatever, belonging to his church of Norwich.<sup>4</sup> Dated at Schulldham, July 13th, 1360.

It appears from an old rental in my collection, that Tho. Sigo, master of the college, held of the capital manor of Rushworth, called Gonvile Hall, his manor called Lerling Hall in Rushworth, by the rent of 6s. 8d. a year; Purry's tenement and 30 acres, with its fold-course, at 3s. 4d. rent, the capital tenement formerly John de Brethenham's in Brethenham, at 3s. 4d. with 2s. 8d. ob. rent for his lands on Suffolk side, and abundance of other rents on the Norfolk side.

1492, William Halyday, senior, chaplain and fellow, desired to be buried here by his parents; he gave 6s. 8d. towards a new bell, 6s. 4d. to the light of the holy sepulchre, to the gild of St. John Baptist kept in this church 3s. 4d. His uncle, Thomas Halyday, formerly fellow, sold seven acres of land to him, which he gave to the college, after the death of Robert Schudewell his brother, and Alice his wife, the profits to keep the south porch in repair for ever, (which looks as if he was buried in it,) and to pray for him and his benefactors; he gave other 9 acres in Rushworth, to Robert and Alice for life, and Thomas their son, if he live to be of age; if he dies under age, it was to go the master to find bread and wine for the Sacrament. He gave a good stone house in Rushworth, to the college in free alms, to be used as a gild-hall, or at any time, when there was not room for the guests in the college; but the master was to find out of it a lamp burning in the choir, before the Sacrament at the high altar, for ever, to which he gave a silver chrysmatory of 4 marks value, John Cavendysh, rector of Quidenham, and Will. Parysh, fellow, executors. Proved Jan. 23, 1492.

<sup>4</sup> This church is not exempt from the masters being all of them installed episcopal and archidiaconal jurisdiction, by the archdeacon.

This COLLEGIATE CHURCH was built in form of a cross; the quire, north and south cross isles are quite demolished, though there are two grave-stones in the north cross isle, still to be seen in the yard, but no inscriptions on them; the nave is now used by the parish, and a small part of it at the east end, separated from the rest, serves for a chancel: there is a very good square tower, having only one bell, though there have been five or six, the frames still remaining; it is a good building, and seems to be of the same date with the foundation of the college. On a stone in the south porch wall the name of JESUS is inscribed; the whole is covered with reed.

There are two hatchments in the church. Buxton quarters Herne, and or, two bucks couchant gul. a coat of pretence, per pale arg. and sab. a chevron between three talbots counterchanged, a chief gul.; motto, SERVARE MODUM.

Buxton impaling the former coat of pretence, quartered with, per chevron vert and or, three lions passant, counter-changed.

On a black marble on the south side of the altar,

This town was in Kenninghall soken. And now having gone the length of the hundred, with the county river, which divides it from Suffolk, we must turn back, and follow that stream, which runs from Quidenham Mere to Thetford, and there joins the county river, or the Ouse, dividing this hundred all the way from that of Shropham; and the first place that we meet with nearest to Thetford, is

SNAREHILL-HOUSE,

WHICH is deemed extraparochial, and (with the lodge now called Thetford Lodge,<sup>5</sup>) is all that remain of two villages, Great and Little Snareshill; Great Snareshill belonged to Thurstin of Thetford, a freeman in the Confessor's time, when he had two carucates in demean.<sup>6</sup> Little Snareshill belonged to Ailvin, or Elgar, of Thetford, who had one carucate, and to Alestan an Englishman, in the Conqueror's time, when it had 300 sheep belonging to it, five hives of bees, and was of 20s. value.<sup>7</sup>

The extent of both, was a league long, and half a league broad, and paid 11*d. ob. geld.*

Thurstin of Thetford had four freemen, that had 35 acres, which he held under Roger Bigot,<sup>8</sup> who held the whole towns of the Conqueror's gift, (except Bury abbey's part,) all which the said Roger settled on his priory at Thetford, at its foundation, and Herbert Bishop of Norwich, and William Bigot, his son,<sup>9</sup> confirmed it; by this means the church and all its revenues came wholly to that house, who got it appropriated to them very early, for it was in ruins in King Edward the Third's time, being then valued at 30*s.*<sup>1</sup> there are scarce any remains of its foundation, though its site is well known.<sup>2</sup>

It continued in that house to its dissolution, and then went with it to the Duke of Norfolk, by whose family it was after sold, or forfeited, <sup>5</sup> The part on which the lodge stands was Little Snareshill, and that where the house stands, Great Snareshill; there are no other inhabitants but these two families. I do not find there was ever any church in Little Snareshill, which is now owned by Henry Champion, Esq.

The part which Fulcher held of Bury abbey was held in Henry the Third's time, by the fifteenth part of a fee, of Wordwell manor, which was held of the abbey, by Will. Fyshe, and John Byntlton, and in 1345, Will. Fyshe, and Peter Bencynon had it, and paid 2s. 4d. relief, they being heirs of Will. Fyshe and Peter Bencynon.<sup>3</sup>

In 1410, The. Welde, clerk, gave to Thetford monks all his lands and tenements which he had of Mary his mother, lying in this place.

1411, Edmund Heyford of Bernham gave them two tofts and 60 acres of ground, and liberty of a free fold in Snareshill, to increase their revenues, and maintain them the better; the Bury part was included in this.

There was a family surnamed of this town, of which Benedict, son of Hugh de Snareshill, lived in 1256.

The Lect always belonged to the hundred, but there being no suiters to it in the place, it hath been omitted many years. The whole was in Kenninghall soken, which may be the reason of the tradition, of its belonging to Kenninghall; at this time, it is valued with Rushworth to the King's tax, and paid 26s. 8d. to the tenths.

The next town that we meet with upon this river (except the hamlet of Shadwell, of which we have spoken under Rushworth) is

SIR BENEDICT DE ANGERVILLE was lord, who died without male issue, leaving his three daughters his heirs, the first married to

WILLIAM DE SNITTERTON, otherwise called William Bokenham of Snitterton, as his family always continued to be called, viz. sometimes de Snitterton, and sometimes de Bokenham de Snitterton; the second to

NICHOLAS DE BELLO-FOCO, BELLO-FAGO, or BEAUFO; the third to

SIR ANDREW DE SHARNBOURN, she died without issue in King John's time, and her part reverted to her sisters and their heirs;

So that now it divided into two manors, each held at a quarter of a fee of the said Earl's, the one called Bokenham's, and the other Beaufo's.

BOKENHAM'S MANOR

Being thus come to Sir William de Bokenham de Snitterton, at his death he left it to Hugh, and he to Ralph Bokenham, alias Snitterton, his son, and he to Hugh Bokenham of Snitterton, his son, who was lord in 1286; he left Hugh his son and heir, who died in 1290, Margaret his mother then living, had a third part of the manor, and the mansion-house, in dower: Hugh son of the last Hugh succeeded, and in 1332, settled this and others on Sir Edmund de Baconisthorp, Knt. Sir John Bokenham, parson of Snitterton, his brother, and Sir Nicholas, son of Sir Gregory de Castello, during the life of Alice his wife, for the maintenance of his children; he died in 1339, and was buried at Snitterton.

In 1345, the lady of Snitterton, (sc. this Alice,) held her manor in West-Herling, at a quarter of a fee, of the Earl of Arundell, and he of the King, which Hugh of Snitterton, held, the relief of which was x.s.

1365, HUGH DE BOKENHAM, (her son,) was lord, and Nicholas Youngman and Alan Simonds, his farmers of the manor, kept their first court this year.

In 1369, HUGH died, and Julian de Bokenham kept her first court.

In 1379, JOHN BOKENHAM, senior, and JOHN DE BOKENHAM, junior, were lords, in which year they conveyed the manor to HUGH BOKENHAM, their brother, which they had of the grant of John de Thelcetham, Julian de Bokenham, (his daughter,) Roger Duxway, parson of Snitterton All-Saints, and Andrew Green of Stanford.

In 1401, HUGH BOKENHAM of Livermere, son and heir of Hugh de Bokenham of Snitterton, released to Robert Berlewelle, Esq. all his right in Bokenham's manor in West-Herling, which was sold to Sir William Berdewell, Knt. by Hugh Bokenham his father, and thus this manor was joined to Berdewell's, though the Bokenhams still had diverse lands here; for in 1479, Edmund Bokenham, Squyr, by will proved the 29th of March, ordered 2s. 8d. to be distributed among his poor servants, of Snitterton, Shropham, Hurgham, and Harlyng.

The fishery belonged solely to the lord, exclusive of all the tenants.

BEAUFO'S MANOR

Came to Nicholas de Bellofago, or Beaufo, in right of his wife, as aforesaid, Nicholas his son was lord in 1219, Hugh his son in 1256, and Nicholas his son till 1326, when he settled the manor and advowson on himself for life, remainder to Thomas Berdewell, and Amy his wife, daughter of the said Nicholas, and their heirs; from which time it was joined to Berdewell's manor, as was the advowson, the whole of which, at first, belonged to Angerville's manor, and with that divided one moiety to Bokenham's, and the other to Beaufo's, till Ralph son of Hugh de Bokenham sold his moiety, with an acre and half of land, to Hugh son of Nicholas de Beaufo, and then this manor had the whole advowson.

FURNEAUX'S MANOR, AFTER CALLED BERDEWELL'S,

Passed with Middle-Herling,<sup>6</sup> of which it was a part in the Conqueror's time, and so continued till Sir John Furneaux, Knt. gave it in marriage with Sara his daughter, to John de Berdewelle, to be held of the Earl of Brittain, as of Richmond honour, at half a fee, and this was the first possession that the Berdewells ever had in any of the Herlings; Sara was lady of it in 1280, soon after which it was called,

BERDEWELL'S, OR EAST-THORP MANOR,

By reason of its lying east of the church (as Hackford Hall manor was sometimes called West-Thorp, or Herling-Thorp, which name it still retains, on account of its lying west of the church) and to distinguish it from Furneaux or Middle-Herling manor, to which it joined.

And from this time all these manors went in the Berdewell family, as the pedigree will demonstrate.

The fines are certain at 4s. an acre, whether land, meadow, or pasture, and no regard to houses or home-stalls, they being included in the content;<sup>7</sup> it gives no dower; the lands descend according to the common law; for those lands that are heriotable, the heriot is the best beast; but if they have no beast, there is no heriot due: they cannot waste their copyhold, nor fell timber, (unless to repair their copyhold,) without license. Childewyt is due to the lord, which is 2s. 8d. of every woman, bond tenant, that hath a bastard. Cherage<sup>8</sup> also is paid to the lord, it being a fine for every bond tenant, for liberty to live out of the lordship, and women pay it as well as men, viz. 1d. a year each head. Bosage is also paid here, which is 1d. a head yearly for all cows and great cattle that feed on the commons; every 10 sheep of the enlet, that laid in the lord's fold, paid 1d. a year. West-Fen common at Thorp-End belonged solely to the manor; all the tenants were obliged to grind at the lord's mill, and the fishery of all the manors belonged solely to the lord.

manors aforesaid, it being after they were joined.

<sup>8</sup> Capitagium, or a fine for each head that lives out of the lordship.

Faldage is a custom of this manor, that every five sheep that go with the lord's, whether they be of the cullet or no, if the owners will not let them lie in the lord's fold, but will fold them on their own grounds, they must pay Id. a year, each five; the bond tenants could not sell any male young cattle of their own breeding without the lord's license.

HACKFORD HALL MANOR, afterward SECKFORD, OF WESTHORP, and now

HERLING-THORP.

This manor was in two parts, in the Confessor's and Conqueror's time, the first was in Bury abbey, from its first foundation: the second in one Anti's hands, in the Confessor's days, and Robert de Verli's in the Conqueror's,<sup>9</sup> from whom it came to the Earl Warren, and went with the possessions of the younger branch of that family, to the Bardolphs,* by them infeoffed in Sir Adam de Methwold, of whom Sir William de Hakeford had it.

The Abbey's part, in the Conqueror's time, was in Ricuard,<sup>1</sup> by feoffment of Abbot Baldwin, who held it of the abbey, at one fee; and from that time it passed as Hasting's manor in Gissing,<sup>2</sup> till Hugh, son of William de Hastings, Steward to King Henry I. infeoffed Sir William de Hakeford, Knt. who held it also at one fee, paying 18d. every twenty weeks, to the Abbot, to the ward of Norwich castle, which tenure continued till after 1630; for then Framlingham Gawdy, Esq. paid it to the Crown, in right of the dissolved monastery of Bury; it paid then 2s. a year for suit to the hundred court, and 9d. every twenty weeks, to the lord of the hundred, for castleward, for Bardolph's part.

The CUSTOMS are the same now, [1736,] as the other manors, but were different formerly; for in 1364, the copyhold descended to the youngest son, and it gave a moiety dower. It was then fine certain, at 4s. an acre.<sup>3</sup> The bosage, faldage, and chevage, were the same as in the other manors,<sup>4</sup> but the childwye was not certain, but at the lord's will. They could sell all manner of beasts that they bred; and this custom prevailed here, that every copyholder that married paid the lord a bolster, sheet, and pillow, or fined for them, except the tenants called molmen, which were not subject to this custom.

In 1346, there was a free tenement and 42 acres of land in Illington, held of this manor by Peter de Esthale, and also an annual rent of 1d. a year, paid to St. John of Jerusalem's hospital at Karbrook, for the souls of the lord's ancestors; and the brethren of St. John's college at Rushworth had annually a fat lamb delivered them. parish of Middle-Herling held one acre and an half of this manor, and paid 6d. freerent. The ewes of the flock were milked daily, by people hired by the lord for that purpose. It extended into all the Herlings, Quidenham, Rushworth, Shadewell, and Illington.

SIR WILLIAM DE HAKEFORD, or AKEFORD, Knt. bare for his coat armour, chequy or and vert; he held both the parts of the manor as aforesaid, and left the whole to Sir Thomas de Hakeford, his son, whose widow Mariona was lady in 1273; at her death it came to Sir Nicholas de Hakeford, and Margery his wife, to whom Peter de Hakeford his brother released his right; they held it but little while, for in 1278, Sir William de Hakeford, a man that did much service in the Scotch wars, settled the manor, jointly with Margery his wife, together with that part of it in Bridgham, and the manor and advowson of Couteshale, on Ralph de Hackford, parson of Couteshale, in trust for his two daughters, his heiresses; after this he purchased many lands in Herling, of Adam de Raveningham, and settled them, for their use, on William Costelyn, his trustee, who farmed the manor, and kept courts in his own name, as farmer of it.

SIR JOHN DE SECKFORD of Suffolk, Knt. became lord in 1331, in right of Joan his wife, the eldest daughter of Sir William de Hakeford; Henry de Elmham, and Elizabeth his wife, who was Sir William's other daughter, having released all their right in it, to Sir John and his lady, who released to them all their right in that part of the demesns that laid in Bridgham, and in the whole manor of Hacford Hall in Fringe: he bare for his arms, ermine, an escalop in fess gules, which hath been since changed, this family having born for some ages, ermine on a fess gul. three escalops or; and for their crest, a talbot passant ermine. He is sometimes called de Schirford, Segeford, Secford, and Seeford. In the year 1359, Sir John, son of this Sir John, lived at Great Bealings in Suffolk, and upon his marriage, settled it on William de Rothyng, rector here, and James de Rothing, to the use of Alice his wife, who kept court in 1372, after his death. In 1401, Sir George de Secford, Knt. was lord, and settled it on Margaret his wife, who was daughter and heir of Sir Thomas Jenney of Suffolk, Knt. After his death, she settled it on Sir Simon Felbrige, Knt. and other trustees, upon her second marriage with Augustine Stratton. At her death it went to George Secford, Esq. who settled it upon Ralf Full of Love, rector of this town, in trust for Alice his wife, who, in 1450, at his death, became lady; she was daughter of Tho. Rokes (of Ridlesworth, as I take it,) and married again to Sir Henry Wingfield, Knt. who joined with her in 1476, and released the manor to Tho. Seckford, Esq. lord of Seckford in Suffolk, who immediately settled it on Robert Warner, Will. Brampton, Edmund Purry, and others, in trust for Margaret, daughter of John Purry, of Aylesham in Norfolk, his first wife, who died before him, and he married a second wife, named Elizabeth, soon after which he died, in 1507, leaving Thomas Seckford of Great Bealings in Suffolk, Esq. his heir, who married Margaret, daughter of Sir John Wingfield of Letheringham, Knt. He and his father surviving feoffees sold it to

GEORGE NUNNE of Tostock in Suffolk, clothier, and William Fatter, his trustee, and the heirs of George. In 1564, the said George, and John his son and heir, sold it to his wife, and their heirs, and for want of heirs, to Edward Bardwell and his heirs for ever; and this year they held their first court; and from this time it was joined to the other manors, and so continues.

The manor-house hath been down many ages, for in 1398 the lord lived at Seckford, and had a pond, or pool, in the late site of the manor, called Seckford Hall-Yard Close, in West-Herling.

In 1504, after a suit between the lord and Robert Bernyngham, Prior of the monks of St. Mary at Thetford, the lord agreed for the future to pay 2s. a year to that monastery, out of lands called Gildensleves, which were joined to the manor by purchase, and did always heretofore pay 2s. 6d. a year, and upon this agreement he paid 2s. to Sir William Ixworth, then monk of that house, to put him in possession.

The family of the BERDEWELLES took their name from the town of Berdewelle in Suffolk, where they lived in the Conqueror's time, when Baldwin Abbot of Bury infeoffed Ralf de Berdewelle of that manor;<sup>5</sup> they always bare for their arms, arg. a goat saliant gul. armed or. and for their rebus or device, a bear with a well on his back, and these two letters, DE. which cannot but make BEAR-DE-WELL, or Berdwelle; and for a crest, on a wreath or and sab. a goat's head erased gul. attired or. mantled sab. doubled arg.

In 1196, WILLIAM, son of Ralf de Berdewelle, held Berdewelle at two fees, as he acknowledged in a fine then levied between him and Abbot Sampson,<sup>6</sup> John de Berdewelle, his son, had four sons, all which had issue; John de Berdewell, the eldest, was lord of Gasthorp in 1274.<sup>7</sup> He had two wives, and issue by both, the eldest son by the first wife was Thomas, who was dead before 1338, and left Richard, Robert, and Thomas, who were lords of Gasthorp; Thomas had the whole by release from his brothers; he married Amy, daughter of Sir Nicholas de Beaufo, with whom he had Beaufoe's manor in this town, Alice, her sister, and John Rivet of Freton, her husband, releasing their right in it, in 1330. In 1348, John Berdewelle, their son, was lord, who had William Berdewelle, his son, by Isabell, daughter of Thomas Barro, Knt. and had free-warren allowed him in Berdwelle and Thorp in Suffolk; William, his son, married Elizabeth, daughter of Tho. Hethe, lord of Hengrave, Denham by Barrow, and Saxham-Parva in Suffolk; he died seized of Berdewelle, Gatethorp, Beaufoe's, &c. leaving Margaret, his only daughter, who married John Harleston, by whom she had Margaret, married to Tho. Darcy of Danby in Essex, and Alice, to Sir Richard Fitz-Lewes, Knt. But the manors aforesaid, for want of male issue, reverted to Sir William Berdewell, the great warrior, who was the male heir of the family by the second wife, viz. Sara,<sup>8</sup> daughter of Sir John Furneaux of Midc-Herling, with whom he had Furneaux manor in West-Herling; they left Sir William Berdewell, Knt. their son and heir, whose son,

SIR WILLIAM BERDEWELL, Knt. the great warrior, was born 1367, for in the 9th of Henry IV. (anno 1407,) he was 40 years old, being then one of the knights summoned as witnesses for Sir Edward Hustyns of Elsing, in the cause between him and Sir

Reginald Grey Lord Ruthyn, concerning the arms of Hastyngs,<sup>9</sup> in which he swore, that he was a soldier with Sir Hugh Hastyngs, the defendant, in the voyage made by Sir John Arundell on the sea, and saw Sir Hugh bear the arms of or, a manche gul. with a label of three points arg.; in the voyage of Sir Malves del Ile, in the voyage of King Richard II. into Scotland; in Bretaigne, in the deceased Duke of Launcester's voyage into Spain; and that he always understood that the label was born by the next heir according to the usage of England, as the Prince of Wales bears it, and was the comsance of the next heir. In 1382, he was retained by Sir John Clifton of Bokenham castle, to serve him with 7 men at arms, and 6 archers on horseback, in the voyage of Croyserye, and of the King, for one year, for 100 marks for himself, with bouche de court,<sup>1</sup> and for his 7 men at arms and 6 archers, 392 marks, to be paid half down, and the rest quarterly, as the Bishop of Norwich should pay Sir John Clifton.<sup>2</sup> In 1387, he covenanted with the Lord Camoy's to serve under him in the expedition at sea under the command of the Lord Arundell, then Admiral of England, for four months, with 2 esquires sufficiently armed, and 3 archers, and each of his men of arms to have one servant to carry their bayonets, Sir William to find them wages, who was to have 18 marks for his own service, and 20 marks for his archers, and bouche de court for all his retinue, all of them to be ready at Southampton the 4th of May following; and if any great chieftain was taken in the war by Sir William, or his retinue, the Lord Camoy's was to have him, giving sufficiently to him and his men that should take him. In the year 1400, Michael De-la-poole Earl of Suffolk granted him an annuity of 20*l.* during his life, out of his castle, manor, and honour of Eye in Suffolk, in recompense for the good and agreeable service that Sir William had done him in times past, and shall do him in time to come, both in war and peace; and upon this Sir William obliged himself to serve the Earl with one esquire, two servants, and five horses, all which were to have bouche de court at the Earl's expense; and if he travels in England at the Earl's command, he was to be allowed reasonable expenses; and in time of war, he was to find as many men at arms, and archers on horseback, as he could, all which the Earl was to pay, as the King paid him; and he was to have two parts of their ransome, and the Earl the other third part, but no prisoner was to be delivered up, without the Earl's license. In this year he did homage to Thomas Earl of Arundell and Surrey, for his lands in Herling, held of Casth-Acre manor. He married Margaret, daughter and heiress of Theobald (or John) de Pakenham, Esq. and Agnes his wife, daughter of Tho. Saxham, who in her will ordered to be buried at Berdwell by her husband. He settled Berdwell's manor on Ralph and Robert de Bernyngham for their lives, remainder to Robert Berdwell, his son, remainder to William, son of Robert, and his heirs. On the 1st of Octob. 1434, he made his will, which is dated at Bury, where he died soon after; for on the 29th of the same month it was proved before

He is buried with his first wife, on the north side of the altar in this chancel; his stone is now much broken and defaced, it hath Berdewell's coat impaling three nags heads cooped, the three other coats being lost, as is part of the circumscription, which I transcribed before it was defaced, viz.

He left issue, five sons and four daughters; Robert, his eldest son and heir, Edward Berdewell of Moulham, who was living in 1539, whose son, James Berdewell, lived at Sandcroft, afterwards at Long Stratton; in 1589, as heir male of the family, he released Limborn manor to Bas. Wooton, his executor, and he sold it, with her marriage, to Sir Robert Southwell, Knt. who married her to

JOHN WOOTON of North Tuddenham in Norfolk, who confirmed the exchange lately made of Salthouse and Kellyng manors, which were lately the Wyghynghams and Berdevelles, for Drayton Hall in Scarning; he was son of John Wooton of Tuddenham, and Elizabeth his wife, sister of Sir Thomas, and daughter of Sir Robert L'Estrange; he kept his first court here in 1528, and in 1536 his wife died; after which he married a daughter of Nevill Lord Abergavenny, widow of Lord D'Acres.

By Elizabeth, his first wife, he left one only daughter, Anne, whose wardship John Millicut, Esq. sold in 1545, to Sir Anthony Rouse, it belonging to him as lord of Bergham manor, of which the manor of Middle-Herling is held, as parcel of the honour of Richmond; she had three husbands, first Sir Thomas Woodhouse of Waxham, (William Woodhouse having purchased her guardianship of Sir Anthony Rouse in 1547,) by whom she had no issue, nor by Henry Reppes of Mendham, Esq. her second husband, who kept his first court in 1551, and was dead before 1556, for in that year Bassingbourne Gawdy, second son of Thomas Gawdy, serjeant at law, her third husband, kept his first court, and held Middle-Herling of Robert Berney,<sup>8</sup> as of his manor of Bergham, by the service of half a fee, and 5s. per annum; he was afterwards knighted. In 1564, he purchased Sceford manor; and thus all the manors in West-Herling, Middle-Herling, and Gasthoip, came to the Gawdie's. She was buried at Herling, July the 9th 1594.

Gawdie's arms are, vert, a tortoise passant ar.; crest, on a wreath ar. and gul. a chapeau turned up erm. on which two daggers in pale ar. hilted or. mantled gul. doubled ar.

Sir BASSINGBOURN GAWDIE, Knt. died seized, Jan. 25, 1569, of all the manors, together with Limbourne in Homesfield, Roudham, Drayton Hall, &c. leaving two sons, Bassingbourn and Sir Phillip, who married Brigit Strongman, by whom he had Francis, his son and heir, who died without issue, and five daughters, the last of which was born in 1614.

BASSINGBOURNE GAWDIE, Esq. his son and heir, was 29 years old at his father's death, when Thomas Gawdie of Gawdie Hall, his uncle, was trustee for Secford's manor. This Bassingbourn held West-Herling of the Earl of Arundell, Middle-Herling of the Queen, as of her honour of Richmond, at half a fee, Secford's of the dissolved abbey of Bury, at 3s. yearly rent, Drayton Hall, of the Lady Morley, and Gasthorp, of Phillip Knevill, Esq. He was thrice sheriff of Norfolk, viz. in 1573, when he was an esquire only, in 1593, when he was a knight, and in 1601. He had two wives; the first was Anne, daughter of Sir Charles Framlingham of Debenham, by Dorothy his wife, daughter of Sir Clement Heigham, Knt.; she was an heiress, and brought the whole estate of the Framlinghams, viz. the manors of Crowshall, Scotneys, Harborow, and Debenham, with the advowsons, Mandevile's manor in Sternesfield, Abbot's Hall, and Ashfield manor and advowson. Sir Charles her father outlived her, and died July 23, 1594, leaving Framlingham Gawdie, Esq. his grandson, his sole heir. His second wife was Dorothy, daughter of Sir Nicholas Bacon of Redgrave, who held Gasthorp manor for life; and after his decease, she married to Felton, and died at Fokenham, Feb. 1, 1653, and was buried here by her first husband, who died the 23d of May, 1606, leaving issue by both his wives: by the last he had two sons and two daughters, Bassingbourn and Bacon Gawdie, who was buried here in 1650, and Dorothy and Frances, both buried here, the first in 1659, the last in 1626, leaving no issue; by the first he had two sons, Framlingham, and Charles, who was born in 1591, and was afterwards knighted, and had Crowshall, Scotneys, &c. given to him and his heirs.

FRAMLINGHAM GAWDIE, Esq. was born Augt. 8, 1589, Sir Robt. Knowles, Knt. was his guardian, and as such kept court in 1606. In 1627, he was sheriff of Norfolk, and afterwards one of the Deputy-Lieutenants of that county, by commission from Henry Earl of Northampton, then Lord-Lieutenant: he married Lettice, daughter and coheir of Sir Robt. Knowles, Knt. who was buried here Dec. 3, 1630, by Sir Robt. her father, who was buried Jan. 20, 1618. He was buried, Feb. 25, 1654, by his father-in-law, leaving six sons and two daughters, viz. William Framlingham, born in 1613, Bassingbourn in 1614, Tho. in 1617, who died single, Charles in 1618, and Robt. in 1620, Lettice died Feb. 8, 1622, and Anne, June 29, 1622.<sup>9</sup>

WILLIAM GAWDY, Esq. the eldest son, was created baronet, July 13, 1663; he married Elizabeth Duffield, who was buried June 10, 1653, by whom he had four sons and one daughter, Bassingbourn, the eldest, died unmarried at London, of the small-pox, and was buried in the Temple, in 1660, Anne his sister was buried with him, and William his brother, they dying of the same disease, Framlingham Gawdy who lived at Bury, and

Sir JOHN GAWDY, Bart. who was his second son and heir; he was born Oct. 4, 1639, being deaf and dumb, notwithstanding which, he was an admirable painter, and a most ingenious man; he married

Anne, daughter of Sir Robt. de Grey of Martin, Knt. and Elizabeth his wife, by whom, at his death in 1699, he left one son and one daughter.

SIR BASINGBOURN GAWDY, Bart. his son and heir, died unmarried, on Thursday, Oct. 10, 1723, of a bruise in his privities, which he received by his horse's stumbling as he was hunting; he was wrapt in searchloth, and buried in a leaden coffin, in our Lady's chapel in this church, which is lately taken down, (a faculty being obtained for that purpose,) and his grave raised with bricks over it, is now to be seen in the churchyard, on the south side, where the chapel stood.<sup>1</sup> He left his three nieces his heirs, they being daughters of his sister Anne, by Oliver Le Neve of Great Wichingham, Esq. their son Oliver dying without issue in 1686, viz. Issabella, then single, Anne, married to John Rogers of Stanford, licentiate in physick, and Henrietta, to Edward Le Neve, Gent. only son of Edward Le Neve, citizen and merchant-tailor of London: who all joined, and conveyed the whole estate to

JOSHUA DRAPER, Esq. who sold it to

RICHARD GIPPS, Esq. now lord and patron, who hath purchased all this and Middle-Herling, and built a neat seat, which was begun by Mr. Draper, who pulled down the old hall, called Berdewell Hall, the site of which joined to the south-east corner of the churchyard, and began this new building, in the place where the old one stood.<sup>2</sup>

The Leets of the two towns belong to the Duke of Norfolk's hundred of Giltcross, to which hundred court each town paid 6*d.* leet fee, and 7*d.* apiece for blanche-farm, 6*s.* for three suit fines, and 7*d.* apiece for castle-ward.

In 1603, there were 132 communicants in this parish, and now [1736] there are about 6 or 7 houses, and 60 inhabitants; it paid 58*s.* to the tenths, and is now assessed with Middle-Herling at 427*l.*

BERDEWELL HALL was a fine old embattled stone building, moted round; it was demolished in 1725; there was a family chapel in it anciently, and the following arms were in the parlour and other windows, when it was pulled down, viz.

But can do nothing without fire.

In 1382, a piece of land in Thorp-street was held by the rent of 2*d.* a year, to be paid to West-Herling church, and Rob. Gildensleve held 1 acre by the rent of 1*d.* a year, to find a light in that church. John Ingman held a cottage, formerly Elizabeth Smith's, for which he was to find yearly a wax candle of a quarter of a pound weight, to burn there, and William Turnour was to find another yearly, of 1*d.* value.

In 1550, Sir Tho. Woodhouse of Waxham, Knt. confirmed to Robert Barret 2 acres of meadow, which he had among other lands, of the grant of King Edward VI. in the second year of his reign, it being given for an anniversary to be kept here.

The CHURCH is dedicated to all the Saints, having its nave and chancel tiled, a square tower, with a tall freestone spire on it; there were but three bells, till Joshua Draper, Esq. when he resided here, had them new rained, and added two new ones. On the third bell was this,

Virgo Coronata duc nos ad Regna beata.

The following inscriptions (besides those already spoken of) may be seen here. On a brass plated stone in the chancel, the effigies of a priest and under him this,

Orate pro Anima Johannis Michull, quondam Rectoris, istius Ecclesie, cuius Anime propicietur Deus.

On another stone,

This man gave 10*l.* to build a new font in Hingham church, and to the lights of Corpus Christi, St. Andrew his patron, and St. Mary's light in her chapel in Hingham church, 2*lb.* of wax, and 40*d.* to the high altar. To West-Herling a missal of 8 or 9 marks, and two vestments of 5*l.* value, Will. Berdewell, junior, and Hen. Spylman, Gent. executors, the Lady Anne Wyngfield supervisor.<sup>3</sup> [This out of his testament.] By his will he gives a legacy to the Tabernacle of St. Mary at Hocham, to pray for Alice his mother; he orders an annual mass to be celebrated in Hingham church, for the souls of Tho. Oxwold, of John Ashwell, organ-maker, John Fagede, and Hen. Oxwold, all of Norwich, deceased; 20*s.* to St. Thomas of Acris's hospital in London; 20*s.* to St. Thomas the Martyr at Rome. He gave a close called Noziyord to the rectors of Hingham for 24 years. 20*d.* out of it to keep his anniversary, and then to be sold to the use of the church; 40*s.* to William Berdewelle, his patron; 40*s.* to each executor for their labour; and 4 nobles of old gold to the Lady Anne Wyngfield, to be supervisor. Proved the last of Sept. 1479.

These arms were lately in the windows, though now several of them are lost, the monuments here having suffered much, when the old hall was pulled down, by the workmen's working in the church.

Herling, Tuddenham, Berdewell, Pakenham, Furneaux, and Denney.

And there were several effigies of the Berdewells in red habits, (that being the colour of the field of their arms.) In the belfry window were Berdewell's and Sockford's arms.

The commandments hang against the north wall, under them is this,

God bless our kin, and send him long to reigne,
In Peace and Health, the Gospel to maintaine.

On the south side of the church was a chapel dedicated to St. Mary the Virgin, called Berdewell's chapel, not, as I imagine, because that family was buried in it, (for I meet with none,) but because it belonged to Beaufo's manor, which came early to the Berdewells. This in all probability was founded by Nicholas de Beaufo; but whoever was its founder, he was interred, or rather immured, in its south wall, for it falling to decay very lately, a faculty was obtained to take it down, and in so doing, the body of the founder appeared to be laid in a stone coffin, enclosed in the south wall, which (by the present patron's order) was preserved as it was found, and being covered with bricks, now lies undisturbed, in the nature of an altar tomb. I am told there was a small silver thing like a candlestick in the coffin, but rather think it to have been a crucifix.

In this chapel there was but one stone inscribed, and that being taken up, is now placed as an altar tomb, in the churchyard.

Here lieth the Body of Anne Le-Neve, Daughter of Oliver Le-Neve of Witchingham Esq; and Anne, sole Daughter of Sir John Gawdy of West Herling in this County Bart, who died 29 Nov. 1689.*

Most of the Gawdys were buried in this chapel. The founder's tomb appeared on the outside of the south wall; it had an arch turned over it, and the gravestone or lid of the coffin was about two feet from the ground.

In the window over the tomb was GAWDY quartering Bassingbourne, impaling Wolton, Bardwell, Walcote, Pakenham, Furneaux, and Witchingham.

On a black marble in the chancel,

Cressener, ar. on a bend sab. three crozlets fitchee or, impaling a lion rampant.

LITTLE-HERLING,
NOW CALLED
MIDDLE-HERLING,

BECAUSE it lies in the midst, between West and East-Herling, was held by Ulchetell a Dane, in the Confessor's days, and by Anschutell his descendant, (or son, as the name intimates,) in the Conqueror's;<sup>6</sup> the whole contained 4 carucates of land, whereof two were in demesne; it was in Kenninghall soken, and worth at first 6*l.* then raised to 7*l.* but fell again to 5*l.* The part in West-Herling which belonged to the Furneaux family, and after became Berdecell's manor, was valued into the 4 carucates at half a fee, all which were held in capite, by Alan Earl of Richmond, (of whom Ulchetell held it,) as part of his honour, at a whole fee; this and West-Herling, which was measured and taxed with it, was a league and a half long, and a league broad, and paid 27*d.* geld, out of every 20*s.* raised in the hundred.

This manor was infeoffed in the FURNEAUX family, by the Earl of Richmond, along with Bergham, of both which Sir Jeffery de Furneaux, Knt. was lord about 1180, and had his chief seat at Bergham in Cambridgeshire; he had Robert, Jeffery, and Ralf; Sir Robert de Furnell, the eldest, was a knight in 1219, and lord of Bergham, of whom Jeffery his brother held Herling, as of the manor of Bergham, it being given him by Sir Jeffery his father, and he was the first of the family that settled here. His eldest brother, Sir Robert, married Alice, by whom he had Sir Michael de Furneaux, Knt. whose wife Alice was buried in the church of the canons of the Holy Sepulchre at Thetford. Their son, Sir Simon de Furneaux, in 1281, had a market and fair granted to his manor of Berkham, or Bergham, where he resided, and free-warren in Bergham, Linton, in Cambridgeshire, and Swanington in Norfolk; and some time before this, he was licensed to grant a messuage and lands in Bergham, to the prior and brethren of the Holy Cross at Bergham. He was lord of Pelham Furneaux,<sup>7</sup> and married Alice, one of the sisters and coheirresses of Miles, son of Philip de Hastings, SIR JEFFRY DE FURNAUS, Knt. lord of Herling, whose wife Amy was buried in the church of the canons at Thetford,<sup>3</sup> to which house, he gave the ninth sheaf of all his demesans in Bircham and Herling, with a messuage and 12 acres of land adjoining, with commonage in the marsh, and shackage in the field, with Amy his wife, who devoted herself, both living and dead, to that house; and his son and grandson confirmed these grants. Their temporals here<sup>2</sup> were taxed at 2s. but their spirituals<sup>1</sup> were never taxed, for they always received a composition of 23s. 4d. a year, instead of the sheafs in kind. He married Mary, daughter of Nic. de Twynsted, she being then a widow; he was buried by his father and grandfather, in the church of the canons of Thetford, leaving one son and two daughters; Anne, who became a professed nun at Thetford, in 1343; Elizabeth, married to John de Berdewell, with whom he gave the manor in West-Herling, afterwards called Berdewells, to be held of Richmond honour at half a fee, which till this time was part of this manor.

SIR JOHN FURNEAUX, junior, Knt. his son and heir, was a ward of Sir Will. Le-Laux, who sold his wardship to William Le-Bustlere, and Thomas, his son, who kept court here as guardians: in 1320, Sir John, and Isabel, his first wife, kept court; and in 1348, he settled the manor and advowson on Sir John de Gouville, rector of East-Herling, and Peter de Newton, rector of Brom, in trust for Elizabeth, his second wife, who died before him, and he married Amy, his third wife, who outlived him, and married Rob. Denney in 1384, in which year they held their first court for the third part of the manor and advowson, which she held in dower, and in 1400, they let it for 8 marks. By his first wife he had a son and one daughter, viz.

JOHN DE FURNEAUX, whom John Duke of Lancaster and Earl of Richmond, the King's son, seized, together with Elizabeth his sister, as his wards, by reason of his manor of Bergham in Cambridgeshire, of which Midle-Herling was held, as of Richmond honour, and soon after he granted their wardships and marriage to Hugh de Cliderhowe, who, in 1361, granted them to John de Herlyng, by deed dated at Bergham; this John died a minor this year, and Sir John de Herlyng kept his first court by grant of the Earl of Richmond.

ELIZABETH FURNEAUX, sole heiress, married first to Thomas Crabbe, whose widow she was in 1401, in which year she settled this manor and advowson, with the reversion of Kymberlee manor, after the death of Margaret, late wife of Tho. Fastolf, Knt. on Sir Thomas Erpyngham, Knt. Tho. Halis of Crougethorp, John Poit, rector of East Herling, and William Carlond, chaplain there, to her use for life, and her heirs in tail; after which she married William Sandham of Kimberlee, who sold Kimberlee without her consent, though she give him Herling for life. Her will is dated in 1415. By her first husband she had two sons, John and William, who, in 1424, sued William Berdewell, Esq. for the manor, but Sir Tho. Erpyngham proving that he and other feoffees had seizin of it, to the use of Eliz. Crabbe, his mother, for life, and then to John Crabbe, her son, and his heirs, it was confirmed to William Berdewell and his heirs.

JOHN CRABBE, the eldest son, died long before his mother, leaving only one daughter,

ELEANOR, who married William Berdewell,<sup>2</sup> Esq. of West-Herling, in whose right he had the manor and advowson, all the feoffees releasing their rights in 1433, when they settled it on him and his wife and William their son and his heirs; from which time it hath continued joined to West-Herling, as it now remains.

The CHURCH was dedicated to St. Andrew the Apostle, being always appendant to the manor; it was a rectory valued at 5 marks at the Norwich taxation. It is in Rockland deanery, and Norfolk archdeaconry, and still pays 1s. synodals, and 2s. 4d. archdeacon's procurations; it paid 35s. 4d. tenths, and is valued now [1736] with West-Herling to the land tax, there being 4 houses and about 30 inhabitants. The churchyard is now glebe; the church remained in use till 1543, and then it was entirely taken down, so that the foundations only are now visible, it stood by the lane's side, in the close going to West-Herling church. Here was a Gild dedicated to St. Andrew, to which, in 1504, Tho. Lulpek was a benefactor.

<sup>2</sup> This William sued for, and recovered the manor of Kimberlee, by proving that Elizabeth Sandham said, "That it was newyr her wyll, ne asent, that her husband Sandon xuld sellen the " manor of Kymberlee, ne no parcell thereof: and upon ys we recordyn, that after tyme, the forseyd manor was sold, ne she had newyr good day."

1457, 29 Jan. John Mychell, priest: he was the last rector, it being consolidated in his time to West-Hertug.

In 1321, Sir John de Furneaux Knt. in open court, enjoined all the tenants of the manor, under the penalty of 12*d.* for every default, to dig a St. Andrew's cross on each piece of their land, when they sowed it, to avoid all disputes between the rectors of West and Middle-Herling.

There were three lamps and a wax taper kept burning in this church, at the expense of the lord of the manor.

In 1344, the lord held a tenement and 9 acres freehold, of the Prior of the canons of the Holy Sepulchre, at Thetford, by the rent of 12*d.* a year, at which Amg Waterhonne held of the lord, by paying the prior his rent, and 1*d.* a year to the lord.

Robert Gildensete died in 1444, and gave a messuage called Purdye's at Middle-Herling Green, and 9 acres of land, 4 acres and an half lying at Dedmore, and 4 acres and an half at Blowland, to the inhabitants of Middle-Herling for ever, who, in 1556, brought their deeds into court, and proved that on April the 13th, 1547, Henry Cooper, then feoffee, made a new feoffment of Gildensetes, to the use of the inhabitants, it being freehold, held of Berdevelle's manor in West-Herling, by suit of court, and the rent of 6*d.* a year and one capon.

MARKET-HERLING,

EAST-HERLING,

Is so called because it lies most east of all three; it belonged to Ketil the Dane, a freeman in the Confessor's time, when it was one manor, having two carucates in demean; in the Conqueror's time Ingulf held it under Will. de Schoies, there being then a church and 4 acres of land belonging to it; the whole was 2 miles long, and 2 miles broad, and paid 17*d.* 1*q.* geld.<sup>3</sup>

The whole came to the Earl Warren, and a part of it went with a younger branch of that family to the Bardolphs, and Hugh de Bardolph held it at half a fee; this after became Fawconer's manor.

A quarter of a fee went to Robert Malet.

Another half fee went to Roger de Schovill,

And the other fee and 3 quarters was held of the Earl Warren, the whole making 3 fees, two fees and an half of which constituted the capital manor called

FELBRIGGE'S MANOR,

Which contained a carucate in demean, and was held by a family surnamed De Norfolk, the last of which was Gilbert de Norfolk, who died seized, leaving his five daughters coheireses.

The first married Eudo, son of Adam de Multon; the second, William de Verdon; the third, Roger Bygod of Felbrigge, the fourth, William de Maynwaryn; the fifth, Rob. de Aiguillon; and each of them had a fifth part of the manor and advowson, which after this division became so many separate manors. Martina de Norfolk was Gilbert's sister, and William was her son, and both had lands here, but were not concerned in the manor.

MULTON'S MANOR

Was soon united to Bygod's or Felbrigge's, for Eudo released it to Sir Simon Le Bygod of Felbrigge, and Maud his wife, and their heirs, and so it fell into Felbrigge's immediately.

VERDON'S MANOR.

WILLIAM DE VERDON, who married Maud, daughter of Gilbert de Norfolk, died before his wife, and she had her dower allowed her, it having been settled by them, before his death, on Will. de Lakenham, and Isabell his wife, after whom Alexander de Vaux of Keswick, and Margaret his sister, had each a third part, which, before 1268, they released to John de Vaux, their brother, and Margaret his wife, for they in that year released it (the advowson being excepted) to Tho. de Jernemuta or Yarmouth, who had it jointly with Aveline his wife, about 1284, which Aveline remarried to John de Wakesham, and they, in 1303 settled it by fine on Simon Le Bygot, and his heirs, and so united it to Felbrigge's manor; but the fifth part of the advowson, which was excepted, passed from the Vauxes to the Hales, and so fell into Maynwaryn's manor.

MAYNWARYN'S MANOR.

WILLIAM DE MAYNWARYN died in 1247; Emma or Amy, his wife, daughter of Gilbert de Norfolk, recovered her dower against Roger her son, who was joint lord with William his brother, in 1256; Simon, son of Roger, was lord in 1286, against whom Lucia, late widow of William his uncle, then married to Stephen de Gissing, recovered her dower; this Simon was married to Lettice his wife in 1297, whose daughter, Agatha Maynwaryn, was lady in 1315, from which time I meet with nothing of it till 1368, and then Sir Roger de Hales had it, whose successor, Stephen de Hales, presented in right of his two fifth parts of the advowson. In 1401, Lady Joan de Hales had it, and very soon after it belonged to Sir John Gourvile, with whose daughter and heiress it passed to Sir Robert Herling, and so fell into the capital manor.

AGUILLON'S MANOR

Went from Robert to Walter de Aiguillon, and from him to Robert de Agelyn, who settled it on Symon Le Bygot of Felbrigge, and Maud his wife, and their heirs, for 10 marks per annum, to be paid to the said Robert at Fritcham, during his life, and thus it fell into

FELBRIGG'S, OR THE CAPITAL MANOR

ROGER LE BYGOT DE FELEBRIGGE, who was as often called Roger de Felbrigge, in right of Gilbert de Norfolk's daughter, whom he had married, had a fifth part of the manor and advowson; after him succeeded Richard de Felbrigge, who gave Alfred Kokerbolle, his villein, and all his services, to the canons at Thetford: William de Felbrigge was his son and heir, whose wife Mary, after his death, married to Merlai, and held this manor in dower, which went to Simon Le Bygot of Felbrigge, and Maud his wife, who held it of the Earl Warren; in King Henry the Third's time he purchased Aguillon's and Multon's parts. In 1280, Sir Roger le Bygod of Felbrigge had a charter of free-warren for his manors of Herling, Felbrigge, Runtton, Melton, and Palling, when he and his parceners held Herling manors, late Gilbert de Norfolk's at 2 fees and an half, of the Earl-Marshal. In 1303, Simon Le Bygod of Felbrigge, and Alice his wife, purchased Verdon's manor; this Simon had the whole by grant from William Le Bygod, his brother, who was rector here, and in 1347, he and his wife conveyed the advowson, with 1 acre of land only, to him again, and in 1350, they settled all, but the acre and advowson, on Nicholas Bourne, of Long-Stratton, who left it to his two daughters and heirs, Elizabeth, married to Sir Tho. Jenney, Knt. who, in 1361, released all their right to Margaret their sister, and John de Herling her husband, and their heirs, who purchased the advowson of William Bygot, and so joined it to the manor again.

FAWCONER'S MANOR

Came with the younger branch of the Earl Warren's family to the Bardolfs,<sup>4</sup> and from them to Phillip de Virlye, from him to John de Boyland, and from him to Ralph of Kenninghall, surnamed Le Falconer, and then to his son Ralf of Kenninghall, to whose son, Simon of Kenninghall, William de Hastyns of Quendenham granted a messuage and many lands there, free, at 12d. a year rent.<sup>5</sup> In Henry the Third's time, John Le Falconer held half a fee of Maud de Boyland, and she of Phillip de Virlye, he of Hugh Bardolf, he of the Earl Warren, and the Earl of the King, at half a fee, the relief being 20s. as the Feodary informs us; this John was alive in 1288.

Cringlethorp, also; Amy might be Falconer's widow, married again to Cringlethorp.

In 1288, JOHN LE FAWCONER, and Joan his wife, had lands here, settled on them by Edmund de Munpinzon, and others.

In 1302, they lived at Keninghall, were lords in 1315, and had added other lands in Herling and Keninghall, valued at the eighth part of a fee, which they held of Robert de Tateshall, as of Bokenham castle.

In 1345, SIMON LE FALCONER had it, and paid his relief; he was succeeded by JOHN FAWCONER, whose wife Julian died before him in 1374, and he held her manors for life, by the courtesy of England, they having then no living issue; she was daughter and coheir of Tho. de Ormesby; her sisters were to inherit her manors at her husband's death: sc. Gunnora, married to Perers,<sup>6</sup> and had John Perers, who had one daughter only, Elizabeth, married to Sir Tho. de Narford, Knt.; Elen, her other sister, married, and had two daughters, Agnes, married to Snecke, and Alice to Derling.

It was soon after in the Gonviles, but how it came to them I know not; the Falconers lived first at Keninghall, and afterwards in the manor-house, which laid between Keninghall and Herling, and is now called Hill-Herling, or Gelding Hall.

From the Gonviles it went with their heiress to the Herlings, and the whole being joined, it was called

HERLING'S MANOR.

The HERLINGS were a family of great antiquity in this parish, from which they received their names; I find them mentioned in divers evidences without date, as Walter de Easterherling, and Ralph his son, John de Herling, and Odo his son, who gave a rood of land to the canons at Thetford; but as none of them were concerned in the lordship before John de Herling, about 1350, I shall begin with him in the following pedigree.

In 1360, JOHN DE HERLING had free-warren allowed him in this manor, and those of Quidenham, Gnateshall, Newton, and Corton in Lothingland; in 1367, he settled this manor and advowson, Quidenham manor and advowson, the manor of Gnateshall, manors in both Bokenhams, Croxton and Rothynghall manor in Brettenham, on Thomas Heyward, master of Rushworth college, and other fees; he was a good soldier, and most expert manager of maritime affairs, upon which account, in 1342, he had the custody of the sea-water at Bristol, during the King's pleasure. He was buried in the church of St. Peter and Paul at East-Herling, (in Herling's chapel,) according to his will, in which he ordered his best horse to be led before his corpse to the grave, as his principal or mortuary for the priest. He died seized of the aforesaid manors, with those of Long-Stratton, and many others, leaving them all to his eldest son and heir,

Sir JOHN DE HERLING, Knt. who, in 1389, settled on his mother, then wife of Sir John Tuddenham, Bornes, Suape, and Sturmine Hall manors in Long-Stratton, the advowson of St. Mary's chapel in Waketon, and St. Mary's church in Stratton, and Rothynghall in Brettenham. He married Cecily, daughter and coheir of Tho. Mortimer of Attleburgh, Knt. who survived him, and after married John Ratcliff, Esq. son of Sir John Ratcliff, Knt.; she brought a great estate to the Herlings; his brother Robert had an estate in Newton, and Corton, and Thomas, in Loude in Lothingland. In 1374, he settled on George de Felbrigge, Knt. and other trustees, this, and Quidenham manors and advowsons, 51s. rent in Brettenham and Bokenham, the manors of Gnateshall and Corton, and others in Suffolk, all which were possessed by Cecily his widow, and after by John Ratcliff, her second husband, who, in 1440, held Newenham manor in Cambridge town, of the King in burgage, remainder to Sir Robert Herling, Knt. remainder to Anne his daughter and heir, married to Sir Will. Chamberlain.

Sir ROBERT HERLING, Knt. was a great warrior in France in the time of that victorious prince King Henry V. whom he attended in 1412, at the siege of Meaux,<sup>7</sup> which they took by assault; and during the rest of his life he was continually exercising arms in that kingdom, where he died like a brave soldier, in his calling, being killed by the French at Paris, as he endeavoured valiantly to defend that city, in the year 1435: from whence he was brought and buried in St. Mary's chapel,<sup>8</sup> in St. Peter and Paul's church at East-Herling, under an altar tomb in the south wall, in which he founded a perpetual chantry, for his own and his ancestors' souls, Jane his wife being buried with him. She brought him Lirling manor and advowson, Rushworth manor, called Gonville's, Fawconer's, and Maynardyn's, all which, with 100 acres in Moringthorp, were held at 3 fees, of John Moxbray Duke of Norfolk, as of his manor of Fornect, and were settled on Oliver Groos, John Kirtling, clerk, and John Intwood, his trustees. At his death,

ANNE, his daughter and sole heiress, inherited, she lived to a great age, and married three husbands. First, for during his being governor of Craill upon Oise in France, which in 1436 was besieged by the French, immediately after they had taken Paris, he behaved himself so bravely, that with 500 Englishmen only, he issued out of the town, discomfited his enemies, slew 200 of them, and took a great number prisoners.<sup>9</sup> He and his wife, in 1457, settled nine marks annual rent, issuing out of Falconer's manor, on the chantry priests that officiated in Sir Rob. Herling's chapel; according to his will, he is buried in a fine arched monument, with his wife, on the north side of this chancel, leaving much to Elizabeth Trussell, his sister, by his will dated Mar. 3, 1461, and proved in this church 21 April, 1462. Her second husband was

Sir WILLIAM CHAMBERLAIN of Gedding in Suffolk, knight of the Garter, a man of great renown, an able governor, and expert soldier,

SIR ROBERT WINGFIELD, Knt. second son to Sir John Wingfield of Letheringham in Suffolk, and Elizabeth Fitz-Lewes his wife; he was Comptroller of the Household to King Edward IV. a man of great interest at court; in 1474, the King granted him a charter for a weekly market every Tuesday, at his manor of East-Herling, and two fairs every year, to last three days each, viz. one on the vigil, day, and morrow, of St. George the Martyr, and another on the vigil, day, and morrow of St. Edward;<sup>1</sup> and the same year, he and Anne his wife, settled the manors of East-Herling, Fawconer's, Quidenham, Welham's, and Reyse's in Long-Stratton; Long-Stratton manor, Bernham-Broom, Bekeriston, Stanford, the advowsons of Herling and Quidenham, of Rushworth and Attleburgh colleges, and of Herling's chantry in Norfolk, of Gnateshall, Corton, Newton, Lowude, and Blundeston, with Lowude advowson in Suffolk; the manors of Newnham Mortimer's, Foxton and Gonville's in Cambridgeshire, with other large estates, on themselves and their trustees, Edward Bishop of Carlisle, Sir John Wingfield, Sir John Heveningham, Sir Henry Grey, Knts. Edmund Bokenham, Henry Spelman, William Berdwell, junior, Thomas Chamberlain, and others, of all which, together with Gonville's manor in Wimondham, Little Bittering, and Rothyng-hall in Brettenham, he died seized in 1480, after which she married to

JOHN Lord SCROOP OF BOLTON, her third husband, in 1492, who died in 1494, and was buried in the Black Friars' church at Thetford, according to his will, which ordered that he should be there buried, if he died at Herling, as he did, July 12, in this year,

ANNE his wife surviving him; she was a lady remarkable for her gifts to many religious foundations; she gave Lirling manor and advowson, and Gonville's in Rushworth, to that college, and obtained them a license of mortmain to purchase 40 marks a year; she settled the stipend of her father's chantry priest in this church, and founded the seventh fellowship in Gonville Hall, in the year 1502, being then Lady Scroop; this she endowed with the manor of Newnham called Mortimer's, in Cambridge, with the watermill there, all which she gave for the maintenance of her school, who must be a priest, and of Norwich diocese: his stipend at the foundation was 8l. a year. She had a great value for this college, being daughter and heiress of Sir Robert Herling, by Jane, daughter and heiress of John Gonville, Esq. descended in a direct line from Sir Nicholas Gonville, Knt. brother to the founder, she was born in 1426, and was alive in 1502; but having no issue, her estate went to

MARGARET, her auct, who married Sir Robert Tudenham, Knt. by whom she had five children; Joan, a nun at Carrow; Margaret, a nun at Shouldham; Thomas, who died an infant, and

ROBERT, who inherited, but died young and issueless, leaving

MARGARET, his sister, his sole heiress, who married Sir Henry Bedingfield of Oxburgh, who was made Knight of the Bath at the coronation of Richard III. He sold Herling manors and advowson to

SIR THOMAS LOVELL, Knight of the Garter, and kept Quidenham, from which time it continued in the Lovells till

THOMAS WRIGHT purchased it, and left it to

MR. JOHN WRIGHT, his eldest son, who is now lord and patron.

The style of the court is Herling cum Membris, all the manors being now joined. The fines are at the lord's will; the eldest son is heir. The lect belongs to the hundred; the lect fee is 3s.; blanche-farm 10d.; castle-ward 14d.

The family of the LOVELLS being very numerous, and having been possessed of Berton Bendish for many generations, before they settled here, I shall treat of them at large under that town, and therefore shall confine myself to that branch only that had this manor.

LOVELL bears four coats quarterly,

1. LOVELL, ar. a chevron az. between three squirrels sejant gul.
2. BENDISH, sab. a cross between four lioncels rampant or.

* See Awbrey's Antiquities of Surrey, vol. i. p. 233.

Sir THOMAS LOVELL, Knight of the Garter, was an active man, in King Henry the Seventh's time; in 1485, when he was an esquire only, he was made Chancellor of the Exchequer for life, and the same year had an annuity of 40 marks, as Esquire to the King's body; in 1473, Henry Heydon, Esq. granted him an annuity of 20s. out of his manor of Snoryng-Parva, called Dorketty's, for his good counsel, that he had already, and should hereafter give him. He was first made Banneret, and in 1487, was knighted; at the battle of Stoke, and afterwards installed Knight of the Garter; in 1502, he was Treasurer of the Household, and President of the Council; he was one of the executors to Henry the Seventh's will, Constable of the Tower, Surveyor of the Court of Wards, Steward and Marshal of the House to King Henry VIII; he built the Gate-house at Lincoln's Inn, and placed on it the King's arms, the Earl of Lincoln's, and his own, by which I imagine he had been of that society; he built East-Herling Hall, on the tower of which his arms still remain, and a brass bust of his own likeness, surrounded with the garter. He re-founded Halliwel nunnery, near which he had a stately house, and dying at Enfield, May 25, 1524, was buried at Halliwel, in a fair chapel which he had built, on the south side of the choir of that church, under a tomb of white marble. This priory was dedicated to St. John the Baptist, being situate in Shoreditch parish by Norton Fald-gate, London, and being much decayed, was rebuilt, and an addition made to its endowment, by him, which occasioned the following verses to be inscribed on a wall of that house:

All ye Duns of Halliwel,
Pray ye both Day and Night
For the Soul of Sir Thomas Lovell, Whom Harry the Seventh made Knight.

By his will, dated Oct. 14, 1522, proved Sept. 26, 1528,<sup>3</sup> he gave his manor-place at Enfield, called Elsings, (where he died,) to Tho. Mannors, now Lord Rosse; and to his cousin, Francis Lovell, all his manors and estates in East Herling, Bridgham, Gnateshall, Brunsell, Chosell, Bichamwell, Ashfield's in Bichamwell, Irenhall, Wyrenhall, Wrotton, Denver, Tirrington, Spoke and Pagrace, in Norfolk and Suffolk; and Tyde St. Giles in Lincolnshire; Burghwell, Badlingham, Hayston, and Upware in Cambridgeshire; his manors in Wolley in Kent; his lands in Iseldon, Helwey, Edelinton, and Totenham in Middleser; his tenements in Sandwich, Querington and Marsham in Kent; his manors of Dukeington, Cockthorp, and Fringeford in Oxfordshire; lands in Reddings, Berford, and Downton in Wiltshire, to hold to the said Francis for life, remainder to Sir Thomas Lovell, son of Sir Francis, &c.; after Francis's death, the manors of Lome and Sibell's in Willingham, and Well's in West-Wyckham in Cambridgeshire, to go to the said Thomas, son of Sir Francis, for life, and to his heirs in tail: Edward, the brother of Francis, to have the moiety of Bassingbourne castle in Cambridgeshire for life, remainder to Francis and his heirs. His lady is buried in Enfield chancel, on the north side, under an altar tomb, with an inscription in brass, and Lovell and Muswell's arms quartered impaling Roos. He left

Sir FRANCIS LOVELL his heir, who died Jan. 21, 1550;* Thomas, his son, being of age, inherited this manor and advowson, Rowedham manor, and the impropriate rectory, with the donation of the vicarage, and all the possessions that Sir Thomas, Knight of the Garter, gave to his father.

GREGORY LOVELL, Esq. was of that disposition, that he did all he could to ruin the estate, being too malicious against his half brother; and in order thereto, he let the manor-house almost down; and when he perceived his death grew near, married his servant, on purpose to keep his brother out of it for her life; he having liberty to jointure by the entail. He gave a personal estate of above 6000*l.* to see his will performed, to Sir John Buckworth, and Mr. Borret of Gristou, his executors, from whom John Lovell, Esq. met with more kindness and generosity than from his brother, they being so just as to deliver up all the evidences, and whatever belonged to the estate, to him, without any disturbance, notwithstanding which, he was forced to sell it, having prevailed upon his son, the present [1736] Mr. Lovell of Bokenham, (as I am informed,) to join with him in the sale.

The CHURCH is dedicated to St. Peter and Paul, and is a fine uniform building, having its nave, two isles, and south porch leaded, a square tower, with a spire thereon, and freestone ballisters instead of battlements; it was built by Sir William Chamberlain, as appears from the many blank shields, encompassed with the garter, cut on the stones, finished about 1449, but the bells were not put up till 1465. The greatest part of church, if not the whole, was rebuilt by that knight, the windows (as the arms and effigies in them discover) were finished by Sir Robert Wingfield, who married his widow, whose effigies, with that of his wife, still remain in this manner.

At the east end of the south isle is a chapel dedicated to the Virgin Mary, called Herling's chapel, it being the burial place of that family; Sir Robert Herling, Knt. (who rebuilt it) lies under an altar tomb in an arch in the south wall; he founded a chantry of one priest in this chapel, who was specially bound daily to pray for his and his wife Jane's souls, for the souls of Sir William Chamberlain, Knt. and Anne his wife, daughter and heiress of the said Robert, for John Herlyng and Cecily his wife, Robert's father and mother, and for John Herling his grandfather (all buried here :) in 1458, it was endowed by Sir Will. Chamberlain, and Anne his wife, with 9 marks annual rent, issuing out of Fawconer's manor, then worth 20 marks a year, according to Sir Robert's will, he ordered that if he died without heirs, then his manors of East Herling, Quidenham, with their advowsons, Bokenham Wood, and Gnateshall manor, should be settled for three chantry priests in this chapel; but if he left a daughter, then she was only obliged to settle a provision for one priest. It was not rated to any taxes whatever, but had institution in the same manner as the rectory.

1458, 20 Nov. John Cavendysh, chaplain, the first chantry priest, was instituted at their presentation.

1474, 30 March, Robert Cadyman priest. Sir ROB. WINGFIELD, and ANNE his wife.

The preamble to the King's license, which he granted to amortise the said rent, is very particular, for it says, that his Majesty granted this license to his faithful counsellor, Sir Wm. Chamberlain, Knt. without any fine or fee, in consideration of the great and eminent service he had done him in his kingdom of France, and dutchy of Normandy, in the war there, and in other places; and particularly for the great damage he and his family received, by paying his fine of redemption to the King's enemies of France, (who took him prisoner in 1446,) and also for the great value he had for Sir Robert Herling, the founder, who died in his service as he warred in France.

This Sir Robert Herling ordered in his will,<sup>8</sup> if he died in England, to be buried here, and so he was, though he died in the French wars at Paris; his effigies, with that of his wife, beautifully carved in marble, lie on the top of the altar tomb; on his breast are his own arms and those of Mortimer, his mother; he looks with a grim visage, his feet rest on a lion, the usual emblem of those that died in war; his lady hath a water-bouget on her breast, the whole tomb being adorned with unicorns and pelicans, the one the crest of Herling, the other of Gonvile; his arms are on the top, supported by two unicorns.

They are often on the screens of the chantry, and sometimes with crescents.

On the table that they lie on is a fillet of brass, which still remains very perfect, on which is this :

Sarc Marmoreo tumulatur in hoc Polandro,

 Laus sua Francigenis, florbat cognita multis,
 Tandem Parricibus in succubuit mutilatus,

 Borgonu Festo, Septembre die quoque nono.<sup>2</sup>

On the same side of this chapel is a stately tomb of different-coloured marble, encompassed with an iron grate; the statues of a man in armour, with a peacock's tail proper at his feet, and of a woman with two naked arms, holding a head erased, bearded and haired sub. lie on an altar tomb, under a canopy or bed of state, with this inscription :

Here lyeth buried Sir Thomas Lovell, Knt. Son and Heir of Sir Thomas Lovell, Knt. and Dame Alice his Wife, Daughter of Sir John Huddilston, Knt. he died the 12th Day of Dec: 1604, in the Year of his Age 64, and she dyed the 1st Daye of September 1600, in the Yeaere of her Age 64; they had Issue 5 Sons and 3 Daughters, whereof 2 Sonns and one Daughter dyed in their Infancy, 3 Sonns, viz. Sir Francis Lovell, Knt. Charles Lovell, and William Lovell, Esqrs. over-lived them, and 2 Daughters were married in their Life-time, viz. Katheryn, first to Sir Tho: Knevet of Bokenham-Castle, Knt. 2dly, to Edward Spring, and 3dly, to Edward Downes, Esqrs. and Elinor to Edward Waldegrave, Son and Heire apparant of Charles Waldegrave of Stauning-Hall, Esq.<sup>1</sup>

The screens between the church and chancel are finely carved and painted, being put up by Sir Robert Harlyng, whose arms and crest are often carved thereon.

The chancel is leaded, having two chapels joined to the north side; that most east, is dedicated to the blessed name of JESUS, the other to St. Anne; they are both leaded.

On the south side of the chancel wall, towards the east end, is a stone mural monument, on which Lovell, and Muswell joined per fess impale Paris, gul. three unicorns heads cooped proper, in a bordure ingrailed. Lovell's crest.

Here lieth buried Syr Thomas Lovel Knyght, and Dame Elizabeth his Wyfe whiche lived together in Godly Mariage 29 Yeares, and hadde Yssue, 9 Sonnes and 3 Daughters, the sayd Sir Thomas decessed in the Year of our Lord God 1567, the 23 of March, and Dame Elizabeth decessed in the Yeare of our Lord God, 1591. the last of Marche.

Pray God to joy their Soules together in Heaven.

Opposite, on the north side, another monument of the same kind, but no inscription:

Lovell and Muswell impaling Ashfield of Middlesex, az. a chevron or between three eagles displayed with two heads, ar. Lovell's crest.

The arms shew it was erected for Sir Francis Lovell, and Anne Ashfield his wife; he died Jan. 25, 1550. This is against Jesus's chapel, which is now [1736] a school-house.

More west, in the north wall, is a most stately arched monument, disrobed of its brasses, under which lie buried Sir William Chamberlain, Knight of the Garter, and Anne his wife, daughter and heiress of Sir Robert Harling; this divides the chancel from St. Anne's chapel, which was founded by his lady, and dedicated to her namesake: the tomb fronts both into the chancel and into the chapel, the chancel side being adorned with his arms, &c. and the chapel's side with her's; in the arch is carved Chamberlain's arms quartering Tiptoft, which is again cut on the side of the monument next the chancel, with mantle, crest, and supporters. Crest, a cameleopard's head couped. The supporters two beasts of the same kind.

On the chapel's side, Herling and Mortimer quartered, with an escutcheon of pretence of Gowile and Herling. Crest and supporters.

Lucy Lady Scroop of Bolton, by will dated 1498, Aug. 28, bequeathed her body to be buried in the chapel of St. Anne, adjoining to the chancel of St. Peter and Paul, at East-Herling, in the tomb of her late husband, Sir William Chamberlain;<sup>2</sup> she gave to the Austin friars at Thetford, where her great-grandame, Margaret Tudendenham, daughter of Sir Thomas Jenyns, was buried, together with dame Isabel Hargrave, her daughter, a vestment, and other gifts, to Robert Wingfield her nephew, Lord Scroop, her son, &c.

From a manuscript of Henry St. George, Garter King at Arms, I find a part of the inscription that was on this monument, and this remark made by Mr. Le Neve:

That here were their two effigies, and that the garter was on his left leg; and though Mr. Ashmole says, that Fitz-William's tomb was the oldest, that had it so placed, yet this is older.

Many of the memorials which were in this church are now lost; one account of them was taken by the Rev. Mr. Levetant, rector of Waulingham castle, in Suffolk, (a copy of whose MSS. I have by me,) and others by different persons, as Mr. Borret of Griston, Henry St. George, &c.

In this church is buried Elizabeth Trussell, sister to Sir William Chamberlain, who died the last of April, 1472;<sup>4</sup> but the four shields and inscription were lost before these accounts were taken.

CHARLES WRIGHT, Esq. lately glazed the east chancel window with ancient glass that he found in his house, which formerly came out of this window, and contains the principal passages of the New Testament, from our Saviour's incarnation to his crucifixion.

The effigies of Sir Robert Wyngfield and his wife are now placed in this window.

In 1479, Robert Smith was buried in the church, in which there were then four gilds kept, viz. of the Holy Trinity, St. Peter, All-Saints, and St. John Baptist. The lights of St. Mary and St. Sithe were sustained by the benefactions of different people, as I find by the wills in the Bishop's Office.

In 1511, the Gildhall Croft belonged to the inhabitants.<sup>5</sup>

In 1528, The Gildhall in the Hey-Town street, belonged to the gilds, and was given by John Doice of Diss, son and heir of John Doze, late of East-Herling, anno 1487.

In 1528, the son and heir of Thomas Gonne of this parish gave to St. John's gild 2 acres of land at Kithesend in Herling.

In 1536, the church-wardens and inhabitants sold to Francis Lovell, Knt. and his heirs, 21 acres and 1 rood ploughed ground of their town land, lying in East-Herling; and he,

In 1538, granted 32 acres and an half to the inhabitants, to be town land for ever.

In 1548, Roger Moore, executor of William Deye, at the request of Adam Deye, gave half an acre, at the end of John Deye's croft, to the inhabitants.

In King James the First's time, John Hawkins and other feoffees made a new feoffment of the town land to Thomas Porter and others, there being then 60 acres, besides a pightle called Wastell's.

These lands were given to repair and adorn the church.

The temporals of the Prior of Bokenham in this town were taxed at 2s. 4d.

In 1510. Rob. Banham, purchased of Will. Banham, a messuage and 6 acres of free land in East-Herlinge, held of East-Herling manor by Sd. a year, to find a wax candle burning before the image of the Virgin Mary in that church. In 1470, at a court then held, it is said, that John Robards died seized of it, and that John, his son and heir, was a scholar in orders; that formerly it was copyhold, but was now held free of the church, the lord's ancestors having perpetually pardoned the fine and rents, in honour of the Blessed Virgin. This year it was conveyed to John Aylward, rector, and other feoffees of the parish.

These arms were formerly in Harling Hall windows :

The market is on Tuesdays and not on Thursdays, as the Atlas, and the late Description of the Diocese of Norwich (which is chiefly a transcript from thence) tell you, though it is right, as to its being chiefly for linen yarn, and cloth, the manufacture of this part of the county.

QUIDENHAM, OR GUIDENHAM,

Undoubtedly signifies Villa Guidonis, or the country seat of one Guido or Guy, but who he was we know not; one part of it was Godwic's, a freeman, under the protection of the Abbot of Bury, who held it three years after King William came into the realm; but Godwin Arund, a man of Earl Ralf's, unjustly took it from him: the soc was at first in Kenninghall; it was worth 15*s.* and after 30; it was then a mile and a quarter long, and a mile broad, and paid 17*d.* 1*q.* geld, being at the survey, in the King's hands, who had taken it from Godwin, and committed it to Earl Godric's care.

Another part was given by the Conqueror to be held at a fee and half, to Will. de Albany Earl of Arundell and Sussex, who gave one fee of it to Warine de Munchensi, who granted it to Miles Hastyns, against whom William, son of Warin de Munchensi, in 1194, brought his action to recover it, but to no purpose; this was after held at one fee of the Munchensis, (lords of Winfarthing,) and their successors, who held it of Bokenham castle.

Tho. Atbridge's tenement there 16*s.* 5*d.* for the faldage and pasturing of the lord's flock of Quidenham, upon the ling of Kenninghall, 3 days in a week, 1*s.* to the same manor for the going of five score sheep more upon the same ling 6*s.* 8*d.* to the hundred court at Michaelmas 4*s.* suit fine 4*d.* blanch-farm 2*d.* to the sheriff's turn 6*d.* for froward rent to be paid on Whituesday 2*d.*; in all 2*l.* 5*s.* 11*d.*; to Banham manor yearly 44*s.* also 4*s.* 5*d.* ob. free rent, 2*d.* for forwath, 5*s.* for pasturing great beasts on the moor, 3*s.* and 3 capons for 200 sheep going on the moor, from Lammas time till weaning, and shack in the adjoining field; to the manor of Bokenham 4*d.* See Kenninghall p. 227. The mere called Semere, belongs to this manor, two thirds of which is in this parish, and the rest in the parish of Kenninghall, it contains about 14 acres of water, and had a decoy formerly. Redemere or Reedmere, lies on the left hand of the road to Kenninghall, and is now quite grown up, there being no remains of it, but a large reedy swamp.

The hall is a good seat, pleasantly situated. In the library there was a fine missal with this wrote in it,

Virgo, Parens vixit, Sexaginta tribus annis,

Quatuor et decem fuit in partu Salutaris,

Triginta Tribus, cum Nato vixerat ejus,

Terque decem annis, postquam Deus astra petivit.

<sup>9</sup> 1565, July 1, Tho. Terryll, Esq. son and heyr of Sir Hen. Tyrell, Knt. married Mrs. Margaret Sulyard, daughter of Sir John Sulyard of Quidenham, Knt. and the same day, his son and heyr of Sir John Sulyard, Knt. married Mrs. Anne Heydon, daughter and heiress of Tho. Heydon, Esq. 1543, John Butler, rector, buried. 1570, 10 Aug. Tho. Davy, rector, buried. 1652, Frances, daughter of Mr. John Lentall, and Lady Frances Garnish his wife, baptized.

The other half fee was given by the said Earl, in King Henry the First's time, to the monks of Rading in Berkshire, in pure alms,<sup>1</sup> who were obliged to grant it to Ralf, surnamed the Great, (Magnus), conditionally, that he and his successours should for ever pay an annual rent of one mark, for the health of his own, his ancestors, and successours souls, to make a good dinner or repast in that convent,<sup>2</sup> on his uncle Joceline's anniversary. It contained a carucate of 100 acres of land in Quidenham, Kenninghall, and Atleburgh, and 40 acres in Ridlesworth, and divers rents and services, with common of pasture on all the commons in Quidenham, and a fold-course there: from this Ralf it came to Brian his son, who settled it on William de Hocham for life; and in 1198, Wimar, son of William de Hocham, had it confirmed to him and his heirs, by William, the third of that name, Earl of Arundell and Sussex,<sup>3</sup> from whom it it was called

HOCKHAM'S MANOR, OR FREE TENEMENT.

JOHN son of Brian, agreed to this confirmation, on condition that he should pay 1s. a year to him and his heirs, and a mark sterling every Michaelmas Day, to the Earl and his heirs; and in 1200, Wimar and John jointly conveyed it to Miles Hastings of Quidenham, who joined it to his other part, with which it now continues.<sup>4</sup> It was always held of the manor of Kenninghall, as of the castle of Bokenham.

One manor and moiety of the advowson, belonged to Bury abbey, with the whole soc of it, in King Edward's time, and was in the Abbot's hands, till Baldwin, Abbot there, infeoffed his brother Frodo in it, in the Conqueror's time, who infeoffed Joceline, who held it at the survey;<sup>5</sup> this Joceline was surnamed de Lodne, and was uncle to William de Albani Earl of Sussex, as he says in his deed. In 1196, Ernald de Charnes had it, between whom and Sampson Abbot of Bury there was a fine levied this year, by which he acknowledged, that he held it at one fee of the Abbot, by the service of 20s. scutage, and castle-guard to Norwich; it then extended into Quidenham, Aclce, Turiston, Elyngham, and Norton, and had 60 acres in demean, two villeins, and one bordarer;<sup>6</sup> and in 1199, it was in Miles de Hastings, a younger son (as I take it) of William de Hastings, Steward to King Henry I.<sup>7</sup> He sealed with Hastynge's arms, I cannot say whether with any difference or not, though I have a seal of Nicholas de Hastynge's about this time, which hath a label of five over the maunch.

MILES, his son and heir, was lord in 1264, being then married to Dionise, daughter of Peter Goldington of Goldington in Bedfordshire. In the Roll of the Rebels and Adversaries to King Henry III. and Prince Edward his son, after the battles of Lexwes and Evesham, this Miles was found to be one, being then lord and patron, and holding 80 acres in demean, all which were seized, it being proved that he had taken the barons' part; it was afterwards restored, as all those estates were which were seized upon this account. His brother Will. de Hastings lived here; Miles de Hastings, son of Miles, was lord of Stoke-Goldyngton, and Cavendish in Suffolk, Elesford in Oxfordshire, and Dayleford in Worcestershire; he settled Elesford on Thomas, his youngest son, who was rector of this parish; he married Maud, who was lady in 1280, and soon after married to Pigaz, whose widow she was in 1288; they had three sons and one daughter; Margaret, who married Richard de Noers. Nicholas, the second son, was alive in 1282, at Phillip his eldest brother's death, who left Alice his widow, who, in this year, recovered against Miles de Hastings, her father-in-law, 10*l.* a year in land, in Cavendysch, for her dower; but it appearing that those lands were settled on Thomas, Nicholas, and Margery, the younger children of Miles, with the consent of her husband, she had 20*l.* a year in Quidenham, with a watermill there, instead of it. Miles, son of Phillip, was 30 years old in 1304, and at his grandfather's death became heir; he had two wives, Dionise, and Maud who outlived him, and was lady in 1334, and so continued till after 1345. In 1355, John de Herling purchased a third part of the manor and advowson, of William Furneaux of Sheffield, who had married one of the three daughters and coheireses of Miles Hastings, and another third part anno 1362, of William de Ingaldesthorp, Knt. and Elcanor his wife; and in 1371, the other third part of Tho. Caus and James de Hegham, by which means he had the whole manor, from which time it passed as East-Herling,<sup>8</sup> till Sir Edmund Bedingfield sold Herling, and continued this, in his family.

FAWCONER'S MANOR,

Was made up of different parts; it belonged at the survey to Roger Bigot, and went to Walter Bygot of Fornsete, a younger brother of that family, and from him to Richard Bygot, his son, who conveyed a part to Ralf of Kenninghull, called the Falconer; Edmund de Bello Campo, or Beauchamp, had 30 acres of it, and the moiety of the advowson; he left it to John de Beauchamp, his son, who, in 1287, by deed enrolled in the King's-bench, granted it to Edward, son of Sir Will. Charles, Knt. of whom it was purchased by Miles Hastings, who joined it to his manor, and so had the whole advowson. Another part went to Simon Bygod, who was lord in 1280, John le Fauconer being then lord of Richard Bygod's tenement. In this year Richard Le Baxter and Agatha Maynwaryn are said to have a manor here, but it was only a part of Maynwaryn's manor in East-Herling, that extended hither, and soon after John le Fauconer got Simon Bygod's part, and so became lord of both; Will. Hastings of Quidenham gave Simon Fauconer, father of John, a messuage and lands here, which he added to this manor, and Maud de Hastings conveyed a quarter of a fee out of her manor to him, this whole manor being then held of her manor, at half a fee, and paid 20s. relief, and from the time it was purchased by Ralf Le Falconer, always went as Fauconer's manor in East-Herling, to which I refer you.

The manor which belonged to the family surnamed de Quidenham, was joined to this, by one of the Falconers. William de Quidenham lived in Henry the Second's time; Adam his son succeeded him, he granted divers lands to be held of his manor, by the service of four annual suits at his courts here. Hugh his son had Gilbert, who was dead in 1319, Igred being then his widow; I take it he was the last of this family that was lord, though it did not extinguish till after 1400; for then William Quedenham lived at Quidenham. About this time also they purchased the messuage, and all thereto belonging, which Richard Bygot granted to Martin, father of Adam de Quidenham, to be held of him in villeinage; and after that Bygot sold him as his villein, to Adam Neve of Quidenham, who sold to Rob. de Sutwode of Wymondham, Adam son of Martin de Quidenham, his villein, with all his cattle, and family, born, or to be born, and all their appurtenances.

The family surnamed De-ponte de Quidenham, or atte Brygge,<sup>9</sup> continued here from Henry the Third's time, to about 1500, and had a free tenement held of Kenninghall manor, at 16s. 5d. a year, which is now joined to the other manor; and thus all the manors and free tenements became joined in

Sir HENRY BEDINGFIELD, Knight of the Bath, in right of the heiress of the Tudenhams; he left it to Peter Bedingfield, his fourth son, who settled here; he had two wives; by his last, who was daughter of John Moninges of Greynford in Kent, he had John Bedingfield, Esq. his son and heir, who married Alice, daughter of Humphry Kervile of Wigenhall St. Marie's, who outlived him, and after married Sir John Sulyard, Knt. who was lord here in 1550, her first husband dying Jan. 1, 1545;<sup>1</sup> at her death Humphry Bedingfield,

Esq. her son, became lord; he married Margaret, daughter of Edward Cocket of Ampton, by whom he had Dorothy, that died without issue, and Frances, his sole heiress, who married Anthony Treaits of Hardyngham, whose only daughter and heiress, Elizabeth, married Jeffery Cobb of Sandringham, whose son, Will. Cobb of Sandringham, was living in 1664.

This Humphry, in 1572, sold it to John Holland, Gent. and his heirs.

HOLAND, OF HOLLAND: this honourable family flourished in the time of the Confessor, and took their name either from Holand in West Derby hundred, in the county of Lancaster, or from Holand in Lincolnshire, both which were the ancient possessions of this house. Sir Otho de Holland, lived before the Conquest,<sup>2</sup> and left Sir Stephen his son, whose grandson, Sir Ralph, son of Sir Ralph, lived at the Conquest, and held divers lands of the Conqueror's gift; he married Sibill, daughter to William de Well, and left issue, Sir John, father of Sir John, and grandfather of Sir Robert de Holland, Knt.<sup>3</sup> who was summoned a baron of parliament, July 29, the 8th of Edward II. (A<sup>o</sup> 1314,) he founded the priory of black monks at Holand in Lancashire; by his wife Maud, daughter and coheir to Alan Lord Zouch of Ashby, he had a numerous issue; his eldest son, Robert, was a baron in parliament in the time of Edward III. and dying without issue male, left only Maud, married to John Lovell of Tichmarsh, afterward Lord Lovell. Sir Otho, Otes, or Eton Holland, Knight of the Garter, was at the siege of Calais, attended with three esquires, where he was taken prisoner;<sup>4</sup> he bore a cross patee gul. upon the shoulder of his lion, for his gentilitial distinction; Sir Tho. Holland also was at that siege, attended by four esquires, and four archers on horseback; he was summoned as a baron in parliament the 27th of Edward III. and was Earl of Kent, and Baron Wake of Lydell, in right of Joan his wife, sister and heir to John Plantagenet Earl of Kent, and of his wife Margaret, sister and heir to Thomas Lord Wake, which lady afterwards married the Black Prince. From this Thomas proceeded the Hollands Earls of Kent, one of which was advanced to the dignity of Duke of Surrey; and by a younger son, the Dukes of Exeter, and Earls of Huntingdon, some time enjoying the title of Earl of Ivory in Normandy, and Edw. Holland Earl of Montaigne. The line of Kent expired in the 9th of Edward IV. for want of male issue, as did also, about that time, the lines of Exeter and Huntingdon; their lives are written at large in Mr. Dugdale's Baronage, from fol. 73 to fol. 83 of the second volume, for which reason I have no occasion to repeat it here.

The fourth son of Sir Robert de Holland first mentioned was John, who by the daughter and heir of Sir Andrew de Medestede, was progenitor to the Hollands of Weare in Devonshire; his fifth son was William, of Denton in Lancashire, and from him branched the Hollands of Clifton, and from them, by a second son, the Hollands of were with the noble and victorious Prince, King Edward III. in his wars in France and Normandy, and at his winning of Caen and Calais. In the hands of Mr. Gooch Waites of Lyn.

Sutton; his eldest son was also named William, who had issue, Richard Holland of Denton, who, by a daughter of Harington of Hornby castle in Lancashire, had a son named Thurstan, and by Amery, his second wife, daughter and heir of Adam Kenyon,<sup>5</sup> had another son named Richard.

THURSTAN HOLLAND of Denton, Esq. his eldest son, married Jane, daughter of John Arderne of Hawcardine, in the county of Chester, Esq. and had issue five sons; Robert, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Ashton of Middleton, Esq.; the second was Sir Richard Holland, Knt. who married twice, and left issue by both wives; third John; fourth Ralph; fifth Terence.

JOHN, the third son, had issue, Brian Holland, Esq. of Denton Hall, with whom I shall begin the pedigree, his third son, John, being the first of the family that settled in Norfolk.

Among the evidences of the Hollands there is a very large genealogical table of the family of the Hollands in Lincolnshire, from which house all the families of this name are descended. It was collected by Geo. Holland, one of the family, in 1563, and continued since to 1601; it begins thus: “Estovnghall, Here ensueth the pedigree of the Hollandes of the house of Estovenhall, in the partes of Holland, in the countie of Lincolne, and do dwell there, without alteration or change, eyther of house or name, by xiiijth descent before the Conquest,” &c.

Before which time they all bore, party per pale indented, of six, or and gul. which the house of Estoven always continued, and since the Conquest their descendants bore the present arms, with their proper differences.

SIR RALPH HOLLAND, who descended in a direct line from that Sir Ralph that lived in the Conqueror's time, was entombed in Swineshead abbey, anno 1262; Sir John Holland, his great grandson, was buried in the parish church of Swineshead. In 1340, his great-grandson's grandson was Sir Thomas Holland, who married the Devilish Dame, called Elizabeth, daughter to Sir Piers Tempest, Knt.; he spent his life in the Holy-Land, and came home but every seventh year; his son, Sir Thomas, lived about 1457, and dwelt two years at Crowland, then at Boston, Easton, and at Lynn, where he is buried, in St. Nicholas's church. His son, Thomas Holland, was buried at Bury abbey; Tho Holland, his son, was first Comptroller of the Household, and after Treasurer to the Duke of Richmond's good grace; and Hamond Holland, his brother, was first apprentice in London, and after, by great conjectures, was thought to be of great authority under the Grand Turk; this Thomas had three wives; by Jane, his first wife, he had George, Secretary to Thomas Duke of Norfolk, who died without issue; by his second wife he had Tho Holland, Esq.; and by Jane, his third wife, daughter of Henry Smith of Norfolk, he had Hen. Holland, who, in midsummer, 1563, proceeded master of arts in Gonville Hall in Cambridge, and Christ. Holland, then student in Pembroke Hall, whose son, Edw. Holland, in 1601, was student also in Cambridge.

* Thuanus, in his History, vol. ii. p. 520, says, that one Brian Holland was executed in 1569, by Catlyn the Chief Justice, for the conspiracy in which the Duke of Norfolk was principal; (whose family the Hollands served faithfully, being their trustees and chief managers of their estate in this county;) whether he means this Brian, I cannot positively say, but imagine he does, and if so, his being executed is a mistake; for I find a pardon passed the seal, March 8, 1573, by which the Queen out of her abundant grace, at the humble request of John Holland, Esq. pardoned Brian Holland, late of Rednall, Gent. his father, and Edward Fisher, late of Cringleford, Yeoman, who were indicted for being in a conspiracy with John Appleyard of Norwich, Esq. John Throgmerton of the same, Gent. George Redman, late of Cringleford, Gent. and Tho. Brook, late of Rollesby, Gent. with abundance more, unlawfully assembled at Cringleford on the 24th of June, in the 12th year of her reign, (which was 1569, the same year that Brian is said to have suffered,) designing treasonably to compass the Queen's death, and to make open war against her in her realm; and that they put such conspiracy in effect on the 25th day of June, at Trowse in the said county, and at divers other times and places in the county, with arms offensive and defensive, as hand-gonnes, daggers, pistols, privic coats, and coats of defence; and that at Trowse, on the said day, and at other times and places, they openly declared these words: "We will procure the Commons to rise, and expulse the " Strangers out of the City of Norwich, and other Places in England, and when we " have levied a Powre, we will loke about us, and so many as will not take our Partes, " we will hange them up." And the said Brian, and Edward Fisher, with Christo- pher Platers of Norwich, Gent. Clement Harwarde of the same, Gent. Anthony Nolloth of Yarmouth, Gent. and John Rochester of Norwich, Yeoman, well knowing the traitorous designs of Appleyard and his rebels, and their intentions, yet went to Cringleford on the 24th of June, to be aiding and abetting to their treasonable designs. * She had issue by Garrard, Thomas baptized 1675, John 1681, both died unmar- ried, and two daughters, Alatheia, the eldest, married Sir Francis Beckley of Attle- burgh, and Sarah, the youngest, to Sir Charles Downing of Bury St. Edmund's, bro- ther to Sir George Downing of Bedfordshire.

THERE were three manors in this town, all which are now united, though each retains its name in the style of the court, which is Banham, Marshall's, Beckhall, and Grey's.

The CUSTOMS of which are, that the lands descend to the eldest son; the fines are at the lord's will; it gives a third dower; and the tenants cannot fell timber on the copyhold without the lord's license, unless to repair their copyhold premises.

MARSHALL'S

Was the head manor, part of which was owned by the Abbot of Ely, at the Confessor's survey, of whom it was held in the Conqueror's time by William De'Schoies, L'Escois, or the Scot,<sup>8</sup> who in his own right then held another part and the advowson. At this time the church had 30 acres of land belonging to it; part of this manor Ordar then held of the said William, at one carucate, which, with the advowson, was afterwards given to York abbey; and in the Confessor's time was held (together with the manor and advowson of Wylby) by Fader, L'Escois's predecessor. The whole town of Banham was 3 miles long, and 2 miles broad, and paid 14*d. ob. geld* or tax, out of every 20*s.* that was laid on the hundred.<sup>9</sup>

In the time of William Rufus, William de Eschois, for the health of the soul of that King, his lord, gave to the monks of St. Mary's abbey by York walls, the advowson of this church, with a carucate of land here; together with the advowson of Wilby, and two parts of the tithes of his demceans, which were after valued at 8 marks per annum, and for that sum let to the rector and his successors. This pension was after granted by that abbey to their priory or cell at Rumburgh in Suffolk, in which it continued till it was dissolved by Cardinal Wolsey, who procured bulls to dissolve this and some other small monasteries, in order to erect two colleges, one at Oxford, and the other at Ipswich; and besides those bulls and letters patent that he had obtained of the King, he procured releases of them from the patrons, for the Abbot of St. Mary at York released to Tho. Capou, Dean of the Cardinal's college at Ipswich, all his right in the priory of Rumburgh, and all its possessions, lying in Banham, Wilby, Cossey, Bawburgh, and Sicaffham in Norfolk, and in other places in other counties. This portion was issuing out of his demean lands in Banham and Wilby jointly, but yet the whole was paid out of Banham, that rectory being by far the best; the donation was confirmed by Henry I. and by Everard Bishop of Norwich, and Theobald Archbishop of Canterbury; after this the said William sold the manors to

WALTER GIFFARD, son and heir of the aforesaid Walter, sold it to

JOHN LE MARESHALL, whose son, John Le Mareschall, was lord in 1276, in which year he brought an action against the Abbot of York, in order to recover the advowson, but without success. In 1285, Havise, widow of John le Mareschall, was lady, and had free-warren, view of frankpledge, assize of bread and beer, allowed her to this manor, which was then valued at 40*l.* a year; she held it in dower of the inheritance of John le Marshall, a minor, then the King's ward. It seems John died under age; for in 1314 she held it in dower of the inheritance of William le Marshall. In 1332, Sir Anselm Marshall, Knt. was lord, who, in 1345, held it at the third part of a fee of the Earl of Gloucester, and paid 13*s.* 4*d.* relief. This Sir Anselm united the manors, for he held the manor which John le Grey and his tenants formerly held, at one fee, of the Earl-Marshal, he of the Earl Warren, and he of the King, and paid 40*s.* relief; and the said Sir Anselm, jointly with William de Banham and his tenants, held half a fee of John de Beck, who held it of Hugh le Fere, he of the Earl-Marshal, and he of the King, which manor Havise le Marshall and Will. de Banham lately held, and for this he paid 20*s.* relief: after Sir Anselm's death,<sup>2</sup>

WILLIAM DE MORLEY, Marshal of Ireland, was lord, who, in 1361, granted to Sir John de Herling and his heirs free commonage in Banham, for all manner of beasts. It was after in

HAVISE LE MARSHALL, wife of Robert de Morley. In 1380, Thomas de Felton, Knt. and Joan his wife, had these and Wylby manor; Joan held them to her death, which was long after her husband's; they left two daughters their heiresses,

MARY, the eldest, married to Sir Edmund Hengrave, Knt.; and

ISABELL, or SIBILL, to Sir Thomas de Morley.

In 1401, the said Joan settled them after her death, on her two daughters and their husbands, and their heirs, Robert Braybrook Bishop of London, Sir Tho. de Erpingham, Knt. Sir Will. Rykill, Knt. and others being trustees.

In 1415, they were settled by John Spencer, and others, on Sir Simon Felbrigg, John Hubbard, and others, in trust for Sibill de Felton Abbess of Berkyug.

In 1420, they were conveyed to Sir Lewis Robesart, Knt. who settled them on Catherine, widow of John Spencer, for life, remainder to him and his heirs, Sir Simon Felbrigg, John Hubbard, clerk, Robert Ashfield, and other feoffees, releasing their rights.

In 1430, they were conveyed to John Eastfield, and Will. Alwyk Bishop of Norwich, Sir Ralf Cromwell, and other trustees, by Tho. Chaucer, and John Arundell, Dean of the free college of St. George at Windsor, and others, John Tirrell at that time holding them during the life of Katerine his wife, who was widow (I suppose) of John Spencer.

In 1432, Sir Tho. Morley, Knt. and Isabell his wife, conveyed them in fee to Will. Alwyk Bishop of Norwich, Sir John Tirrell, Knt. Ralf Cromwell, Knt. and their heirs; and in the same year, Tho. Greene of West-Creeting in Suffolk, cousin and heir of William, formerly vicar of East-Deerham, released to them all his right in the manors of Marshall's and Grey's, and the moiety of Beckhall, which formerly were the said Thomas Green's, and extended into Banham, Wilby, Quidenham, Old Bokenham, Winfurthing, and Tibenham, from which time they went with Bokenham castle, till they were sold to

Thomas Duke of Norfolk, in whose family it still continues, the Duke of Norfolk being now [1736] lord.<sup>3</sup> In 1558, Sir John Tirrel of Gipping granted all his right in the manor, with many lands here, to the Duke, who gave him Cotton and Bacton manors in exchange.

GREY'S MANOR,

At the first survey, belonged to Lessius a freeman, who had one carcate in demean; it was William Earl Warren's, at the Conqueror's survey, and belonged to his castle at Leices.<sup>4</sup>

It went from William, the second Earl Warren, who died in 1135, to Reginald de Warren, a younger son, whose chief seat was at Wirmegay, or Wrongay, in Norfolk, which he had by marrying Alice, daughter and heiress to William de Wirmegay; at his death, William his son succeeded, who died in 1209, leaving Beatrice his daughter, then widow of Dodo, or Down Bardolph, his heir, by which marriage this manor came to the said Down, who very soon after parted with it to Hugh Bardolph, his cousin, who was son of Hanchine, brother to Will. Bardolph, grandfather to the said Down. This Hugh was sheriff of Cornwal anno 1184, one of the King's Lieutenants in <sup>3</sup> See Fersfield, it having passed as that did, ever since it was in the Norfolk family.

England, when he was in Normandy in 1186, associate to the Bishop of Durham and Ely, to administer justice in the realm, during the King's absence in the Holy-Land, being in such high esteem with King Richard, that in the third year of his reign, (1191,) when he was in the Holy-Land, and suspected his Chancellor, (to whom he had chiefly committed the charge of governing in his absence,) he wrote his letter to Hugh Bardolph and others, requiring them, that if the Chancellor did not do as he ought, they should take upon them the rule in all things; from which time he was one of the King's justices for some years, as also justice itinerant, of whose warlike actions and honours more may be seen in Mr. Dugdale's Baronage. (Vol. I. 284.) He died in 1203,<sup>5</sup> the 5th year of King John's reign, without issue male, leaving Robert Bardolph, his only brother, his heir, and a widow, who after married John de Brahose, whom she outlived. This Robert was a priest, and parson or rector of no less than thirty churches, an argument of his interest with the Pope at that time, who usually used to grant, by way of proviso, (as it was called,) many rectories to one man, under pretence that the income, over and above serving them, should go towards the expenses of the holy war, the darling enterprise of that age. Robert died in 1224, leaving his inheritance divisible among his five sisters, of which Isoldu (as the Latin Records) or Odoyne, (as the French,) the eldest, married Sir Henry de Grey, Knt. to whose share this manor, with others, was allotted; by Isoldu he had six sons, to the second of which he gave this manor, viz. John, some time justice of Chester, progenitor to the Greys of Wilton and Ruthyn; he was a most remarkable man in King Henry the Third's time, of whom you may see a large account in Dug. Bar. Vol. I. 713. In 1265, he held it of the Earl Warren at one fee, and died this year, leaving it to Reginald his son, who, in 1277, had free-warren allowed him; he died in 1307, leaving Henry his son and heir, 40 years old, and Roger, a younger son, by a second wife,<sup>6</sup> from which Henry the Greys of Wilton descended, and from Roger, those of Ruthyn. Roger died in 1352, but long before had parted with this manor, for in 1328, Sir Robert de Morley had an interest in it, if not the fee; and in 1345, Sir Anselm Marshall was sole lord, and held it united to Marshall's manor.

BECKHALL MANOR

Was in two parts in the Conqueror's time, the chief of it belonged to Aluric, a freeman, who held it of Bishop Osbern, who owned it in King Edward's time; it had then one carucate in demean, and woods that would maintain 100 hogs, the whole of that part being then worth 20s. and 40 at the survey.<sup>7</sup> The other part was only one soeman, and his services, of 2s. value, which formerly belonged to

Ely abbey, but after the Conquest, Roger Bygot's ancestors had him, of whom Berard held him.<sup>8</sup>

This manor afterwards came to the Crown, for when King Henry II. (anno 1175) assessed his demicans, his tenants of Banham were taxed at half a mark.<sup>9</sup>

It was after in the Bygods, and then in the Munchensies, of whom John de Jerpenville held it, who divided it; for William, son of Will. de Banham, in 1218, held a good part of it of the said John; and in 1235, the said William held it of Warin de Munchensi, as part of the fees of Roger Rigot.<sup>1</sup>

In 1237, Peter de Kenet and Isolda his wife, settled a moiety on Amy, widow of Ralf de Banham, in dower.

In 1249, Warin de Munchensy and John de Plessy, had that part called Banham Haugh, which was excepted when the manor was sold.

In 1288, Robert Rose, Wm. Genner, and Wm. le Parker held it.

In 1305, John de Bek<sup>2</sup> of Banham settled it on Nicholas de Stanhou, and Isolda, wife of the said John.

In 1311, John, son of John de Bek of Banham, divided it into several parts; he conveyed to Richard le Forester (or Foster) of Herling 25 acres, with a part of the manor, and divers bondmen; Isolda de Bek, his mother, conveyed her right in 40 acres of land, to the said Richard, which John de Bek her husband had settled on her, and Nicholas de Stanhou, her trustee; soon after the manor was settled by John and Isolda, on Robert Cleryz, (or Clerc), of Stokesby, who had another conveyance of it from John, son of James de Eggemere, at which time he settled it on himself and Maud his wife, Robert Cleryz, his son, and John, his second son. In 1317, John de Bek conveyed a part to Will. de Crungthorp and Alice his wife. In 1323, it was held of Will. de Banham, but was divided by this John, into so many parts, and each called Bekhall manor, that it is impossible to know how they all went, except the biggest part, to which all the rest were afterwards joined; and that in 1329, was owned by William de Claydon, and Eleanor his wife, and soon after was settled by Thomas de Newton, and Elizabeth his wife, (daughter and coheirress of Claydon), on John Oliver of Stanway in Essex, to whom Bartholomew de Bek released his right in 1338. In 1345, the heirs of John de Claydon, and his tenants of the other part, viz. Walter Snovile, Simon Le-Cotere, Nicholas de Stanhowe, and others, held a moiety of it of Hugh Le-Tere, he of the Earl-Marshal, and he of the King.<sup>3</sup> In 1374, Peter de Bekhall conveyed his right in the moiety (which was now reckoned as a whole manor) to Thomas Asty and his heirs, Th. de Chaunticlere being trustee; and soon after it was settled in reversion on John Oliver of Stanway, in Essex, after Thomas de Hardell's death, who held it by the courtesy of England, after his wife's death, who was heiress to it.

In 1381, THO. DE NEWTON, and ELIZABETH his wife, settled a moiety of Beckhall on John Cleraux, clerk, &c.

In 1401, JOHN DARLINGTON had it, and from that time till it came to the Duke of Norfolk in Henry the Eighth's time I am ignorant how it went; but at his attainder, it was given to Sir Francis Calthorp of Ingham, and in 1558, Will. Calthorp of Hempstead had it, after which it soon came to the Norfolk family again, Sir John Tirrell releasing it as aforesaid.<sup>4</sup>

In 1226, STEPHEN DE EBROYE, lord of Wylby, (who held part of the curate of land in Banham, that was given to York abbey, which part always was included in Wilby manor, after he had purchased it of Walter, son of Walter Giffard, who sold the rest to the Marshalls,) had a grant for a fair and market in Banham; the market hath been disused time immemorial, but the fair is still kept on St. Barnabas's day.

In 1285, ROGER BIGOT Earl of Norfolk claimed assize of bread and ale in Lopham and Banham, but as to Banham, he acknowledged that it belonged not to him, but to Roger de Montealt, lord of the hundred. It was thought to belong to him on account of Beckhall manor, which was held of him; the Countess of Arundell had liberty of a gallows here in 1256, and Grey's manor was then held of her.

THE HAWE

Was part of Beckhall manor which was excepted when it was sold, and therefore that passed with Winfarthing manor,<sup>5</sup> in the Munchensies, Feres, and other families that owned it; it was no manor, but was originally part of the demans of Beckhall, and contained 220 acres of wood and pasture, with a messuage thereon built; it abuts east and south on Banham Heath. In 1311, Sir Hugh Le-Fere and Dionise his wife, then owners of it, purchased of Richard Le Forester of Herling a parcel of land of Overhaghe in Banham, under the said Hugh's wood, called Banham Haghe, extending itself from the common pasture, lying at the head of the said land, and was only 10 feet broad, it being in order to enclose the Haghe. This came with Winfarthing manor to the Norfolk family, and was farmed under them by Sir Henry Dye, Knt. in 1607; it was after sold off, and hath continued in private hands ever since.

BANHAM HEATH

Is a large common containing above 1200 acres of land, lying in the parishes of Banham and Winfarthing, and in ancient evidences is divided into three parts: the whole that lies in Winfarthing is called Winfarthing Chase; (see fol. 189, 190,) the part that joins to Tibenham, Carleton, and New Bokenham, is called Banham Outwood, and contains 300 acres; the part that joins to Banham is called Banham Green, and contains 300 acres more; on all which the tenants and inhabitants of Banham and Winfarthing only have right of commonage, and are intercommoners, each having the drift of their separate parts, and can common all manner of great cattle, as well as sheep, at all times of the year. In King James the First's time, viz. 1618, there was a long suit between the townsmen of Banham, and the townsmen of Tibenham, concerning the right of commonage upon this heath, the substance of which was this; the townsmen of Tibenham claimed an original right of commonage on the 300 acres called Banham Outwood in Banham, in right of their copyhold lands and tenements, held of the manor of Tibenham, and common of vicinage on Banham Green, there being no fences or ditches between Banham Outwood and Banham Green; but upon the trial, the townsmen of Tibenham were cast, and paid 30*l.* damages and costs, it being found by the jury that the lord of Tibenham manor, and his tenants, had no original right on Banham Outwood, nor no common of vicinage on Banham Green; and whereas there were divers tenants of the manor of Tibenham, that claimed right of commonage for set numbers of sheep, going on this heath, by the grants of divers of the former lords of the manor of Banham, all which commonages were held by copy of court-roll<sup>6</sup> of the manor of Banham in fee, by a fine of 10*s.* paid at every death, and two hens a year for the pasturage of every six score sheep thereon, John Clark of Banham (in behalf of the parish of Banham) brought his action against Mathew Buxton of Tibenham, for feeding 60 sheep and one ram on the heath, according to the grant of the lord of the manor of Banham, made to the owner of his tenement, called Eusthaugles in Tibenham, and recovered damages and costs, it being found by the jury, that such customary pasturage and commonage was not to be demised, neither was it to be demisable by copy of court-roll, by the lord of the manor of Banham, to any customary tenant whatever: upon which all the commonages of this nature were set aside. An exemplification of the whole under seal, dated Febr. 13, 1625, now lies in Banham Town Chest.

In 1611, there were three separate juries, one for each manor, and the lect belonged to the manor, the lect fee being 3*s.* 4*d.*

This town paid 4*l.* for a whole tenth, and is now assessed at 1439*l.* 5*s.* to the laud-tax. In 1603, it had 400 communicants, and now [1736] there are 126 dwelling-houses, and 650 inhabitants. It is a pretty village, standing round a small green, the church being on its west side.

This rectory is in Norfolk archdeaconry and Rockland deanery; it hath a good parsonage-house joining to the west side of the church-yard, and 37 acres 2 roods of glebe.

The family of the KENDALS, CLARKS, LECHES, and COLBYS,* were all considerable owners in this parish in 1483, and none of them are yet extinct.

 Men say he's dead, I say so too,

In the north isle, at the east end, is a chapel or chantry, divided from the church by screens handsomely painted; in a niche in the wall lies a knight in armour; (founder of the church, if not, of this isle at least, though I am apt to think the former, because the whole building appears as if built at one time;) it is oak, carved; there is no inscription remaining, but yet it is plain that it was made for Sir HUGH BARDOLPH, Knt. some time lord of Grey's manor in this town, who died 1203, for under his left arm is a large cinquefoil, which is the badge of that family; and in the adjoining window are his arms, impaling Mortey, which induces me to think he married one of that family. This Sir Hugh was with King Richard I. at Messina in Sicily, being one of those who, on the behalf of that King, undertook that the articles of peace and friendship, which were then agreed on betwixt King Richard and Tancred King of Sicily should be firmly kept, in order to carry on the holy wars, as they were called. This tomb is very antique and perfect, as the following representation will shew you, for which I own myself much obliged to the Rev. Mr. Kerrich, the rector.

In the chancel, in a north window, was an effigies in a religious habit, with a broken scroll from his mouth, on which,

Here was a parcel of land given in Henry the Seventh's time, to fund lamps before Trinity altar, called Lamp-Land.

The ancient names of the streets are, Cherchegate, Tycknuld, Freschenale, Westmor, Hardwick, and Westgate.

The crosses were Smalmer Cross, White Cross, Atte Borghe, and Alforthe Cross. Seynt Maries-Meer, and Banham-Gap are often mentioned in evidences.

1429, Peter Pagn of Banham gave to West-Acre prior 6s. 8d.; to the canons there 13s. 4d.; to the brethren of every house of friars in Norwich x.s. to say 100 masses for his soul; to each house of the friars at Thetford x.s. for 100 masses for his soul; to the prioress of the nuns at Thetford 6s. 8d.; and to the convent 6s. 8d.; to the chapel of the Blessed Virgin at Thetford 6s. 8d.; to the repairing St. Peter's church 6s. 8d.; he ordered to be buried in Banham church-yard, and gave 40s. to be divided among the poor at his burial; to every lazaret-house at Norwich 3s. 4d.; to the chapel of the Blessed Virgin at Buckingham 13s. 4d. to mend Hardwyk way in Banham 40s. and 40s. more to set up a cross at the end of it, where the way parts; Edmund atte Helle, clerk, and others, were executors; the will was proved the same year.

In 1437, John Ropere of Banham gave 12s. to the lamp that burns before the image of the Virgin Mary in the church.

In 1462, Jeffry Canne was executor to Bartholomew Canne, senior, of Banham, who gave 5 marks to buy a new vestment to the red cope.

Mr Kulman hath two brasses, which came off a stone in his church, containing inscriptions of the same purport, one in Latin, the other in English, viz.

Die tacet Dna. Elizabetha Mountenepe, quondam Priorissa, huius Locī, que obit r<sup>o</sup> die Mensis Aprilis, Anno Domi. MCCCC lvi<sup>o</sup> ruius are: proprietur Deus.

Praye for the Soule of Dame Elizabethe Mountency, sometime Prioress, of this Place.

* I have it as it was transcribed before it was broken; but so ignorantly, that I can make nothing of it, viz.

Supplicat hic tibi mas Genetor x de Stantora Thomas Day. Int. Coll. P. L. N

It hath occasioned much surmise how this inscription should be true, when there was never any priory in this place; but the mystery lies in the impropriety of the wording the inscription, for the words of this place, do not refer to her being prioress, but to herself, she being born here, where her family for many generations had a good estate, and afterwards removed to Wilby, for she was prioress of the monastery of nuns, of St. George the Martyr at Thetford, for in the 12th Institution Book I read thus: in 1498, the 15th of Sept. the Bishop confirmed the election of the lady Elizabeth Mowteneye, a nun of the priory of St. George at Thetford, of the Benedictine order, who was elected prioress there, at the death of the lady Joan Eyton, by the president and convent of the said house.

TOWN LANDS.

In 1631, Thomas Cann, only surviving feoffee of the freehold town lands of Banham, renewed the feoffment to Thomas Colby, son and heir apparent of Thomas Colby, S. T. P.; Thomas, eldest son of Richard Tindal, Gent.; Robert, son of Daniel Clark, Gent.; Warwick, son and heir of Robert Dade of Therctham, clerk, and heir apparent of Roxland Warwick of Banham, his grandfather, and others, settling all the following lands on them and their heirs, "for the profit and advantage of all the inhabitants of the town of Banham for ever."

A close of pasture by Oxeye Meere, in three pieces, the whole containing one acre, one rood and an half, abutting on Banham Great Green east. One rood of it was purchased in 1438, the rest in 1471.

One acre in two pieces in Banham; the first lies at Langercroft, and abuts on the way leading from Alforth Cross to Banham Moor, south, and upon Wilby-Lawnd, now called Wilby-Warren, north; the second piece lies at Thwert-Furlong, this was given in 1473 by Edward Knith, clerk.

Two roods in Banham, in two pieces; the first rood lies at Muspesc, and the second in Brimli-wong. This was town land in 1484.

Two acres in Broad-Meadow at Wanfen in Lancroft-Furlong; one acre of this was purchased by the inhabitants in 1571, and the other acre was town land in 1512.

One pightle, called Le Leete pightle, containing one acre and an half, abutting on the common called Grissell-Moor. The lect fee is to be paid yearly out of the rent of this land.

One close called Semere-Wong, containing 7 acres and three roods in Banham, abutting on Nete-Gate way, which leads to the Moor, east. This was town land in Henry the Eighth's time.

One close called the Breche, and now the Town Close, containing 10 acres in Banham, which formerly was Edward Cann's, and then abutted on the land of Ambrose Norris, jun. west, the lord's lands, east, the lord's wood, called the Great Wood, south, and the land of Tho. Reve, senior, north. The inhabitants had it of Sir Tho. Tirrel of Gipping in Suffolk, knt. A. 1564.

In 1544,<sup>9</sup> Henry Cossey, or Cossey, clerk, rector here, settled a messuage called the Gild-Hall, (which was copyhold on Grey's cum Beckhall manor,) on Edward Colby and Tho. Canne, who were to hold it to this intention and use, viz. to keep the obit of the said Henry in the church of Banham, on the vigil and day of St. Margaret the Virgin, and to cause mass to be celebrated for him on that day, &c.; they held it till 1549, for that use, and then it fell to the lord by virtue of the statute, who seized it accordingly, and then granted it to divers feoffees, who were to hold it "to the use and profit of all the copyhold tenants of Banham manor, inhabiting in Banham, upon condition, that the lord of the manor and his heirs, by himself, his servants, officers, or deputies, shall for ever have liberty to hold and keep his courts and leet for the said manor, in the said messuage, with free ingress, egress, and regress, for all the tenants, to do their business at such courts, without the contradiction or molestation of any one."

The feoffees also hold by copy of court-roll of the said manor, a parcel of ground, with a house thereon built, being 27 feet broad, and 13 feet long.

Here was a small oratory or hermitage, at a place called Stonebridge, the foundation of which may still [1736] be seen.

The half of this hundred towards Thetford is champaign, the land being very light and sandy; the other is heavy ground, and enclosed; it produces plenty of grain of all kinds, and in the champaign part there are good flocks of sheep; the soil there is chiefly a chalk under the sand.

---

THIS hundred is bounded on the east by Depwade and Diss; on the north by Wayland and Forehoe; on the west by Grymshoe; and on the south by Giltcross, from which it is parted by the rivulet that runs from Quidenham Meer into the Little Ouse at Thetford, by the Atlas called Thet, without any reason, for I do not find it so named in any evidences whatever. This is a large hundred, (or half hundred, as it is sometimes called,) the fee of which, from the Confessor's time to the latter end of King Henry VI.<sup>1</sup> constantly attended the Castle manor of Bokenham,<sup>2</sup> being sometimes whole, and sometimes divided, as that was, but then it was wholly in William De-la-pole Marquis and Earl of Suffolk, who levied a fine of it between himself and his trustees. It was in John De-la-pole Earl of Lincoln, who died in 1487; after in Edmund De-la-pole Earl of Suffolk, who was beheaded for treason in 1513, and so it became forfeited to the Crown; immediately after, it was granted to Charles Brandon Duke of Suffolk, and his heirs, who, about 1545, exchanged it for other lands with the Crown, in which it continued some time. In 1573, the Queen let it to Edw. Phidd, Gent. for 21 years, at 10*l.* a year, who surrendered his letters patent to be cancelled in 1584, and the Queen, for 15*l.* fine, let it to Tho. Lovell, Gent. for 21 years. In 1622, it was granted by letters patent to Sir George Marshall, Knt. Robert Causfield, Esq. and their heirs, in fee, to be held by the fee-farm rent of 10*l.* a year, in 1628, Mr. Robert Tichbourne and Mr. Andrew Palmer held it in trust, with others, for Robert Hethe, serjeant at law, who, jointly with his trustees, in 1634, sold it to Rob. Wilton, Esq. and his heirs,<sup>3</sup> in whose family it continued till Nicholas Wilton of Wilby, Esq. sold it to Henry Kedington, Esq. of Hockham, who sold it to Ralph Hare of Hargham, Esq. and Hugh, son of Tho. Hare, Esq. of Hargham,<sup>4</sup> the heir of that family, is now [1737] lord, who holds it by the aforesaid

In 1285, the King brought an action for this hundred against Robert de Tateshale, to know what right he had in it, who answered that he held it jointly with Roger de Montcalt, Margaret Basset, John Le-Strange, Mand de Erdington, Mabel de Suthley, and yearly fee-farm rent. The ancient rent that it paid before the forfeiture was only half a mark. The lects of the whole hundred belong to it with all superiour liberties, except those of Eccles, Hockham-Magna, and Old-Bokenham. All the towns are in Rockland deanery, (which is made up of this and Gilteross hundred,) except Thetford, which, though it be in this hundred, I look upon as single, it being a deanery of itself belonging to the archdeaconry of Norwich, as this doth to the archdeaconry of Norfolk.

Richard Fitz-Alan, a minor, of the inheritance of Hugh de Albany, who died seized of it; and being called upon in the same manner, in relation to his market at Attleburgh, and market, fair, and privileges, in Wilby, and New Bokenham, he returned the same answer.

This hundred paid for every tenth 100*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.* out of which the deductions came to 7*l.* 1*s.* so that the King received clear 93*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Wilby joins to Banham on the north, and had at the Conqueror's survey two manors; the head manor, which hath been since called by divers names, according to those of its different owners, and now

WILBY HALL MANOR,

Belonged to Fader in the Confessor's time, and to William de Schoies, or Escois, (sc. the Scot, or Will. of Scotland, as he is sometimes called,) in the Conqueror's; it had a church then, and 10 acres of glebe, the whole town being a mile long, and as much broad, and paid 15*d.* out of every 20*s.* taxed upon the hundred.<sup>5</sup> The advowson belonged to this manor, and in the reign of William Rufus, William de Escois, or Scoies, by the name of William de Hestois,<sup>6</sup> gave the advowson of Wilby, along with that of Banham, and a carucate of land there, together with two parts of the tithes of his demesns in both places, to the abbey of St. Mary at York.<sup>7</sup> In 1226, Stephen de Ebroic was lord; he is sometimes called Ebrois, D'Ebrois, Deveres, and D'Evereux, and this year he had grant for a market and fair in Banham; he was succeeded by

WILLIAM D'EBROIS, his son; at his death Maud his widow held it in dower, and in 1256,

WILL D'EVERES was lord. He, and Maud his mother, sold it to

SIR RICHARD DE BOYLUND, and Maud his wife, in 1278, who had a charter of free-warren for all his lands here and in Brisingham.* This William D'Everes pretended a right to the moiety of the advowson, against Simon then Abbot of York, but was cast in the suit, and forced to release all his pretensions. In 1295, Richard de Boyland and Ellen his wife had it, and John their son and heir was 24 years old, who, in 1314, settled it on himself and Emme his wife, and their heirs; but notwithstanding this, in 1315 Richard his brother was lord here, who, in 1321, settled it on himself and Alice his wife, John Le-Claver and Adam Le-Long being his trustees. In 1345, Sir John Boyland, Knt. of Boyland Hall in Brisingham, held it at three quarters of a fee, half of John Waleys, the other half of John Berdezwell, who held it of the heirs of Hugh de Bokenham, they of the Earl of Arundell, and he of the King, all which Maud de Boyland aforesaid lately held, and paid 30s. relief. This part seems to be the freeman and his services, which was Roger Bygod's at the Conquest, afterwards the Earl of Arundell's, then Hugh Bokenham's, lord of West-Herling,<sup>8</sup> after that the Berdezwells, by whom it was sold to the Boylands.

In 1363, Sir THO. DE FELTON, Knt. had it settled on him, by Sir Will. Ingaldesthorp, Knt. and Eleanor his wife, it being conveyed to him during the life of Eleanor; great part of this manor was sold by Sir John de Boyland, for it had now only two messuages, 108 acres of land, 6 of meadow, and 16s. rent. In 1372, Sir Tho. Felton, Knight of the Garter, was lord, by whom it was settled, as Riburgh was, of which he was lord.<sup>9</sup>

In 1380, Sir THO. DE FELTON, Knt. and Joan his wife, held it; Mary, his eldest daughter, was then married to Sir Edmund Hengraze, Knt. and Sibilla de Mortai was his second daughter.<sup>1</sup> 1386, Nicholas Coterell, chaplain, released all his right in it to Joan, widow of Sir Tho. de Felton, who, in 1388, settled it on herself for life, after on Robert Bishop of London, and other trustees.

In 1414, JOHN, son of Sir John Curson, Knt. released all his right in the manor, late the Lady Felton's, to John Clifton, Tho. Lopham, and other scoffees, together with Ingaldesthorp, Belagh, and Darsingham manors in Norfolk, and Barrow in Suffolk.

In 1470, Sir JOHN CURSON of Beckhall in Belagh, Knt. gave this manor to Thomas, his son and heir, reserving several annuities;<sup>2</sup> he was lord of Ingaldesthorp, &c. and died this year. In 1511, it appears by the will of Thomas Curson, Esq. son and heir of Sir John, that he gave Wilby and Darsingham manors to John his son, it being then held of the Earl of Arundell, as of Castle-Acre manor. In 1546, John Curson, Esq. died seized, and William was his son and heir, who had now livery of this, Ingaldesthorp, Darsingham, Byntre, Beckhall in Belagh, Harple, and many other manors.

In 1565, WILLIAM CURSON, Esq. and Thomasine his wife, sold the manor to Sir Tho. Lovell, Knt. and his heirs.<sup>3</sup>

In 1570, it was in THO. LOVELL, Esq. it being then called WILBY HALL, otherwise Curson's; in this family it continued till 1627, and then Charles Lovell of Herling, Esq. sold it to

EDWARD HOBART of Langley, Esq. in trust: it had then a fold-course, but no rents. In 1631, Edward Hobart sold to Charles Lovell of Hockering, Esq. and Edward Barkey of the same, Gent. the manors of Hibon, which late belonged to Sir Tho. Lovell, Knt. deceased, father of the said Charles, Sir Francis Lovell, Knt. deceased, and William Lovell, Esq. brothers of the said Charles, and Peter Pretiman, Gent. they being conveyed to the said Edward, to the use of Sir Thomas and the rest.

free-warren, a fold-course for 1000 sheep, and it extended into Wilby, Old-Bokenham, Banham, Quidenham, Eccles, Harpham, Besthorp, Attleburgh, and Keninghall.

IN 1565, CHARLES LOVELL of East-Herling, Esq. sold it to ROBERT WILTON of Wilby, Esq. and his heirs, and so it became joined to

BECKHALL MANOR,

Which was owned by Ailid<sup>4</sup> in the Confessor's time, and by Ralf Bainard in the Conqueror's, under whom it was held by Solidarius, and had a carucate of land in demean, which shews that it was an exact half of the town, the other manor being of the same extent and value.<sup>5</sup> In 1104, Juga Bainard (his widow I suppose) had it; and in 1106, Jeffry Bainard, her son and heir, who was a great benefactor to St. Mary's abbey at York; he was succeeded by Will. Bainard, who taking part with Elias Earl of Main, Phillip de Braose, William Malet, and other conspirators, against King Henry I. lost his barony, the chief seat of which was called Bainard's castle, situate below St. Paul's, near the Thames: upon this forfeiture it was given by the King to Robert, a younger son to Richard Fitz-Gilbert, progenitor to the ancient Earls of Clare, as this Robert was to the noble family of the Fitz-Walters,<sup>6</sup> of whom it was always held of Bainard castle at half a fee; Fulk Bagnard held it of Robert Fitz-Walter; and in 1228, Robert de Cokefeld held it of Walter Fitz-Robert, as did Richard de Cokefeld, his son, whose son and heir, John, was a minor in the wardship of Simon de Cokefeld in 1219. About 1272,

ROBERT DE BECKHALL first had that half fee, which was formerly Robert Cockfield's, and another quarter of a fee joined to it, held of the Lady Maud de Bouland, from whose manor he had purchased it. In 1315, he held the half fee of Fulk Bainard, he of Robert Fitz-Walter, and he of the King; and in 1386, it was held of Walter Fitz-Walter, Knt. and Phillipa his wife, as of their manor of Hemenhale.

In 1345, the Nomina Villarum reckons John de Brandon, and John de Hereford, as lords here, but it was only on account of their manors of Hargham, &c. extending hither.

In 1360, and 1399, PETER DE BECKHALL had it, and held the quarter of a fee of the Lady Felton.

In 1429, Nov. 4, SIR RICHARD CARBONELL, Knt. by will, ordered his manors of Wilby, Stodhugh, Witton, and Penesthorp, to be sold to pay his debts; in 1459, Alice, widow of Sir Andrew Ogard, Knt. of Bokenham castle, after of Sir Hugh Cokesey, Knt. died seized of a part of it, which always went with that castle, till Sir Edmund Knevet sold it.

In 1495, THO. MOUNTENEY and THO. CURSON, Esqrs. were lords, it being held of the said Curson, as of his manor of Wilby Hall, by 4s. rent.

In 1526, JOHN MOUNTENEY of Fozcle, Gent. conveyed to John Green of Wilby, Gent. all his manors, lands, &c. in Wilby, reserving 8 marks a year to Alice Mounteney, his mother, for life.

In 1532, RICHARD BAINARD, Gent. EDM. KNEVET, Knt. and JOHN WHITE, Esq. sold Beke at manor to

JOHN GREEN, JOHN GREY, Esq. JOHN CROFTS of West-Stow, Esq. EDM. BACON of Troston, Esq. and JOHN BRAMPTON, Gent. his trustees; and so all the parts were joined again by Green's purchase.

In 1564, THO. GREEN of Wilby, Gent. son of John Green, died; he married Cecilia, daughter of Tho. Guybon of Lyn, and Rose his wife, leaving his manor of Beckhall, in Wilby, Hargham, Eccles, Banham, Bokenham, Crostwick, and Ruston, to Francis, his son and heir, then three years old; it then contained 12 messuages, 220 acres of land, 220 acres of pasture, 4s. 8d. rent, &c. all which were held of Christopher Heydon, Knt. in right of Temperance, his wife, relict of Tho. Greyc, as of his manor of Bainard's Hall in Bunwell; he died seized also of Hargham, &c.

In 1571, MATHEW BACON, Gent. was lord, in right of Cecily his wife, relict of Tho. Green, as guardian to Francis Green, her son, who died without issue in 1580, leaving it divisible among his five sisters.

ROSE, married first to Butterworth, then to Paul Gooch of Hargham.

THOMASINE, to Tho. Edgar of Glemham in Suffolk.

The fifth, to Will. Stokes, Gent. of whom

JOHN WILTON of Topcroft, Gent. bought the several parts, and completed his title in 1622.

JOHN WILTON of Topcroft, Gent. purchased the advowson, and joined it to the manor; he left one daughter, Cecily, married to Sir John Bruce of Wenham in Suffolk, and Richard Wilton of Topcroft, Gent. his son and heir, who married Anne, daughter of Robert Buaton of Channons in Tibenham, Esq.; he conveyed Beckhall to Robert his son, reserving an annuity of 50*l.* a year to be paid in his house at Tunnegate Green in Topcroft, where he had a good estate: he died in 1637: Robert Wilton of Wilby, Esq. his son and heir, was born in 1599; he purchased Wilby Hall manor, and the hundred of Shropham, and by so doing, joined the lect to the manor,<sup>7</sup> and made the estate complete: he had three wives; by Hunnah, daughter of John Jay, Gent. he had only one daughter, Hannah, who married to Robert Buaton, Esq. Aug. 24, 1654, by whom he had Robert Buxton, born April 9, 1659, and Elizabeth, born Dec. 16, 1661; by Susanna, his second wife, youngest daughter of Sir Anthony Drury of Bethorp, he had issue; and by Bridget, daughter of Sir John Mead, of Lofts in Essex, he had two daughters, and one son only, viz. Nicholas Wilton of Wilby, Esq. who married a Clinch; he sold the manors, hundred, and advowson, to Ralf Hare of Hargham, Esq. whose descendant, Hugh Hare, now [1737] a minor, son of Thomas Hare of Hargham, Esq. deceased, is lord and patron.<sup>8</sup>

The advowson of the rectory, after the Dissolution, came to the Crown; and, in 1558, was held by Edward Lord North, and John Williams, and their heirs, in free soccage by fealty only, as of East

Greenwich manor in Kent, and went afterwards as the institutions shew you, till it was sold to John Wilton.

In 1504, WILLIAM HAMMOND, senior, of Wilby, infeoffed a close called Nells in Wilby, in Robert Walden, rector there, Will. Mountney, Gent. and others, to the use of the repairs of the church for ever; he had it of John Mountney of Wilby, chaplain, and Robert Hamond, deceased; it abuts west on the street, and was given in 1480, by John Nell of Wilby.<sup>9</sup>

In 1637, RICHARD WILTON of Topcroft in Norfolk, gave a rood of ground, and built an alms-house thereon, over the door of which his arms still remain.

The manor of Old Bokenham extended hither; in 1366, Hugh Bernak had a messuage, and 39 acres of land, &c. and 20s. rent in New Bokenham, Wilby, Attleburgh, and Eltingham, held by the twentieth part of a fee, which at his death was to revert to Alice Bernak, and John, son of Will. Bernak.

In 1367, WILL. LE LATIMER had lands here, in which he was allowed free-warren.

Eccles manor extended hither, for in King Henry the Eighth's time, Robert Wymgfield held half a fee here of that King, and paid 18*d.* to the wardship of Norwich castle, it being part of the Bishop's manor of Eccles, which was part of his barony before the exchange.

This rectory is valued thus in the

It paid 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* every tenth, and is now assessed at 455*l.* to the land-tax. In 1603, there were 88 communicants, and now there are about 160 inhabitants [1737.]

Here were two gilds kept in the gildhall, one dedicated to All-Saints, the other to St. Peter; to the brethren of each of these gilds. Robert Hammond gave 6*s.* 8*d.* and a new bell to the church.

William D'Eschoies, (or Le-Scot,) gave this and Banham advowsons, and a part of the tithes of his demesns, to St. Mary's abbey near the walls at York, which was confirmed by Everard Bishop of Norwich, and Theobald Archbishop of Canterbury;<sup>2</sup> part of this portion of tithes, with that at Banham,<sup>3</sup> was settled by the abbey on their cell at Rumburgh in Suffolk, and in 1528, was granted with it to Cardinal Wolsey, towards building his colleges in Ipswich and Oxford, by patent dated Dec. 30, 20th Henry VIII.

<sup>1</sup> Mortuaries are paid in this parish to the rector, according to the act. The temporals of Bokenham priory in this town were taxed at 7*s.* 10*d.* In 1507, the town of Besthorp had lands here, lying by the Gildhall. In 1633, a fire broke out in the parsonage-yard, occasioned by carrying a lighted stick through it, which burned down the barn, stable, gate-house, the roof and seats of the church, and chancel, and all the timber-work of the steeple, to 790*l.* value.

RECEIVED its name from the number of bucks with which the woods here formerly abounded, Bucham, Bukkam, and Bukenham, being plainly the village of bucks, and not of beech trees, as Mr. Camden imagined,<sup>6</sup> there being none of them in this county, as Sir Henry Spelman rightly observes;<sup>7</sup> and the additional title of Old was afterwards added, to distinguish it from New-Bukenham, which was taken out of it.

RALF GUADER Earl of Norfolk owned the whole town (except the carucate which belonged to Bury abbey) in the Confessor's time, when there were 3 carucates in demeant, and woods sufficient to maintain 182 swine, 21 soemen of his own, and 43 that were under the protection of other men, all which the Earl joined to his manor. In the Conqueror's time it was worth 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and two sextaries of honey; and when all was joined, it was risen to 32*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and 20*s.* as a present or gift; it was two miles long and as much broad, and paid 19*d.* geld or tax out of every 20*s.* raised on the hundred.<sup>8</sup> This Earl fled the realm, and so forfeited all his estate to the Conqueror, who owned it at the survey, when it was one of his manors that he entrusted Earl Goderic with the management of. At this time there were only two parishes, viz. All-Saints and St. Andrew's, and a castle which stood just by the abbey. The land on which New-Bukenham was after built was that part of St. Andrew's parish which belonged to the Bishop of Thetford's manor of Eccles, and was called Bishop's-Haugh, the tithes of which now are, and always were, paid to the rector of Eccles, the land belonging to that manor originally, and the Bishop granting them to the domestick chaplain of his palace at Eccles, to whom he generally gave that rectory.

ALBANI. The Conqueror gave the castle and manor, and all that belonged to Earl Ralf, to William de Albany, Albini, Albigni, de

Albenio,<sup>9</sup> who came into England with him, together with Wymondham, Snetesham, and Kenninghall,<sup>1</sup> to be held by the service of being butler to the Kings of England on the day of their coronation,<sup>2</sup> for which reason he was always styled Pincerna Regis, or the King's Butler; he founded Wymondham abbey, where he was buried, before the high altar, by Maud his wife, daughter of Roger Bygot Earl of Norfolk, with whom he had 10 knights fees in Norfolk, of Earl Roger's gift; he was son of Roger de Albini, by Amy de Molbray his wife, and brother to that famous Nigell de Albini, whose posterity assumed the name of Mowbray, or Molbray, from that of his mother.<sup>3</sup>

WILLIAM, his eldest son, succeeded him; he was called William with the strong hand, because among other valiant exploits, he slew a fierce lion; the occasion was thus, as Mr. Dugdale relates it: "It happened that the Queen of France, being then a widow, and a very beautiful woman, became much in love with a knight of that country, who was a comely person, and in the flower of his youth; and because she thought that no man excelled him in valour, she caused a tournament to be proclaimed throughout her dominions, promising to reward those who should exercise themselves therein, according to their respective merits; and concluding, that if the person whom she so well affected, should act his part better than others, in those military exercises, she might marry him without any dishonour to herself.

"Hereupon divers gallant men, from foreign parts, hasting to Paris, among others came this our William de Albini, bravely accoutred, and in the tournament excelled all others, overcoming many, and wounding one mortally with his lance; which being observed by the Queen, she became exceedingly enamoured of him, and forthwith invited him to a costly banquet, and afterwards bestowing certain jewels upon him, offered him marriage. But having plighted his troth to the Queen of England, then a widow, refused her: whereat she grew so discontented, that she consulted with her maids, how she might take away his life; and in pursuance of that design, enticed him into a garden, where there was a secret cave, and in it a fierce lion, into which she descended by divers steps, under colour of shewing him the beast. And when she told him of his fierceness, he answered, that it was a womanish and not manly quality, to be afraid thereof, but having him there, by the advantage of a folding door, thrust him in to the lion. Being therefore in this danger, he rolled his mantle about his arm, and putting his hand into the mouth of the beast, pulled out his tongue by the root; which done he followed the Queen to her palace, and gave it to one of her maids, to present to her.

"Returning therefore into England, with the fame of this glorious exploit, he was forthwith advanced to the Earldom of Arundell,

Henry I. (Dug. Bar. vol. i. 120. Vincent against Brook, fol. 19.)

“and for his arms the lion given him; nor was it long after, that the Queen of England accepted him for her husband, whose name was Adeliza, or Alice, widow to King Henry I. and daughter to Godfrey, Duke of Lorrain, which Adeliza had the castle of Arundell, and county, in dowry from that King.”<sup>4</sup> And in the beginning of King Henry the Second’s time, he not only obtained the castle and honour of Arundell to himself and his heirs, but also a confirmation of the Earldom of Sussex,<sup>5</sup> granted to him by the third penny of the pleas of that county, which in ancient times was the usual way of investing such great men in the possession of any earldom, after those ceremonies of girding with the sword, and putting on the robes, were performed, which have ever, till of late, been thought essential to their creation. In the time of King Stephen he founded the abbey here, and built the present castle, as you may see in the accounts of them; and dying in 1176, was buried by his father at Wymondham.

WILLIAM DE ALBINI, his eldest son, Earl of Arundell, became lord at his father’s death, and paid 100*l.* for his relief, for his estate in Norfolk; he married Maud, daughter and heiress of James de Sancto Hillario, and dying at Waverley in 1176, was buried at Wymondham.

WILLIAM DE ALBINI, or Albany, Earl of Arundell and Sussex, his son, succeeded; he married Mabell, daughter of Hugh Kiviltock Earl of Chester, by whom he had two sons and four daughters, William and Hugh, both Earls of Sussex; he died in 1199, and was buried at Wymondham.

WILLIAM DE ALBANY, Earl of Arundell and Sussex, son of William aforesaid, and Mabell his wife, died in his return from Damietta in Palestine, anno 1221, and was brought over into England by Thomas, a monk of St. Alban’s, and buried by his ancestors at Wymondham abbey, leaving his brother,

HUGH DE ALBANY Earl of Arundel and Sussex, his heir,<sup>6</sup> whom Hugh de Burgh, Chief Justice of England, had the custody of, which he assigned to William Earl Warren, who in his right served King Henry III. at his nuptials, with the royal cup, the said Hugh being then a youth, and not knighted; he married Isabel, daughter of the said Earl Warren, who, after his death, founded the nunnery of Marham, at her own charge, out of her dowry, and died in 1242, without issue,<sup>7</sup> leaving his great inheritance to be divided among his four sisters, his heiresses,<sup>8</sup> and was buried with his ancestors in the abbey church of St. Mary at Wymondham, Isabel his widow having the <sup>4</sup> Dug. Bar. vol. i. 118. I am sensible how much Mr Vincent ridicules this story, (fol. 21,) but as I find it in authors of as good authority as himself, and some of the ancient bearings of the Arundell family having the lion without a tongue, I could not omit inserting it.

<sup>5</sup> Though he was mostly known by the titles of Arundell and Chichester, at which places his chief residence used to be, yet it was the county of Sussex that he was really Earl of. Dug. Bar. vol. i. 119. He founded the little priory of Pynham near Arundell, and the chapel of St. Thomas the Martyr in Wymondham. (Vincent 653.)

<sup>6</sup> This Hugh, at the coronation of Eleanor, daughter of Hugh Earl of Provence, then married to the King, deputed the Earl Warren to serve his office of the botelry, he being incapacitated to serve that office himself, as being then excommunicated by the Archbishop of Canterbury, because when the archbishop was hunting in the said Hugh’s forest in Sussex, he took away his dogs; the archbishop claiming it as his right to hunt in any forest in England, whenever he pleased, which matter was not then determined.

manors of Wimondham and Kenninghall assigned for her maintenance, till her dowry was set out, which was done soon after, and the manors of Snetesham, Wimondham, Plesset, and Kenninghall, with the hundred of Giltcross in Norfolk, besides many others in other counties, were allotted to her.<sup>9</sup>

ROBERT DE TATESHALE, and MABELL<sup>1</sup> his wife, who was the eldest, had the castle and manors of Bukenham, Wimondham, &c. for their capital seat.

JOHN, son of John Fitz-Alan, and ISABEL his wife, who was fourth sister, had Arundel castle, manor, &c. for their capital seat.

ROGER DE SOMERY, who married NICHOLEA, the third sister had Barwe in Leicestershire, &c. for their chief seat.

ROGER DE MONTEALT, who married CECILY, the second sister, had the castle of Rising, with the manors of Kenninghall, Snetesham, &c. for their principal seat; together with the hundred of Smithdon, and the fourth part of the tollbooth at Lynn, which was now divided into four parts, so that a fourth part attended each of the inheritances. And thus the castle and manor came to

Sir ROBERT DE TATESHALE, who made it his principal seat. He was descended from Eudo, who with Pinco, his sworn brother in war, (though no other way related,) came into England with Duke William, and merited so well from him in that service, that in recompense thereof he gave them the lordship of Tateshale, with Thorp hamlet, and Kirkeby town in Lincolnshire, to be equally shared between them; Eudo to hold his part of the King, and Pinco his of St. Cuthbert of Durham. Eudo settled at Tateshale, and assumed its name for his surname. His arms were, chequy or and gul. a chief erm.; he was succeeded by Hugh his son, who founded Kirstead abbey in Lincolnshire. In 1139, Robert, his son, inherited, who left Philip, whose son, Sir Robert de Tateshale, was so great a benefactor to Bukenham priory, that the canons of that house altered their common seal, and put in his arms along with their founder's. Among other things, he gave the church of St. Martin in New-Bukenham, and half an acre of land in Gunneby, called Munkwell, with the advowson of the church of Gunneby, for a yearly pittance;<sup>2</sup> he left

Sir ROBERT DE TATESHALE, who married Mabell aforesaid, his son and heir, who granted to the canons here liberty of faldage for 200 sheep in Atleburgh, with free pasturage for them there, and 53 acres arable land in Bukenham, besides other gifts. In Lovell's Book in the Exchequer,<sup>3</sup> he is found to hold this castle and manor by the service of the botelry, and the manors of Babingle, Tibenham, Topcroft, and Denton, in capite, as parcel of his barony. After Mabell's death he married a daughter of John De-Grey, and died in 1248, leaving

ROBERT, his son and heir, then 26 years old, who married Joan, daughter of Ralf Fitz-Rauulf, lord of Middleham in Yorkshire. He stood firm to Henry III. in his barons wars, and was besieged in his

He died in 1272, seized of Bukenham manor and castle, of Tibenham, Topcroft, Denton, &c. with all the knights fees held of the lordship or honour, together with the advowsons of Reyton, Stanhow, Congham St. Mary, and two parts of Atleburgh, of Wimondham abbey, the fourth part of Lynn tolbooth, &c. leaving

SIR ROBERT DE TATESHALE, his son and heir, then 24 years old, who, in 1285, had view of frankpledge, free-warren, and gallows, and a Saturday market, assize of bread and ale, and a fair yearly on St. Martin's Day, and another market every Thursday in Atleburgh, belonging to his manor of Bukenham castle, and Plassing Hall in Besthorp. In an old roll about this time, it appears that there were many manors held by knight's service of this castle, and among the free tenants by sentage were these, Sir William de Montecanis, Giles de Wachesham, Knt. Sir Harvy de Stonhaw, Sir William Cumyn, Sir Richard de Quatefeld, the lady Lora de Baybiol, the heirs of Simon de Keninghall, Ralf de Morley, Richard de Snitterton, Sir Robert de Shelton, John de Berdwelle.

Mathew Cachevache, Robert de Bukenheim, &c. were tenants in soccage.

William and John de Hargham, Richard, son of Will. de Snitterton, Tho. de Ascheby, held lands in Hargham by soccage, and so did Richard de Lirling, and Sir Will. de Lirling's heirs; John de Metheloud in Lirling, Roger de Caston in Ellingham, Will. and Richard de Mortimer, Peter de Thetvetham, William, son of Will. de Fossato, in Atleburgh, &c. In 1288, he was lord of the castle and manor of Bukenham, the manor of Lathes in Old-Bukenham, the burgage, and the court belonging to the weekly market in New Bukenheim, the manors of Wimondham, Topcroft, Denton, Tibenham, Freebridge hundred, &c. and died in 1297, leaving his estate to

SIR ROBERT,<sup>4</sup> his son and heir, then 24 years old, married to Ece, daughter of Robert de Tibetot, who, after his decease, married to Sir John de Coxe, and held Shropham hundred, Topcroft and Denton manors, in dower, till 1349. He died in 1302, leaving

ROBERT DE TATESHALE, his son and heir, then 15 years old, who died a minor, without issue, in 1310, leaving his inheritance divisible among his three aunts, or their heirs:

in the Scotch wars with King Edward I. was summoned to parliament in Edward the Second's time, Roger de Cliton was his Esquire, and got into such favour with him by his good service, that he gave him his sister Margaret in marriage. Some call this Thomas de Cailli, Adam.

son of the priory there, the fourth part of the manor, and the half parts of other manors thereto belonging, two parts of Wimondham, the fourth part of all the lands in Atleburgh, and the third part of those in Tibenham, the third part of two parts of the fourth part of the profits of Lynn tolbooth called the Green Garth, and 11*l.* 2*s.* yearly rent in Norfolk; all of which, together with Crawwich, East-Bradcnham, Hildeburgworth or Hilburgh, the advowson of Hilburgh church, and of St. Margaret's free chapel there, he died seized in 1316, leaving Adam, son of Sir Roger de Clifton, by Margaret, his only sister, his cousin and heir, then nine years old.

JOAN DE DRIBY had the castle of Tatshale, &c. and the 8th part of Bukenham manor, the third part of Wimondham, 150 acres of land, several parcels of meadow and pasture, 7*s.* 6*d.* rent, and the rent of two sparrow or sparrowhawks, in Old and New-Bukenham, Atleburgh, and Elyingham, and a third part of the hundred of Shrophum, which was then divided, and each had an equal share attending their inheritances, all which this Joan, then widow of Robert de Driby, settled on GILBERT DE BERNAK, parson of Tateshale, and John de Gisingham, parson of Wolffreton, her trustees, who were to hold it for her use during her life, remainder to William Bernak and Alice his wife, who died about 1340, seized of the third parts of Wimondham and Bukenham, manors, and the third part of Plassing Hall or Plesset's, in Atleburgh and Besthorp.

In 1340, the aforesaid Hugh<sup>8</sup> Bernak, clerk, died, when he held Old-Bukenham part, for life, by feoffment from Alice Bernak, and John, son of William Bernak, remainder to John and his heirs, who died in 1345, seized of the whole manors of Hetherset, Denton, and Plassing Hall, and the third part of Wymondham, and Bukenham, and this year Joan his widow was allowed her dower out of all the said manors; but soon after it was settled wholly on particular manors. John Bernak, his eldest son, died a minor, leaving his inheritance to William, his brother and heir, who died in 1359, leaving Maud, his sister, then wife of Sir Ralf de Cromwell, lord of Tateshale, his sole heir.

JOHN DE ORREBY, and Isabel his wife, had among others, the manor of Tibenham in Norfolk, (except the third part of the park, which Tho. de Caily held, in part of his portion,) and the eighth part of Bukenham manor, in recompense of the eighth part of the parks of Bukenham, which was assigned to the said Thomas, and the eighth part of the lands in Atleburgh, viz. 19 messuages, &c. in Atleburgh, Bukenham, Besthorp, Elyingham, and Tybenham. Phillip de Orreby was their son and heir, whose son, John de Orreby, died in 1352, leaving Margaret his widow, who died in 1368, and Joan de Orreby,

<sup>8</sup> This Hugh held the manor of Old-Bukenham for life, (except the park,) of the gift and feoffment of Alice Bernak, and John, son of Will. Barnak, on condition that after his death it should return to John, son of Will. Barnak, and his heirs, it being held of the King in capite, by the service of the eighth part of a third part of the fourth part of the botelry; he held also one messuage, 39 acres of arable land, and 9 of meadow, 7 of pasture, and 20*s.* rent in New-Bukenham, Atleburgh, Elyingham, and Wilby, by the service of the twentieth part, of the third part of the fourth part of the botelry, to remain as aforesaid, and also one messuage, 43 acres, and the sixth part of a watermill, &c. in Denton, by the service of the tenth part of the third part of the fourth part of the botelry.

his sole daughter and heiress, who married first to Sir Henry Percy, who died in 1367, and after to Sir Constantine Clifton: she had one daughter, Mary Percy, her sole heiress, who was married to Sir John Roos of Hamlak. Knt. without issue, but died before her mother.

In 1360, Sir RALF CROMWELL, Knt. in right of Maud Bernak, his wife, became lord of the manors of Hethersete, Plassinghall in Besthorp, Denton, &c. all which (except Hethersete<sup>9</sup> were held of the King in capite, as parcel of the barony of Tateshall; he had his parts of Bukenham, Wymundham, and Shropham hundred, for which he did homage to the King, and had livery thereof, to him and his heirs by Maud. In 1394, a writ was directed to John Knevet, escheator of Norfolk, to divide the lands, and deliver seizin to Constantine de Clifton, and Maud, wife of Sir Ralf Cromwell, Knt. cousins and heirs of Mary, widow of John Lord Roos of Hamlak, daughter and heir of Joan, daughter and heir of John de Orreby. In 1395, he had the fourth part of Lathes manor, two parts of Gryshaugh in Wymundham, and the parts of the manors of Old and New-Bukenham, Tybenham, &c. as they were divided by their ancestors. This Ralf died in 1398, Maud his widow died in 1418, leaving Ralf<sup>1</sup> (after Lord Cromwell) her grandson and heir, he being son of Ralf, who died in his father's lifetime; he was after Lord Treasurer, but having no issue by Margaret, daughter of John, and sister and coheir of William Lord Deincourt, his wife, at his death in 1455, his three aunts<sup>2</sup> became his heirs, viz. Elizabeth, married to Sir John Clifton; Hawise, to Thomas Lord Bardolph; and Maud; to John Fitz-Williams; and they inherited his whole estate, viz. Plasset, or Plassinghall manor, which is a member of Bukenham manor, Bukenham, the fourth part of Lyn tolbooth, the advowsons of Atteburgh, Congham, St. Agnes, and St. Mary, Stanhov, Denton, and Tasboro, the manors of Hethersete, Wymundham, Gonzyle's in Wymundham, Besthorp, Eccles, Tibenham, Denton, Babingle, &c. He was buried in his collegiate church of Tateshale.

And now we must return to the CLIFTONS, who all along held the castle, and the best part of the manor, from the year 1316, when Adam,<sup>3</sup> son of Sir Roger de Clifton, by Margaret, only sister to Sir Tho. de Caily, became his heir; he married Eleanor, daughter of Sir

<sup>2</sup> Mr. Neve rightly observes, that these three were heirs also to the two sisters of the last Sir Ralf Cromwell, viz. John, who married Humfry Bourchier, Knt. Lord Cromwell, and Maud, that married Gervase Clifton, Knt. Vincent says, Bourchier was Lord Cromwell in right of Joan his wife, which Joan, (as he says) was daughter of Richard Stanhope, Esq. and niece and coheir of Ralf Lord Cromwell, and not sister, as others say; she after married Sir Robert Ratcliff. In 1462, a fine was levied between the Bishop of Winches- ter, Sir Thomas Tirrel, and other trustees, by which Gunvile's manor in Wymundham, Whethamstede in Hartfordshire, and Little-Burle in Northamptonshire, and others, were settled on them, by Humfry Bourchier, Knt. Lord Cromwell, and Joan his wife, one of the heirs of Ralf Cromwell, late Lord Cromwell, and Gervase Clifton, and Maud his wife the other. (Fin. Divers. Com. E. 4. L. 1. N<sup>o</sup> 8.) 1377, 1398, Alice Perrers held part of Bukenham, Tybenham, and Shropham hundred, and is a convict. 1498, Gilbert Talbot, Knt. is said to hold a third part of Bukenham castle, Shropham hundred, &c. but I know not in whose right.

De-la-pole*, his wife; Sir John Clifton, Knt. his second son, who had Denvere, and Frebudge hundred, &c. to him and his heirs male, died anno 1411, leaving Sir Robert Clifton, Knt. his son and heir, who was sheriff of Norfolk in 1412, and died in 1442,<sup>4</sup> and was buried in Bukenham priory, as was Alice, his widow, in 1455; Thomas Clifton, Esq. their son and heir, died in 1452; Joan, his widow, was alive in 1462; they left Sir Robert Clifton, Knt.<sup>5</sup> their son and heir, who died without issue male in 1490, and his estate went to Sir William Knevet, Knt. son of Sir John, and grandson of Sir John Knevet, who married Elizabeth, sister, and at length heiress, to Sir John Clifton, the last male of the elder branch, to which we must now return.

Sir JOHN CLIFTON, Knt. of Bukenham castle in 1373, had livery of all his lands, as heir to Sir Adam de Clifton, his grandfather; he was summoned to parliament from 1375 to 1388, when he died, on St. Lawrence's Day, at Rhodes, seized of Bukenham castle and manors, Hilburghworth, West Bradenham, and Cranwysse, with the advowsons of Hilburgh and Cranwysse, and the manor of Babyngle, &c. leaving Constantine, his son and heir, then 16 years old. He married Elizabeth, one of the heirs of Ralf Lord Cromwell, by which match that part of Bukenham, &c. which she had for her share, united again; she outlived him, and married Sir Edward Beusted.

CONSTANTINE, their son and heir, had livery of his inheritance in 1393, and was summoned to parliament in that and the next year, but never after;<sup>6</sup> he married Katherine, daughter of Robert Lord Scales, by Margaret, daughter of Robert Howard of East-Winch, who outlived him, and held in dower, till 1432, (in which year she died,) the manor of Babyngle, two parts of Gryshaugh in Wymondham, Bukenham, Lathes manor, the profits of the court at Attleburgh, the court of the market at New-Bukenham, and the part of Lyn tithbooth, all which at her death joined to the rest of the estate, in their son and heir, <sup>5</sup> In 1462, after his mother Joan's death, he granted Denver manor, &c. to Sir William Willoughby, Knt. and his wife, and Sir John Willoughby, Knt. (Claus. 3 E. 4. M. 5.) Sarah Harvey, and became possessed of that third part, which was her brother Benjamin's; and about 1693, partition was made between Ambrose his son, who had got Hugh's part also, and Robert Harvey of Low-Layton in Essex, who married Rebecca, daughter of Mr. Bowater of London, and at his death left his part to John Harvey, Esq. his son and heir, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir James Houbton of London, Knt. He built the seat at Old-Bukenham called St. Andrews,<sup>1</sup> and settled there, and at his death left Robert Harvey, Esq. his only son, who is now [1737] lord and owner of that part, and Ambrose Holbeck, aforesaid, Esq. is now lord of the other two third parts.

THE PARK is a very ancient one, for the founder of the monastery here, among other donations, allowed the monks the privilege of taking wood in his park in this town; and in 1242,<sup>2</sup> the King sent his writ to the keepers of the lands of Hugh de Albany Earl of Arundell, that they should deliver to Robert de Tateshale two bucks of his gift, out of the park lately belonging to the said Hugh, in his town of Bukenham. It was after separated from the manor; and in 1626, one Long of Hingham, at the request or by the order of the Honourable Mary Lady Hunsdon, late wife of the Lord Hunsdon, conveyed all his right in it to Sir Tho. Holland of Kenninghall;<sup>3</sup> but it was in various trustees hands, and incumbered, till the title was perfected by John Holland of Wortwell, Esq. from which time it hath passed in this family, and still remains in the heiresses of Sir William.<sup>4</sup>

In 1620, Sir Tho. Holland, Knt. purchased much of Henry Viscount Rochford.

There were several other manors here, as Bukenham's manor, the Close manor, Lathes manor, the burgage of New-Bukenham, and the Priory manor.

BUKENHAM'S MANOR,

Belonged to Bury abbey,<sup>5</sup> and continued in it till Baldwin, Abbot of that monastery, infeoffed Will. de Bukenham, who was to hold it at half a fee, and pay 14*d.* every 20 weeks to the guard of Norwich castle, as I find in the White Register of that monastery, (fol. 97;) it contained, when he was infeoffed, 1 carucate of land, 8 bordarers, 10 freemen that held 60 acres, for all which he did homage. It continued in this family (all of them being Williams) till 1345, and in that year Will. de Bukenham paid 20*s.* relief for it. How it went from them, and when, I do not find; but in 1401, it was divided into small parcels, for in the feodary of that year, Adam Cock of Bukenham, and his partners, held it. In 1434, John Parker, Margaret Grey, Adam Joly, Robert Cogell and 8 more, did homage to the Abbot of

This family of the Bukenhams always bore az. a cross chequy, or and gul. for their arms, as appears from the seal of Will. de Bukenham, in 1360, and several others of that family which I have by me.

In 1438, Tho. Croftes of Norwich settled the court, with all thereto belonging, on Richard Gagh and Edmund Bukenham, Esqrs. Roger Caus, John Briggess, Peter Park, chaplain, and others, except all his villeins, and copyholders in Old-Bukenham and Wilby. In 1533, Robert Jermye of Norwich, Gent, made his will, and gave his manor of Bukenham in Norfolk, to his mother-in-law, Elizabeth Jermye, and divers lands in Worsted to Ela his wife;<sup>7</sup> Robert Jermye was his eldest son, and Tho. Jermye, his second son, whose mother-in-law, Margaret Browne, is mentioned in the will; but whether it be this manor, or in any other Bukenham, I am not certain.

CACHEVACHE'S, CACHEVACHE'S, NOW
CATSWACHE'S MANOR,

Belonged to Will. de Schoies in the Conqueror's time, of whom Roger held it.<sup>8</sup> In the beginning of King Henry the Third's reign, Tho. de Brokdish, Rob. de Weseham, and Tho. de Bernham, held it of the honour of Clare.<sup>9</sup> In 1290, William, son of Matthew Cachevache,<sup>1</sup> had it, and Roger Cachevache, his son, in 1311; in 1325, he settled it on himself and Christian his wife; and in 1345, it belonged to William Catsvache of Old-Bukenham; in 1401, Maud de Mounteney, then a minor, held it; in 1426, it was John Rookwood's and others. In 1533, Hugh Wilkenson and others had Catchvache's manor in Old and New-Bukenham, Attlebridge, Ringstede, and Holme, and liberty of faldage in Old-Bukenham, settled on them by William Grubbach (or Catswach.) In 1600, Hugh Wilkenson was lord, since which time it hath passed through many hands, which have sold off most (if not all) its rents. It some time belonged to the Sorrells, and now [1737] to Mr. Edward Phillips of Banham, who owns the site of it, which is now called Catsvache's Meadow.

THE CLOSE MANOR

Was part of the great manor till the division of it, and then it became a separate manor, and had insoken and outsoken juries, with a lect, and the profit of part of the market and stalls in Wymondham; a moiety of it, in 1383, belonged to the Prior of Bukenham, who hired the other moiety of the several lords, for that moiety divided into parts with the great manor, and went from the Cromwells to the Titz-Williams, and from them to the Knevetts; it laid in Bukenham, Attleburgh, Besthorp, and Wymoutham, and was held by part of the botelry; in 1353, Robert Drury settled part of the moiety on Tho. Knevet; the other moiety came wholly to the Knevetts at the dissolution, along with Bukenham priory, and from them to the Lovells; for in 1566, Thomas, son and heir of Tho. Lovell, Knt. held the Close manor, and all that pasture for 160 sheep called the Lathes, &c. of the Queen. In 1578, Tho. Lovell was lord; but by 1612 it belonged again to the Knevetts, for then Philip Knevet, Bart. delivered seizin of the site of it to Gabriel Pope, doctor of physick, and Tho. Talbot, Gent. at which time, I suppose, the rents and services of the manor were either joined to the other manors, or all manumised; how the site<sup>2</sup> passed afterwards I cannot say, but am informed that it now [1737] belongs to the Windhams.

The LAYS, LEES, LATHES, or GRANGE MANOR,

Had its rise out of the great manor, at the same time with the Close manor; and in 1383, the Prior had a moiety of it along with that manor; in 1400, the other moiety was divided; it had a leet belonging to it, and a fair to be kept on St. Martin's Day, at New-Bukenham, the mere called Scnere, or Old-Bukenham mere, belonged to it; the site and demcans called the Lathes, or Lays, contained 140 acres of pasture, 350 acres of wood, &c. and was held of the Queen in 1564, by Thomas, son and heir of Sir Tho. Lovell, Knt.; but the whole manor was united to the rest by the Knevetts, Sir Tho. Knevet, being lord of the united manors of Lathes, the Close, the Priory, and burgage of New-Bukenham, in 1594.

THE PRIORY MANOR

Was part of the great manor given to the priory at its foundation, and continued in it to its dissolution,* when it passed with that house to Sir Tho. Knevet of Bukenham, in whose family it continued till Sir Philip Knevet sold it to John Eldred of London, Esq. and John London, Gent.; and after many conveyances, it was settled on the minister of New-Bukenham for the time being, who is always lord of it.

THE CASTLE was first situated by the abbey, on the east part; the site of it contains about 3 acres; it is a large entrenchment, surrounded with a deep mote, the hills being still entire; (see the plate) on the north side is an old arch, which served for a sewer when it was standing; this was in some decay, when Will. de Albany pulled it down, and built the priory with its ruins, (which is the reason that there are none remaining,) and gave the site of it to that house,<sup>5</sup> as his foundation deed declares, and then removed to a far better situation, in St. Andrew's parish, the eastern part of which belonged to the Bishop of Norwich, and was part of his manor of Eccles, kept in his own hands to serve his palace there; notwithstanding which, the Earl procured the land which was part of the Hagh, of Will. Turbus Bishop of Norwich, (who greatly favoured his foundation,) to be held as freely as the old castle was before the priory's foundation: the tithes only excepted; and on this part he built the castle, and founded his burgh called New-Bukenham, close by it, having obtained license so to do. It is pleasantly situate upon a hill, fortified with a deep mote, which remains entire, and full of water; the building itself is quite demolished, and ploughed over, except part of the gatehouse, and a dungeon or keep, which all those places had; (see the Prospect in the plate;) it is 63 yards round, and the walls about 10 feet thick; and though it is not higher now than the entrenchment, I suppose it was formerly, the upper part of those keeps generally being watch-towers; it is divided in the midst by a cross wall. The Knechts dwelt in this castle till it was demolished by Sir Philip, who sold it.

THE PRIORY, now called the ABBEY, was founded by William de Albany, Earl of Chichester, surnamed the Strong, who died in 1156, and by him dedicated to the honour of God, St. Mary, St. James the Apostle, and all the Saints, in which he placed black canons of the order of St. Augustine, who were governed by a prior elected by the major part of them, and confirmed by the Bishop of Norwich, after which he was installed; they were daily to pray for the soul of their founder, and of Queen Adeliza, or Alice, his wife, for the souls of Stephen King of England, and Maud his Queen, and their progeny, and for the souls of all his ancestors, successors, parents, friends, and benefactors; they were governed by statutes, allowed by William Turbus Bishop of Norwich, by whose advice it was founded, but they were in all things to follow the institution or rules of the church of St. Mary at Mertune; he endowed it with the rectories of the churches of All-Saints, and St. Andrews, belonging to his manor of Bukenham, which were immediately appropriated to it, and they took their whole revenues, the canons serving them; and also the site of the castle, which was to be pulled down, and 20 acres of land, and the wood called Little Hage, and Midcrofts, with the adjoining meadow, and New Croft before the castle-gate, (on which the abbey was built,) and Alured the Smith, with the land that he held, and 5 acres which was Spar-hauc's.<sup>6</sup> The witnesses to his foundation were, Hugh Bigot, Ralf de Bucham, or Bukenham, Hubert and Warin Moutchensi, Rob.

The said Richard, son of Robert de Seungles, gave them 90 acres of land, held of Miles, son of Alan, and Miles his son, and the service of Walter de Lincroft and his tenement in Lincroft aforesaid, and the tenement which the said Richard held of the Prior and Convent of Norwich in Riveshale, and 10 acres of land which he held of Henry Parker, and 1 acre held of *Will. Robert, son of Robert de Tateshale, gave them the advowson of Gummeby, and a piece of land called Munkwelle, for a pittance, as is before observed; Robert de Tateshale, the third of that name, gave a fold-course for 200 sheep in Attleburgh, and 53 acres and an half of arable land in Bukenham; Sir John de Verdon, Knt. granted them divers lands, tenements, rents, and services in Brisingham, which was afterwards the Priory manor there.<sup>1</sup> Benedict de Brehull gave them the homage and service of Roger Le-Leche and his heirs, besides other gifts. Tho. de Sancto Egidio (or Giles) gave them his messuage in the parish of St. Benedict in (Norwich) Westwic, with the advowson of that church, with all rents belonging to his messuage. Peter, son of Sir Ralf de Cley, Knt. gave 51 acres and an half in Cley Field, with divers villeins, yearly rents, and services, with liberty of faldage, common of pasture, and fuel in all his liberty. Roger de Montealt, Steward of Chester, released to them all his claim in the advowson of Kenninghall,<sup>2</sup> and granted them common of pasture in Southache in Kenninghall, and the amerciements of all their tenants in Kenninghall, who were punished in his leet there, to be received from his steward, who was to receive them of the offenders, all which grants were confirmed by the King. In 1377, *Will. In 1428,<sup>4</sup> the Prior's temporals in Old-Bukenham were taxed at 22*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.* ob. In 1476, the Bishop certified the Barons of the Exchequer, that the Prior of Bukenham held impropriated to that house, the churches of St. Benedict in Norwich, of Gryston in Beeches deanery, of Bukenham All-Saints, St. Andrew's, and St. Martin's, St. Peter of Cley, and West Bradenham, in Cranwisse deanery, and Barwick in Hicham deanery, and that they have been so held ever since 1177, and before, even from its foundation, and that the Prior always pays all taxes granted by the clergy to the King for those churches, there being no vicars endowed upon any of them.<sup>5</sup> went with the Priory manor in that family, and is now owned by Mr. Holbeck. There are very few ruins remaining; the walls of the church are quite down, but the foundations may be easily traced; it was in the conventual form, with the tower in the midst, and had a nave, two isles, two transepts, a choir, and north vestry; the monastery stood on the north side of it, and was a good square court. On the wood work of an old gate I saw the arms of Albany carved, which looked very old. I have seen a piece of silver, which was found in digging in the ruins of the church anno 1723, which has a shield of arms, on which, a fess between two chevrons. A canton erm. impales quarterly a bend; this looks as if it had been buried with its owner. See the plate for the seal, arms, &c. of the priory.

1481, Brother John Chambyr was added, and they continued till 1493, and then brother John Foremale, a novice, was admitted among them, so that the monastery, when full, consisted of a Prior, an Auditor, who was not a religious, but one appointed by the lord to audit their annual accounts, and ten Canons, who yearly received for their stipends 40s. apiece, besides their maintenance and clothing; out of these, a Sub-Prior, Sacrist, and Celerer, were yearly chosen. The temporal officers of the house were, the Steward of their Courts, a Heyward, Woodward, and Janitor, constantly attending at the monastery gates. In this year John Boun was their auditor; they yearly received, for the total income of the monastery, about 110*l.* and disbursed about 100*l.*

The CHAPEL OF ST. MARY THE VIRGIN, in Old-Bukenham,<sup>3</sup> was founded soon after the castle, by the lords of it, and was supplied by

<sup>3</sup> The allowance of this chapel was always paid by the prior, who always remained here of that house, and other monks and brethren; and it was always repaired upon it in their turn, for several years, 1484. For this there was a casket of alabaster

a custos and two or three chaplains, his brethren, who had their dwelling at the west end of it, and constantly served there; it was the only place of worship that the burgh of New-Bukenham had, till the present church was founded, which was some time after the chapel: at the Dissolution it came to the lord's hands; and not long afterwards was converted into a barn, as it now remains. It stands on the south side of the castle, close by the road, as you enter into New-Bukenham.<sup>3</sup>

The PARISH CHURCH OF ST. ANDREW, in Old-Bukenham, was a rectory belonging to the manor, till the foundation of the priory, to which it was given by the founder, and then appropriated to it, without any vicar endowed, the monks serving it themselves to the Dissolution, when it was granted to Sir Tho. Knevet along with the priory,<sup>4</sup> and soon after was desecrated, and converted into a barn; it is just by Mr. Harvey's seat, which is called St. Andrew's. It was taxed at 20s. and paid 2s. every tenth.

The CHURCH OF ALL-SAINTS in Old Bukenham, is the present parish church; this was also a rectory appendant to the manor, and given by the founder to the priory, to which it was then appropriated, but no vicar endowed; it was served by the monks, who found a stipendiary curate there till the Dissolution, when it was granted with the priory to Sir Tho. Knevet, who received all the profits, and found a curate to serve the parish;<sup>5</sup> and thus it continued in that family till 1611, when it was mortgaged, with the King's license, along with Knevet's manor in Tibenham, to Sir Tho. Herne, Knt.; after this it was mortgaged backward and forward several times, till at last Sir Philip Knevet sold every one (that would purchase them) the tithes of their own lands, and the rest the parish purchased, together with the chancel and churchyard, and vested them in Robert Wright and John Allen, and their heirs, who reconveyed to Sir Philip all manner of tithes, oblations, &c. which might be due to the said rectory from any of his own land, and all those tithes which they sold, as trustees to Sir Philip, to Robert Jollie, Jacob Preston, and the rest of the parishioners, that had purchased their parts, after which they settled the chancel and churchyard of Old-Bukenham All-Saints, with all the great and small tithes, oblations, obventions, offerings, &c.<sup>6</sup> together with all other temporals whatever belonging thereto, on a great number of feoffees, who were to hold all the rectories of All-Saints and St. Andrew's, (except the churchyard, parsonage-house, and glebe lands of St. Andrew's, and all those tithes which placed in this chapel, of the gift of Julian Manyng, besides a gift of 4s. in money; and Tho. Beverle gave also 3s. 4d. the produce of all its oblations, lands, &c. this year, were 8l. 6s. 8d. In 1485, Brother John Lichefeld, custos of this chapel, received 6s. 8d. as his stipend for it, from the prior. In 1493, Sir Richard Bukenham, a canon, was custos.

<sup>3</sup> It being so near, it is sometimes called St. Mary's chapel in New-Bukenham.

<sup>5</sup> In 1603, Richard Montague, curate here, returned answer, that it was an impropriation, not endowed with a vicarage; that Sir Tho. Lovell was proprietor, and the number of communicants were 240.

The prior was taxed at 13 marks for the rectory, and paid 17*s*. 4*d*. for it to every tenth. Mr. Last, rector of Wilby, was curate here, and the Rev. Mr. Robert Stone is the present [1737] minister.

Here were three Gilds, dedicated to St. Margaret, St. Thomas the Martyr, and St. Peter. In 1373, Agnes Faucus of Old-Bukenham, buried in All-Saints churchyard, gave a heifer for her mortuary, and to Sir Roger, chaplain of the church, 6*d*.

The church and chancel are thatched; the steeple is octangular; there are five bells; the north isle is leaded.

The CUSTOMS of the manors are, that the fine is at the lord's will, and the eldest son is heir.

This town is situated round a pleasant green, the church standing on the east side of it; the site of the abbey being north east, and that of St. Andrew's south east. There is a fair kept on it every 29th of May.<sup>3</sup> It is a town of large bounds, for it paid to the tenths 5*l.* 13*s.* and is now [1737] assessed at 1996*l.* to the land-tax, and hath 105 dwelling-houses, and about 550 inhabitants.

<sup>3</sup> There is no authority for the fair, but custom only. There is a house and ground in the town settled on the school-master, worth 6*l.* per annum, for which he is obliged to teach four poor children of this parish, without any payment for so doing.

NEW - BUKENHAM.

THIS town had its rise out of Old-Bukenham, as is before observed, when Will. de Albany founded the castle, and procured the land of the Bishop of Norwich<sup>4</sup> to build it on, and to make his burgh, which then took the name of New-Bukenham, to distinguish it from Old-Bukenham, which then had that addition for the same reason. He or his successours* very early got it to be a burgh, with the following privileges, which were allowed in 1285, viz. view of frankpledge, assize of bread and ale, a galloves, and a market every Saturday, with the market-court,<sup>5</sup> or burgage, then worth 5s. per annum, and kept before the capital steward every Saturday, who was judge of all weights and measures, and every thing belonging to the market, and of all debts contracted or acknowledged in the market or precinct of the burgh, and of all such debts under that sum, in which any resident in the burgh was concerned, and had power to fine and levy, as amply as the sheriff in the hundred court; and also a fair in the said burgh every St. Martin's day, with a court thereto belonging, called the Warpound court,<sup>6</sup> the rents being due and payable that morning;

* It was part of the Bishop's Hagh. Exsartum Dni. Norwicensis Episcopi in Bukenham.

• The following note is taken from the Addenda, vol. i. p. 372, of the folio edition:

I must now add the certainty of it, having since seen the charter of privileges, which was granted them by William de Albany, the founder of the castle and burgh, and confirmed by his son, and grandson, the substance of which in English is, that he granted to his burgesses of Bukenham, all those liberties, free customs and lands in the burgh, to be held of him and his heirs, as freely, peaceably, and honourably, as they were held in the time of William his father, according to the first grant of Earl William his grandfather, namely, by the payment of one halfpenny per annum, for every messuage, in lieu of all other services; and he also granted them common of pasture for all their messuages in Bukenham, with liberty to sell all their lands and houses in the burgh, to whoever they would, whether heirs, parents, or strangers, on condition they do not remove their houses out of the liberty of the burgh, nor do not suffer them to waste, decay, or stand empty by their negligence; and also he granted the said burgesses liberty to hold pleas among themselves, and finish and determine all causes of debt and other things, happening within the burgh; to which Godfrid de Albany, the Earl's brother, Reiner his uncle, and others, were witnesses. And this charter was often confirmed by the lords of the castle, even to 1493, for then Sir Will. Knevet, Knt. one of the heirs of the most illustrious William de Albany Earl of Sussex, confirmed the said grants, and also infeoffed Rob. Fawkon, then principal burgess, (or high bailiff) in a messuage and curtilage, abutting on the west side of St. Martin's church in the said burgh, and on the burgh ditch on the east, which messuage the Prior and Convent of St. James's in Old-Bukenham had wasted, and the lord had seized it, but favouring that house, had voluntarily given other lands instead of it. It was dated at Bukenham castle, Peter Shawe, the lord's capital bailiff, and others, being witnesses. The original at this time being in the church-chest.

<sup>6</sup> This was appendant to Shrop-ham hundred, and now belongs to it; in 1665, Robert Wilton, Esq. then lord, held his court called the Warpound-court, at New-Bukenham, upon St. Martin's day, the rents being due in the morning of St. Martyn the Bishop, which are an halfpenny and no more for each rent, for divers freehold tenements, lying all over the hundred, the total of which amount to but *3*l.* 6*s.

and also liberty of free-warren in the demesns and manors of Bukenham castle, in the Bukenhams, Besthorp, and Attleburgh,<sup>7</sup> and also a prison for all offenders in the burgh, in the toll-house there.<sup>8</sup> The whole of this town belonged to the castle, and passed as that did, till Shropham hundred was sold from it, and after forfeited to the Crown, and the Warpound court with it, and then that was in the Lovell's, and the Mercate court or burgage in the Knevets's. In 1572, Tho. Lovell, Esq. had one manor, and Tho. Knevets, Esq. the other; the Warpound court went with the hundred, and still remains with it; the market court, or burgage, was sold by the Knevets's. It after belonged to Eldred, and Ferdon, and after that was settled on feoffees, for the use of the curate, and by virtue thereof the high bailiff receives the profits.

Here were many lands, rents, and tenements, which belonged to the priory, all which were seized by the Crown, and granted to divers persons, as the Lovells, Knevets, &c. In 1609, John Eldred, Esq. and John Ferdon, Gent. had a grant of the outsoken<sup>9</sup> manor of the priory, now called

THE PRIORY MANOR,

(the Knevets reserving to themselves the insoken of that manor, or all that part of it, which is now called the Priory manor, and goes with the great manor, and lies in Old-Bukenham, which is the reason that there are two manors called the Priory at this time,) together with the market court, or burgage, all which the Knevets were licensed to sell.

The temporal possessions of the Prior in New-Bukenham, in 1428, were taxed at 3*l*s. and 3*d*. In 1603, there were 220 communicants, and now [1737] there are about 400 inhabitants. It paid clear to every tenth 4*l*. 3*s*. and is now assessed at 55*l*. 13*s*. 4*d*. to the land tax: it is a compact burgh, of small bounds, having a Saturday

<sup>8</sup> Placita Corone, Coram, &c. 1285, Robert Ganel, of Bukenham, and Richard, son of Will. de Bukenham, fought in New-Bukenham, and Robert gave Richard a blow with a staff on the head, so that he died the third day after, upon which he was seized and carried to the court of Robert de Tateshall, at Bukenham castle, who did not commit him to custody in the castle, but had him delivered to Nigell, son of William de Bukenheim, his chief steward (or high bailiff, as they are now called) who imprisoned him in the toll-house there. The chief steward was elected by the lord of the castle for a long time, till some of them gave liberty to the inhabitants, yearly to elect their high bailiff, which they still do to this day.

the manor of Cratefield, late the Earl of Sussex's, called Cratefield Manor, now in the tenure of Simon Smith, 3*l*. 1*s*. 7*d*. ob.; from Keymerston a free rent of 1*l*s. for those lands in the tenure of Ant. Thwaites; for the rents and tithes of the lands in Attleburgh, 6*s*. 6*d*.; from a tenement and void piece of ground belonging to Will. Watts, Esq. 13*s*. 4*d*.; from Toppe's land in Bukenham, 13*s*. 4*d*.; from lands in Burston, Tibtenham, and Gissing, 33*s*. 6*d*. ob.; from the manor of Snetesham, and the site of the manor called Hawkins there, 11*l*. 12*s*. 8*d*.; from the manor of Walpole in Norfolk, 43*l*. 5*s*. 11*d*. 1*q*.; (I suppose the rent of Snetesham and Walpole were sold off before it was settled on the inhabitants;) together with the profits of the market-court or burgage of New-Bukenham, valued at 5*s*. per annum, and these were feoffees of this Priory manor (outsoken) viz. *Tho. market, (which of late years is much decayed,) and an annual fair on St. Martin's day, according to the grants before mentioned; at first it had but few inhabitants to what it hath at present, as is evident from the chapel of St. Mary, which was then their only place for service, and no large one, but as it increased Sir Robert de Tateshale, lord of the castle, who died in 1248, founded

A Church dedicated to St. Martin, on the north side of the burgh, where it now stands, and gave it to the priory, the sacrist of which was, to the Dissolution, the parish priest; he had a certain salary allowed him by the inhabitants,<sup>1</sup> for which the prior was taxed at 20s. and other houses or lands given to him as sacrist, or serving chaplain, for which he was taxed at 13s.; and after this was founded, the chapel of St. Mary continued to be served as formerly, by a custos and brethren, at the prior's appointment, who dwelt in their apartment at its west end. The present church was built at divers times, the nave and chancel being the only (if any) remaining parts of the first building; the north isle was built about 1479, by the contribution of several great men, some of whose arms still remain in the windows, and of such other persons as pleased to be benefactors; for in that year John Coke ordered to be buried in the new isle of St. Martin's church in New-Bukenham, and gave 5 marks towards leading it;<sup>2</sup> he was a good benefactor to the gilds of St. Mary and St. Martin, which were kept in the church.<sup>3</sup> The south isle, porch, and tower, were begun soon after, by that Sir John Knevet who married Clifton's heiress, and finished by his grandson, Sir William Knevet, as the arms in the windows and on the tower plainly demonstrate. This church is a donative, the minister being chosen by the majority of the votes of all the residents in the parish, that pay to the minister's rate, and after such choice so made, and entered by the church-wardens in the Town-book, he is to have a nomination under their hands to the Bishop, in order for a license, which being obtained, unless that be recalled, it is a cure for life.

In 1603, Mr. Francis Bradley was curate, whose answer was, that he served it as an impropriate cure, without any stipend from the impropriator; that it was in Rockland deanery, and Norfolk arch-deaconry, and that the set stipend from the inhabitants was 15*l.* per annum, besides all gifts; that Mr. Knevet was proprietor, who afterwards sold it to be settled on the parishioners. There is a convenient house, garden, and outhouses, for the minister's dwelling,<sup>4</sup> who hath an estate in Suffolk, and part of the George inn in New-Bukenham, the Priory manor, and the rate of 3*d.* in the pound, &c. settled for his maintenance. Mr. Coleman was predecessor to Mr. Robert Stone, the present [1737] minister, who hath Old-Bukenham, and is rector of Brandon-Parva and Hackford in this diocese.<sup>5</sup>

of St. Nicholas, and was a benefactor to the gilds in this and several neighbouring churches.

The nave is leaded, having a neat square tower, with a clock and five bells in it, joined to its west end, on which the following arms are carved in freestone over the west door, viz.

Mary, Wife of Mr. John Crow, who died March 30, 1729, aged 39, and Mary Barrs her Mother, who died Apr. 3, 1729, aged 60. Hannah Crow died May 7, 1729.

This chapel belonged to St. Mary's gild, and was made when the isle was built, as the arms of Cromwell, Tateshale, Mortimer, &c. plainly shew us, they being in the windows of the isle as benefactors, together with,

And on the screens are these two letters, T. P. and a rebus or device of a pilgrim's staff, having a hat hung on its top, and a pilgrim's bag lying by it, which, I suppose, intimates the man's name to be James Palmer, a palmer or pilgrim signifying the same, and James rather than John, because so many palmers, or pilgrims, daily visited St. James at Compostella, who was the patron of the adjacent priory.

There are also shields of various arms, viz.

A fess between three roundels, for COURTENEY.

The chancel is tiled; on the north side is an inarched monument, in which is an altar tomb; the arms, inscription, and effigies of a woman, with a label from her mouth, are all lost. This is the tomb of Sir Thomas Knevet of Bukenham castle,<sup>6</sup> and Katharine his wife, daughter to the Earl of Derby.

On a flat stone is this, on a brass plate,

Hic iacet Alicia,<sup>7</sup> quondam Aror Will: Knyvet, Armigeri, que erat, Filia Johannis Grey, filius Domini Reginaldi Grey, Domini de Rithyn, que obit quarto die Mensis Aprilis A. Dni. MCCCxxviii<sup>8</sup>

There are many old stones without inscriptions, under which divers of the family of the Knevets lie buried; an ancient house, saith Camden,<sup>9</sup> ever since Sir John Knevet was Lord Chancellor of England, under King Edward III. and also honourably allied by great marriages.

For over and besides these of Bukenham, now baronets, from hence sprung those right worshipful knights, Sir Tho. Knevet, Lord Knevet, Sir Henry Knevet of Wiltshire, and Sir Thomas Knevet of Ashwellthorp, and others.

ECCLES

Is bounded on the east by Wilby, on the west by Lerling and Suiterton, on the north by Harpham, and on the south by Quidenham; it hath one manor only, to which the advowson of the rectory now is, and always was, appendant. It is often called in French deeds, about the time of Edward III. L'Eglise, or the Church, which hath induced me sometimes to think, that it took that name by way of eminence, it being the Bishop's own church, and a place where most of them, to the time of Henry VIII. often resided in their palace here,<sup>5</sup> as appears from the great number of persons that were instituted at this place, and from the additional name of Eccles Episcopi, or Bishop's Eccles, by which it was always distinguished from Eccles by the Sea.

The manor was very extensive, including all this town, great part of St. Andrew's parish in Bukenham,<sup>6</sup> or all New-Bukenham, and the Hagh in Old-Bukenham, besides lands in most of the adjacent parishes.<sup>7</sup> It was held by Ralf Earl of Norfolk, in the Confessor's time, and after, by Earl Ralf his son; they jointly gave it to Egelmar, or Ailmar, Bishop of Elmham, just before the Conquest,<sup>8</sup> who held it of them, as did Bishop Arfast, or Herefast, who removed his see to Thetford; he was succeeded by William Galsagus,<sup>9</sup> Bishop of Thetford, who held it at the time of the Conqueror's survey, not as belonging to the original revenues of his bishoprick, but as part of those revenues that his predecessors had been infeoffed in by other pious benefactors, as I take the title De Feudo in Domesday to signify, and not of his own fee or inheritance, as some interpret it; it had then 2 carucates in demean, wood<sup>1</sup> able to maintain 100 hogs, pasture for 180 sheep, it was fallen from 5*l.* value to 3*l.* and was two miles long, and one broad, and paid 7*d.* geld. In the record called Testa de Nevil, it appears it belonged to the Bishop, but they could not tell whether it was part of his barony, or whether he held it in free alms.<sup>2</sup> In the year 1200, King John, by his charter under seal, dated at Gaytinton, 28 Nov. in the second year of his reign, confirmed to John Grey, Chief Justice of England, and Bishop of Norwich,<sup>3</sup> his great favourite, and to the church of the Holy Trinity at Norwich, and to the succeeding bishops and monks serving God there, all their lands, villages, churches, possessions, rents, tenements, liberties, and ancient customs, whatsoever, which they had confirmed and given them in the time of King Henry<sup>4</sup> his grandfather, King Henry his father, and King Richard his brother; and also all the charters, deeds, grants, and gifts of all his ancestors. And furthermore, at the request of the said Bishop, by this charter he granted them throughout all their lands, sac and soc, toll, theam, infengenthes, &c.<sup>5</sup> with the liberty of not serving at hundred courts, sheriffs turns, or any other courts out of their manors, and that they and the Bishop Nix‡ unfortunately falling under a premunire, for which he was by law to suffer perpetual imprisonment and loss of all his goods, was forced to purchase his peace of King Henry VIII. by exchanging the large estates (viz. 30 good manors and more) belonging to his bishoprick, for the abbey and revenues of St. Bennet of the Hulme;‡ and that this agreement might remain firm for ever, the King procured that it should be settled by Act of Parliament,‡ that the Bishop of Norwich should be always Abbot of St. Bennet of Hulme, and on the contrary, the Abbot of Hulme Bishop of Norwich; by which exchange this manor came to the Crown, and there continued till Nov. 12, 1559, when Queen Elizabeth granted the manor, advowson, sheep's walk, and all other privileges thereto belonging, to Sir Nicholas Bacon, Knt. Lord-Keeper of the Great Seal, and to his heirs, to be held by him and them, in as full and ample a manner, as any of the ancient bishops held it, when it belonged to that see. He conveyed it to Sir Nathaniel Bacon, Knight of the Bath, of

<sup>7</sup> The whole tithes of New-Bukenham, and of the lands called the Bishop's Hagh, or Hawe, in Old-Bukenham, are now paid to the rector of Eccles yearly.

Stiveky, or Stukey, in Norfolk, his youngest son, who kept court here, from about 1572 to 1595;<sup>5</sup> he settled a moiety of it on Elizabeth, his second daughter and coheir, upon her marrying Sir Tho. Knevet, junior, Knt. son of Sir Tho. Knevet of Ashwellthorp, Knt.; and in 1631, this moiety was settled by Dame Elizabeth Knevet aforesaid, on Muriell, wife of Sir Charles Le-Grosse, Knt. of Croswayt, and her heirs, Sir Roger Townshend, Sir Robert Gawdy, and others, being then concerned as coheirs of the estate of Sir Nathaniel Bacon, who had settled the other moiety on Sir Owen Smith in remainder, after the death of Dorothy, his second wife, eldest daughter of Sir Arthur Hopton, Knight of the Bath, at the coronation of King James, son of Sir Owen Hopton, Knt. which Dorothy was relict of William Smith of Burgh castle in Suffolk; and thus it continued in moieties for some time.

In 1622, Dame Dorothy Bacon, widow of Sir Nathaniel Bacon, kept court here; in 1629, Charles Le-Grosse, and Thomas Smith held a court. In 1638, Sir Thomas Hopton, Knt. and Arthur Hopton, Esq. held their first court for one moiety, and the year following Sir Ralf Hopton, Knt. held his first court for the same moiety. In 1640, Alice Smith, widow, and Sir Charles Le-Grosse, Knt. held their first court for the other moiety. In 1642, Sir Charles Le-Gros, Knt. and Fitz-Nunn Lambe, Esq. held their first court, the Hoptons having sold their moiety (as I suppose) to the Lambs, who after became possessed of the whole, in whose family it continued till about 1712, and then Mr. Edmund Lamb sold it to Mr. William Green of Stafford, whose son, William Green, Esq. became lord, but is lately dead, and Mrs. Mary Green of Eccles, his widow, is now [1737] lady.

The CUSTOMS of this manor are, that the fine is at the lord's will, the tenants cannot waste their copyhold without license; the eldest son is heir; there is no leet fee or common fine, and it gives no dower.

The COMMONS belonging to this town are these, the Wroo, Rosse Hill, the Great Fen, the Little Fen, South Moore, North Moor, West Ling, or the farther Heath, containing in all about 180 acres, on all which the lord hath no right of commonage, but it solely belongs to the tenants, who can common horses, cows, and all other cattle, and cut and carry away furze at all times from Rouse Hill, and the further Heath, and flags and turf from the fens,<sup>6</sup>

There is a hamlet called Ovcrey, which had a church formerly, for I meet with one Bartholomew, rector of Ovcrey; but it never had any institution, which makes me think it always belonged to Eccles, and was served by that rector, because in the beginning of Henry VIII. Ovcrey is said to belong to Eccles, as it now doth.

The CHURCH is dedicated to St. Mary. It hath a round tower and three bells; the nave is leaded, the chancel and north porch tiled; the south isle (which hath a roof distinct from the nave) is thatched. It is a rectory in Norfolk archdeaconry and Rockland deanery, valued in the King's Books at 14*l.* per annum, and pays 1*l.* 8*s.* per annum tenths. It is altogether exempt from archidiaconal jurisdiction, and so pays no procurations, and it being the Bishop's own seat, he always excused the rector from payment of synodals, so that there are none paid, except at the general visitations. It is a small village, having much decreased for some time, by the lord's purchasing many of the cottages and small tenements. In 1603, it had 108 communicants, and now [1737] it hath about 150 inhabitants; it paid 30*s.* a year to the tenths, and is now assessed at 338*l.* 10*s.* to the land tax. There is a rectory-house, which was built (according to report) by Bishop Nix, whose arms, with the arms of the see, were in the windows, but were lost when the house was burnt down a few years since, in Mr. Birch's time, who rebuilt it; there is a convenient quantity of glebe belonging to it.

<sup>5</sup> E Lib. Curiae: there are many alienations, fines, &c. which vested the manor in several other persons, but they were trustees only.

In Bishop Nix's time, anno 1510, one Thomas, a priest of Norwich, was burned at Eccles: when he was in prison, he was by persuasion led away from his former opinions, wherefore, when he went to be burned, he would for penance be carried on sharp hurdles made of thorns.<sup>7</sup>

This Bishop was certainly a greater bigot to Popery than could well consist with his learning and station, for when he was very old, he obstinately opposed the reformation then begun, and held secret correspondence with the court of Rome, though he had with a solemn oath openly renounced the Pope's supremacy. But at last being accused and convicted, he was imprisoned a long time in the Marshalsea, so that his own sufferings may in some measure clear him of his vices, and argue his sincerity in his religion, though erroneous.<sup>8</sup>

The south isle of the church seems a later building than the nave, and was formerly appropriated to the Bishop's palace, but now belongs to the parish; the altar in it, in all probability, was dedicated to St. Nicholas the Bishop, his effigies being formerly painted on the walls. In the north chancel window was a picture of St. German, another of St. Anthony, and another of St. Bennet, and this under them,

H A R P H A M.

THIS town never had but one manor, of which Ulf, a freeman, was lord in the time of the Confessor, when it was valued at 20s.; at the Conquest it was given to R. de Bellofago (or Beaupo) who gave it to Caurincus, who held it of him at the survey, when it had 3 carucates of land in demean, worth 30s. and was a mile long, and a mile broad, and paid 6*d.* ob. 1*q.* Danegeld.<sup>9</sup> The descendants of this Caurincus assumed to themselves the surname of Herkeham, Harcham, Hargham, or Harpham, for their name, as well as that of the town, was oftentimes spelled different, according to the age it was wrote in. This family soon became very numerous, for in Henry the First's time there were three several branches of it in good repute; but I shall only take notice of the eldest family, which all along held the manor; and the oldest that I meet with is William de Herkeham,<sup>1</sup> whose son, Tho de Harcham, succeeded him; Henry de Harcham, his son, sealed with a lion saliant, as did Thomas de Harcham,<sup>2</sup> his son, whose son, William de Harcham, was lord in 1249, and conveyed the manors and advowsons of Swanton and Harugham to Thomas his son for life, in 1279; and afterwards the said William granted it to Sir Warine,<sup>2</sup> son of Thomas de Hereford, or Herforth of Swanthon, and his heirs, Sir John de Eschalers, Knt. and others being witnesses; and immediately after, the said Warine gave this and Swanton manors and advowsons to Henry de Herford, his brother, for life, on condition that he should perform all the services due to the lords of the fees, during the time he enjoyed them, and in particular the castle-ward due for the fee of Hockering. This deed is dated at Gressenhall, on the kalends of October, 1279. This Henry, before 1313, conveyed the advowson to John de Herford, of Swanton-Marshall, (now called Swanton-Morley.) his brother, who presented Adam de Herford, another brother, after which it was reconveyed to him again, and settled on Mabell his mother, then wife of Tho. de Lavenham, for her life, and they presented in 1350. In 1345,<sup>4</sup> 20th Edward III. the said Thomas settled all his manors of Swannington, Budburgham (now Babram) in Cambridgeshire, and Hargham, with the advowson of Hargham, after his mother's death, on Maud de Lancaster Countess of Ulster,<sup>5</sup> Nicholas Gernon, John Casteleyn, her trustees, and John, son of Warinc de Herford, and Mabell his wife, who was brother and heir to Henry, released their right, so that the fee became vested in Maud de Lancaster, relict of Will. de Burgh Earl of Ulster, who obtained leave of King Edward III. at the intercession of Henry Earl of Lancaster, her brother, to found a chantry, of a master and four chaplains, in the chapel of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin, in the priory church belonging to the nuns at Campesse in Suffolk, to the laud and honour of God, and the Holy Virgin, for the souls of William de Burgh, formerly Earl of Ulster, her first husband, and of Ralph de Ufford, her second husband, who is buried in the said chapel, and of Elizabeth de Burgh and Maud de Ufford, her daughters, and also for her own soul, and those of John de Ufford and Thomas de Hereford, or Herford, Knts. then living, that is, for their welfare when alive, and their souls when dead; and in order to endow it, the King granted license to the prioress and nuns of Campesse,<sup>6</sup> to receive and hold in mortmain the advowsons of the churches of Burgh in Suffolk and Hargham in Norfolk, of the gift of the said Countess, and to assign them to the custos of the said chantry for ever, with license to appropriate them to the custos and chaplains for ever, for their maintenance.<sup>7</sup> But, about 1355, she obtained a confirmation under the broad seal, of certain letters patent, under the seals of William Bishop of Norwich, of the prioress of Campseye, and chaplains of Bruseyrd chantry, in which it was declared, that the religious lady, Maud de Lancaster, then nun of the collegiate church of Campesse, and late Countess of Ulster, having founded the said chaplains, to reside in Ash, and serve in the priory church at Campesse,<sup>8</sup> which was too great a distance, they all agreed to remove the chantry to Bruseyrd, to the manor-house called Rokhalle, where the chaplains did, and do now, dwell; and whereas it was certified by Lionel Duke of Clarence and Earl of Ulster, that the chaplains went in secular habits, neglected their office, and wasted the revenues of the chantry, they all gave him leave to appropriate all the revenues of the chantry to sustain an abbess, and other religious women, of the order of St. Clare, in Rokhall, in Bruseyrd aforesaid, and to erect an abbey, and endow it with whatever belonged to the chantry; upon which the abbey was erected, and this advowson transferred to the abbess, who presented to the Dis-solution. And in 1376, the King licensed Sir William de Wichingham, Knt. Sir Nicholas Gernon, Knt. and Roger Wolferston, to give the manor of Hargham, which was then held of the Lord William Morley, as of his manor of Hockering, at one fee, as parcel of his barony of Rhye, and the capital messuage,

NICHOLAS HARE, and KATHERINE his wife,<sup>1</sup> and their heirs, to be held in capite, at half a knight's fee; and in 1539, Nicholas Hare aforesaid, Esq. had license to sell the whole to John Green, and his heirs, who had a great estate in Wilby, Sutterton, Banham, Attleburgh, Hargham, Old-Bukenham, and Kenninghall, who in 1548, settled it by the King's license, on Tho. Green, his son, who in the same year made a jointure of it to Frances his wife, who held it to her death in 1580, and then it descended equally among their daughters and coheirs; Rose, then married to Paul Gooch, Gent. of Bamham; Prudence, to John Launce; Susan, Elizabeth, and Thomasine being single, and under age, were under the care of the Court of Wards. In 1583, Paul Gooche, and Rose his wife, John Launce of Halesworth, and Prudence his wife, William Brook of Eston in Suffolk, and Susan his wife, Thomas Colby of Banham, Gent. and Elizabeth his wife, and William Hunston of Walsoken in Norfolk, and Thomasine his wife, were possessed each of a fifth part, and Paul Gooch hired the whole. In 1584, Tho. Colby had license to purchase the fifth part of the manor and advowson of William Hunston, and Thomasine his wife, and in the same year had license to sell two fifth parts of the manor and advowson, to Francis Bolton, and John Goldyngham of Banham, and the heirs of Bolton; and in 1586, they all joined, and conveyed the whole absolutely to Paul Gooch and his heirs, who, in 1587, sold the whole to Henry Gurnay, Esq. who sold it to Richard Hovell, junr. Esq. of Hillington, and he to Sir Ralph Hare, Knt. who settled it in 1620 on *Sir Tho. <sup>2</sup> In 1390, Roger de Boys, Knt. and others, aliened a messuage, 30 acres of land, and 42 acres of pasture, lying in Hargham, and a tenement in Harleston, to the Abbess of Brusyerd.

THE CUSTOMS were these; the eldest son was heir; the fines were at the lord's will, and it gave no dower; the leet belonged to the hundred; the leet fee 1s. 4d.; but now there is neither leet nor tenants, the whole being exchanged and manumised, or in the lord's own hands.

This rectory is valued in the King's Books at 4*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* and being sworn of the clear yearly value of 34*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* it is discharged of first fruits and tenths, though it pays yearly 1*s.* 3*d.* synodals, and 3*s.* procurations. It hath a rectory-house, and 30 acres, 2 roods, and an half of glebe.<sup>2</sup>

In the time of Edward I. the rector had a house and 40 acres of land, and the rectory was not taxed, and so paid no first fruits. Domsd. Norwic.

It is a small village, the whole (except one farm) being purchased by the lords, hath reduced it to 6 houses, and about 50 inhabitants, though it had 55 communicants in 1603; it paid 30*s.* a year to the tenths, and is now assessed at 230*l.* to the land tax.

THE CHURCH is dedicated to all the Saints, and it hath a nave, chancel, and south porch tiled, a square tower, and three bells.

At the entrance of the south door, on two small brass plates,

Grate pro anima Augustus Gall, cuius anime propicietur Deus.

There are stones by the north door for,

ROBERT STEWARD, who died Febr. 7, 1674, and BRIDGITT, who died in 1667.

On the bells,

1. Sancta Maria Magdalena ora pro nobis.
2. Ave Maria Gratia plena Dominus tecum.
3. Sancte Edmonde ora pro nobis.

Mortuaries are due in this parish, viz. every one that dies worth 20*l.* pays the rector 3*s.* 4*d.* if worth 30*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* if 40*l.* 10*s.* but it rises no higher, and

SNETTERTON.

SNETRETUNA, SNISTERTUNA, SNISTERTON, or SNETTERTON, as it is now called, is a village lying between Harpham and Lerling, and had in it two parish churches, one dedicated to all the Saints, and the other to St. Andrew the Apostle, which is now down, and the ruins with difficulty found in the Hall-Yard.

The CHURCH of All-Saints, the present parish church, is a good building, having its nave, north isle, north porch, south porch, and chancel leaded, a square steeple, and four bells. In the nave, on a small brass in a seat,

Orate pro Anna Cecilie Bokynham, Filie
 Georgii Bokynham, et Margarete Urcis sue.

Over the rood is a defaced painting of the last day, on the top is our SAVIOUR sitting on the judgment-seat, saying to the blessed on his right hand, Come ye blessed of my father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you; and to the cursed on his left, Depart from me ye cursed into everlasting fire. The windows contain the history of the Revelations, with the Apostles, each having a sentence of the Creed in a label from his mouth.

The east window of the north isle is filled with angels supporting these arms.

MORLEY. Gul. a saltire arg. impaling quarterly, first, arg. a lozenge gul. second arg. a bend az.

Quarterly, arg. and az. a bendlet gobonne sab. and or., impaling arg. a lion rampant or.

Arg. a canton and two fesses gul. impales, Fair, sab. and or.

Other north isle windows have the history of the creation, of CHRIST'S baptism, of St. Christopher, &c. with the legends in labels.

In the chancel, are many disrobed stones of the Bokenhams, on George's stone these arms remain, viz. a lion rampant impaling BOKENHAM, who quarters three roundels 2 and 1, on the first a croset moline.

These two inscriptions are preserved in Mr. Weaver, fol. 817.

1399, 12 April, Tho. Galle of Snetterton, accolite. JULIAN DE BOKENHAM. At his death in 1435, it was consolidated to All-Saints, by Edmund Bokenham, Esq. patron of both, and Tho. Bosvile, rector of both; and being thus joined, about the time of Henry VIII. the church was pulled down. At the time of Norwich Domesday, Hugh de Kywelsle, or Kincsle, was patron, and the rector had a house and 10 acres of land. This advowson was purchased by Sir Hugh de Bokenham, father of Ralph, of Jeffery de Kincsle, son of Hugh de Kynesly.

There were two Gilds in this town, the one called, the Fraternity of the Holy Trinity, and the other of St. John; they had a gild hall which stood on the other side of the road, against the end of the chancel; they were dissolved in the year 1548, and the hall, and 4 acres of land thereto belonging, came to the Crown, and there continued till Queen Elizabeth, by letters patent dated 26 Jan. 1569, granted it to Nicuse Yetswert, Esq. and Barth. Brokesby, Gent. and their heirs, to be held of her manor of East Greenwich, in free socage, by fealty only, and not in capite, without any annual payment whatever; and afterwards it was sold several times before the lord purchased it, and pulled it down.

In 1528, the Prior of Bukenham was taxed at 3s. 10d. ob. for his temporals in this town, which were divers small pieces of land given to their house by the Bokenhams.

It paid to the tenths 3l. 10s. is now [1737] assessed to the King's tax at 420l. and hath about 200 inhabitants.

Snetterton, in the Confessor's time, was two towns; the south part of it, with All-Saint's church, was known by the present name, but the north part, with St. Andrew's church thereto belonging, was then called Esscebi, or Ashby, and continued that distinction at the Conqueror's survey, and some time after.<sup>1</sup> Snetterton part was owned by Ailwin in the Confessor's time, and by Roger Bigot in the Conqueror's, of whom Ralph, brother of Ailwin, then held it, the manor being worth 20s.; the whole of Snetterton and Ashby was two miles long and one broad, and paid 17*d.* 1*q.* Danegeld. Ashby part was held by Earl Ralph in the Confessor's days, and by him forfeited to the Crown, and the Conqueror committed it to Earl Goderic's care, at which time it was of the same value as Snetterton, viz. 20s. a year.<sup>2</sup> These two parts afterwards became four manors, Old Hall, New Hall, Can Hall, and Grimes, the Customs of all which are, that the fines are at the lord's will, and the eldest son is heir; they have no leet belonging to them, but it always did, as it now doth, belong to the lord of the hundred, to whom they pay a leet fee of 2*s.* 8*d.*

THE MANOR OF OLD HALL

Was part of Snetterton at the Conquest; Ailwin was lord of it in the Confessor's time, and Ralph his brother held it at the survey, of Roger Bigot, who infeoffed William de Albany in it, upon his marrying his daughter Maud,<sup>3</sup> of whom Richard de Snetterton, the descendant of Ralph, held it;<sup>4</sup> he was succeeded by Hugh, (first surnamed Rufus, or the Red,) and afterward de Bukenham,<sup>5</sup> and sometimes de Snitterton, his son, whose son William de Snitterton, alias de Bukenham, married one of the daughters and coheireses of Sir Benedict de Augerville, lord of West-Newton,<sup>6</sup> West-Herling, and of Kerhulle in Snetterton, all which came to the said William, and Nicholas de Beaufo, who married the other heiress; his son, Hugh de Bokenham, alias de Snitterton, and Will. de Beaufo, held half a fee here of the Earl of Arundell, in the time of Henry III. He was succeeded by Ralph de Bukenham,<sup>7</sup> his son, who, in 1203, gave 14*l.* by his guardian, Godfrey de Albany, to have his seventh part of the inheritance of Gosceline de Lodnes,<sup>8</sup> in right of his mother Alice, who was

This Ralph gave the tilth of the paillage of his wood in Bukenham, and the advowson of West Newton,<sup>9</sup> to the monks at Wimondham, and Hugh de Beaufo released his right in it. He left Hugh de Bokenham, his eldest son and heir,<sup>1</sup> who married Margaret, daughter of Miles Le-Parker, (Parcarius, or the Park-keeper), brother of William Le-Parker, rector of Eccles by the Sea, who outlived him, and left Hugh de Bokenham, alias Snitterton, his son and heir, who, in the year 1290, assigned to Margaret his mother part of the mansion-houses at Snitterton and Herling, the third turn of Snitterton All-Saints, and the third parts of Snitterton and Herling manors. In 1324, upon his marriage, he settled his manors of Snitterton and West-Herling, with the advowsons of All-Saints, and St. Andrew's, the advowsons of Stuston and Ockle in Suffolk, and lands, homages, &c. in Stuston, Ockle, Hargham, Lerling, Whidenham, and Wilby, on Sir John de Bokenham, parson of Snitterton, his brother, Sir Edmund de Baconsthorp, and Nicholas, son of Sir Gregory de Castello, for the use of Alice his wife for life, and died in 1339, and was buried here; she died before 1365, and the whole then came to Hugh de Bokenham, her eldest son, who married Julian, heiress of Sir John de Thelvetam, with whom he had the manor of Thelvetam, Livermere, &c. in Suffolk, and by will ordered to be buried by the tombs of his ancestors in Snitterton All-Saints, leaving Julian his wife executrix, and Sir John de Thelvetam supervisor, who, jointly with Roger Dawney, parson of All-Saints, Will. de Rougham, and others, trustees of Hugh de Bokenham deceased, settled their manors of Snitterton, Carhall, and Eldehall, with the advowsons, on the said Julian for life. In 1385, she and her trustees settled them on Hugh her son, on his marriage with Joan, daughter of Robert Ashfield, Esq. who died about 1393; and in the year 1399, the trustees covenanted to settle the manors on Hugh, and Joan daughter of Sir John Bruse, and their heirs male, if they should be married on Thursday next before the Purification of our Lady, at Norwich, (as they were,) and not otherwise, reserving Julian's life in them, and that the said Hugh, and John and John, his brothers,<sup>2</sup> should release West-Herling to other uses, to the same trustees.

This Hugh was dead before 1425, for in that year Hugh,<sup>3</sup> son of this Sir Hugh, confirms to Joan, then wife of Oliver Grosse, the manor son, continued the surname of Snitterton, whose son, Sir Tho. de Snyterton, in 1307, impleaded Rob. de Keydon and others, for Denham manor in Suffolk; and Peter de Bokenham was the fifth, whose son Rob. de Bokenham had a manor in Garboldesham. See p. 261.

<sup>2</sup> These two Johns were younger brothers to Hugh, and held Tottington and West-Herling manors for their lives, remainder to the said Hugh.

called Newhall in Snetterton, which he held in right of Joan during her life, who had it settled on her by his father at their marriage; this Joan died before 1433, and Edmund de Bokenham inherited; and in that year settled his manors of Oldhalle, Newhalle, and Kerhalle, and the advowsons of All-Saints and St. Andrew's, &c. to divers uses, probably upon marrying Dionise his wife. He died at Norwich in 1479, without issue, and was buried in the chapel of our Lady in the Fields there, and by will ordered, that his feoffees in Oldhall and Kerhall manors should continue their estates till George, son of John Bokenham, his cousin, was 21 years old, who then was to be his heir, he being son of John Bokenham of Snetterton and Livermere, Esq. by Anne, daughter of John Hopton of Yoxford, Esq. which John was son of Hugh Bokenham of Great Livermere, Esq. by Emme, daughter of Robert Scarke, which Hugh was brother to Edmund the testator, and all along had Newhall manor of his father's gift; he died in 1467, and was buried in St. Peter's church at Great Livermere, and gave his manors of Livermere and Newton to Emma his wife, for life, and the manor of Thelvetham to John his son, &c. who died seized of Thelvetham and Livermere in 1484, and was buried in All-Saints church here, by Anne Hopton his wife; he gave to Trinity and St. John's Gilds in this church, 6s. 8d. each, and to Joan, his second wife, who survived him, all his household goods, leaving the aforesaid George Bokenham,<sup>4</sup> Esq. his son, who became lord of the manors of Oldhall, Newhall, and Kerhalle, as heir to Edmund Bokenham, Esq. his kinsman, and Hugh his grandfather; he first married Christian, daughter of William De-Grey of Merton in Norfolk, Esq. who died in 1492, and lies buried in the middle isle of Merton church; and afterwards to Margaret, daughter and heiress of Francis Heath of Worlington, by Mildenhall in Suffolk, Esq. by whom he had issue, John Bokenham, Esq. his second son, from whom the Thornham family descended, and Tho. Bokenham of Great Livermere, Esq. his eldest son and heir, who had Snetterton, Livermere, &c.; he married Elizabeth, daughter of John Jenour of Great Dunmow in Essex, who had Livermere, Snetterton, &c. for her jointure; she remarried to Richard Codyngton of Ixworth, who is buried in Great Livermere church,<sup>5</sup> and held these manors in her right, during her life. This Thomas Bokenham died Dec. 9, 1535, seized of all these manors, leaving John, his son and heir, then above one year old, and was buried in the Temple church, with this inscription, <sup>4</sup> He died seized of these and *Thelvet-*ham, and Bromhill manors in *Liver-*mere, 21 Sept. 1523, and Tho. his son and heir was then 13 years old.

Codyngton, now Nonesuch in Surrey, and Elizabeth his wife, sometime wife of Thomas Bokenham, of *Great Liver-*mere, Esq. which had issue by the said Thomas Bokenham, John and Dorothy, the said Richard Codyngton died the 27th of May, 1567, and the said *Eliza-*beth the 8th of Sept. 1571.

* This means since the Dissolution, for the Blunds were temporal lords of Ixworth before the foundation of that monastery.

John Bokenham of Snetterton, Esq. the last heir male of this family, was born Aug. 29, 1534; he married Lucy, daughter of Clement Heigham of Barrow in Suffolk, Knt. who, after his death, married again to Francis Stonard, Gent. and died Aug. 1, 1551, leaving the manors of Oldhall, Newhall, and Carrhall in Snetterton, and the advowsons the manors of Thelvetham and Livermere, and the advowsons, &c. to

DOROTHY BOKENHAM, his only sister and heir, then 17 years old, who married Tho. Carryll of Sussex, Esq. son of Sir John Carryll, Knt. Attorney of the Duchy of Lancaster, and died June 7, 1560; Tho. Carryll her husband died Nov. 21, 1563, leaving Sir John Carryll of Warnham in Sussex, Knt. their son and heir, who, in 1577, had livery of Oldhall, Newhall, Carrhall, and Livermere, &c. to him and his heirs; and in the year 1598, 20 Nov.<sup>7</sup> he sold Snitterton to Ralph Hare, Esq. brother and heir of that Nicholas who built Stow manor-house; he settled it on his nephew Ralph, afterwards Sir Ralph Hare, Knt. who kept his first court 10 Jan. 1604, and was father of Sir John Hare of Stow Bardolph, Knt. who, by his will dated 21 Dec. 1635, gave the manors and estate here (after the death of Elizabeth his wife, on whom it was settled for life) to John Hare, his second son, who married Susan, daughter and coheir of John Walpole of Bromsthorp, Gent.<sup>8</sup> and enjoyed it to his death in 1689,<sup>9</sup> and then left it to John Hare, Gent. his son,<sup>1</sup> who was afterwards Richmond Herald, and a very ingenious antiquary: he died about 1720, without issue, and left his estate to Mrs. Anne Hare, his sister, who kept her first court in 1721, and died in 1724, leaving it to Catherine and Susan, daughters of Philip, son of Edmund Bedingfield of Bromsthorp in Norfolk, Gent. by Elizabeth Hare, her only sister; and they, in 1725, conveyed the manors, advowson, and estate, to Mr. Thomas Goddard of Snetterton, the present [1737] lord, who held his first court Febr. 9, 1726.

PARISHES'S, OR GRYMES'S MANOR,

Was made up of several parts; one part was taken out of Kerhall before 1195, when Robert Mortimer released it to John L'Estrange; another part was taken out of Newhall manor in Henry the Third's time, the whole being then held by Hugh Doraunt of Snetterton, by the twentieth part of a fee. In 1345, the heirs of Alan de Morlee and his partners held it of Hugh Bokenham, who held it of Jeffery Kinewesdele, and he of John L'Estrange, and he of the King, and Alan de Morlee formerly held it at 2s. relief; and now the heirs of Hugh Durrant; in 1350, Tho. Doraunt of Snitterton, chaplain, sold it to Richard Paris of Hargham, and Margaret his wife, from whom it took the name of Parishes; in 1401, Will. Parys of Snetterton was lord; it afterwards belonged to the Grimeses, and was sold by them to the Debneys, who sold it to Mr. Robert Smith of Carleton-Rode, who settled it on Tho. Smith, Gent. in 1621, and in 1622, Richard Smith of Thetford died,<sup>2</sup> who held the manor of Grymes, alias Parris, alias Parishes, in Snitterton, Rowdham, Eccles, Illington, Harling, Larling, and Bridgham, of Sir Ralph Hare, Knt. as of his manors of Oldhall, Newhall, and Carhall in Snitterton, John Smith, his son and heir, was 50 years old, whose son Robert succeeded him, and sold the manor to Sir John Hare, who gave it by will to Thomas his youngest son, in tail, who cut off the entail, and sold it to his brother Nicholas Hare of Harpham, Esq. in whose family it still continues, Hugh Hare, son of Thomas Hare of Harpham, Esq. being now [1737] lord.

THE MANOR OF KERHALL

Was included in the Snetterton part at the Conquest, and went with Oldhall manor, till the feoffment of that in Richard de Snetterton, from which time it remained in the Albanys, who, in Henry the First's time, infeoffed the Angerviles, with whose daughters and heiresses it went equally to the Bokenhams, lords of Oldhall, and the Beaufoes,<sup>3</sup> with whose heiress one moiety went to the Berdewelles, and continued in that family till Sir Will. Berdewelle, Knt. conveyed his manor of Snetterton, which Margery, the wife of Sir John de Tudenham, Knt. held for life, to Hugh Bokenham and his heirs, and so it became joined to the manor of Oldhall,<sup>4</sup> with which it hath passed ever since; and the said Hugh conveyed his manor of West-Herling to the said William, in exchange.

NEW HALL, OR ASHBY MANOR,

Belonged to the Crown till it was divided, and one part given to the Bishop of Norwich, who infeoffed it in the Rooses, to hold it of the Bishop at a quarter of a fee, as parcel of his barony; and in 1345, the heirs of Maud Roos held it; the other part, with the advowson of St. Andrew's, belonged to the Bygods, who gave it to the Albanies, who infeoffed Sir John Straunge, Knt. who infeoffed the Kersalls, Kynesdeles, or Kinesles, and Jeffery de Kynewesdele, son of Hugh Kineste, divided it into three or more parts; the advowson and half the manor he sold to Sir Hugh de Bakenham, father of Sir Ralf, who joined it to Oldhall. Another part became part of Paris's manor, and a third part, called Ashby Closes, continued in the family some time, but was after sold by Thomas le Hastelen of Ashby, and Margaret his wife, in 1317, to Robert de Stokes, clerk; this was purchased by the Bokenhams in Henry the Eighth's time, and joined to their manors; and being held of the Bishop, was taken with the other revenues of his barony, and so became held of the Crown; and in 1665, it paid a castle-guard rent of 1s. 9d. a year to the King, that being the old rent that the whole manor used to pay the Bishop, towards the guard of Norwich castle, and was laid on this part at the division of the manor. That part which always went by the name of New Hall belonged to the Rooses, and was purchased by the Bokenhams about 1425, and joined to their other manors.

There was a family sir-named De Ashby, that lived and had a good estate in Ashby in Snetterton, in Edward the Third's time.

The Gowile's had many lands, tenements, villeins, and services, in this town, which belonged to their manor in Lerling.

There was also a part of Pakenham's manor in Shropham, which extended hither; and hath passed with that manor from the Conquest to this present time; it then contained 40 acres, and belonged to Earl Hugh,<sup>5</sup> and now it is owned by the city of Norwich, as that manor is, and is taxed at 9l. per annum.

L E R L I N G,

LURLING, LIRLING, and now LERLING, or LERLINGFORD, is so called from its low situation on the river, upon the ford or biggest passage that any where crosses it; it hath a well-known inn standing by it; and the great post road from London to Norwich passing here, occasions this village to be more known by travellers than such places usually are. At the time of the Confessor's survey, there were two manors; the least was then held by a freeman, and at the Conqueror's time was given to William Earl Warren, who infeoffed Hugh in it, it being then of 30s. value:<sup>6</sup> the capital manor, both at the Confessor's and Conqueror's survey, belonged to Ulketell,<sup>7</sup> and the soke (or leet and superiour jurisdiction) belonged at that time to Bukenham castle, to which this hundred was then appendant; it was always of 40s. value; the town was then a mile long, and a mile broad, and the whole of every one's tenure paid 8d. ob. geld; this was afterwards called

LERLING, OR GONVILE'S MANOR,

And went exactly as the capital manor of Rushworth, (which you may see at p. 284,) from the time of Ulketell, till 1470, and then it was settled on Rushworth college, (as you may see at p. 287,) and from that time it continued in the college to its dissolution, and was after granted, as that was, to the Earl of Surrey, in 1541, and alienated in 1542, by the King's license, together with the advowson, to John Allington of Westley in Cambridgeshire, Esq. second son of Sir Giles Alyngton of Horseth in Cambridgeshire, Knt. by Mary, daughter and heiress of Richard Gardiner, Lord Mayor of London, who settled it on his wife Margaret, and their heirs. In 1563, Robert Allington, his son and heir, was in possession, who, in 1570, sold it to Tho. Lovell, Gent.<sup>s</sup> and his heirs, at which time it extended into Rowdham, Shropham, and Illington, and was held of the Crown by knight's service, and formerly of the Lord Bardolph; he was succeeded by Sir Francis Lovell, Knt. who conveyed it to John Langworth and others, and they, to Robert Houghton of Shelton, Esq. who left it mortgaged to William Wherewood, Esq. who presented, with the consent of Robert Houghton of Randworth, Esq. his son and heir, who was left a minor. In 1682, Charles Houghton, Esq. was lord and patron, who mortgaged it to Sir Edward Hungerford, and after to Paul Jodrell; and, about 1723, it was conveyed to Richard Sturgeon, Esq. and since that to Sir Edmund Bacon of Garboldesham, Bart. who is the present [1737] lord and patron. The leet belongs to the hundred, to which this manor paid 2s. quitrent, and the town 2s. leet fee, per annum. The ancient site, or manor-house, stood in a close by the church, the mote that surrounded it being still to be seen.

The fines are at the lord's will, and the eldest son is heir, both in this and Chalkhill manor.

THE MANOR OF WELHOLME'S,

Or Easthall, as it is sometimes called, was split out of Gonvile's manor about the beginning of Henry the Third's time, in the 20th year of whose reign, Adan de Methelond held it of William Wauncy, who held it of the Bardolphs, and they of the Earl Warren, as of his castle at Acre, by the fourth part of a fee, it being part of those eight fees that William de Wauncy and his tenants held of the said castle; in 1315, Robert de Welholme was lord; in 1345, Lucia de Welholme had it; in 1401, John Brusicyrd was lord; and in 1439, Oliver Groos of Sloley, Esq. was possessed of two parts of it, which he gave to John Groos of Irsted, his youngest son, who gave it his wife Margaret for life, and to the issue of her body, with remainder to Sir Henry Heydon, Knt. In 1453, Oliver Groose, Esq. gave a part to Cecily his daughter; in 1491, Robert Grosse held the moiety of it, and John was his son and heir. In 1532, Anthony Gurnay, Esq. settled the manor on John Tirrell, Esq. and others, and the same year John Heydon, Knt. and Catherine his wife, and Christopher Heydon, Knt. settled it on Sir Tho. Jermyn, Knt. and soon after it extinguished, the whole being manumised, and the demesns divided into many pannels, most of which still pay their proportions to the lord of the hundred, for the suit fines which were due from this manor to the hundred.<sup>9</sup>

DENEVERE, OR CHALKHILL MANOR,

Was given by the Conqueror to the Earl Warren, who infeoffed Hugh in it, whose descendants, the Bardolphs, held it at the third part of a fee; they granted it to the Deneveres, to be held of them; Osbert de Denevere is the first lord that I meet with of that name, whose grandson Osbert had it, and after him, Richard owned it in 1218, who sold the moiety of the advowson, which till then belonged to this manor, to Sir Richard de Lerling; (see p. 285;) Walter de Denevere was the last of this family I find lord here; from them it came to the Bukenhams, William de Bukenham of Keteringham was lord in 1304;<sup>1</sup> and in 1313, John de Bukenham, parson of Illington, settled it on Ralph de Bukenham and Elizabeth his wife, it being then held by Tho. Spriggy of Munesle, in right of Julian his wife, widow of Hugh de Bukenham, who joined and conveyed it to Ralph; and in 1315, Ralph de Bukenham was sole lord, and then it extended into Rowdham, Illington, &c.; and from this time it passed in the Bukenhams,<sup>2</sup> who sold off the demesns into divers hands,<sup>3</sup> leaving the manor in their heiress, who carried it to the Carrills, who sold it to the Hollands; and in 1598, John Holland of Wortwell, Esq.<sup>4</sup> was seized of it, for in that year he brought an action against Tho. Lovell, Esq. and other defendants,<sup>5</sup> in which he declared, that he was seized of Chalkhill manor in Lerling, by virtue of which, he prescribed to have common for 400 sheep, in a place called the Plains of Larlingford, and that they with their sheep did eat the grass there growing, so that he could not enjoy his common in as ample a manner as before, upon which he recovered; and from this time the manor continued in the Hollands, till Sir William Holland sold it to Sir Edmund Bacon of Garboldesham, Bart. the present [1737] lord.

1722, 12 March, Tho. Sturgeon, at Warkhouse's death. PAUL JODRELL, Esq.

The Rev. Mr. William Robinson, the present [1737] rector, was instituted on Sturgeon's deprivation, at the presentation of Sir EDM. BACON, of Garboldesham, Bart. the present patron.

THE CHURCH is dedicated to St. Ethelbert, and is a rectory valued at 10*l.* 2*d.* 0*b.* in the King's Books, and pays 1*l.* 1*q.* yearly tenths, and 12*d.* synodals; it hath a rectory-house and glebe belonging to it. The Prior of Castle-Acre had two third garbs of the tithe corn of the demean lands of Denevere manor in this town, which were given to that priory by Osbert de Denevere, lord thereof, who afterwards gave them the land called Osbern's Uagh, in Sipedham (or Shipdam) in exchange for the said tithes, and Osbert de Denevere, his grandson, confirmed it, Jeffery, the Dean of Fincham, William Talebot, the Dean's brother, Ralph, the chaplain of Acre, Gilbert de Denevere, Eustace, the butler at Acre, and others, being witnesses.<sup>7</sup> The Prior of the Canons at Thetford had lands in this parish, which, in 1428, were taxed at 10*s.* but of whose gift I do not find. In 1603, there were 92 communicants, and now there are about 22 dwelling-houses, and 150 inhabitants. [1737.] It paid 5*8s.* 4*d.* to the tenths, and is now assessed at 280*l.* 10*s.* to the land-tax.

The church and chancel are thatched, the tower is square, and hath three bells, on which are these inscriptions,

1. Sancta Maria, ora pro nobis,
2. Fac Margareta, nobis her munera leta.
3. Corlesti Manna, tua Proles nos ribet, Anna.

There is a stone for THO. CATON, Gent. who died Nov. 28, 1712, aged 37, on which are these arms.

Quarterly, - - - - and Fair on a bend, an annulet and crescent.

Another stone is laid over SARAH, wife of JOHN BRETT, who died 25 Sept. 1660.

And there are three stones in the chancel robbed of their brasses.

ROWDHAM.

RUDHAM, RUDEHAM, ROODHAM, or ROWDHAM, takes its name from a remarkable poe or cross that stood in it, upon the great road leading from Thetford to Norwich;<sup>8</sup> the remaining stones of it were carried thence to Herling, about five or six years ago, by Mr. Wright, who was then lord here. In the Confessor's survey it was held by a freeman of Herold, at one carucate, but at the Conquest it was divided into three parts; besides 30 acres that belonged to the manor of Bridgham; the three first was in the Conqueror's hands,<sup>9</sup> the second belonged to William Earl Warren,<sup>1</sup> and these two constiuted the capital manor, called Rowdham Westaker's. The third was held by Ralph, of Eudo the Sewer,<sup>2</sup> and the whole soke or superior jurisdiction belonged to Buckenham castle, as part of the hundred, Lisius, the old owner, (as I take him to be.) continuing his claim at this time against Eudo, who had got it from him by force, or by the Conqueror's gift. This was afterwards called Trusbutt's or Newhall manor.

ROWDHAM WESTAKER MANOR

Was all in the Earl Warren, the King having given him his part, but was divided again; and that part which was the King's was held of the Earl, by a family surnamed from the town, till William, son of Simon de Rowdham, gave it to the Priory of West-Acre;<sup>3</sup> the other part, with the advowson, came from the Earl Warren to the Bardolphs, and then to the Roseis or Rosets,<sup>4</sup> and Lambert of Rosei gave his whole land at Rodeham, which William his priest held of him there, with the consent of Walcheline, his son, and of William Earl Warren and Surrey, the chief lord of the fee, of whom it was held by the service of one knight's fee, to the priory of West-Acre; and the Earl released to that house the service of that fee; and in 1345, the prior had a quarter of a fee in Roudham, which formerly belonged to the Munchensies after to Robert de Lyle, and was held of the King, as Duke of Lancaster; and from this time the manor, impropriate rector, and the advowson of the vicarage belonged to the priory till its dissolution, and fell to the Crown; and in 1546 the King granted it to Tho. Woodhouse,<sup>5</sup> who the same year sold it to Francis Lovell, and his heirs; and from that time it hath passed with East-Herling, (see p. 323,) with which it was sold to the Wrights, Mr. John Wright, son of Thomas Wright, Esq. being now [1737] lord, impropriator, and patron.

The CUSTOMS of both the manors are, that the eldest son is heir, and the fines are at the lord's will.

The Leet belongs to the lord of the hundred, as it did at the time of the Conquest.

TRUSBUTTS, OR NEWHALL MANOR,

Was in the family of the Crungethorps, Cringlethorps, (or Crownthorps;) in the time of King Henry III. when William de Crungethorp, held it of Robert de Caston, of whose family it was purchased, and Robert held it of Hugh Bardolph, of whose family the Castons had it; and Hugh held it at the third part of a fee of the Earl Warren, by whom the Bardolphs were infeoffed. This William divided it, and William de Wirlingworth, and John de Rowdham had one half, which went to the Trusbutts, but was afterwards rejoined to Newhall. In Edward the Third's time, William, son of Sir William de Crunge-thorp, Knt. and Katherine his wife, daughter of Sir Edmund de Soterle, Knt. had Newhall manor setted on them, Edmund, parson of Soterle, and Richard de Bernham being deforcants in the fine. This William was lord in 1315; in 1417, Joan, late wife of John Esser, had a third part in dower, it belonging at that time to Richard Esser; in 1439, William Halys and Margery his wife conveyed Newhall and Trusbutt's manors to John Windham, Esq.; in 1539, John Heydon, Knt. and Catherine his wife, and Christopher Heydon, Knt. conveyed it to Tho. Jermyn, Knt.; it after belonged to the Earl of Surrey, who sold it to the Pains, whose daughter married Brian Holland,<sup>6</sup> and carried these manors to him; and upon his attainder, the manor was seized; but it appearing to be settled on John Holland, son of Brian, and heir of Catherine, he enjoyed it, and was lord in 1572, and so continued to 1583, and then sold it to Thomas Lovell and his heirs, who joined it to the other manor, with which it now remains; and that the title might be complete John Cotton, Esq. and Philip Axdeley, Gent. the heirs of John Paine, Gent. brother of the said Catherine, joined in the recovery.

In 1413, the master and brethren of Rushworth college granted to John, prior of the monks of the Holy Virgin at Thetford, a yearly rent of 6*l.* paid from the lands and tenements called Rothyng's in Bretenham, and Brydgham's in Rowdham.<sup>7</sup>

The CHURCH here consisted of one isle only, and a chancel, both which were thatched, having a square tower standing on the south side, which served both as a steeple and porch; it had two bells in it till 1714, and then there was a faculty passed to sell one of them. About two or three years since, as the workmen were repairing the lead on the top of the tower, one of them blew the ashes carelessly out of his pipe, which fell on the thatch, and not being seen in time, burned the church and chancel, so that the walls only are standing, in a ruinous condition, at this time.

There was only one inscription in the church, which was on a brass plate, placed there in memory of John Bringloe, late of Rowdham, who died Aug. 14, 1658.

I find in the registers at Norwich, that in 1460, Will. Payn of Rowdham, Gentryman, was buried in the chancel; Hen. Spelman, Gent. Christiana his wife, and Will. his son were executors. In 1468, Elizabeth, widow of Tho. Halle of Rowdham, was buried in the nave, she gave her manor in South Lenn to John Shouldham, Esq. and Elizabeth his wife, daughter of the said Elizabeth. In 1515, Will. Rammeshury of Rowdham, Esq. was buried in the church, and gave to Elizabeth his wife the wardship of John Pain her son, and Catherine Payne her daughter, which he lately bought of Thomas Clerk, Prior of West-Acre, of whom Newhall and Trusbutt's manor was then held, Edmund Rookwood, Esq. of Euston was executor.

In 1615, 26 persons were buried in this small parish, there were five buried in one day. 1617, Dec. 9, John Butler, clerk, and Elizabeth daughter of Tho. Canham, (of this parish) Gent. were married.

This parish, in 1603, had 86 communicants, but the greatest part of it being purchased in, it is much wasted since that time, though there are now [1737] about 120 inhabitants. It paid 2*l.* 14*s.* to the tenths, and is valued at 280*l.* 10*s.* to the land tax.

The rectory of the parish church of St. Andrew in Rowdham was appropriated to the priory at West-Acre, and the priors of that monastery were patrons of the vicarage to the Dissolution. It was valued at 4*l.* 16*s.* 5*d.* 0*ob.* in the King's Books; but being sworn of the clear yearly value of 23*l.* 2*s.* 0*ob.* it is discharged of first fruits and tenths, but still pays 2*s.* synodals, besides the archdeacon's procurations. The Prior of West-Acre was taxed at 10 marks, for the impropriate rectory, and the portion belonging to the Abbot of Bury, which was appropriated to the hospital of our Blessed SAVIOUR there, was taxed at 20*s.* Here was a gild dedicated to St. Andrew.

BRIDGHAM

WAS so called from the bridge, which was the passage to Rowdham Cross, and was a remarkable and much frequented way for all pilgrims that travelled from Suffolk, and other parts, to our Lady of Walsingham.<sup>8</sup> This town was given by Ethelwold Bishop of Winchester, and confirmed by Edward the Confessor, to the monks of Ely,<sup>9</sup> in whose hands it continued till the erection of the see there, and then it became part of the demesns of the bishoprick. In the Confessor's and Conqueror's surveys it appears that it belonged to St. Audry, and was then two miles long, and three quarters of a mile broad, and paid 12*d. geld*;<sup>1</sup> that the priest (or rector) belonging to the manor held land of 2*s. per annum* value, as belonging to his church, but could not sell it; there was also a socman, that held half a carucate of land, whom Roger Bigod claimed as one of his freemen, but the abbot disseized him, and then held it; there were 30 acres in Bretenham, and 30 more in Rowdham, that belonged to this manor. In 1229, there was an extent of this manor, in which it is said, upon the oaths of the tenants then upon the jury, that this town is in Shrophamforde hundred,<sup>2</sup> of which Rob. de Tateshale was lord;<sup>3</sup> notwithstanding which, the Bishop had a gallows, pillory, view of frankpledge, conusance of bushels, gallons, and other measures, and liberty to hold plea of all things, which the sheriff might, with writ or without. The advowson belonged to the Bishop, and is in the archdeaconry of Norfolk, and deanery of Rockland, but the nuns of Ponteverard in Normandy had a yearly pension of 10 marks out of this church, by the gift of Bishop Eustace; the demesns are all particularly abutted, and amount to about 400 acres, the whole being to be ploughed with two ploughs, four oxen, and three scots, two carts, and one pair of harrows being allowed to do the work; and every acre is valued at 8*d.*; there were 3 acres of meadow, and 10 acres of pasture; the several heaths called Loughill, Suthfrith, Mikelehill, Stapelfrith, Ringemeskele, Waterdelefrith, containing 260 acres, were to be fed by

There was also a marsh between Bretenham and Bridgham, and another marsh called Est-Elthe, in both which the whole town might feed dig, cut turf, fish, &c. except in the lord's separate fishery, which is between West-Mill and Tune-Mill, half a mile long. The tenants owe their suit to Tune [or town] Mill, and none to West-Mill. The stock belonging to the manor was 8 cows, a free bull, 24 hogs, a free boar, 500 sheep, by the great hundred, beside the customary sheep, which ought to be in the lord's fold. At this time Walter de Bokenham held 90 acres and an half, freehold, which was late Ralph the parson's, at 8s. 2d. per annum, and suit of court, and had a fold-course. And William de Hakeford held above a 100 acres free, divers rents and services, and a fold-course, and did suit to this court, [for this his manor called Hakeford's.] With this manor also, the Bishop held the advowson of Bretenham. The tenants paid chyltwite, tallage, heriots, and reliefs, besides seven score and 15 hens, 24 chickens, 647 eggs, 2724 days works, 34 days work called stulework, which is done by the molmen, 245 days and half ploughing, during which time the lord maintains them, and every day's work at plough is valued at 6d.; 512 days work in autumn; they were to thrash 105 combs of oats and barley each year, or pay 2d. for every six combs if they did not do it; they were to do 997 perches of ditching and fencing, about the stack-yards and woods, every year, and have no maintenance from the lord during that time; the molmen, in number 70, were obliged to make up 15 carriages, and attend them, to carry in the lord's corn; and besides these and many other services, he received yearly in money rents above 18l. 15s. In 1285, the jury of the Crown side for the hundred of Shropham, present, that Hugh Bishop of Ely had in Bridgham, infangthef, a gallows, view of frankpledge, &c. assize of bread and beer, weyf, return of all writs, free-warren, and all other privileges as before,<sup>4</sup> and from this time it continued in the bishoprick till by act of parliament in the first year of Queen Elizabeth it was settled by way of exchange, among the rest of the Bishop's manors in this county, on the Crown, at which time it was under a lease, made in 1546, by Thomas Bishop of Ely, for 60 years, at 99l. per annum,<sup>5</sup> which was to commence from Michaelmas 1562, to Will. Drury of Besthorp; this was assigned by Dorothy, late wife of Will. Drury, to William Brampton of Bridgham, Esq. from whom Tho. Brampton of Kenton in Suffolk had it, and was possessed in 1573, and lived in the hall, which he repaired, and glazed the windows with his own arms, viz. Brampton, gul. a fess arg. in chief three plates, impaling Watton, erm. on a fess gul. three plates quartering pally of eight, arg. and sab. Brampton impales Leventhorp, arg. a bend compone gul. and sab. cotised of the second; these arms were taken down by Mr. Robert Haylet, (as I suppose,) at whose sale I bought them. 30 years, to commence at the end of the said term, at 29*l.* rent, the advowsons of Bridgham and Bretenham being excepted;<sup>6</sup> and from this time it continued in the Gawdys as lessees to the Crown, till the 6th of June, 1609, and then the King granted it to Framlingham Gawdy, Esq. and his heirs, in fee, in which family it continued till Sir Bassingbourn Gawdy, sold it to Tho. Wright, Esq. of East-Herling, who is now dead, and Mr. John Wright is his son and heir. The fines are at the lord's will; the eldest son is heir; the quitrents are 13*l.* 14*s.* 1*d.* ob. a year.

HACKFORD'S MANOR

Was originally part of the manor of Hackford in West-Herling, that extended hither, and passed with that, (as you may see at p. 300.) till it was released to Henry de Elmham, and Elizabeth his wife, who was one of the daughters and heiresses of Sir William de Hackford, who, jointly with Margery his wife, settled it on Ralph de Hackford, parson of Conteshale, in trust for his two daughters, in 1278; in 1485, Will. Tymperley had the custody of this manor, &c. for 20 years, paying 43*s.* 4*d.* per annum, and maintaining the houses and fences. In 1516, John Harwell and others had it settled on them by Robert Fuller; in 1550, Sir Tho. Lovell of East-Herling had it, in which family it continued, and was joined to the other manor after that was purchased, and so remains. There were three other parcels of land in Bridgham, added to this manor by different purchases; the first was granted by Hugh Bishop of Ely, in 1229, to Roger the chaplain of Bridgham, and contained 60 acres; the second, in 1267, was settled by fine by Hugh Bishop of Ely, on Walter de Hemenhale, and contained 24 acres of land, 40 acres of heath, 20 acres of marsh, 10 acres of meadow, and 6*s.* 8*d.* rent; the third was held by Ralph of Illington, at a quarter of a fee, of Adam de Cayly, who held it of the Earl Warren, and William de Bokenham held one half of this quarter of Ralph de Illington, in the time of Henry III.

THE RECTORY

Was appendant to the manor till it came to the Crown, and was excepted when the manor was granted from it, and the Bishop of Ely always presented till the exchange, and the Crown ever since; the rectory of Bridgham alias Brigham, is valued in the King's Books at 11*l.* 1*s.* ob. and pays 1*l.* 2*s.* 3*q.* yearly tenths, 1*s.* synodals, and 7*s.* 7*d.* ob. yearly procurations, though it paid none before the time of King Henry VIII. At the time of Norwich Domesday, the rector had a house and 50 acres of land, and now he hath a house by the north corner of the churchyard; but there remains but 39 acres and an half of glebe. In 1603, here were 128 communicants, and now [1737] there are about 30 houses, and 180 inhabitants. It paid 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* to the tenths, and is now assessed at 103*l.* 10*s.* to the land tax. In 1411, Hugh Stoppusly had license in mortmain to amortise a messuage, 200 acres of land, 8 acres of meadow, 26s. rent, a free fold, and separate fishery in Bretenham, Bridgham, Rushworth, Thetford, &c. which were held of the King, as of his dutchy of Lancaster, to the Prior and convent of monks at Thetford, on condition the King should have 50s. at every resignation, vacation, or death of a prior. This was part of the Prior's manor in Bretenham that extended hither.

THE CHURCH hath its nave, north porch, and chancel, thatched; it hath no steeple, but there are two bells, which hang in a house in the churehyard. In the windows, and on the font, are the arms of the Bishoprick of Ely: in the chancel there is a stone for Francis Goldwell, clerk, who died 27 Aug. 1691. Another for Margaret Goldwell single woman, who died 15 July, 1690.

John Watson and Alys hys Wif. were at the charge of seating the church, as appears by their names carved in this manner on the seats.

BRETENHAM.

THE manor and advowson was given to the monks of Ely, along with Bridgham, and the rest of the possessions of that abbey in Norfolk, all which were confirmed by King Edgar in the year of our lord 970,<sup>3</sup> (see p. 436) but was divided before the Conqueror's time by the Abbots, into divers parts, they reserving the advowson, part of the demans, and a few small rents only, to themselves, all which they joined to their manor of Bridgham, with which it was assigned at the erection of that see, to the bishops thereof, who always presented to this church, as they do at this day; the advowson not being appendant to Bridgham manor, did not pass to the Crown at the exchange of that manor. In 1277, it was found by an inquisition, that the Bishop of Ely had the free gift and patronage of this church,<sup>4</sup> that it was in the archdeaconry of Norfolk, and deanery of Rokeloud, but the Abbot of St. Alban's had two parts of both the small and great tithes, of the demans of Alexander de Rojinges, (or Rothynghes, as the family was after called,) except 40 acres, which the rector was to have the whole tithes of, and the Prior of Thetford had two parts of the great and small tithes, of the demans of William de Carleton, and the lady Sarah Le-Norvise, except 48 acres, which belonged solely to the rector; and also two parts of the great and small tithes of the demans of Alexander Purri,<sup>1</sup> and Godfride de Suareshille, except 12 acres which the rector had the whole tithe of, all which were given by Roger Bigot at the foundation of the priory,<sup>2</sup> at which time he was lord of that whole part, which was now divided, and held by the said William, Sarah, Alexander, and Godfride. This portion was taxed at one mark, and so was the portion of the Prior of St. Alban's.

The rectory was valued at 4l. 12s. 6d. in the King's Books, but being sworn of the clear yearly value of 40l. 6s. 8d. a year, it is discharged of first fruits and tenths, and consequently is capable of augmentation. It is a small parish of near 100 inhabitants; in 1603, it had 48 communicants; it paid 55s. to the tenths, and is now assessed at 119l. to the King's tax.

At this town there have been divers Roman coins ploughed up;<sup>5</sup> I have seen a very fair one of Vespasian, thus circumscribed, IMP. CAES. VESPATIAN. AVG. COS. VIII. PP.; the reverse was a Mercury holding an urn, and S. C.; there are also urns found here; I have seen a small one of red earth, that held about half a pint, all which make me apt to think, that this town, and not Bretenham in Suffolk, might be the Combretonium of ANTONINUS, and the Concentronum et ad Convecin. in the Peutegerian Tables;<sup>4</sup> and the rather, because I never heard of any Roman antiquities found at the other Bretenham; but whether the name in English implies a town on the Breton, or, in Welsh, a great valley or low place upon the Breton, I confess I know not; but the situation is in a great valley, or low place, upon that river which runs from Quidenham-Mere to Thetford, the name of which I have not met with.

THE CHURCH and parsonage-house were burnt down in 1693: the nave was rebuilt, but the chancel was not; there is a square tower and one bell; the nave and south porch are tiled. This is written on the north wall,

By this Place lyeth the Body of Roger Beales, who died June 29, 1711, and was Church-Warden alone for the Town of Bretenham, and built this Church after the Fire, being the 18th Day of May, in the Year 1693, and laid out all the money, before he made his Rate, to gather in any Money, and whose Names, and what every Man paid.

The whole at first belonged to the Abbot of Ely, as aforesaid, by whom it was divided into several parts; the first two parts belonged to John, Waleram's nephew, at the time of the Conquest,<sup>2</sup> and had been held by two freemen under the abbot in the time of the Confessor; the next was held by Eudo the Sewer in the Conqueror's time,<sup>1</sup> and by Turgis in the Confessor's; and Lesius claimed it against Eudo, who recovered it from him, and then held it.<sup>1</sup> Another part belonged to Roger Bigot, of whom William de Burneville held it at the survey;<sup>2</sup> the whole was then two miles long, and a mile and quarter broad, and paid 14*d. ob. geld*, the lord of the hundred being then (as he is now) lord paramount of this town, and after this there was no less than six manors here, viz. the Bishop of Ely's, which was joined to Bridgham, and ever after passed with it; the manor of Catton, or Carleton Hall, Burnvile's manor, the two manors called Rothyng, or Rothyng Hall, and the manor called Brethenham's.

CATTON, or CARLETON HALL,

Belonged to Eudo the Sewer, and in 1230 was settled by Richard de Meisy, on Richard Fitz-Richard, and was after in a family surnamed de Carleton; Will. de Carleton held it in 1277, but how long it continued in that family I do not find; the Brethenhams had it in 1314, and Will. de Bretenham was then lord; it seems as if the Prior of Thetford was lord of it afterwards, till the Dissolution, but whether in trust or in right of his monastery I cannot say; but in 1543, the King licensed Nicholas Rookwood, prothonotary of the Common Pleas, to sell it to Sir Ralph Warren, Knt. alderman of London, whose son, Richard Warren of London, Esq. settled it on Elizabeth his wife, in jointure, who after his death married the Lord Knevet; the reversion, after her death, came to Sir Oliver Cromwell, in right of Joan his mother, heiress of Richard Warren; he sold the reversion to Sir Bassingbourne Gawdy, who purchased the Lady Knevet's right, and in 1606, Framlingham Gawdy, Esq. sold it to Thomas Wright of Kilcerstone, Esq. in whose family it remained, till it was lately sold by Thomas Wright of Kilcerstone, Esq. to Mr. George Proctor, the present [1737] lord.

BURNVILLE'S MANOR

Was held of Roger Bigot, by William de Burneville, as is aforesaid, whose daughter Avice gave it to the prior of the monks at Thetford, and it was confirmed to them by King Henry II.<sup>3</sup> The Prior joined it to his manor of Rothyng Hall, from which it never was separated.

BRETENHAM'S MANOR

Belonged to Eudo the Sewer, and in 1198, to Richard de Bretenham, after to John de Bretenham, and after to Alexander de Bretenham, and in 1218, Richard de Bretenham held it, and had a carucate in demean, held of Clare honour at half a fee. In 1297, Will. de Bretenham and John de Brockdish had it;<sup>4</sup> in 1299, the Lady Sarah Le-Noreise held it, and half Brettenham's part was settled on Rushworth college,<sup>5</sup> and John de Brockdish's part was divided into several parcels;<sup>6</sup> for in 1345, Tho. de Brockdysch, Rob. de Welholme, and William de Bretenham, held that quarter of a fee of the Earl of Gloucester, which formerly belonged to John de Brokedysch: and after this it was divided in many small parcels, all which were purchased, some by the Master of Rushworth college, and some by the Prior of Thetford, and added to their manors; the other part which was not settled on Rushworth, was held by William de Bretenham, and passed to the monks at Thetford, along with their manor of Rothyng Hall, as you may see, at p. 287, where there is an account also of the separate fishery belonging to this manor.

ROTHYNG HALL, OR RUTTEN HALL,

Was the capital manor, and was owned by John, Wateram's nephew, at the Conquest, and in Richard the First's time by Alexander de Rohinges, Roynges, or Rothyng, who, in Henry the Third's time, is said to hold it at half a fee of Margery de Riparijs, who held it of the Earl of Arundell, as of his hundred of Shropham, belonging to his castle of Bukenham, and the Earl of the King in chief. In 1301, Henry de Rothinge held of the King, as of his honour of Atbemarle, at half a fee, one capital manor-house, 80 acres of land, one piece of meadow, and six acres bruery, liberty of a free-fold, 20s. rents of assize, and other rents and services in Brethenham, the whole being valued at 50s. 9d. and also 100 acres in the said town, of William de Bretenham, by the service of 12d. a year, and Alexander was his son and heir, who, in 1308, possessed it; in 1314,<sup>7</sup> Alexander de Rothing, William de Bretenham, the Prior of Thetford, and the Master of Rushford, were lords of the manors in this town. This Alexander it was that divided the manor into many parts, by selling half a fee held of the honour of Clare, to Robert Baynard, Hugh Stopuste, and others, who settled all their parts on Thomas Gardiner, clerk, rector of Croxton, in trust for the Prior of Thetford. In 1345, Henry de Rothing held the other part, which he divided into two manors, and sold one to the Herlings, whose heiress gave it to Rushworth college; and this was that Rothing Hall manor, that belonged to the college, to which there was 60 acres, and a toft added by Will. Fullere, and others;<sup>8</sup> and in 1374, he sold the other part to Rob. de Batisforth, Robert Benbras, clerk, Richard Pareys, James de Bretenham, John Purri, and Tho. Fullere, who, in 1385, settled it on Tho. Gardiner, rector of Croxton, and he conveyed it, with Baniard's part, to the Prior of Thetford, who was taxed for the first part at 16s. and for this, at one mark; and these constituted that manor called Rothyngs, alias Rothyn Hall, to which the Prior joined his manor of Buruvilles; and in 1413, Alexander, master of Rushworth college, Tho. Crowe, John Mannyng, Will. Parys, and John Greene, clerks, fellows there, released to the Prior of St. Mary at Thetford a yearly rent of 6d. paid them by the Prior, out of lands in Bretenham, and thus there were two manors called Rothing Hall, to the Dissolution, and then they both came to the Earl of Surrey in 1542, who reunited them; and in 1556, Thomas Duke of Norfolk held it in capite of the Queen, and in 1572 it belonged to the Earl of Surrey; and in 1583, Phillip Earl of Arundell sold it to Tho. Lovell, Esq. and in 1622, Sir Francis Lovell, Knt. and William Lovell, Esq. sold it to Tho. Wright of Kilverstone, Esq. in whose family it continued till Tho. Wright of Kilverstone, Esq. lately sold it to Mr. George Proctor of Thetford, who is the present lord [1737.]

ILLINGTON.

ILLINKETUNE, ILSINGTUNE, or as it is now called, ILLINGTON, is a small village joining to Rowdham and Lerling ford; the church is dedicated to St. Andrew, and is a rectory in the archdeaconry of Norfolk, and deanery of Rockland. It hath a rectory-house and glebe, and was valued at 6*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.* in the King's Books; it was sworn of the clear yearly value of 37*l.* 2*s.* by which means it is discharged of first fruits and tenths, though it pays 1*s.* synodals, besides the archdeacon's procurations. In 1603, there were 32 communicants in this village, and now [1737] there are about 60 inhabitants; it paid 53*s.* to the tenths, and is now assessed at 257*l.* to the land tax; the chief if not the whole of this town, belongs to the Churchmans, whose seat stands about two furlongs NW. of the church.

The CHURCH and chancel are very small, having a square tower at the west end. There is an altar tomb in the chancel for,

Sir JOHN CHURCHMAN, Knt. sometime patron of this church, who suddenly departed this life, Feb. 24, 1688, Ag. 56.
Moriendo perpetuam Vitam Lucramur.

At the foot of the tomb are two small stones, for,

GORE, son of WILLIAM CHURCHMAN, Esq. and SUSAN his wife, who died Jan. 12, 1692, aged 9 months.

SUSAN their daughter an infant, buried April 23, 1692.

As to what is said concerning the history of this parish in the Atlas, p. 342, there is not one word of it true, as to this town, but part of it may be applied to Istington in Mersland.

The Prior of Bukenham had lands here of the gift of the Bukenhams, taxed at 2*s.* 9*d.*

The Abbot of Sibeton in Suffolk held the twenty-fifth part of a knight's fee, which was either given or sold to that house by Henry de Esthall, before 1291, for then the Abbot was returned to hold it of the said Henry, who held it of Adam de Cayly, he of the Earl Warren, and he of the King, to whom the Abbot paid his part, to make his eldest son a knight. It was taxed at 11*s.* 3*d.* ob.

Here was a parcel of land given to the abbey of Bury, for which the sacrist of that monastery was taxed at 2*s.*

EAST HALL MANOR.

At the time of the Conquest the whole town belonged to William Earl Warren,<sup>2</sup> and was of 20s. value in the Confessor's time, and 30 in the Conqueror's; the whole was something better than a mile long, and a mile broad, and paid 7*d.* geld, and was held of the castle of Leves, though at that time the superiour jurisdiction belonged to the hundred of Shropham, the lord of which is now lord paramount of this town, keeps the lect, and receives 6*d.* for quitrent of the manor, and 18*d.* for leet fee. In the Earl's time, Berner his servant held it at one fee, for life, and afterwards it went to Hubert de Burgh, of whom Gilbert de Morley held it; and from him it came to the Crown, and King Henry gave it to Reginald de Warren, of whom William de Illingtune had the whole fee, and left it to Henry his son, who built and settled in the east part of the town during his father's life, and assumed the name of Easthall; he divided the manor into many parts, reserving to himself the half of the town, which he held at half a fee of Adam de Caily, as of the castle of Bukenham, and this he called East Hall manor.

BUKENHAM'S, WEST HALL, OR ILLINGTON HALL MANOR.

The other half fee he divided into many parts, all which were held of him, and became so many small manors. In Henry the Third's time William de Easthall, his brother, held a fifteenth part of a fee, John atte More held a twentieth part, John Dolon a fortieth part, Ralph the merchant a thirtieth part, John de Rowdham a fortieth part, Simon de Ropere a twentieth part, Adam Pain a twentieth part, Robert, son of Adam de Long, a fortieth part, and William de Bukenham a quarter of a fee, which was the original of Bukenham's, West Hall or Illington Hall manor.

This family had another quarter of a fee in this and the neighbouring town, which belonged to the Earl Warren, and afterwards to Adam Caily, who infeoffed it in the Bukenhams, and this they joined to the other part, purchased of Henry de Easthall, together with the advowson, so that Westhall or Bukenham's became now the capital manor; and in 1253, Will. de Bukenham had a charter for free-warren here, in Illingham and Bukenham. In 1304, William de Bukenham purchased the part which was Will. de Esthall's<sup>1</sup> of John de Illington, and added it to his manor. In 1313, Ralph de Bukenham and Elizabeth his wife had it settled on them in reversion, by Thomas Spriggy of Maneste, who held it in right of Julian his wife, who held it in dower, as widow of a Bukenham. In 1316, Hen. de Esthall bought many lands of Ralph de Lerling, merchant, and Agnes his wife, and added them to his manor; and in the same year William Albon of Old, Bokenham; (trustee, I suppose, of Ralph de Bukenham;) settled Bukenham's manor here, by fine, on Lucia de La-Mayne-warin of East-Herling; it had then 9 messuages, 229 acres of land, 6 of wood, and 20*s.* quitrent belonging to it, and extended into Lerling, Hockham, and Rowdham. In 1329, Adam de Wrotham settled two messuages, &c. on Jeffry de Holbech of Illington, with remainder to Aveline, widow of Roger De-la-Maynevarin, who was heir of Jeffery.

In 1343, JOHN DE ESTHALL held half a fee of Adam de Clifton, he of the Earl Warren, and he of the King, which half fee was held of the said John by the Abbot of Sibeton, William Payne, Simon Ropere, John atte More, William de Easthulle, Robert, son of Alan Le-Long, John de Long, Ralph the merchant, John of Rowdham, and Henry de Esthall; and in the same year, Ralph of Illington and his tenants held a quarter of a fee of the said Adam, half of which William de Bakenham held of him; and thus these small manors continued in various hands, and were called by divers names, according to their possessors, till 1375, and then James de Wrotham, and John Chau of Thetford, were lords of most of them, and each having a moiety, they presented jointly; and in 1392, they became all united in the two chief manors of Westhall and Easthall, together with all the lands belonging to Welholme and Denvere Hall manors in Lerling, which laid in Illington, the moiety of all which were then conveyed by Henry Pakenham, John de Brecclys, Tho. Finch of Thetford, and Eliz. his wife, to John Brusierd, from the heirs of Eliz [Chau]; and the next year John Bokenham, junior, William and John Rookwood, and John Breccles, settled the other moiety on John Rookwood and his heirs, in trust for Robert Flemyng of Bouewell, and Alice his wife, who was daughter of the said John; and soon after John Bokenham, jun. John Brusierd, and Joan his wife, settled the first moiety on John Rookwood, in trust for Robert Flemyng and his heirs, who now became sole lord of the whole town. In 1421, William Flemyng, Esq. was lord and patron; but before 1428, it was divided again into moieties, the first of which (with the whole advowson) was held by Richard Flemyng, Esq. and the second by John Groos of Irsted, who died seized in 1428, as you may see under Welholme's manor in Lerling; (p. 429;) and from this time it went by the name of East Hall manor, and extinguished with the said manor of Welholme's.

The manor of West Hall or Bakenham's continued in the Flemyngs; and in 1450, Sir Tho. Flemyng, Knt. was lord and patron; in 1469, Margaret his wife had it; in 1503, the whole was joined, and a fine levied between William Tye and Nicholas Bakenham, que-rents, and Lawrence Gower and Maud his wife, deforceants, of the advowson and manors of Easthall, Westall, Welham's, Stratton, and Illington, in order to settle it on the Jermyns; and in 1530, Sir Tho. Jermyn, Knt. settled it on Sir John Heydon, Knt. and Katherine, wife of Sir Christopher Heydon of Baconsthorp, Knt. and in 1539, a fine was levied, confirming the same; it after belonged to Fulk Gray, after that to James Downes, and in 1556, Jerome Spring, and Elizabeth his wife, had it; but in 1671, Christopher Gascoigne was lord and patron, who held it till about 1600, and was succeeded by John Gascoign, Gent, his son and heir, whose son Cotton Gascoign, Gent, had it; in 1626 he married Anne, daughter of Sir William De-Grey of Merton, Knt. who had it settled on her in jointure; she after married to Sir John Palgrave, who was lord and patron during her life, the reversion being sold by Cotton Gascoign, Esq. to

Sir JOHN CHURCHMAN, Knt. who presented in 1664, and settled here. This family is descended from John Churchman, citizen of London, and Emme his wife, in the time of King Richard II. who in 1387 were joint purchasers of Skeburgh manor and advowson, from whom descended Ozias, or Ozill Churchman, merchant-tailor of St. Augustine's parish in London, in 1632, in which year he married Mary, daughter of Caly of Lothbury, from whom descended Sir John Churchman of Illington, Knt. who married Hester, daughter of Sir John Gore of Geldeston, in Hertfordshire, Knt.<sup>2</sup> and had John Churchman of Illington, Esq. who was buried here in 1688, who, by Susan, daughter and heir of Fiske of Stiveky in Norfolk, who, after his death, remarried to Maurice Shelton of Barningham in Suffolk, Esq. had William Churchman of Illington, the present [1737] lord and patron,<sup>3</sup> who bears arg. two bars, in chief as many pallets sab.

In 1346, Peter de Esthulle held 42 acres in this town, of Seckford's manor in West-Herling, (see p. 300,) and the several manors in Lerling, Thorphall manor in Wrotham, East-Herling manor, &c. extended hither.

SHROPHAM,

SCEREPHAM, SERPEHAM, SCROPHAM, or as it is now called, SHROPHAM, was a town of more than common note, when the hundreds were first appointed, as is evident from its giving name to the hundred; at present it is a common village, not so large by a great deal as many in this hundred are, though it consists of three ancient villages, the two last of which have been so far lost, that they are not so much as known by their original names of Breccles-Parva, and Broadcar, or Bradcar.

BRECCLES-PARVA, OR LITTLE BRECCLES,

At the time of the Conquest, was a separate town, belonging to Roger Bigot,<sup>4</sup> having in it nine freemen under him, who held 110 acres of land; the manor was worth 10s. a year, and was then in Wayland hundred; but being given to the Earl of Arundel by the said Roger, with his daughter Maud,<sup>5</sup> he added it to his hundred of Shropham, which belonged to his castle of Bukenham, and afterwards infeoffed the Breccleses; who always held it of the Earl of Arundel, at a quarter of a fee, as of his hundred of Shropham. In Henry the Third's time, John de Breccles was lord; and in 1345, John de Breccles, his grandson, had it; in 1402, Benedict de Breccles held it, and soon after it belonged to William de Narburgh, whose daughter Ela had it, she first married Thomas Shouldham, and afterwards Henry Spilman, who died seized in 1494, and Thomas Spilman his son inherited, and his son John had it in 1563; in 1567, it belonged to Francis Woodhouse, Esq. who sold it to Thomas Shelton, Esq. at which time the manor was extinct, the whole being purchased in; it had then a fold-course and free fishery, and extended into Shropham, Breccles-Magna, and Hockham; it afterwards came to the Barkers, John Barker, Esq. the present owner, hath built a seat here, which is the only house in this place.

The church was a rectory, given by Roger Bigot, lord here, to the Priory of Thetford, when he founded it, and so it came wholly to that house, to which it was confirmed by Henry II.;<sup>6</sup> but it being a very small place, the monks agreed to take a pension of 8s. a year, from the rector of Shropham, in lieu of all the tithes.<sup>7</sup> It was annexed to Shropham, and the church was demolished before Edward the Third's time, and the parishioners had the parochial chapel of St. Andrew in Shropham, which till that time belonged to Bradcar, assigned them for their parish church, Bradcar being then entirely united to Shropham; and this continued single for some time, though not very long; for before 1332 the rectory and chapel<sup>8</sup> was annexed to St. Peter and Paul's church of Shropham, so that I meet with no institutions to either of them. At the first settling the vicarage, part of the land in Little Breccles, which belonged to Thompson college, was to pay all tithes to the college; but upon the last settlement in 1414, the vicar was to receive all the great and small tithes of Little Breccles, so that the vicar of Shropham is rector of Little Breccles at this time; and in 1514, upon the complaint of the parishioners of Little Breccles in the parish of Shropham, setting forth that since the settlement the vicar had neglected serving the chapel, contrary to the terms of the consolidation, which, notwithstanding the appropriation, was still an entire rectory to him, the Bishop swore Sir Robert Morley, at his institution in 1519, to perform service in it to the parishioners of Little Breccles, as you may see under his institution. This was demolished about Edward the Fourth's time.

BROADCAR, OR BRADCAR,

Was included in Shropham at the Conquest, but was independent of it some time after,<sup>9</sup> and had the parochial chapel of St. Andrew for their church,<sup>1</sup> till it was resigned to the parishioners of Little Breccles, when this was united to Shropham; it belonged to Roger Bigot at the Conquest,<sup>2</sup> and to Andrew de Hengham in 1235; it was afterwards

<sup>8</sup> It stood about a furlong south-west of Shropham church; the site belongs to the vicar; it is still enclosed, and is now called the Old Churchyard.

added to, and became a part of, Pakenham's manor, and was always held of the Earls of Arundell at half a fee, as of their hundred of Shropham, and is that part of Shropham which joins to the river by Sneterton.

The vicarage is valued in the King's Books at 8l. 13s. 9d. and being sworn of the clear yearly value of 30l. 2s. 6d. it is discharged of first fruits and tenths, and is capable of augmentation; it pays 2s. synodals, being endowed with the rectory-house and all the glebe land, except an acre and half, and all the great and small tithes of Breccles-Parva, and all other tithes in Bradcar and Shropham, except the tithes of corn and grain, which belong to the impropriation. It is in Norfolk archdeaconry, and deanery of Rockland, and in 1603 had 120 communicants, and now [1737] there are about 250 inhabitants. It paid 7l. 13s. 4d. to the tenths, and is now assessed at 610l. 5s. There were three gilds kept in the church of St. Peter and Paul at Shropham;<sup>3</sup> the first was the gild of St. Peter and Paul, the second of St. John Baptist, and the third of our Lady, and there was another gild in St. Andrew's church, held in honour of that Apostle.<sup>4</sup>

The Prior of the monks at Thetford had divers small pieces of land here, which were taxed at 2s.

The Abbot of Bury, at the Conquest, had a freeman, who held 30 acres of him; this was afterwards appropriated to the use of the infirmary of that monastery, and the keeper of the infirmary received the profits till the Dissolution, and was taxed at 5s. and so paid 6d. every tenth.

The temporalities of Bee abbey, and Okebourne priory were taxed 8s. 9d. ob.

The Prior of Bukenham was taxed at 6s. ob. for his temporalities, which were small rents issuing out of divers lands in this town, paid to the priory manor of Bukenham, of which they were held.

METHELWOLD. This man was the last rector of this parish, for in 1398 the master and fellows of St. Martin's college at Thomeston (or Tomson) obtained a bull from Pope Boniface to appropriate the church of St. Peter at Shropham, together with the chapel of St. Andrew thereto annexed, to their college for ever, on condition there should be a vicarage ordained by the Bishop of Norwich, which should be settled by him and his successors, to their pleasure and liking, provided that the patronage of the vicarage should belong to the master and brethren of the said college, and accordingly in

1398, 6 July, Henry Stoket of Eston, priest, was instituted to the vicarage of the parish church of St. Peter at Shropham, with the chapel of St. Andrew annexed, at the presentation of the master and fellows of Thomeston college, who presented all the following vicars till their dissolution; and in

1410, Alexander Bishop of Norwich, by virtue of the power reserved in Pope Boniface the Ninth's bull,<sup>7</sup> and because Bishop Henry Le-Dispenser his predecessor, who consented to the appropriation, had appointed no further about the vicarage, but that it should be worth 20 marks a year, besides the vicars dwelling in the rectory-house, further declared and settled the vicarage in this manner, that the vicars should have the hall, its chambers, the kitchen, the bake-house, stable, and the chamber called the guest-chamber, a long house with a chamber over it, called the priest's chamber, with all the houses belonging thereto, and the garden of half an acre adjoining thereto, the whole being the rectory-house and its site together with 24 acres of arable land (part of the glebe) lying near the house, with the same liberty of fallage, as the rectors had before the appropriation, and all the alterage, oblations, mortuaries, and personal tithes, tithes of calves, chickens, lambs, pigs, foals, geese, ducks, pigeons, wool, milk, flax, hemp, cheese, apples, pears, curtilages, mills, turf, herbage, pasturage, wood, fish, fowl, wax-candles offered, and all other offerings to the altars, or images, in both church and chapel, ploughshote, trees growing on the glebe and churchyards, together with the churchyards, tithes of hay, conies, and all other tithes whatever, except the tithes of corn and grain, all which were to belong to the college; and it was then also settled, that the vicar should pay all the procurations due for the said church, and all other pensions due before the appropriation, viz. 7s. 7d. a year to the archdeacon, and 8s. a year pension to the Prior of Thetford; and that the vicar should have nothing from the college-land, called Breccles-Holm, and that the master should pay an annual rent of 20s. a year to the Bishop for the first fruits, which would cease upon the appropriation, and that he should be taxed at 10*l.* for the great tithes, and the vicar at 7 marks for his vicarage; and this being thus settled, the Bishop, in

1411, 6 April, collated William Helgeye, priest, by lapse, who resigned in

1414, 8 Sept. to William Snell, priest, in exchange for Shipton Solars in Worcester diocese, to which Helgeye was instituted, at the presentation of John Solers, lord there, as Snell was to this vicarage, at the presentation of the master and fellows; he held it till May 5, 1422, and then resigned it; and at his resignation, with the consent of the bishop and the master, voided by deed, the former was then above two miles long and one broad, and paid 18*d.* geld; the superiour jurisdiction belonged then to the hundred, the lord of which hath the lect (fee 3*s.*) and it extended into Sneterton, as it now does.<sup>5</sup>

The first lord that I meet with, after the Conquest, was Richard de Kanky. In 1230, Ralf de Jernemuth conveyed it to Richard Le Prestare. In 1308, John Le Veyle of Barningham, granted it to Peter Le Breton of Shropham; it extended then into Sneterton, Wileby, Harkham, Lerling, Bretenham, Illington, Rokeland, and Stow-Bydon; afterwards, Stephen Bryttoun had it; after this it divided, and in 1345, Richard de Cauz held half a fee of it, of John Gernoun, and the same Richard, Richard Herberd, Walter Goodhale, Henry atte Green, and Robert of Bokenham, held the other half fee of Robert de Morley, and he of the King, which Peter of Shropham, Roger Cauz, and others, formerly held. In 1367, Henry de Breton was lord, who this year left it to his two sisters, his heiresses; Lettie and Agnes, whose son and heir, Henry de Pakenham, inherited her moiety; it was then held as parcel of Tateshall barony: Lettie married John Heryng of Thompson, whose son and heir, John Heryng, was lord of his part in 1393, and in 1394, Henry Heryng, clerk, brother and heir of John, held his part by the two hundredth part of Tateshall barony; Henry Pakenham, Esq. at his death, left his part to Henry, his son and heir, who lived at Shropham in his manor-house, called Pakenham Hall. About 1408, he became heir to Henry Hering of Thompson, clerk, and so the whole of this part was joined in him; the other parts of the half fee which was divided in 1345, were held in 1442, by the heirs of Henry Breton, Roger Caus, Richard Caus, and the heirs of Richard Herberd, Walter Goodale, Robert de Bokenham, and Henry atte Green.

HENRY PAKENHAM died in 1445, and left Robert Pakenham of Shropham, Esq. his son and heir, 30 years old, who held it till 1463,<sup>6</sup> when he died, and was buried, according to his will,<sup>7</sup> in the chapel of St. Catherine at the east end of the north isle of St. Peter's church in Shropham; he gave his horse to the priest for his mortuary; to the high altar 3*s.* 4*d.*; to repair the church 6*s.* 8*d.*; and to repair St. Andrew's 3*s.* 4*d.*; the manor he bequeathed to Henry his son, and gave Garboldesham manor (see p. 257) to his wife for life, with all his manors in Staffordshire; and ordered 200 marks to be paid out of Pakenham manor, to his daughter Margery, and would have a trental<sup>8</sup>

<sup>8</sup> A trental is an obit for the dead, so called, as Minsheu says, from the Council of Trent; but I rather think, from the number of masses, which every trental had, as it should seem from the Latin name, Trigintale, that is, an office of 30 masses; if it was a yearly trental, then it was called annuale; if it was given for once only, then it consisted of a mass said for the departed, 30 days together, and this in old wills is called trigintale or trentale.

celebrated for his soul soon after his death; he desired Will. Warner, Esq. and John Lalle, rector of Rokeland All-Saints, his feoffees, to perform his will, Will. Berdewell, Esq. Robert Spelman, William Mounteny of Thrextou, and Tho. Beny, senior, were executors; Hen. Pakenham died seized, in 1495, of this and Honyng manor, and of divers free tenements and lands in Honyng, Northwalsham, Worsted, Crostweyth, and Witton, called Drake's, Wales's, and Lombe's. He left two daughters his heiresses; Elizabeth married John Sturges, senior, and had the moiety of this manor in her right, and purchased the other moiety of Anne Dobbes, her sister, to whom she sold her moiety of Garboldesham; and in 1529, John Sturges senior, of Cranworth, and Elizabeth his wife, levied a fine of the manor of Pakenham's, otherwise Breton's, to Humphrey Wyngfield, in trust; and in 1533, Sturges had license to alien it to Nicholas Sywhat and his heirs. In 1558, Philip Appleyard and Mary his wife had it, and not long after it was united to Bradker, with which it still [1737] continues.

BRADKER, OR BRADCAR,

Was a distinct manor, belonging to Aluric in the Confessor's, and to Gilbert the Archer in the Conqueror's time,<sup>9</sup> it being worth 30s. and afterwards 40; and the soke belonged to the hundred. In 1235, Andrew de Hingham held Bradker at half a fee, as part of the fees of Roger Bigot, which he gave to the Earl of Arundell. In 1250, Henry de Hengham was lord, and obtained a charter of free warren in all his lands in Bradker and Bathele; in 1284, William de Hengham, parson of Shropham, settled divers messuages and lands in Bradkyr and Shropham, on Roger Le-Veuze and Alice his wife; in 1285, Andrew de Hengham was summoned to shew cause why he did not pay the King 96 marks, which were behind, of a certain annual rent of two marks a year, due to the King out of certain tenements that the said Andrew held in Shropham. In 1286, Alexander de Hingham had view of frankpledge, assize of bread and ale, allowed him to this manor; in 1288, the heirs of Andrew held Bradker, at half a fee of the Earl of Pembroke, and in 1295, Andrew de Hengham released to Ralph de Coggeshale the manor of Bradker, consisting of 2 messuages, 296 acres of land, 3 mills, 77s. 3d. rent in Bradker, Shropham, Switterton, Wilby, and Hocham, together with the advowson of Shropham church. In 1319, Sir John de Coggeshale had it, who, in 1327, settled it in tail on himself and Margaret his wife, and their heirs; and in 1331, John, their son and heir, had it, who, in 1348, settled the whole except one acre and the advowson, on himself, Margaret his wife, and Thomas their son, in tail; in 1360, the same John had it, and Henry was his son and heir, 30 years old; and in 1372, the said Sir Henry de Coggeshale, Knt. Thomas his brother, and Joan, wife of the said Henry, daughter and heiress of William de Welle, sold the acre of land, and the advowsons of the church and chapel annexed, together with the manor of Bradker in Shropham, to Shardelowe*, Knt. and his trustees, pay an annuity of sl. per annum to the said Sir Hemy and Thomas his brother, during their lives. In 1391, RICHARD Earl of Arundell and Surrey, chief lord of the fee of Bradker manor, for 20*l.* granted license to John Methewold, John Coke, rector of West Tottes, Will. Couperc, clerk, and John Bubney, rector of Longford, trustees and feoffees of Sir Tho. Shardelowe, Knt. to settle the manor of Bradker Hall, with the advowsons and appurtenances, then held of him as of his manor of Hocham, upon Alexander, master of Thompson college, and the fellows there, and their successors, for ever; on condition, that during the life of Phillipa, the Earl's wife, the college should pay her 20*s.* at every vacancy, as a relief, in lieu of all services: this is dated at Castle-Aere, in the Earl's castle there, the 10th day of June, in the year aforesaid: and in 1394, the trustees settled them on the college, where they continued to its dissolution, and were granted in 1450 to Edmund Knevet, Knt. together with the whole revenues of the college; and in 1541 he had license to sell Bradker and the rectory, and the advowson of the vicarage, to John Flowerdew and his heirs, who, in 1545, sold them to Edward Billingham, and he, in 1546, to Tho. Clere, and he, in 1547, to Sir Anthony Hevenyngham, who aliened them to Sir Ralph Shelton and his heirs, in trust for Sir Anthony and his wife during their lives; she outlived him, and held it to 1572, and left Sir Arth. Hevenyngham, Knt. her son and heir, who sold it to the mayor and commonalty of the city of Norwich, who are now lords, impropiators, and patrons.

MUDIGWELL, OR MUDINGWELL'S MANOR,

Was owned by Eudo the Sewer, of whom Rouland held it at the survey;<sup>2</sup> it had been worth 60*s.* but was fallen to 37; it was held of the hundred, and Lisius and Eudo both claimed against Rouland; in 1198, Julian and Emma, daughters of Richard [de Bradker] sold it to Wimar, son of William [of Shropham]; in 1218, Emma and Belisant, daughters of Hervey de Schropham, added many lands to it, which they purchased of Thomas de Sucterton, and Maud his wife, and of Simon de Medelwolde, and Amy his wife. In 1279, Philip, son of Tho. de Mudigwell of Shropham, at the death of Thomas his father, renewed the rental,<sup>3</sup> and after this it was much divided; for in 1293, Roger, son of Adam of Shropham, purchased a part of Walter, son of Andrew De-la-Wade, and soon after we find in the Feodary, that Peter [de Mudigwell] of Shropham, Roger Le Cauz, Will. de Hochom, Rich. de Sucterton, and Peter Fitz-Osbert, held the whole at half a fee, of Hill. Mareshall, and he of the king, notwithstanding which, the chief part continued to be a manor; and in 1341, Henry de Modyngwell was lord; in 1385, Rob. de Fildesham and Alice his wife conveyed it to Sir Miles Stapleton, and Sir Roger de Boys, Knts. and their heirs; in 1506, John Dade of Witton in Norfolk died seized of Modyngwell manor, in Shropham; in 1561, John Wade, Gent. sold Modyngwell manor in Shropham, to Sir Tho. Woodhouse, and Will. Woodhouse, Knts. since which time it hath been divided into so many parcels, that it is now extinguished.

The manors of Sucterton, and divers other adjacent manors, extended into this town. Shropham manor is fine certain at 6*d.* an acre.

The vicarage is valued at 8*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.* in the King's Books, and being sworn of the clear yearly value of 40*l.* 10*s.* only, it is discharged of first fruits and tenths, and is capable of augmentation.

THE CHURCH is dedicated to the Holy Trinity, and hath no tower; the ruins of one that hath been dilapidated many years, lie at the west end of the church, in which I find these memorials.

the hundred of Shropham, to which the town always paid a common fine or lect fee of 7*s.* a year, till the hundred was mortgaged and after sold to the Kedingtons,<sup>7</sup> and then the lect and lect fee, with all the liberties belonging to the lect and the whole liberties which belonged to the hundred were joined to the manor, before they sold the hundred, and excepted upon the sale of it, so that the lord of the hundred hath no paramountship in this town. From the Bigots it went to the Albanys, who infeoffed the Montchensies; and in 1235, Warivue de Munchensy held it at one fee, of Bukenham castle, it being one of the fees formerly Earl Bygot's. King Henry III. granted Dionise Montchensy a charter for a fair, and market, to be kept here every Friday;<sup>8</sup> and in 1285, she had liberty of free-warren in all her demesns here; but all the superiour jurisdictions were at the same time allowed to Robert de Tateshale, lord of Bukenham castle, as superiour lord of the lect, namely, view of frankpledge, assize of bread and ale, and a pillory, as well for his own tenants as others. And in this year it was presented by the jury, sworn before the justices itinerant at Norwich, that an unknown man was taken at Hocham, in the manor of Dionise de Montchensy of Hocham, with a line of 13*d.* value, and was carried into the open court there, and without any one's prosecuting him, was taken and hanged; upon which the sheriff was ordered to summon the said Dionise, and the suiters of her court there, to give an account of it. At her death it went to the Earl of Pembrook, and so descended to the Hastyns Earls of Pembrook; (as you may see under Winfarthing, p. 186;) and in 1487, John de Hastyns Earl of Pembrook settled it on Anne his wife, daughter of Margaret, daughter and heir of Thomas de Brotherton Earl of Norfolk. In 1391, Reginald Grey, Knt. was lord; in the year 1400, Philippa, widow of John de Hastyns, the last Earl of Pembrook of that name, was dead, and held it to her death, in dower of the Lord Mowbray, as of his manor of Fornet, by the service of 9*d.* per annum castle-guard, and it was found, that Sir Edward Hastyns, (of Elsyng,) Knt. was her husband's next heir, but for all that it descended to the Greys of Ruthyn, heirs general of the family; and this year Sir Reginald de Grey of Ruthyn, Knt. settled it on feoffees, but in 1401, he had released it, for then William Beauchamp had it; and in 1435, Joan, widow of William Beauchamp of Bergavenny, died seized of it, as parcel of the inheritance of the Hastynses Earls of Pembrook; and it descended to Elizabeth, wife of Edward Nevil Lord Abergavenny, daughter and heir of Richard Beauchamp Earl of Worcester, son and heir of William and this Joan in 1475; Edward Nevil, younger son of George Nevile Lord Bergavenny, was possessed of the manor, by virtue of his father's will in 1491; and in 1535, Sir George Nevile, Knt. and Sir Edward Nevile, Knt. settled it on William Drury; in 1539, John Heydon, Knt. and Catherine his wife, and Chris. Heydon, Knt. sold it to Sir Thomas Jermyn, Knt.; in 1576, Sir Ambrose Jermyn of Rushbrook was seized, and Sir Robert Jermyn, his son, had it in 1599, and then levied a fine to William Killegrewe, Esq. *Will. He died the 13th of March, 1641, and was buried here leaving his three sisters his coheiressees; Mary, the eldest, married Judge Baldock; Philippa, the second, married Robert Kedington, who lived and died here; Anne, the third, married Nicholas Rookwood of Easton, Esq. and sold their third part to Robert Kedington, who afterwards purchased Baldock's part, and so became sole lord, and at his death left it to Philippa his wife, who kept her first court Oct. 15, 1667; and at her death, Henry Kedington of Hockham, Esq. became lord, and kept his first court 9 Oct. 1685; and in 1702, Philip Ryley, Esq. serjeant at arms to the lord treasurer, surveyor of the Queen's woods and forests on the south side of Trent, and one of the commissioners of the excise, who was afterwards knighted, purchased the manor, impropriation, and advowson, of Henry Kedington, Gent. and built a neat brick house here, which is now [1757] the seat of Philip Reginald Ryley, Esq. his grandson and heir.

The lord hath the goods of felons de se, within the manor. (Court Roll 11 H. 7.) No tenant can waste his copyhold; women are dowable for a moiety of the copyhold, of which their husbands are seized, during the coverture.

A man, by the custom of this manor, is tenant by the courtesy of England, of lands and tenements of this manor, of which his wives are seized, and have issue between them. (Roll 12 E. 3.)

No tenants of the lord's, inhabiting in Great Hocham, ought to be cited to the consistory or spiritual courts, because it is against the custom of that village or town, and to the prejudice of the lord, as appears by the prior of the monks at Thetford, A<sup>o</sup> 1 H. 4.

Hocham Meare, alias Cranberry Fen, is a separate water of the lords of this manor; (Rolls 7. 10 H. 7. 13. 22 H. 8. 16 Eliz.) it contains fourteen score acres, and is in circuit 708 perches, every perch containing 18 feet, and the lord hath a fish-house there.

The lord of the manor is lord of the common of pasture in Great Hockham, and of all waste in the bounds of the village.

The tenants give for a fine for their copyhold lands and tenements; upon every alienation, whether by death or surrender, according to the ancient custom of this manor, 12*d.* out of every mark of the value and price of their lands and tenements by them taken up, and such fine is called mark shilling.

One copyhold tenant can take a surrender, and another witness it.

The lands descend to the eldest son, and the manor extends into Brecchels, Illington, Tottington, and Thomson.<sup>2</sup>

In 1384, Sir Stephen de Hales, Knt. aliened divers lands here and in other towns, to the Prior of Walsyngham. In 1654, the township of Hocham held divers lands of this manor.

This town hath no market at this time, it contains about 200 souls, and paid 4*l.* 7*s.* to the tenths, and is now assessed with Little Hocham at 62*sh.* 6*s.* 8*d.* to the King's tax.

LITTLE HOCHAM

WAS a small village between Great Hocham and Illington; in the Confessor's time it belonged to Ailwin, and in the Conqueror's it was held of Roger Bigot by Tuold,<sup>3</sup> for life, I imagine, because soon after, it was in Roger's own hands, who gave the church and tithes to the priory of Thetford at their foundation,<sup>4</sup> who received them separately, till the church of Great Hocham was appropriated to them, and then they joined them to Great Hocham, which is the reason we meet with no institutions, though I suppose the church was not demolished till after Richard the Second's time, for then we meet with the church of St. Mary at Hocham, mentioned in evidences, which I believe must be this, Great Hocham being dedicated to the Holy Trinity. The manor afterwards was held of the honour of Richmond at a quarter of a fee, by Alan de Anestie; and in 1252, by Ralph de Neketon, who had free-warren allowed him in it. It soon after belonged to William de Hockham, who made it complete, by joining all the lands and tenements that belonged to the manor of Wrotham (or Wretham) to it, as well those that laid in Great Hocham as in this town; for I find in an old register<sup>5</sup> of Bec abbey in Normandy, to which Wrotham manor belonged, that this William held all the lands and tenements that the church of Bec had in Hocham, by the rent of 17*s.* 2*d.* a year, three days work in ploughing, three in mowing, and one hen; and he and all his tenants under him were to pay reliefs, do suit to the halmote-court at Wrotham, pay scot and lot, and could not marry their daughters without license, and soon after this, in 1299, he levied a fine of the whole, when it contained 18 messuages, 275 acres of land, 11 acres of pasture, one acre of turf-land, 37 acres of heath, and 14*s.* ob. rent in Great and Little Hocham. In 1315, John de Hocham was lord, and in 1326, Ralph of Hocham; in 1335, John Duke of Bedford aliened to the prior of Thetford the manor of Little Hocham, but I take it to be only the superiority of the fee, the manor being then held of him, and afterwards of the Prior, and after that of the Bishop of Norwich, and after the revenues of the bishoprick were taken into the King's hands, it was held of the Crown. 1538, Ambrose Jermyn was lord; it after belonged to the Bedingfields;<sup>6</sup> and in 1572, Edmund Jermyn died seized; in 1603, Will. Jermyn had it, and released it to Robert Jermyn, Knt. and Will. Jermyn, senior, Esq.; in 1616, there were five copyhold tenants, which paid 3*l.* 12*s.* rent, two tenements worth 8*l.* per annum, a sheep's walk, &c. It now [1737] pays all dues to Great Hockam, there being only two farms in the village, of which the manor-house is one, which with the manor is now owned by William Jermyn of Norwich, Esq. in right of his wife, who was sister and sole heiress of the Right Honourable the Lord Richardson, Baron of Cramond in Scotland. The fines are at the lord's will, and the eldest son is heir.

EAST, OR GREAT WROTHAM,

Is so called because it lies most east of the three Wrothams, of all which Herold was lord in King Edward's time, and Ralph de Tony in the Conqueror's;<sup>7</sup> Wretham (or Wrotham Thorp) had then two carucates, Wertham, (or West Wrotham,)<sup>8</sup> had three, and Weretham (or East Wrotham)<sup>9</sup> had four, and all of them were berewites to Neketun, (or Necton,) and contained together four miles in length, and four miles in breadth, and paid xxd. geld.

This manor was given to Bec abbey in Normandy,<sup>1</sup> by that Ralph de Toni, who held it at the survey, from which time it enjoyed all the privileges belonging to that monastery. In the register of the abbey (fol. 58, b) the customs of the manor are entered, among which it appears, that the tenants were to pay scot and lot, by way of aid to the abbots, when they came into England, or to their proctors, if the necessities of the abbey were very urgent; they could not sell a horse-colt, nor an ox of their own bringing up, without their lord's leave, nor marry their daughters, nor go to live out of the manor, nor remove their chattels out of it, without license; they paid at every death the best beast for a heriot, or 3*d.* instead of it, and if any one died intestate, all their chattels were at the lord's disposition. the harvest work was finished by the tenants, they were to have half an acre of barley, and a ram let loose in the midst of them; and if they caught him, he was their own to make merry with, but if he escaped from them, he was the lord's, which custom is still kept at Eton college, there being a ram every year let loose among the scholars, on a certain day, to be run down by them, the original of which might come from the custom of this manor; at this time William de Hockam held 60 acres of land of the old feoffment, by 5s. per annum rent, and also 16s. rent at Rokeland, and all that belonged to the church of Bec, and was part of this manor, as you may see at Hocham-Parva. William Francolanus, or Frankleyn, held a carucate of land at Serepham, or Shropham, and paid scot and lot, gifts and aids, and did suit to this court, and Henry de Bradekere held a tenement there by the same service. Emma de Kerbrook, or Carbrook, Adam de Ockham, or Hockham, Walter Bainard, and the heirs of William Crongethorp, held a bruery, called Sandwadescot, by suit of court, and the service of going to London, or elsewhere at their own charge, on the lord's errand, and by doing the lord's and the town's service, in attending the sheriff's turns, and hundred courts, to hear the King's orders; and William de Wrotham then held 60 acres of land and a messuage, which, in 1240, was given by Reginald, son of Eustace de Wrotham, to Bec abbey. In 1285, the abbot held it in free alms, as parcel of Tony's barony, and had view of frankpledge, assize of bread and ale, a pillory, gallows, and weyf, and thus it continued in the abbey, (unless when it was in the King's hands by reason of the French wars,) till 1414, the second of King Henry V. when the Parliament at Leicester dissolved the Prior's aliens, and then it continued in the Crown till King Henry VI. settled it on his college of Eton, at the foundation, and confirmed it by his charter in 1444; and in 1460 it was reconfirmed by King Edward IV. it being parcel of the possessions of Okeburne priory, which was an alien depending on Bec abbey; and at this time the provost, fellows, and scholars of Eton are lords. The leet belongs to the manor, and liberty of keeping petit-sessions along with it, by grant of Hugh Earl of Susser, who released it to the church of Bec, on condition that they should treat his bailiffs and suiters to the hundred court, every other year, in their manor of East Wrotham;<sup>2</sup> and afterwards, in 1237, the said Hugh, for 12 marks paid him by Brother William de Gyuevill, their general proctor in England, released to them the said treat, on condition they paid to the bailiff of the hundred, yearly, 14d. every Michaelmas day, and the ancient lect fee of 3s. so that the lord of the hundred, though he is paramount here, yet hath no lect.<sup>3</sup> This manor hath liberty of a coroner, whose jurisdiction extends over the Wrothams, by grant of King Henry VI. when he founded his colleges of King's and Eton.

The rectory is valued at 11l. 12s. 3d. ob. in the King's Books, and pays 1l. 3s. 2d. 3q. yearly tenths; it is in the archdeaconry of Norfolk, and deanery of Rockland.

The CHURCH is dedicated to St. Ethelbert, and the rector paid a pension of 20s.<sup>4</sup> a year out of it to the Abbot of Bec, and 12d. for synodals the Abbot of Couches's temporalities belonging to his manor of West Wrotham, in this town, were taxed at 9*l.* In the year 1603, there were 80 communicants, which number is much decreased; it paid 2*l.* 15*s.* to the tenths, and is now [1737] assessed at 340*l.* to the land tax, there being, as I am informed, about 150 inhabitants.

WEST, OR NORTH WROTHAM,

BELONGED to Ralph de Toni at the Conquest,<sup>5</sup> who was son of Roger de Toni, Standard-bearer of Normandy, and founder of the abbey of Conchis in that dukedom; this Ralph was Standard-bearer to the Conqueror in that memorable battle against King Harold, and by his eminent service in it, became a sharer in those large possessions which were after that signal conquest disposed of to his friends and followers, and among others, had 19 lordships in Norfolk, these three being part of them, the biggest of which he gave (as is before observed) to Bec abbey, and left the other two to Ralph, his son and heir, who left them at his death, to Roger his son and heir, who gave this manor and advowson, with the mill and moors, and whatever he held else in the township, to the monks of Conchis,<sup>6</sup> who held them of his gift at his death, as belonging to their cell at Wotton-Wawen in Warwickshire, which was in 1162. In 1267, Robert le Taylur and Arcline his wife, granted to Walter abbot of the church of St. Peter of Cunches,<sup>7</sup> 70 acres of land here; in 1279, Ralph, son of the said Roger, granted liberty of free-warren, and free fishing, to the abbot of St. Peter of Conches Castellon, in all his demesns and waters in his manor of Wrotham,<sup>8</sup> viz. in Wrotham-Thorp manor. In 1285, the abbot of Conches had view of frankpledge, assize of bread and ale allowed him, and thus it continued in the abbot (except when the King held it on account of the French wars, when the temporalities of the alien priories were generally seized, that the revenues might not go to support the King's enemies) till 1414, the 2d of King Henry V. and then the parliament at Leicester dissolved all the alien priories, and so it came to the Crown, and was granted for life to Sir Rowland Lenthall, Knt. and at his death it went with the Priory of Wotton Wawen, and all its revenues, to King Henry VI. who gave them to the provost and scholars of his college of St. Mary and St. Nicholas in Cambridge, commonly called King's college, who are now lords and patrons. King Henry II. granted the monks of Wotton license to choose their own abbot, and that all their tenants in England should be free from serving at sheriff's turns, and hundred courts, and acquitted them of all tax, Danegeld, hildieft, and hundredfu, and also granted them all felons goods forfeited; by virtue of which, this manor pleaded an exemption from doing suit to the hundred, but still paid their leet fee of 3s. a year to it, for themselves and Wrotham-Thorp, of both which, the lord of the hundred is paramount, but hath no power to compel the tenants to any service.

This rectory is valued in the King's Books at 12*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.* and pays 1*l.* 5*s.* 1*d.* ob. yearly tenths; it is in Norfolk archdeaconry, and Rockland deanery.

The CHURCH is dedicated to St. Lawrence, was taxed in the Lincoln taxation at 14 marks, and paid 12*l.* synodals. In 1603, there were 40 communicants, and there are now [1737] about 100 inhabitants; it paid 3*l.* 4*s.* to the tenths, and is assessed at 37*l.* to the land tax.

WROTHAM-THORP, OR LITTLE WROTHAM,
 NOW
 THORP-HOUSE.

THE third was called anciently Little Wrotham, or Wrotham-Thorp, and now Thorp-House, there being only one farm remaining at this time; it never had any church, but was an hamlet to West Wrotham, which took the name of Little Wrotham after this was joined to it: it was a separate village at the Conquest, and so continued to the latter end of Edward II. though the manor always was, and now is, distinct from the other Wrothams, by the name of Thorp Hall. It was held by the Tonys, who had all the three at first, and passed as West Wrotham did, till that was given to the Abbot of Conches, by Roger de Tony, who died seized of this, and left it to Ralph his son, who, in 1279, held Wrotham-Thorp, as part of his barony, the manor having then liberty of view of frankpledge, assize of bread and ale, and weyf; he left it to Robert, his son and heir, after the decease of William Martin, and Loveday his wife, who held it for life by Ralph's grant; but in 1309, he was in possession,<sup>1</sup> and died seized, leaving it to Alice, widow of Tho. Leybourne, his sister and heir, at that time 26 years old, who married Guy de Beauchamp Earl of Warwick, who, soon after his marriage, sold the manor, with 30s. 11d. rent, a mesuage, and 100 acres of land in Stanford, held by the tenth part of a fee, to Thomas de Nethergate, chaplain of Stanford, to be held of the Earl by the annual payment of a chaplet of roses; and this Thomas gave the manor to the Prior of Cokesford and his successors in 1315, reserving the Stanford parts to himself. In 1343, it was settled by Peter de Weston Taillur, and Alice his wife, on Sir John de Norwich, Knt. at which time it contained two carueates, for which John gave them 100 marks; how it came from Coxford, whether by exchange or no, I do not find. In 1350, John de Herlyng granted to Sir John de Norwich, Knt. all the lands in the Wrothams and Illington, which he purchased of John de Wrotham, with the fold-courses, homages, and services, thereto belonging; and in 1354, John de Bruseyerd of Shadenfield, his feoffee, released his right; in 1374, it descended to Katherine de Brewse, cousin and heir of Sir John Norwich, junior, who settled it on John Daventre, parson of Brom, Walter Barkly, vicar of Kymberle, John Cranhouse, Edmund Lakyngheth, and Richard Nooth, for her life, and a year after her decease, remainder to the King and his heirs, Sir John Plai, Sir Robert Howard and others being feoffees; and in 1384, King Richard II. gave the reversion to the prioress and nuns of Dartford in Kent; in 1405, William Barret of Dicheburgh, and Joan his wife, settled divers lands and a fold-course here on Joan, Prioress of Dartford, and her successors, in which house it continued to the Dissolution; and in 1539, was granted to Sir Tho. Jermyn, Knt. and his heirs, to be held in capite. In 1561, it was Edmund Jermyn's; in 1576, Sir Amb. Jermyn of Rushbrook, Knt. died seized, and left Robert his son and heir, but gave this manor to William Jermyn, Esq. his youngest son, who in 1603, settled it on himself and his heirs; it afterwards belonged to George Townsend of Cranworth, second son of Tho. Townsend of Testerton, he married Frances, daughter of Edmund Bacon of Hesset in Suffolk, leaving two sons, Henry the younger, and Thomas the elder, who lived at West Wrotham, where he was buried in 1681, leaving by Katherine Hoo his wife, one son, viz. George Townsend of Wrotham, Gent. who first married a Green, but by her had no issue, and afterwards a grand-daughter of Sir Robert Baldock of Tacolneston, whose mother was sister and heir of Robert Baldock of Tacolneston, Esq. his son and heir, by whom he had the Rev. Mr. Townsend, rector of Shipdham;<sup>2</sup> which of them it was that sold the estate, I cannot say, but am informed that it belongs to the heirs of Sir Nicholas Gerrard, Bart. who died in 1727.

I meet with nothing more concerning these Wrothams, but that the great hundred court is to be annually kept at a place called Kettle-Bridge, between Little Hocham, Illington, and Great Wrotham, on Tuesday after Michaelmas day in the morning, where all the rents due to the hundred are to be paid, and proper warrants issued for all arrears.

In Fabian's Chronicle, (fol. 361,) is this, "About that Season, [1418,] the Parson of Wortham in Norfolk, whych longe tyme had haunted New Market Veth, and there robbed and spoiled many of the King's Subjects, was nowe with his Concubynne broughte into Newgate, where lastly he dyed." And in a manuscript in the hands of the Rev. Mr. Baldwin, it is thus related: "In 1418, the parson of Wrotham in Norfolk, which had haunted Newmarket Heathe, and there robbed and spoiled many, was with his concubine to Newgat of London where he died."

It appears by the institutions, that it could not be the parson of West Wrotham, and (if any) must be the parson of East Wrotham, and it looks something like it, there being no time of Swanlond's institution mentioned, who was instituted at the death of this parson; but whether it was De-Lawce, or any other that had it after him, and before Swanlond, I cannot pretend to determine.

ROCKLAND-TOFT,

ROKELUNT, Rochelunt, or roc-land, as it is now called, signifies the hilly land, which answers very well to the situation of these parishes, as well as the other Rockland in Heusted hundred, which is situate on the declivity of a hill, joining to a large marsh, through which the Waveny passes, in its course to Yarmouth. That this place was of special note in early times, is evident from its being the residence of the deans of so large a deanery as this, having no less than three parishes in its own bounds, besides thirty other rectors and vicars under its jurisdiction, it containing all the parishes in Giltcross and Shropham hundred; the parishes here are called St. Andrew's, All-Saints, and St. Peter's, the two first of which were lately consolidated, the church of St. Andrew falling into decay, and standing not above a furlong eastward from All-Saints, was suffered to dilapidate; the tower is square, and is still standing, its three bells being stolen out of it some years since, were never heard of. This town is called, to distinguish it from the other Rockland, Rockland-Tofts, and St. Andrew's parish, is often named in evidences, about Edward the Third's time, Toft, without any other addition. Here is a meeting of people on Midsummer Day, in a nature of a small country fair, which they call the Gild, the remains, without all doubt, of the gild of St. John Baptist, which was held in St. Peter's church before the Reformation. The parishes of All-Saints and St. Andrew's are assessed together at 518*l.* 15*s.* to the land tax, as in Shropham hundred, and the parish of St. Peter by itself at 230*l.* as in Wayland hundred, though I do not find it ever said to be in that hundred, till about 90 years since, at which time it was laid to Wayland, and the constables and surveyors are the same with Little Ellingham, their presentments running, Ellingham-Parva, cum Rockland-Tofts St. Peter. The whole was taxed together in Shropham hundred to the tenths, to which it paid 4*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*; there are now about 300 inhabitants.

This and all the other deaneries were in the Bishop's collation, and had peculiar seals appropriated to them, several of which I have seen, but never met with that of this deanery; the deans here follow in their order.

This CHURCH hath a square tower, and 3 bells; the nave, south porch, and chancel are thatched; there is no inscription in it, save one on a modern stone, for one Mr. Salter. In 1506, Robert Moriel of this town was buried here, who by will gave half an acre and half a rood, at Weston (Market) in Suffolk, to that church, on condition the rector paid 3s. 4d. to the rector of Hinderclay, and 3s. 4d. to the rector of Counton, to pray for his soul, and four cows, the profits of which were to be expended in keeping his anniversary.<sup>6</sup>

Rockland St. Peter's rectory was valued at 4l. 10s. 5d. ob. in the King's Books, and being sworn of the clear yearly value of 29l. 18s. 8d. is capable of augmentation; it pays 12d. synodals. The Prior of Castle-Acre had a portion of tithes taxed at two marks, and other temporals, taxed at 20s. all which were given by John de Kitestune or Caston's father, and confirmed by himself, namely, two tithe sheaves out of three, of all his demesns in Rockland, and the third tithe sheaf, of his demesns in Sipedam, or Shipdam, and above 14 acres of land in Rockland.<sup>7</sup>

1349, 24 Nov. The church of St. Peter at Rockland Toftes, belonging now to the Abbess of Marham, was appropriated to that house by the consent and approbation of the Pope and the Bishop,<sup>8</sup> on condition, that the Bishop or his successors, at the churches vacancy, should ordain a vicarage, for which the vicar should be taxed at 6 marks, the vicars being always to be nominated by the Bishop, to the Abbess, who was obliged to present them, and also to pay a pension of half a mark a year to the Bishop, in lieu of the portion of his first fruits, for the great tithes, which ceased upon the appropriation; the vicar was to have a house, and to be endowed to the value of 12 marks per annum, at least, and the Abbess was taxed at eight marks for the rectory.

1501, 20 June, Sir Peter Wylkins, chaplain, on Jannis's death.

These were nominated by the Bishop, presented by the Abbess.

1516, 29 March, Robert Coppull, on Wylkins's death, united to All-Saints, at whose institution it was disappropriated, for the Abbess presented him as rector; and in 1523, 20 May, Barbara, Abbess of St. Mary at Marham, granted the next turn of her rectory of St. Peter's church of Rokelond, to John Tendale, Esq.; and the 18 Aug. in the same year, Robert Coppul, rector of St. Peter's and All-Saints, was domestick chaplain to Henry Bishop of St. Asaph.

1694, Zachary Pooley, on Pitt's resignation. FRANCES POOLEY, widow, in full right.

1703, 1 July, George Taylor, on Zachary Pooley's death, united to Wimondham. ROB. POOLEY and SARAH POTTS.

1737, The Rev. Mr. Edward Heyho, on Taylor's death, who is now rector and patron, having purchased the advowson of the Pooleys.

THE CHURCH of St. Peter, which is the deanery church, hath nothing remarkable in it: the north porch was built about 1619, as a broken inscription informs us. The tower is octangular, and hath three bells in it; the chancel is ruined, a small part of which was rebuilt by the late rector, to officiate in.

There is a pension of 2s. per annum paid by the rector of St. Peter's to the Duke of Norfolk, it being a perpetual composition for a measure of wheat, which Robert de Rokelund gave to the monks of Thetford out of his lands here. (Dug. Mon. Ang. tom. i. fol. 665.) There is also a pension of 4s. per annum paid to the Duke from the rectory of All-Saints, and another of 2s. from the rectory of St.

<sup>9</sup> It was granted 38 H. 8, along with Marham Abbey, to Nicholas and John Hare.

<sup>1</sup> He was ordained priest in 1582, was barbarously murdered by Mr. Lowe, his curate, with his wife's consent, on Twelfth Night, a<sup>o</sup> 1608, for which the first was hanged, and the last burned. There was a book printed at London for Rob. Bomian, A.D. 1609, of the bloody murder of Master James, minister at Rokelond in Norfolk, committed by Mr. Lowe his curate, and consented to by his wife, for which both were executed. See this book in Tho. Rawlinson, Esq. his sixth catalogue, Hist. Britanic. et Hibern. 4to. N<sup>o</sup>. 6.

<sup>2</sup> He was unfortunately drowned, in a dark night, and was several days before he was found.

Andrew, both being perpetual compositions for the Prior of Castle-Acre's portions of tithes in those parishes. (See p. 475, 476.) There is also a rent of 15s. a year paid to the Duke, from the manor of Kirkhall.

There are now only three distinct manors in this town, called Carbonel's, Ladie's, Kirkhall Moynes and Gournay's; though there were formerly no less than seven, before they were united.

CARBONEL'S MANOR,

With the advowson of St. Andrew's, belonged to Brode, in the Confessor's time, and to William Earl Warren in the Conqueror's, of whom Simon held it, the whole town being then above two miles long, and one broad, paid 11*d.* geld.<sup>3</sup> In 1194, Walkelin de Rosey gave 20s. to King Richard I. to have seizin of 12s. 7*d.* rent, of the service of Hervey Gorge, in such manner as Baldwin de Rosey had, when he began his journey to Jerusalem, where he died: this Baldwin was lord here, and cotemporary, if not brother, to Roger de Rossei, or de Rosseto, lord of Rose's manor in South-Creke. In 1218, another Baldwin de Rosseto held it of the Earl Warren at one fee; in 1234, Robert Carbonel was lord; from about 1310 to about 1340 Henry Carbonel and Catherine his wife, had it, who held it after her husband's death to her own, which was before 1399, for then Maud, their daughter presented; it soon after divided, and one part, with the advowson, came to the Holdiches, who presented till 1571, and afterwards sold it to Sir Ralph Chaumberleyn, Knt. reserving two or three turns to the family; the other part went to William de Narburgh, whose daughter Ela married Tho. Shulldham, and had a son by him of his father's name, but he did not inherit, the manor being given by his mother to Henry Spelman, her second husband, and his heirs, and William Spelman, their son, inherited; in 1488, Henry Spelman died seized, and left it to Edmund Paston, Esq. to perform his will, at which time it was held of the Earl Warren, at the fourth part of a fee, in 1606, Francis Spelman, Esq. was lord of Carbonel's in Rockland, in which family it hath continued to this time, it being now owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Spelman of London. The leet (fee 3s. 4*d.*) belongs to the hundred; the fine is at the lord's will, and the eldest son is heir.

KIRKEHALL MOYNES AND GURNEY'S,

Were distinct manors at first, though they have been long united; the first was held by Eudo the Sewer, of whom Richard held it;<sup>4</sup> and the second by Ringull, at the Confessor's, and by Roger Fitz-Renard at the Conqueror's survey;<sup>5</sup> to Moynes manor the advowson of All-Saints was appendant, and belonged to John Le Moyne, who held it at three quarters of a fee of Will. Blaunister, and he of the Earl Warren in Henry the Third's time. In 1282, Sir John Le Moyne of Weston in Cambridgeshire had the manors of Weston by West Wratting, and this manor and advowson settled on him, by Tho. de Colvile, for life, remainder to Baldwin de Manerijs (or Manors) for life, remainder to John, son of Henry de Cokefield, remainder to the right heirs of Sir John Le Moyne, who, in 1285, had view of frankpledge, and assize of bread and ale allowed him here. In 1316, it was settled by another fine exactly according to the former in 1282, and in 1334, John Le Moine's heir had it; I suppose Sir John de Brokesbourne married her, for he presented then; after his death Sir John de Sutton of Wizenho, Knt. held it in right of Margaret his wife, and levied a fine of the manor and advowson in 1359, in order to settle them in trustees hands, to his own use, John de Caston having claimed a turn in the advowson, as belonging to his manor of Kirkehall, but was cast. In 1360, Andrew Mancer, parson of Little Shelley, granted to John Pach (or Peche) and other feoffees, the manor and advowson, and Moynes' manor in Weston Colvile, in Cambridgeshire. In 1377, Edmund, son of Sir Edmund de Brokesbourne, Knt. had it; and in 1401, Richard Chamberlain and John Sumpter held it of Tho. de Bardolph, and he of the Earl Warren. In 1415, John Fitz-Ralph, Esq. and Tho. Elyngham, settled it on William Raynforth and Eleanor his wife, for life; and before 1474, the manor called Moynes's, was united to Kirkehall, for then Sir Robert Chamberleyn levied a fine of them and All-Saints advowson; and in 1546, John Barney settled his manor, called Barris, alias Gurneys, on Ralph Chamberlain, Esq. who afterwards purchased one part of Carbonel's manor, and the advowson of St. Andrew's, and levied a fine of them all in 1567; and in 1589, John Welde of London was lord; in 1590, Humphry Welde, Gent. executor of the said John, kept his first court; and in 1601, John Weld of London, Esq. was lord and patron; in 1623, William Welde had them; in 1639, Sir Robert Barney, Bart. was owner, in whose family they continued till Richard Barney, Esq. (who died in 1695, at Redham) mortgaged them, and Mrs. Anne Martell, widow, presented under the mortgage; in 1709, they were ordered, by decree in chancery, to be sold to pay Mr. Barney's debts, and were sold accordingly to Colonel Windham of Earsham, and now they are owned by Joseph Windham-Ash, Esq. The leet belongs to the hundred, the fine is at the lord's will, and the eldest son is heir. As to KIRKEHALL before the union, that belonged to the family surnamed de Castleton, Cakeston, or Caston, and was originally a part of the manor of Caston Hall that extended into this town, though it was taken as a separate manor very early, it being held by Robert de Cakeston, or Caston, as such, about King John's time;<sup>6</sup> John de Kiteston, or Caston, granted, and with his father's seal confirmed, to Castle-Acre priory, his own and father's gift, of two garbs of the tithes of their lands in Rockland St. Peter; in 1256, John de Caston was lord; and in 1296, Robert de Caston held it at a quarter of a fee, of William de Mortimer; in 1315, it belonged to Agnes de Caston, and in 1319, John de Caston had a charter for free-warren here and in Caston, Breydeston, and Burlingham. In 1373, Catherine, widow of Sir John de Caston, conveyed Kirkehall manor to Tho. Caus of Hoc-ham, and his heirs, Henry de Pakenham of Shropham being his trustee; and in 1387, William, son of Hugh Fastolf, released all his right in the manor to Richard Caus, in whose family it continued, though sometimes in trustees hands, till it was united to Moines's.

BARRIE'S MANOR

Belonged to a family surnamed de Rockland, and was split out of Moines's manor, for Maud de Rockland and her feoffees held it in Henry the Third's time, of John Le Moine, at a quarter of a fee; in Edward the First's time it divided, and Rich. Barry had one part, whose daughter Joan married to Sir Robert de Caston; and in 1288, Henry Barry and Christian his wife had it; after that it fell to John de Caston, whose daughters, Elizabeth married Robert Carbonel, and Alice, William Fastolf, in Edward the Third's time, when this part was joined to Carbonel's manor; the other part continued in the Rocklands, and in 1230, William de Rockland held it at half a fee; in 1234, Adam de Rockland was lord; and in 1336, John de Rokclaud; in 1338, Will. de Redham and his feoffees had it, and it went with the Redhams estate to the Berneys, John de Berney being possessed, in 1355, of this and part of Kirkehall. In 1440,<sup>7</sup> John Berney of Redham, Esq. settled this manor by the name of Kirkehall only, on Phillip his son for life, remainder to Thomas his brother, and his heirs, instead of the manor of Castons in Shiplam; but yet the son recites in his will, dated 1441, that he had given it by deed to his brother John Berney for life, remainder to his own heirs; and not long after this, Kirkehall part was united to Kirkehall and Moines's, with which it continues, but Barry's continued in the Berneys; and in 1527, John Barney, Esq. died seized, after which, about 1546, it united to Kirkehall.

MORTIMER'S MANOR

Was held by Constantine de Mortimer in Henry the Third's time, at one fee, of the Earl Warren, who held it of the King in capite; it continued in that family a long time, and passed as their manor of Attleburgh did, in 1337, Constantine de Mortimer, Esq. had a charter for free-warren in his lordship; it descended with Scoulton to Sir John Fitz-Ralf, Knt. who married Margery, grand-daughter and coheir of Sir Robert Mortimer, who had issue John Fitz-Rauf, Esq. whose son John married Alice Walesburgh, by whom he had Elizabeth, his coheir, who enjoyed it in fee simple after her grandfather's death, with Elyngham, and Waddingfield in Suffolk, and Kingston in Cambridgeshire, they being settled by her grandfather on her, to perform his last will; and from this time it was joined to Kirkhall and Moine's.

LADIE'S MANOR,

At the survey, was held by Pain or Pagan, of Roger Bigot.<sup>3</sup> and in 1218, by Richard Fitz-Roger, at half a fee; in 1231, Richard Le-Prestre released to Ralph Gurnun his right in that half fee, which William de Rokeland then held of him in exchange, for other estates in Essex. In 1345, John Le-Schephyrd, and Jeffery de Benclaud held the half fee, formerly John Gurnun's, of the honour of Pembrook, which Robert de Bonclond and Isabel Cody lately held, they had it till 1401; it after belonged to Richard Hocham of Little Hocham, who sold it to Henry Pakenham of Shropham, Esq. and his trustees, who, in 1445, settled it absolutely on Elizabeth Bigot, his wife, and her heirs, William Warner and others being trustees. In 1463, Elizabeth Bigot, formerly wife of Sir Ralph Bigot, Knt. after that of Henry Pakenham, made her will, which was proved 18 Aug. in that year,<sup>9</sup> in which she desired to be buried in the Austin friars church at Norwich, and gave this manor, and all her manors and lands in Great Elyngham, and Attleburgh, with the courts, reliefs, &c. to Tho. Manning, her husband, and his heirs. In 1472, Henry Bixle of Thetford kept his first court, after he had purchased it of Tho. Pekte of Rokeland, and John Salter. In 1479, Rob. Fulmerston of Stow, and Reginald Parys of Thetford, at the request of Bixley's executors, whose feoffees they were, conveyed it to Tho. Brian, clerk, Will. Cross, and Tho. Springold, who released it to Tho. Plummer of Staffham, and Isabell, wife of Tho. Summersham of Thetford, senior, dier, Robert Wynceye, Robert Newman, and Tho. Blake, in trust for Eleanor Muriel, who held her first court in 1486; in 1493, they conveyed it to Robert Muriel, Rich. Groom, Robert Fulmerston, John Walter, and John Mathew, who held their first court in 1494; and in 1498 they granted it to John Nele of Hocham, and Christopher Purdey of Bury, who sold it to Helen Muriel, Peter Webster, John Purdey, Ralph Nele, &c. in 1506; and in 1514, they conveyed it to Tho. Muriel and Henry Darby, who sold it to Will. Nele of Elyngham-Parva, who, in 1524, sold it to Robert Sibbs of Counston in Suffolk, William Cunge of Berningham, Robert Hawise of Weston, and John Muriel of Rockland, Sibbs's feoffees, to whom they released in 1536, from which time the courts were held in his name, till his death in 1572, and then Robert Sibbs of Hawley in Suffolk, his son and heir, kept his first court, and in 1594, sold it to Edm. Sargent of Conceston, who, in 1598, sold it to William Musket of Hawley in Suffolk, Gent. who, in 1609, jointly with Robert his son, settled it on Anne Bedgewell, the intended wife of the said Robert, and they sold it to John Duffield and Barbara his wife; but in 1619, Simon Musket, Gent. and Anne his wife, recovered it by an action brought against John Duffield, senior, and John Duffield, junior, to them and their heirs, and at their death it fell to the share of Henry Blomefield of Fersfield, Gent. who married Anne Musket, their daughter and co-heiress; he at his death left it to Henry Blomefield of Brisingham, Gent. his only son by his second wife, at whose death it went to Style Blomefield of Bloworton, Gent. his eldest son, who died single, and it descended to Mr. Henry Blomefield of Fersfield, his only brother, who is now lord.* The manor-house is dilapidated, its site is still called LADIE'S, which name it assumed from the Lady Bigot, its former owner.

The manors of Castonhall, Attleburgh Mortimers cum Membris ex parte Crowshall, Elingham-Parva, Thompson, and Scoulton Newlands, extend into these parishes.

GREAT ELINGHAM.

THIS town was in three parts at the Conquest, and hath continued so to this time, there being now three manors; the capital manor was always called, as it now is,

ELINGHAM, OR ELINGHAM HALL.

It belonged to Turketel the Dane in the Confessor's days, and to Waribold, or Warbold in the Conqueror's, who held it of Hermer de Ferrers, to whom the Conqueror had given it;† it was then worth 5*l.* and the whole town was two miles long and one broad, and paid 19*d.* geld.

* The manor was purchased of Henry Blomefield of Fersfield, Gent. with all the demesans, rights and privileges, with other freehold lands, (the whole being 20*l.* a year,) by the Governours of the "Bounty of Queen Anne, for the Augmentation of the Maintenance of the "Poor Clergy," in 1738, and was by them settled on the vicarage of Cherry-Marham for ever, it being one of the livings augmented by the donation of Mr. Brook, who left 1000*l.* to procure the bounty to five small livings.

The said Hermer seized also three freemen,<sup>2</sup> and 110 acres, besides other lands and services in this town, and Warbold added them to this manor, to which they afterwards belonged as to their services, but the soke belonged to Bukenham castle. It after came to the Earl Warren, of whom the Wirmegeyes held it, till William de Wormegeye infeoffed William, son of Ralph de Elingham,<sup>3</sup> and in 1252, Robert de Elingham held it at two fees, of Sir Hugh Bardolph, and had a charter for free-warren; he was succeeded by Alex. de Elingham, who had the charter allowed in Eire in 1295, Robert de Elingham was lord after him, and settled it in 1313, on himself and Cassandra his wife, for life, remainder to his own heirs; in 1369, Alexander his son was lord and patron, who conveyed the whole manor and advowson to Sir Robert Mortimer, Knt. and Dame Margery his wife; and in 1372, according to the agreement on the sale, they regranted the manor (except eight acres and the advowson) to the said Alexander and Amy his wife, for their lives, remainder to the said Sir Robert and Margery his wife, who settled the reversion on William atte Wend, parson of Skulton, Tho. Caus of Hocham, and John, son of Tho. Wottes of Attleburgh, their feoffees, who released to them in 1377; and in 1381, Sir Robert was lord and patron; in 1388, Margery his widow settled both the manor and advowson on Sir George Felbrigge, Knt. Will. de Sharneburn, Henry de Pakenham, William atte Wend, parson of Great Elyngham, John, parson of the third part of Attleburgh, Richard Caus of Hocham, Richard Gedge of Saham, and John atte Cross of Depham, by deed dated at Great Elingham, under her seal, which is remarkable for its having her own arms, viz. a chevron between three lions rampant, impaled with, and placed before, those of her husband. In 1399, the feoffees released their right to her again. In 1401, Constantine Mortimer was lord and patron; in 1402, the advowson was separated from the manor, as you may see in the account of the incumbents, and the manor went to Sir John Fitz-Ralph of Scoulton, Knt. in right of Margery his wife, one of the daughters and coheirresses of Sir Thomas Mortimer of Attleburgh, from whom it descended to John Fitz-Ralph, Esq. his son, who settled it, with Scoulton and Totyngton, on John Fitz-Ralph, his son, and Alice Walesborough his wife, after the deaths of himself, and Julian his then wife, with remainder to the sons heirs male, and for want of such, on Maud his daughter, and her heirs, Richard de Beauchamp Earl of Warwick, Sir William Phelep, Sir John Fastolf, Sir John Howard, Sir Richard Waldgrave, senior, and Sir Tho. Tudcuham, Knts. Will. Clopton, Henry Pakenham, Esqrs. and others, being feoffees; and, for want of issue male, they went to Maud Fitz-Ralph, who married Sir Robert Conyers, Knt. who died seized, and John Conyers, their son, inherited; he married Eleanor, sister and coheir of William, son of Sir William Yelverton, Knight of the Bath, at King Edward the Fourth's coronation, and one of the justices of the King's Bench; but having no issue, in 1472, he released it to Henry Gourney* of Elyngham, Esq. married Helen, daughter of Robert Holdiche of Ranworth, Esq. and died before his father, leaving<sup>5</sup> Henry Gurney, Esq. his son and heir, who held Irsted manor of the Bishop Norwich, Elyngham manor of the Lord Bardolf's heirs, West Barsham of the manor of Castle-Acre, by one fee, Gurney's manor in Hingham, of the heirs of Henry Lord Morley, as of his manor of Hingham, and the advowson of the third part of Attleburgh; he was lord in 1572, and at his death it went to Edm. Gurney, Esq. his son and heir, who died seized in 1641, and left Henry his son and heir, then nine years old, who died without issue, and it went to Margaret Gurney, his aunt, who married Mr. Henry Davy of Great Elyngham, whose sole daughter and heiress, Mary, married Sir Roger Potts, Bart. of Great Elyngham and Mannington, who sold it to Mr. Francis Colman of Norwich, the present lord, who now dwells in the manor-house called Ellingham Hall.

The CUSTOMS of this manor are, that the eldest son is heir; it is set fine at 3*s.* an acre, and there are very considerable barley rents paid in kind, if the lord does not choose to compound for them. The leet belongs to the hundred, the leet fee being 3*s.* 6*d.* 3*q.* as the hundred-roll informs me.

BURGH HALL, OR BERRY HALL MANOR,

At the conquest belonged to Robert de Beaufo;<sup>6</sup> the soke of it was then appendant to the hundred, as it now is, there being no leet; it afterwards belonged to the lords of Bukenham castle, and was part of those eleven fees which Hugh de Vere and Dionise his wife held of Robert de Tuteshale; and in 1304, Tho. de Cayly had it. In 1305, it belonged to Baldwin de Manerijis, or Manors, who held it of Roger Bigot Earl of Norfolk; in 1314, Simon, son of John Skilman of Hedersete, granted to Margery, relict of Roger Cosyn of Great Ellingham, his mother, the manor and all its appurtenances, viz. 15 messuages, 320 acres of land, 100s. rent, &c. in Great and Little Ellingham, Mingham, Attleburgh, Rockland, Depham, and Morley; and in 1315, the said Margery and Ralph Poyant (whom she had married) owned it; in 1345, Roger de Gatesend had it; and in 1399, Baldwin de Bosco, or Bois, held it at half a fee, as of Forncet manor;<sup>7</sup> and soon after it belonged to the Mortimers, and went with Elizabeth Mortimer to Sir Ralph Bigot of Stockton, her husband, who held it for life, and after his death she enjoyed to her own, in 1463, and then by will gave it to John Manning, her last husband, and his heirs; who, in 1428, was justice of peace, and of goal delivery in the Bishop of Ely's liberty of Mitford hundred; at his death it went with Christian, one of his daughters and coheirs, to William De-Grey of Merton, Esq.<sup>8</sup> who died in 1474, as his inscription in Merton church informs me, from which time it hath gone in a lineal descent to Thomas De-Grey of Merton, Esq. the present lord, of whose family I shall discourse under Merton, their ancient seat.

The CUSTOM of the manor is, that the fines are at the lord's will, and the eldest son is heir.

This Church was valued in the Kings Books at 6*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.* and being sworn of the clear yearly value of 31*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.* it hath been augmented (as I am informed) by the Rev. Mr. John Cater, the present vicar and patron, who hath settled part of the great tithes, upon the vicar. It stands in Mr. Ecton's last edition of the Valor. &c. as a rectory, the reason of which is, that on its appropriation to the college, the vicarage was never taxed but the college paid the whole first fruits, not at the institution of each vicar, but of each master, so that as to first fruits and tenths, it always was a rectory, but being under value, it is now discharged of both. It pays 16*d.* synodals, besides the Archdeacons procurations.

RECTORS AND VICARS.

1312, 15 kal. May, Henry de Brom, priest, was instituted to the rectory of the church of St. James the Apostle, of Great Ellingham, at the presentation of ROBERT DE ELYNGHAM.

1402, The advowson of this rectory was appendant to the manor, till the division of the Mortimers estate, and then the manor went to Margery, wife of Sir John Fitz-Ralph, Knt. and the advowson to Cecily, widow of Sir John de Herling, Knt. who gave it to the master and fellows of Attleburgh college, or chantry, and they at their foundation got it appropriated to their house, by bull from Pope John XXIII. dated at Rome in June 1411, which was obtained at the petition of Simon Howison, rector of Scoulton, and Robert Syred, master of the college, which set forth, that Sir Robert Mortimer designed to found (though he was hindered by sudden death) a college or chantry for five chaplains, to pray for his own and his wife Margery's soul, &c. all which they, as his executors, in pursuance of his will, had fulfilled, and had also procured this advowson, and obtained license of the King to settle it on the college, upon which the bull granted the appropriation, on condition that on the next avoidance, a vicarage was created by the Bishop, with institution to it.

1415, 4 April, Master John Rykedon, priest, was instituted to the then created vicarage of Elingham-Magna, at the presentation of the master and fellows, or chaplains of Attleburgh college or chantry, who were to pay 11 marks to the Bishop, on every vacancy of the college, in full for the tax of the first fruits of the rectory, and so the vicarage was not taxed at all, and paid no tenths nor first fruits.

1418, 14 Oct. Simon Scherreve of Sculton, priest, fellow of Attleburgh college, was instituted at the resignation of John Rykedon, master of the college, at his and the rest of the fellows presentation.

1684, 15 July, Will. Kimin, A.M. on Clegat's cession, united to Besthorp. Ditto.

1717, 10 March, The Rev. Mr. John Cater, on Grey's resignation, who is now [1737] vicar, patron, and impropiator, and holds it united to the rectory of Little Ellingham. He was presented by ANTHONY CATER, Gent.

THE RECTORY MANOR

Always belonged to the rectors, for in the Conqueror's survey it appears that there were then divers lands and services belonging to the church; but at the appropriation in 1402, it was taken from it, and settled as part of the rectory on the college, and went with the rectory, and advowson of the vicarage, at the Dissolution, to the Earl of Sussex, in whose family it continued till after 1639, as the institutions shews us. In 1641, James Lloyd, Gent. and Abraham Turner, presented. It after belonged to Tho. Cockayne of Sunning, and is now owned, with the impropriation and advowson, by the Rev. Mr. John Cater, the present incumbent; the customs being the same as Berry-hull manor.

This town paid 4*l.* to the tenths, and is assessed at 733*l.* In 1603, it had 360 communicants, and now there are about 400 inhabitants. It is a vicarage endowed and augmented, in Rockland deanery and Norfolk archdeaconry. The Prior of Wymondham's temporalities in this town were taxed at 6*s.* 8*d.* and the Prior of Bokenham's at 11*s.* 9*d.* In 1382, Thomas de Fritcham and others aliened to the Prior of Fritcham 1 messuage, 4 tofts, 133 acres of land, and 45*s.* rent in Fritcham, Appilton, Hillington, Depham, Morle, Atteburgh, Wickwood, and Great Ellingham. The honour of Clare, extended hither, for in 1564, Thomas, son and heir of Roger Greene, clothier, held the pasture lands called Ishall's of the Queen, as of her honour of Clare, by knight's service.

The CHURCH is dedicated to St. James the Apostle,<sup>9</sup> who had a Gild also kept to his honour on the dedication day, and there was another kept on St. Peter's day, to his honour, in the south chapel, which is dedicated to him; the north isle chapel is called Mortimer's chapel, and was made at the expense of that family, as appears by their arms scattered about it.

The nave, two isles, and the chapels at their east ends, with the chancel, are leaded, the porch tiled, the tower is square, hath a spire on it, and five bells in it.

In 1498, Thomas Spelman was buried in the chancel; his mother was buried at Stow-Bedon, and his father at Narburgh, as his will tells us. In 1505, his son and heir was buried here, over whom, at the upper end of the church, lies a stone which had a brass plate thus inscribed,<sup>1</sup>

Orate pro Anima Venrici Spelman Armigeri, filii, et heredis Thome Spelman Armigeri, qui obiit primo die Mensis Martii Anno Domini, M.ccccccv. cuius anime propicietur Deus Amen.<sup>2</sup>

On the upper part of the stone were the arms of SPELMAN, impaling MORTIMER, and SPELMAN quartering MANNING.

In 1509, Adam Coxper of Moche Elingham was buried here, in whose will is this clause, "I geff onto the church of Elyngham afore-
"seyd, iii. acres and a rode of Ire lond, lying in a felde, called West
"Jelde, at Hesyllmere-Bush."<sup>3</sup>

Anthony Gurnay of Great Elingham, Esq. was buried in this church in 1557.<sup>4</sup>

There are two black marbles in the chancel, thus inscribed,

BESTHORP.

THIS village is called in Domesday, Besethorp, and Baconsthorp, and now Besthorp, or the Best Village, from the goodness of its soil, and plenty of wood, as Spelman in his Icenia observes; it was a rectory appendant to the two manors in this town, and each of them had a turn in its advowson; that which belonged to Plasset's manor was given by William Earl of Arundel, the second of that name, to the monks of Wimondham,<sup>8</sup> and the other, which belonged to Robert de Barent's manor,<sup>9</sup> was by him at that time released, to the same monks; and afterwards Robert, son and heir of Robert de Tateshale, and Hugh, son and heir of Sir Robert de Barent of Besthorp, confirmed their ancestor's gifts, Simon de Wanton Bishop of Norwich, consented to the appropriation, and it was appropriated accordingly, before the year 1266,<sup>1</sup> for then that Bishop died; but in or after the year 1262, because John de Alveschirche, the Bishop's Official was witness to it; the prior and convent were to be patrons of the vicarage;<sup>2</sup> the vicars were to have the house and lands belonging to the rectory, and all other profits, and the whole tithes, except those of 638 acres, and one rood,<sup>3</sup> all which lands are specified in the appropriation, and the tithes valued at 15 marks per annum, at least; but the vicars are to pay the synodals and procurations;

and afterwards, in Edward the First's time, it is thus entered in Norwich Domesday, "the Prior of Wymundham holds the church of Besthorp, appropriated to his convent, but the vicar hath the parsonage-house, and 28 acres of glebe, and receives the moiety of the tithes, and the Prior the other moiety; William Earl of Arundel, son of William and Alice, gave it to the Prior in King Henry the Second's time, in order that it might be appropriated, and its advowson continued in the convent, till Simon Bishop of Norwich appropriated it, reserving the patronage of the vicarage to the Prior, the institution to the Bishop, and the episcopal and archidiaconal dues to be paid by the vicar." At the Dissolution the impropriation and advowson came to the Crown, and there continued till Queen Elizabeth, in the 18th year of her reign, granted the portions of tithes to Richard Brokelsby, to be held at 26s. 8d. yearly rent; and in the 29th year of her reign, she granted to Edward Heron, Esq. and John Nicholas, Gent. all tithes whatsoever in Besthorp, and lands which lately belonged to Wymundham convent, and were concealed and unjustly detained from the Crown; and in the 30th year of her reign, the advowson of the vicarage and impropriation was granted to the Cleres, and was joined to the manors before 1602, by the Drurys, with which they now continue.

VICARS.

1262, Roger de Cantelupe was rector, at whose death the first vicar was instituted.

1528, 13 March, Sir Thomas Downyng, chaplain, was instituted at Horne, in the Bishop's palace there, on the resignation of John King, (who had a pension of four marks a year assigned him during life,) at the Prior's presentation, and was the last presented by the monastery. In 1535, 4 June, he was instituted to the vicarage of Lowestoft, (or Laystoft;) on the resignation of John Blomyle, at the presentation of THOMAS GODSALVE, senior, Esq. by grant of the turn from the Bishop of Norwich, and it was the same day united to Besthorp, during his life, because of the smallness of the livings. This is one of the first unions that I meet with, that assign any reason for the Bishop's uniting them. This Sir Thomas built the vicarage-house at Besthorp; over the parlour chimney-piece is this,

All you that sitt by thys fire warming,
Pray for the Soule of Sir Thon Downyng.

He died in

1559, and on July 30, Christopher Smethe, priest, was instituted, on the QUEEN'S presentation; buried 15 Dec. 1575.

1575, 26 Febr. George Copping. Ditto. He was buried here 13 Dec. 1629.

1629, George Clerk, vicar.

1683, 12 Oct. Will. Kimin, A. M. buried 12 Nov. 1715. Ditto.

1716, 2 June, Isaac Sayer, on Kimin's death. ELIZ. SHAW, widow, united to Crownthorp.

1716, 14 Febr. The Rev. Mr. Philip Carter, on the resignation of Isaac Sayer, was presented by ELIZ. SHAW, widow, and now [1737] holds it united to Tibenham.

The temporalities of the Prior of Bukenham in this town were taxed at 3s. 1d. being lands given by the lords of Bukenham castle to the priory. The lands belonging to the nuns at Marham were granted at the Dissolution to Sir Nicholas Hare, Knt. and Rob. Hare.

The Prior of Norwich had an annual rent of 12d. paid from a meadow in Besthorp, which was given by Stephen Mengy of Besthorp. The spirituals, or great tithes, belonging to the Prior of Wymondham, were taxed at 10 marks, and the temporalities belonging to that monastery, at 14s. 4d. There was a manor belonging to the rectory before the appropriation, after which it went with it, and so came joined to the other manors. In 1285, the Prior had free-warren in his demesns in Besthorp; in 1288, it was returned, that the Prior held the twentieth part of a fee in Besthorp, of Montchensie's barony, which was heretofore Aymer de Valence Earl of Pembrook's, and thus he joined to the Rectory manor.

Ebraud de Melnes gave to God and his church of St. Mary at Thetford, two parts of the tithes of his demesns in Melnes, or Melles, and Besthorp, for which the Prior of the monks of the said church was taxed at 15s.<sup>6</sup>

The vicarage was valued in the King's Books, at 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* ob. and being sworn of the clear yearly value of 48*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.* it is discharged of first fruits and tenths. In 1603, return was made, that it was in Rockland deanery, and Norfolk archdeaconry, and had 180 communicants, and was late in the patronage of the Crown, but is now granted to Anthony Drury, the elder, Esq. The town paid 2*l.* 14*s.* to the tenths, and is now [1737] assessed at 1087*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.*

The CHURCH is dedicated to all the Saints, and the north chapel to the Annunciation of the Holy Virgin, and had two gilds kept in it, of the same dedications.<sup>7</sup> Against the north wall of the chancel is a most curious monument of black and white marble, thus inscribed, Arms, Drury and Cokain impaled.

Here lyeth the Body of Sir WILLIAM DRURY, Knight, Eldest Son of Sir Anthony Drury, Knt. late one of his Majesties Justices of the Peace, and Quorum, and one of the Deputy Lieutenants of this County, who after the Death of his Father, succeeded him, both in the Commission of the Lieutenancy, and of the Peace for this County; he married Mary Eldest Daughter of William Cokain of London, Esq. by whom he had Issue, 2 sons William, and Anthony, and 3 Daughters, Bridgett, Jane, and Anne; he departed this Life at London upon the 8th Day of Nov: in the Year of our Lord, 1639, & in the 42d Year of his Age, and was shortly after solemnly interr'd in this chancell, to whose dear and lasting Memory, the said Mary his sorrowing and surviving Lady, hath erected and dedicated this Monument.

On the north side of the chancel,

The following arms were to be seen in the windows of this church, but now some of them are lost.

ORMOND, or. a chief indented az.

CLIFTON. EARL OF Arundel.

Arg. three pallets gul. ELY bishoprick, and MORTIMER, which now remains in the chapel of the annunciation, which belongs to Plassing-Hall manor, and is on the north side, and Drury's chapel is on the south, in which DRURY impales KEMP. The steeple is square and hath five bells.

This town was held by Chetelbern, of the castle of Bakenham in the Confessor's time, and was divided in the Conqueror's; but the Soke of the whole still belonged to that castle, as a member of Shropham hundred, the lord of which is paramount, and hath the leet and all superiour jurisdiction at this time. Half of this town and part of Attleburgh, belonged to Roger Bigot,<sup>3</sup> who held it of the castle, to which it was afterwards rejoined, by the marriage of Maud, his daughter, to William de Albany, lord of the castle; and this part was then called Plusey's and afterwards Plasset, and Plassing Hall manor. The other part, in the Conqueror's days, was given to Alan Earl of Richmond, of whom Thurstan held it,<sup>9</sup> and afterwards Robert de Barent, or Barent, from whom it took the name of Barent's Hall.

PLASSET, OR PLASSING HALL, MANOR,

Belonging to the castle as aforesaid, passed as that did, with the co-heiress of Albany, to Sir Robert de Tateshale, who, in 1286, had a charter of free-warren in his demean lands, at Plasset in Besthorp and Attleburgh; in 1283, he purchased three messuages, 185 acres of land, and 20s. yearly rent in Besthorp,<sup>1</sup> of Peter de Thelvetham, and added it to his manor; but in 1286, Joice, his widow, recovered her dower in it, against Sir Robert; afterwards it descended to the Bernaks; and in 1312, King Edward II. impleaded William Bernake for hindering him to present to two parts of the church of Attleburgh, who set forth his title, that that advowson belonged to his manor of Plasset's, &c. (as at large in Attleburgh.) In 1345, John de Bernak died seized of it, and it was found to be parcel of Tateshale barony, and was assigned to Joan his widow, as part of her dowry, whose son, John de Bernak, died a minor, and William his brother inherited; and at his death, Maud, his sister and sole heir, carried it to Sir Ralph de Cromwell, lord of Tateshall, her husband, from whose family it went to the Fitz-Williams, and Knevet's by moieties, as heirs to Cromwell; and in 1516,<sup>2</sup> one moiety belonged to Sir William Knevet, and the other to William Fitz-Williams of Sprotsburgh in Yorkshire, Esq. as descendants from the aunts, and heirs of Ralph, Lord Cromwell of Tateshale; and what is remarkable, the manor was returned to be held of Sir William Knevet himself, as heir of Albany, by another deduction of his pedigree, by the yearly service of a pair of gilt spurs, to be paid every Midsummer day. In 1517, William Knevet, a younger son of the family, held the whole manor of Sir Tho. Knevet, and in 1562, it belonged to William Cocket, by purchase from Cressencer, and in 1596, to Anthony Drury, in which family all the manors in this town were afterwards united.<sup>3</sup> In 1497, Maud Willoughby was lady, but it was only a jointure: the manor assumed its name from its situation, to which it exactly answers; the plashes, or splashes, (as we now call them,) are swampy places where the water often stands, and according to this etymology, I find, that in the time of King Edward I. William del Bernak held 10*l.* rent at Plassy's, and about that time Will. de Plassy, who assumed his name from the manor, of which he was head tenant, lived as farmer on the site of it, and gave it the name of Plassy Hall.

BAVENT'S MANOR

Belonged to Sir Robert de Bavent of Besethorp, in the time of King Henry III. who gave the moiety of the advowson of the rectory to Wymondham prior, as hath been observed: Picot de Bavent was his eldest son and heir, Sir Tho. de Bavent of Besthorp was lord after him, who divided it, by granting off that part, which Peter de Thelvetum sold to Robert de Tateshale, he was succeeded by Peter his son, who died in 1369, leaving it to be divided between Eleanor and Cecily, his daughters and heiresses;<sup>4</sup> and soon after it came to John Warner of Besthorp, Esq. who had no issue; for in the pedigree of Henry Warner, Esq. of Womhill Hall in Mildenhall, Suffolk, it is thus recorded: “Anno Domini, 1374, Thomas Whetenhale, a younger son of Sir James Whetenhale, (of Cheshire.) Knt. being of great acquaintance with one John Warner, Esq. (of Besthorp) in the county of Norfolk, who had no issue of his own, nor any related to him of the name; the said John Warner bequeathed his estate unto the said Thomas Whetenhale, conditionally, that the said Thomas Whetenhale would adopt himself, whereupon the said Thomas Whetenhale came into Norfolk, and called himself Warner, who did bear for his coat armour, viz. Fert, a cross ingrailed arg. as being Whetenhale's paternal coat, and for the name of Warner adds the other coat, viz. quarterly, first, party per bend, indented arg. and sab.; secondly, a fleur-de-lis or.; third as second, fourth as first, which hath, together with the Whetenhales arms, been impaled and quartered many ages, by the Warners so adopted, and Sir Robert Warner, and Sir Edward Warner, two brothers, finding upon record, that certainly their names were anciently Whetenhale, and that the cross ingrailed, &c. was their paternal coat, resolved to continue it according to their ancient bearing.” This Thomas left it to Henry Whetenhale, alias Warner, of Besthorp, who married Cecily, daughter of William Spancy or Spain, of the same, after whose death it came to Robert Warner of Besthorp, Esq. who married Margaret Barton of Besthorp, and died seized in 1488, leaving two sons; Oliver Whetenhale, alias Warner, their second son, was instituted vicar in 1445, and Henry Warner, their eldest son, married

Mary, daughter of John Blexerhasset of Southill in Bedfordshire, sister and coheir of John Blexerhasset, her brother; she outlived him, and remarried to William Drury of Besthorp, who had the manor during her life, and before her death it was released to him and his heirs, by Robert Warner of Norwich, (from whom the Womhill Hall family are descended, he being father of Sir Robert Warner of Mildenhall;) and Sir Edward Warner of Plumstele, brother of the said Robert, and so it became united to Plasset's in the Drurys.

PAGE'S MANOR

Was part of Plasset's, granted off by Sir Robert de Tateshale, to Henry Page of Besthorp, who was to hold it of him at one fee; in 1338, he settled it by fine on John Page of Besthorp, his son, and Margaret his wife, who held it in 1345; and afterwards married to Thomas Spayne, on whom it was settled, for he held it after her death; in Edward the the Fourth's time it belonged to the Dentons, and went with Felice, daughter and heir of William Denton of Besthorp, to Roger Drury of Hausted in Suffolk, who married her; and thus this manor came to the Drurys.

BRETTENHAM'S, OR BRIDGEHAM'S MANOR,

Was held by the Cursons, or Cursons, of East Carleton and Stanfeld, of Sir Robert de Tateshale, at half a fee; and in 1292, William de Curson had it. In 1335, Margaret, wife of John, son of the said William, died seized, it being then held of Shropham hundred; and Will. Curson was her son and heir, who, before 1345, had parted with it to Tho. de Hedersele, who then held it, and sold it the same year to Peter, vicar of Hocham,<sup>5</sup> and John de Brettenham, from whom it took its present name, which in time was corrupted into Bridgham's. In 1401, their heirs held it of the Lady Cromwell: in 1408, Ralph Campagne, or Chaumpanne, and Beatrice his wife, sold it to John, son of Reginald Maundeveile, by the name of Curson's manor. In 1562, Will. Cocket of Besthorp, Esq. had it, and owned it to his death in 1579, in which year he was buried in this church, Oct. 28, and the manor went to the Drurys, and became united to the rest.

There was a part granted off very early from Bacant's manor, which was held at half a fee, of the Thorps, as of Ashwell-Thorp manor; in 1328, Walter de Norwich held it of Sir John de Thorp; in 1329, Edmund de Bacunthorp held his manor in Besthorp at half a fee, of Rob. de Thorp, who had it as part of the fees of Roger Bigood Earl of Norfolk. This after came to William Cocket, Esq. and being joined to Bridgham's, went with that to the Drurys, who became possessed of all the manors, the impropriation, and advowson.

In 1267, Baldwin de Melles, or Melles, had those lands which Ubrand de Melles his ancestor had, two parts of the tithes of which he confirmed to the monks of Thetford, according to his ancestor's gift, but it was no manor.

The whole being thus united in the Drurys, it will be proper to trace that branch of the family that were lords here, having spoken of the family in general under Ridlesworth, at p. 277.<sup>6</sup> Roger Drury of Hansted in Suffolk, had by Felice, or Phyllis, daughter and heir of William Denston of Besthorp in Norfolk, William Drury, his second son, to whom he gave Besthorp. He married Margaret, daughter and sole heir of William Briggs, of Whitwell in Norfolk, by whom he had William Drury of Besthorp, who married Ursula, daughter of Rich. Coo, by whom he had two sons; Charles, who died young, and Francis, who succeeded his brother, but died without issue, leaving it to his nephew, William Drury of Besthorp, son of Rob. Drury his brother, by Eliz. Clifford his wife; he married for his second wife, Dorothy, daughter of William Brampton of Letton in Norfolk, who after remarried to Will. Cocket of Aupton, Esq. and left Anthony Drury of Besthorp, Esq. their son and heir, who was high sheriff of Norfolk in 1619, and married Anne, daughter of John Garnish of Kenton in Suffolk, for his second wife, Anne Kemp, his first wife, being buried here in 1571; but Charles and Francis, her two sons, dying without issue, it went, at his death in 1614, to Anne, his second wife, for life, who was buried here, March 31, 1634, by her husband; and it went to Sir Anthony Drury of Besthorp, his son and heir, who was knighted in 1603; he married Bridget, daughter of John Spelman of Narburgh, Esq. by whom he had a numerous issue; Sir Anthony was buried Oct. 16, 1638, and Bridget, his relict, the 28th of the same month, leaving Sir William Drury of Besthorp his son and heir, who married Mary, daughter of William Cokayn of London, skinner, and was buried here Nov. 15, 1639, leaving one son, Anthony, who was baptized Feb. 17, 1638, and was buried Sept. 15, 1640, leaving these and Chauntecler's manor to his two sisters, his coheiressees, Bridget, born Jan. 21, 1635, and Anne, baptized July 13, 1640, being born after her father's decease; Bridget first married to Charles Nedham Viscount Kilmurrey, by whom she had issue, Robert Lord Viscount Kilmurrey, who was lord of a moiety, he died in 1668, aged 13 years, and was buried here, Dame Mary, relict of Sir William Drury, his grandmother, surviving him, till June 1688, when she died, and was interred by him: Anne, the other daughter, married Philip Harbord of Stanninghall and Besthorp, Esq. by whom he had a son named William, who died young, and was buried here Sept. 7, 1678; and on the 12th Jan. following, his mother was buried by him; and on the 13th Sept. 1687, the said Philip was buried here, and his moiety descended to his three daughters, of which Sarah, his third daughter, died unmarried Jan. 31, 1689, and was buried here, leaving her part to her two sisters: Anne, married to Robert Paston, second son to Robert, Earl of Yarmouth, who sold his moiety of the moiety, to Charles Shaw, Esq. second son of Sir John Shaw of Eltham in Kent, Bart. who had married Elizabeth, the other sister, so that he became sole lord of the Harbord's moiety, and of the other also, in right of his mother, who, after the death of Viscount Kilmurrey, married Sir John Shaw aforesaid, for her second husband, so that he

The Custom of all the manors are, that the fines are at the will of the lord, and the eldest son is heir.

There are two halls, or manor-houses in this parish, now distinguished by the names of the Old Hall (or Plassing Hall) and the New Hall, which is a good building, erected by the Drurys, as their arms on the outside shew us, and is now the seat of the Shaws. ## ATLEBURGH.

THIS place without doubt hath been very famous in early times, as all authors, that speak of it, unanimously agree. If we may believe John Brame, a monk of Thetford, whose history is extant in Bennet College Library at Cambridge,<sup>8</sup> it was some time not only a city, but the metropolis of all Norfolk, founded by Atlinge, then King of that province, in order to oppose Rond, King of Theodford, and by him fortified with a ditch, wall, four gates, and four towers; and from this Atlinge he would have it called Atlinge's Burgh, or Atleburgh; but as to that part, of its towers and gates, I cannot be persuaded to credit it, there being no appearance or remains of any such walls, gates, or towers, as he speaks of, in this town, some parts of which, in all likelihood, would have remained, as well as those of other buildings, far older than these, it being unlikely that in the Danish incursions they could have time or materials to rear them up. Mr. Le Neve imagines that it was called Ethelburgh, because it might belong in the time of the Saxons to some eminent nobleman of that name, who was nearly related to the Saxon kings, and had his residence here, being induced to think thus, because this part belonged to the Crown till the Conqueror's time. But neither of these etymologies seem right, and therefore, if I may have liberty of conjecture, I think the present name shews its signification, which, it will be proper to observe, hath suffered but little change from the time of the Confessor to this day, Atleburc, Burg, or Burgh, is the same, and it being certain that the termination burgh, or borough (as we now pronounce it) always signifies a castle, fort, or such like, as the learned Spelman in his Icenia justly observes,<sup>9</sup> we may conclude that it was called At-le-Burgh, or the town at the burgh, or burgh-town, from its being situated by an ancient burgh or fortification, and from its being larger, and of more repute at that time, than its neighbours. That this burgh was a fortification of hills only, is plain, because there are no other remains, and therefore most likely was made at the time when the Danes ravaged this part of the country, and so far the old monk may be right; that when they got possession of Thetford, it is not unlikely the inhabitants of the country might assemble and fortify themselves here in opposition to their enemies, who had done the same there; and indeed I take it, that this burgh was the head of the hundred, till the neighbouring castle of Bukenham was built, after the removal of the chief of the inhabitants from it, to the present situation of the town, which is far better than its old one at the Burgh. And as a further confirmation, the Burgh is not only now called Burgh, or Borough-Street, but in Domesday, THAT is called Attelburc, and the present town is called the Other Atleburc, and that the first castle at Bakenham had its rise upon the dereliction of this burgh is likely, because the whole of this Atleburgh, at first, was not a manor held of the castle, but an actual part of the Castle manor, called the part at the Plashes, afterwards Plassets, and had two parts, or the whole of the advowson, belonging to Plasset's part, appendant to it, that is, one half to the part of Plasset's manor, which contained great part of Besthorp, and the other part as belonging to this, the other part, or third part, belonging to the manor of the other Atleburgh, where the church was built. It seems the removal at first might be occasioned by the lowness and moistness of the situation, and if so, the aforesaid monk, in his translation, might only mistake the name of the place, for a person, viz. At-ling-Burgh, or the burgh at the (103) or watery place, (or At Le Plats or Plashes, as it was called by the Normans,) for Atling's Burgh, or the Burgh of Atling; for he tells us, his history is only copied from two ancient books of the same sort, one of which was in old French, and the other in English, both of which he compared, and made his Latin translation by; and indeed to do him justice, though I am sensible the accounts of things in it do seem at first entire fables, yet upon examination several of them, if not all, are in some measure true, and the histories of the many battles in this part of the country, and especially in Giltcross, Grimshoe, this, and the adjacent hundreds, might be the excursions of the Danes, from their great rendezvous at Thetford, recorded by some body near hand at that time, and so preserved in the neighbourhood, and afterwards given to that monastery; and indeed the many tumuli in these hundreds shew us, that there were such excursions; and it is plain, that this history could not be of such light esteem, as we think it, because then, the Normans, after the Conquest, would not have thought it worth their while to have translated it into their language; and though we meet with the names of many kings, as they are called, which were never heard of but in this book, I look upon it that there might be such persons, who were heads and leaders of those bands, and as such called kings of those places, where these burghs or chief rendezvous were, and that, because their names are pure Saxon or Danish; and what induces me to think that the monk was not the inventor of these accounts, (as some would intimate,) is, because in the same book, where he descends so low, as to treat of the affairs of his own monastery, just before, and in his own time, he is a faithful historian, and is so far from giving us any fables of his own invention, that he tells us, whenever he adds any thing of the legend sort, where he had what he recites, so that I must own I am apt to think he had two copies of the history, as he asserts, and that there is more of reality in it, than at first sight we may imagine; for I find, agreeable to the assertion of its being an ancient city, that “ in the year 844, Edmund, son of Alkmund, King of Saxony, was born at Noremburg in Saxony of Queen “ Sivara, and soon after it happened that Offa, King of the East- “ Angles, who had no heir, passed through Saxony in his journey to “ the Holy Land, where he went in pilgrimage, to beseech God to “ give him an heir, and calling upon his cousin Alkmund, he adopted “ Edmund his son, his heir, and then hastened to Jerusalem, where “ having performed his vows, he returned, but in his return, at a “ place called St. George's Arm, he was taken violently ill, upon “ which, he immediately sent for his council, appointed Edmund his “ successour, and sent him his ring, which he received from the “ Bishop, when he was made King of the East-Angles; after he was “ dead, the Angles went to the King of Saxony, and demanded “ Edmund his son, and received him, as Offa's successour, and “ hastening home, they landed at Hunstanton, from whence they “ carried him to the ancient city called Atleburgh, where he lived a “ whole year, yielding himself up chiefly to devotion, here he per“ fected what he had begun in Saxony, namely, to repeat all the “ Psalms without a book, and at the year's end, he went to Suffolk, “ &c.”<sup>1</sup> From whence it appears, that it was certainly then a place of great repute, and might be afterwards reformed, upon the Danes coming to these parts; it is plain, that the hills of the fortification or burgh were very remarkable in Henry the Second's time, for then the family that dwelt within them took their surname from them; William de Fossato de Atleburc<sup>2</sup> lived at that time, and in 1285, William, son of William de Fossato lived there, who with his descendants, are called in old English, “ atte the Dyke,” (now Dikes, or Dix,) and all these things, being duly weighed and compared, I could not omit them, knowing how much the account of Atleburgh hath invalidated the rest of his history. And thus, having given you my thoughts of the original of this place, I shall proceed to treat of the several manors, &c. which have been, or now are, in this town.

PLASSET, OR PLASSING HALL MANOR,

Belonged to Toradre, a Dane, in the Confessor's time,<sup>3</sup> and another part to Turkill, one of that nation also; which shews us that the Danes had got possession of this place, and that its decay was owing to their seizing it. After Toradre's expulsion, or death, it belonged to the castle, and continued in the Crown till the Conqueror gave it to Roger Fitz-Renard, at whose death it was rejoined to the castle, to which it had belonged, almost ever since its foundation, which in all appearance was owing to the Danes forcing them hence; upon which, the castle was first erected, in order to oppose them, and accordingly, when they were forced to quit possession, the whole was seized, and added to the castle, with which it was given to William de
Albany,<sup>4</sup> and descended with the coheiress of that family<sup>5</sup> to Sir
Robert de Tateshale, and from him to the Bernaks, as Plassets<sup>6</sup> in Besthorp did, which was a part of this manor, to which one third part of the advowson belonged, and another third part to this, so that there were two third parts belonging to Plassets, this and Besthorp being reputed as one manor; for in 1312, King Edward II.<sup>7</sup> summoned Sir William de Bernak, to shew cause why he hindered him presenting to two parts of the church of Atleburgh, which was void, and to which he ought to present, because the advowson was parcel of the inheritance of Hugh de Albany Earl of Arundel, at whose death the King seized his estate and advowsons, because he held of him in chief, and died without issue,<sup>8</sup> and his inheritance was divided among his four sisters, all which, (except Cecily,) had their several parts, in manors, lands, and advowsons, assigned to them, as the custom was; but as neither the said Cecily, nor her heirs, had requested the King to grant out of his hands her part of the advowsons, therefore the advowson of two parts of this church, which was not assigned to any of the other parceners, remained in the King's hands, as belonging to the part of Robert de Montealt, heir of the said Cecily: to which William answered, and proved that the advowson belonged, to the manor of Plasset's, which was assigned to Robert de Tateshale, who infeoffed him in the said manor; and that if it had not been so, it could not belong to the King, because Plasset's manor is not held of the King in chief; upon which Sir William recovered the advowson, and presented accordingly. In 1285, Sir Robert de Tateshale had view of frankpledge, assize of bread and ale, free-warren, gallows, and a Thursday market in Atleburgh, as belonging to Plassinghall in Atleburgh and Besthorp, all which were conveyed by him to Sir William Bernak, and his heirs, who died seized in 1338, and Alice his wife survived him; she infeoffed Hugh Bernak, clerk, in this and other manors; (as you may see at p. 374.) Hugh died in 1340, and it went to John Bernak, and from him, (as you may see at p. 496) till 1438, and then Ralf. Lord Cromwel, who had two turns in the advowson, (Sir John Clifton, Knt. having the third, in right of Margaret his mother,) granted his advowson to Sir John de Radcliff, Knt. and Thomas his son, and his heirs, together with the manor of Plasset's in Atleburgh, (which was now separated from Plasset's in Besthorp,) and so it became joined to Mortimer's manor, with which it now remains, the third turn in the advowson of the two parts being joined before 1516.

BACONSTHORP, CROWSHALL, OR COPSY MANOR,

Belonged to Alfred, an Englishman, at the Conquest, who held it of Bakenham castle,<sup>9</sup> to which it was after joined, by King Henry the First's giving it to William de Albany, who added it to Plasset's manor, with which it continued, till the said William infeoffed Ahured de Atleburne in it, who was to hold this and other estates of his gift, by the service of two knights fee; in 1251, Jeffery Craze owned it, from whose family it took its name; and in 1323, it was settled on John Oldman for life, by Richard de Bernham, and Richard de Tadenham, with remainder to Walter, son of Margaret of Atleburgh;<sup>1</sup> in 1337, Edmund de Baconsthorp,<sup>2</sup> and Margaret his wife, settled this and Welbourne manor and advowson on themselves for life, and their heirs in tail; and in 1347, this, and Caster by Norwich, was settled on Thomas Moque, and Margaret his wife, and their heirs; and in 1362, Sir Thomas Moque, Knt. died seized of the manor of Castre, the manor and advowson of Merkeshale, the manor of Crowshall in Atleburgh, and of Little-Taynton, in Gloucestershire, leaving them to Edmund, his son and heir; in 1393, the manor of Crowshall called Copsy was settled by Ralf Gedding, on Cecily his wife, Richard Caus, Richard de Gegh, and Benedict of Hocham, who in the fine is called Benedict Cosyn of Hocham, being trustees; in 1397, William March, Knt. had it, and in 1400, Thomas and John March, sons of Sir Will. March, Knt. held Crowshall, and a tenement called Kingshale in Atleburgh; in 1457, Sir John Clifton, Knt. held the manor of Baconsthorp, Copsy, or Crowshall, and had license to assign it in mortmain, if he pleased, but it seems he did not, for it fell soon after into Mortimer's manor; it took its name of Baconsthorp from its ancient lord, and is now by corruption called Bansthorp, which is a hamlet with a leet belonging to it, where the lord of the hundred who keeps it swears a constable yearly, whose power extends to this hamlet only.

CHAUNTICLER'S, COMMONLY CALLED CHANCELER'S,

In Atleburgh, was part of Mortimer's manor, granted by William de Mortimer to William de Pongaunt, who held it of him in 1296, at a quarter of a fee, and it extended into Elyngham and Besthorp; in 1359, Thomas Chaunticler of Atleburgh, and Katherine his wife, owned it; this Thomas built the north chapel or transept of the church, for in his will dated 1379, in which year he died, he ordered his body to be buried in his own chapel,<sup>3</sup> which he had built, adjoining to the north side of the church of Atleburgh, leaving Katherine his widow, Thomas de Brampton, and Alice his wife, (his daughter and heiress, I suppose,) executors, to whom this manor went after Katherine's death; for in 1481, Thomas de Brampton, Esq. died, and was buried in this chapel between his two wives, Alice and Joan, the last of which died the year before him, leaving Robert Brampton of Atleburgh, Gent. his son and heir, who died in Oct. 1500, his will being proved Dec. the 2d in that year,<sup>4</sup> leaving his manors of Haxham and Flegghall in Winterton, to Anne his wife, whom he joined in executorship with Henry Warner, Gent. of Besthorp; William Brampton, his brother, seems to be trusted with the care of his sons and daughters; in 1547, William Brampton, Esq. son, I suppose, of the said Robert, was lord; and in 1561, William Brampton, Esq. and Elizabeth his wife, owned the manor of Chauceler's, in Atleburgh and

Besthorp, to the last of which it was soon after joined, and, I suppose, hath continued so ever since.

In 1619, Robert Earl of Susser was lord of the manors of BRIDG-HAM's and CORIE's in Atleburgh, which in 1517, belonged to Peter Moulde and Thomas Pooley, and were now united to Mortimer's; and this is all I meet with, in relation to those manors.

ATLEBURGH MORTIMER'S

Contained the third part of Atleburgh, or all the Other Atleburc, or the whole of that part where the present church and town stands; and accordingly a third part of the advowson always belonged to it, and continues to this day a separate institution. In the time of the Confessor, Turkill the Dane had possession of this Atleburc,<sup>5</sup> which was valued at 40s. but was risen to 3*l.* in the Conqueror's time, who gave it as a manor of that value, to Roger Fitz-Renard; the whole of both the Atleburghs, or of the present town, which includes both, was then about 4 miles long and 2 miles broad, and paid to the Danegeld, 34*l. ob.*; it came to the Mortimer's very early, if not in the time of the Conqueror, with whom that family came into England; there are two towns in France of this name, one in Normandy, the other in Poictu, both written Mortimer, but neither of them being by the sea side, Monsieur de Valois imagines them to be called Mortimars, and so should be rendered in Latin, De Mortuo Marisco, and not De Mortuo Mari: and indeed it might be anciently written, by abbreviation, (which was usual in those times,) De Mortuo Mar. which answers either to Mari or Marisco, though I think it is much the same, for I suppose that mare signifies not only the sea, but any large stagnation of waters, and that hence is derived our English word mere, meer, or mare for a large water, and thus the Mare Mortuum, which is a lake in Judca, so called because it never moves, might give name to these places, which though they were not situated by the sea, yet stood near some such stagnated waters or fens. Mr. Dugdale<sup>6</sup> thinks that Robert de Mortimer who lived in King John's time, was the first of the family that was concerned in Norfolk, and the Atlas (fo. 340) tells us that they are descended of the Lords Mortimer of Wigmore, both which are mistakes, for the arms of this family and those of Wigmore being always quite different, is a plain argument to me, that they are of a different extract, and might assume their names from different places; that this family was of French rise is evident from the very arms, viz. Or, semé de fleurs-de-lis, sab. the very arms of France at that time, only the colours varied; and as to the other point, the first of the family that I meet with here was Sir WILLIAM DE MORTUOMARI, or MORTIMER, of Atleburc, Knt. whose effigies, riding full speed on horse back, with his sword drawn in one hand, and his shield of arms, as before, in his other, is appendant, to an original deed of his in the Cotton Library, without date, by which he granted to John de Bernham, chaplain, son of Henry de Estgate, a messuage in Estgate in Bernham, which is now called Bernham Broom.

The next that I find here was Sir Robert Mortimer, Knt. who lived in the time of King Henry II. In Somner's Antiquities of Canterbury we read, that in 1181, in a procession at Christ's church in Canterbury, Sir Robert Mortimer, who was under excommunication for his contumacy, because he would not obey the law, being questioned for a wrong done to the church of Canterbury, in taking from the manor of Deepham in this county a certain parcel of land belonging to the monks, intruded himself into the company, Prior Alon espying him there, informed the Archbishop (who was then present) of it, and that a second time, because the Archbishop would have connived at it; but when the whole company was come into the church, Sir Robert with them, and mass begun, the Prior requires the convent to cease, who obeyed, and so the excommunicate, to his shame, was by a strong hand thrown out of the church, and then they proceeded in their devotions.<sup>7</sup>

He was succeeded by William, his son and heir, and he by

Sir Robert, his son and heir, who, in the year 1194, was forced to find sureties to King Richard the First, because he had presumed to hold a tournament<sup>8</sup> without royal license; but upon Roger Bigod Earl of Norfolk, Jeffrey de Sai, and William Earl Warren, becoming sureties for him, the King ordered the sheriff to give him seizin of his lands again. In 1195, a fine was levied to the said Sir Robert Mortimer of Atleburgh and John Le Strange of five knights fees, in Hunstanton, (or Hunstanton,) Totington, Ringstede and Snitterton, all which Robert acknowledged to belong to John and his heirs, who gave to Sir Robert all his land which he had in Totington, with the appurtenances to be held of him, by homage and the service of a whole knight's fee, except a twentieth part, excepting also out of the appurtenances, the church of Totington, which the said John gave in pure alms to the church of St. Mary at Caumpes in Suffolk, with the consent of the said Robert, who was to warrant to the said John and his heirs four knights fees in Hunstanton, Ringstede, and Snitterton. This Sir Robert, and William his son, were both against King John in his baron's wars,<sup>9</sup> in the year 1205;<sup>1</sup> and in 1215, Sir Robert being then also in arms with the rebellious barons, forfeited his lands in Lincolnshire.<sup>2</sup>

In 1218,<sup>3</sup> Sir William de Mortimer held one knight's fee here, and in Bernham, (Broom,) Little Elingham, and Tofts, and half a fee in

<sup>8</sup> A tournament, otherwise called justing, or tilting, was a martial exercise of armed knights, encountering one another with spears or lances, a diversion in ancient times much used, but now quite laid aside; no one could hold any public tournament without royal license, at that time, for fear of any conspiracies that might be raised against the government, under that pretence.

<sup>3</sup> Sir Robert de Mortimer was dead sometime before 1230, (I suppose about 1217,) for in that year his widow, who had been some time married to William de Stuteville, without the King's license, had pardon for so doing.

Stanford and Bukenham, (Parva.) and another half fee in Scoulton, of the Earl Warren; in 1250, he had a charter for free-warren in his manors of Atleburgh, Bernham, and Scoulton, in Norfolk, and Kingston and Foxton, in Cambridgeshire; he was succeeded by Sir Robert de Mortimer, his son and heir, who lived in the year 1263, when the barons rose against King Henry III.<sup>4</sup> among whom Sir Henry Hastings, who was very active against the King, came and besieged the castle of Bukenham, because Sir Robert de Tateshale, the second of that name, who was owner of it, held it, and declared openly for the King, and great part of the neighbouring country sent men and arms, and what assistance they could to him, in order to enable him to endure the siege; but among others, our Sir Robert de Mortimer<sup>5</sup> sent a servant of his called Leonine, to the castle during the siege, with some private information to the besieged, (as it should seem,) for the siege being raised upon it, Sir Henry went to Sir Robert's manors in this county, and burnt the houses, and wasted the stocks found upon them; whether Sir Robert himself was killed I do not know, but he died this very year, for in the year following

William de Mortimer, his son and heir, was in the custody of the Earl Warren, who now was of the King's side,<sup>6</sup> so that he and his goods were safe, and protected by the castle. Sir William being always attached, as well as his father, to the King's side, was summoned by the King to attend his service among his judges and council. In 1282, he obtained a charter for a market at Stanford in this county, upon Tuesday in every week, and a fair on Whitson-Eve, Whit-Sunday, and the morrow following; in 1285, he demanded against the Prior of Shouldham the advowson of Stanford church,<sup>7</sup> and set forth his pedigree, from Robert de Mortimer, who was seized of that advowson in Henry the Second's time, and presented Richard de Grenwescill thereto, viz. Robert aforesaid had issue, William, his son and heir, who had Robert, his son and heir, who had William, his son and heir, who had issue Robert, who had issue this Sir William the demandant; by which record the truth of the pedigree is plainly proved, when it would have been difficult otherwise, there being so many collateral branches of this noble family, that had estates here, and in diverse parts of this county. In 1285, he had the King's letters of protection during his absence beyond sea, about the King's business, and in the same year had liberty of free-warren, assize of bread and ale, view of frankpledge, and weyff, allowed him in this manor. In 1293, King Edward going then into Gascoign, he had command to fit himself with horse and arms, (as the chief men in England then did,) and to attend the King at Portsmouth, on Sept. 1. to assist him against the French,<sup>8</sup> and in 1296, was summoned to parliament, among the Barons of the realm, in which year, being again in France with the Earl of Lincoln, to relieve Bellagard, at that time besieged by the Earl of Arras, he was taken prisoner, and carried to Paris, where he died, as it seems, being then called William de Mortimer of Kingstone. The book of Woodbridge saith, that this

Sir William, lord of the manor here, founded a chapel of the Holy Cross, and that he died Tuesday, November the 12th, 1297, and is buried in his own chapel; all which is true, though Mr. Weaver seems to misunderstand it;<sup>9</sup> for the college here, which was afterwards founded by Sir Robert Mortimer, his grandson, being dedicated to the Holy Cross, made him doubt which was the real founder, when the truth is, they were different foundations; the chapel of the Holy Cross founded by Sir William for his own interment is now standing, and is called Mortimer's chapel, it being the south transept or chapel, opposite to Chanticleer's, which is on the north side, and by reason of the officiating priests that daily served in these chapels, before the foundation of the college, this church was in the collegiate form, and had service performed in it, according to the collegiate manner. By his will, dated in 1295, it appears, that Robert de Buuns rector of Scoulton, Jeffrey Fitz-Walter, parson of the third part of Atleburgh, and Richard de Helmingham, parson of Bykereston, or Bixton, were his executors. He held the manors of Berham, Scoulton, and Atleburgh of the Earl Warren at 6 fees, and had a capital manor-house and 243 acres of land adjoining, a wood of 469 acres, a windmill, and 43*l.* yearly rents, besides another messuage and lands held of Sir Robert de Puteshale, by the payment of two sparhawks a year. He died seized of Kingstone in Cambridgeshire, Herleveston in Lincolnshire, Atleburgh, Scoulton, and Berham in Norfolk,<sup>1</sup> leaving

CONSTANTINE, his son and heir, then 16 years old, whom the King seized as his ward; but in 1298, John Earl Warren sued the King for his wardship, which belonged to him, in right of the manor of Atleburgh, which was held of him, and was unjustly seized by the escheator, while the Earl was in the King's service in Scotland, who as unjustly assigned to [Alice] the relict of the said William, much more than her just dower, upon which the Earl had his ward, and took from Alice those lands which she enjoyed above her dower; and the same year the said Constantine [by the Earl his guardian] sued Joan, late wife of Gilbert Peche, for committing waste in his manor of Kingstone, while she had the custody of it; in 1305, he obtained a charter for a market and fair to be kept at Kingston; in 1307, he was one of the great men in the retinue of John de Warren Earl of Surrey, who was then with the King in France, at his interview and marriage with Isabel, daughter of Philip King of France; in 1309, he held his manors and lands in Atleburgh, Elingham, and Berham-Parva, of the Earl Warren, at one fee; and in 1310, had a charter for a yearly fair at his manor of Atleburgh, and was in the Scotch expedition; and again in 1313 and 1314, in which years he had license to found a chantry at his manor of Kingston, and to make a castle of his house at Scoulton in Norfolk; in 1315, he settled Atleburgh on himself and Sibil his wife, for life, Henry de Spectishall, parson of Kingston, and John de Berham, parson of Bykereston being trustees; in 1329, upon the death of Thomas de Cailly, the custody of Bukenham castle was committed to him; he had two wives, Katherine and in 1298; but they were dead or had released it before 1310, for then Sir Constantine Mortimer, lord of it, had a grant for a fair to be held yearly at Foxton.

Sibil, who died the 9th of Sept. and he the 12th of Nov. following, in the year 1334, and were buried in Mortimer's chapel, leaving

SIR CONSTANTINE MORTIMER, Knt. his son and heir, who was of full age; for the year following, viz. 1335, he was Steward of the Household to Elianor Countess of Gueldres, [the King's sister,] and had an allowance of 22*l.* for the charges of his men and horses in that service; and in 1337,<sup>2</sup> he had a charter for free-warren, in all his lordships and lands in Atleburgh, Besthorp, Scoulton, Elingham-Parva, Rocklond Tofte, Catetun, Tomeston, Totington, Stanford, Bukenham-Parva, Bekerston, and Corston in Norfolk, Kingston and Foxton in Cambridgeshire, and Herleveston in Lincolnshire. In 1341, he was summoned to parliament among the barons, but never after, and was the same year in that expedition made by the King into France, one of the retinue to Ralph Lord Stafford, and so he was also in the expedition in the year 1344; in 1343, he released to Joan de Willughby Lady of Eresby, his right in the sixth part of the manors of Eggfeld, Walcote and Chatgrave, by deed dated at Norwich, to which the seal of his arms is appendant, with this circumscription, SIGILLUM CONSANTINI DE MORTEMER.

In 1349, he had the King's license to travel to Rome, with one valet, 2 horses, and 2 servants; in 1351, an invasion being then threatened by the French, he was joined in commission with John D'Engaive, for arraying of all men that had able bodies, and sufficient estates, in Cambridge and Huntingdoushires, for the defence of the realm; he died in 1354, and leaving no issue by Agnes his wife,

SIR ROB. DE MORTIMER, his brother,<sup>3</sup> became sole heir, both to him, and Sir Constantine his father; he was lord of Great Elingham, (see p. 483,) and had two wives; Margery Fastolf, his first wife, died in 1341, but Margery, his second wife, outlived him, and was alive in 1388. This Sir Robert founded the college or chantry of the Holy Cross in Atleburgh, and was buried here in 1387; he had two sons, Constantine Mortimer, Esq. his youngest son, was possessed of the manors of Great Elingham, Bernham, Bekerston, and Corston in Norfolk, and had free-warren allowed him to them all in 1405; but

SIR THO. MORTIMER, his eldest son, died before him, beyond sea, leaving issue by Mary his wife, who died May 2, 1406; she was daughter of Nicholas Park, Esq. own mother to the great Sir John Fastolf of Caster by Yarmouth, in Norfolk;<sup>4</sup> for in his will dated Nov. 3d, 1459, he desired his substance to be disposed of in the best <sup>2</sup> In 1332, there was a John de Mortimer of Atleburgh, Knt. and Eleanor his wife, who settled the manor of Preston in Suffolk, and Steleye, on Thomas of Ipswich, vicar of Preston, and Nicholas de Hoo, chaplain; but whether it was sold to Thomas, or settled only in trust, I know not. This Sir John, I take it, was Sir Constantine's uncle, being a younger son of Sir William Mortimer, and brother to Sir Constantine, senior.

<sup>3</sup> There was a third brother, viz. Sir Thomas Mortimer of Atleburgh, who was dead before 1400, and died seized of a part of Atleburgh which is called a manor: and in 1403, Agnes Lady Bardolf, widow of Sir Thomas Mortimer, made her will; from him, I suppose, descended Robert Mortimer, who was one of Sir John Carbonel's feoffees in 1421, and made his will in 1465, which was proved in 1469, in which year he died.

<sup>4</sup> From Sir John Fastolf's will, by which I have corrected many errors in this pedigree, for all the pedigrees I ever meet with of this family contradicted one another.

ELIZABETH MORTIMER, the eldest, who married, in her grandfather's life-time, to Sir Ralph Bigot of Stockton, and had her portion assigned her on her marriage, viz. part of this manor, which was now made a separate manor, Berryhall manor in Elingham,<sup>2</sup> Ladies manor in Rockland,<sup>3</sup> &c. for which reason, she had nothing more at her grandfather's death; she had three husbands; first Sir Ralph Bigot, Knt.<sup>4</sup> who died in 1406; secondly Henry Pakenham, and lastly Tho. Manning, to whom she gave all her estate;<sup>5</sup> he afterwards re-married to a daughter of Sir Thomas Jenny.

CECILY, the next daughter, first married to Sir John de Herling, Knt.<sup>6</sup> and afterwards to John Ratcliff of Atleburgh, Esq. and MARGERIE, the third daughter, married Sir John Fitz-Ralf of Great-Elingham, Knt.

And between these two, Sir Robert Mortimer, their grandfather, divided his estate; for he ordered the parson of Sculton, Henry de Pakenham, senior, and his other feoffees, that they should pay 350 marks, to Sir John Herling, Knt. as the marriage portion of Cecily, his grand-daughter, whom he had married, and 300 marks to Sir

In 1403, the Lady Cecily de Herling was found to hold this manor at one fee of the Earl Warren. In 1411, she was married to

This John was son of James Ratcliff, Esq. and was the first that advanced that family to the dignity and honour that it afterwards possessed, being a brave champion in war, even from his youth, for which he was so much in the favour of that victorious prince, King Henry V.<sup>2</sup> that in the first year of his reign he granted an annuity of 40 marks a year to him and Cecily his wife, and the longest liver of them, to be received by half yearly payments, at Easter and Michaelmas, out of the manor of Tunstede in Norfolk, which belonged to the King's honour or dutchy of Lancaster, upon special trust and condition that the said John should not be retained, or serve any one in war, but himself only, during his life; and as a further mark of favour, another grant passed the same day, to him only, during his life, of another annuity of 25 marks a year, issuing out of all the lands and demans of that dutchy in Norfolk, to enable him the better to perform his service, both which annuities were constantly paid him by the receiver of the dutchy; and from this time he constantly attended the King in all his wars. He was a squire only at the battle of Shrewsbury, and was knighted by King Henry V. upon his landing at (Quies de Caux) commonly called Kildeaux,<sup>3</sup> where the Seine quietly runs into the sea; and the next day went with his master to the town of Harflue, which stands on that river, and besieged it on all sides, and was at its surrender; after which the King ordained the Duke of Exeter, his uncle, Captain and Governour of that town, who established Sir John Fastolf, his lieutenant, there, with 1500 men, (or as some say) 2036 knights, of which the Baron of Carew, and Sir Hugh Lutterell, were his two counsellors. In 1415, he was in the battle of Agincourt, in that part which was commanded by the Duke of Exeter, where he behaved so gallantly, that he was soon after made the King's Receiver in his city and dominion of Vernevil in Normandy; and when the King returned into England, he went with the Duke, and staid with him and Sir John Fastolf at Harflue, from whence they soon after made a great inroad with 3000 Englishmen into Normandy, almost to the city of Roan, and got abundance of riches and prisoners; but as they returned, the new made Constable of France, hoping to win honour in his first enterprise, having with him about 5000 horsemen, encountered them, and a sore conflict ensued, in which the Duke lost 300 of his footmen, and was forced to retire into an orchard, which was strongly fenced with thorns, so that the Englishmen kept them off, and stayed there all night, and went towards Harflue in the morning, which the French being advertised of, followed and overtook them on the sands near Chiefe de Caux (or Quies de Cauz) and there attacked them, but in the end were quite discomfited, and many of them slain by the English, who came safe to Harflue, to the Constable's disgrace; this was called by some the battle of Kidcaux, and by others, the battle of Vallemont. Soon after this, the Constable (to retrieve his lost honour) besieges them in Harflue, but by the valiant behaviour of the Duke, Sir John Fastolf, our Sir John Ratcliff, and others, the town was manfully defended, till the King's navy, under the command of the Duke of Bedford, came to their assistance, and meeting with the French navy at the mouth of the Seine, engaged and vanquished it, sunk 500 ships, went up the river and refreshed the town with victuals and money; the Constable hearing the navy was vanquished, raised his siege and returned to Paris, with less glory than he expected. In the year 1417, he was at the taking of the castle of Touque, the city of Caen, the castle of Coursie, the city of Sces, the town of Faleis, and at the great siege of the city of Roan,<sup>4</sup> being then in the King's troop, which joined with my Lord of Gloucster's, laid before St. Hillary's gate, the rest of the generals encompassing the whole town, which had then (according to historians) 21,000 souls in it, and such resolute commanders and governours among them, as swore to each other never to yield the city, as long as they could hold sword in hand, upon which ensued one of the greatest sieges that the history of that age furnishes us with, which is largely recited in Holinshed's history,<sup>5</sup> together with the miserable famine in the city during the latter part of the siege, "¶ (says he) ¶ should rehearse

“ how deerlie dogs, cats, mice, and cats, were sold within the town, “ and how greedilie then were by the poore people eaten and deuoured, “ &c. the reader might lament their extreme miseries,” which passage I cannot but observe, to shew among other examples, the great fidelity of this historian, for in the old roll before-mentioned, is this passage, “ Furthymor, as towchyng to the derth of vytayles withyn “ thys forseyd cytee, one buschell of whete was worth v. scutys, one “ lofe, j. frank, one dog, j. frank, one kat, ij.s. sterl. j. rat, vjd. sterl. “ and as towchyng all other vitailles, it was spendit er that we com “ in to the cytee.” It is plain that Sir John Ratcliff and Sir John Fastolf had done eminent services in this siege, for immediately after the latter was made Governour, or Captain of Conde Noreau and the former of the castle of Fronsak in Aquitain, and had 1000 marks per annum, allowed him for the guard thereof.<sup>6</sup> He was elected Knight of the Garter, by his royal master, in 1420, and died before St. George's feast in that year, (for then, his sword, helmet, &c. were offered,) and was interred in the choir of this church,<sup>7</sup> leaving

Sir JOHN RATCLIFF, Knt. his son and heir, who inherited his father's courage as well as estate, being well known to the King, and having constantly attended the wars with his father, was upon his death made Governour of Fronsak castle, and of the castle of Burdeaur in Gascoign, in which posts he behaved himself so well, that King Henry VI. in the first year of his reign, retained him to serve him as seneschal or steward of the dutchy of Aquitain, and assigned him 4 marks a day for his own salary, and 20 marks a piece per annum for his 200 archers. In 1425, he was nominated one of the knights companions of the Order of the Garter at St. George's feast at Windsor, in the 4th year of the King's reign, by John Duke of Bedford, Regent of France, the Lieutenant, and the Companions, Sir John Fastolf (whom the Lieutenant had first nominated) and he, having equal votes, Sir John Ratcliff was now chosen, as named by the Regent, Sir John Fastolf being elected at St. George's feast the next year; soon after this, he was again retained to serve the King in the French wars, with 100 men at arms, (of which number he himself was to be one,) four other knights, the rest squires, besides his 200 archers. In 1432, upon humble remonstrance, that there was due to him in arrear, for those and other services, no less than 7029*l.* he had divers lands, rents, &c. in Wales assigned him for payment of it; in the 13th of Henry VI. he was sent to Arras, to treat with the Dolphin of France, and the year following was Lieutenant of Calais, when the Duke of Burgundy laid siege to that garrison for three weeks; but he lived not long after, for having exercised himself in arms 28 years, he died in the 16th year of this King's reign, and was buried by his ancestors in the choir of this church, leaving Thomas Ratcliff and Robert Latham his executors, who, in the 19th of the King's reign, had a grant of all the revenues of Bridgewater, and other ports, to discharge a debt of 7015*l.* due from the King, for Sir John's services, as Seneschal of Aquitain, and Constable of the castle of Fronsak; some say he died in the 19th of Henry VI. but whether in the 16th or 19th, all agree that he died seized of Atleburgh-Mortimer's, Newnham, and Foxton in Cambridgeshire, &c. In 1452, Katherine his widow was buried here; she was daughter and coheir of Sir Edward Burnell, Knt. and wife of Sir John Ferrers, Knt. and after of Sir John Ratcliff; she left Billingford manor and advowson, held of the King as of the honour of Hatfield-Peverell, by the rent of 6s. 6d. per annum, and not in capite, to

JOHN RATCLIFF, Esq. their son and heir, who, according to Mr. Le Neve, married Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Walter Lord Fitz-Walter; in 1440, he obtained a pardon of intrusion, for entering his lands without license; in 1444, Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Walter Lord Fitz-Walter, then married to John Ratcliff, Esq. proved her age; he was killed at Ferrybridge, (as you may see at p. 10.) in 1416, being then Lord Fitz-Walter, and left

JOHN RATCLIFF, Esq. his son and heir, nine years old, whose wardship the King granted to Elizabeth his mother,<sup>8</sup> who then dwelt at Atleburgh; and the same year an inquisition was taken after his death, upon the oaths of Robert Morley and Thomas Brampton, Esqrs. who affirmed that John Ratcliff, the father of this John, at his death, held Southmere, Atleburgh, Dockyng, Hemenhale, Thynning, and Ryston manors, and that he died March 28, 1416, having been 24 years married to Elizabeth Fitz-Walter, whose son

JOHN, in 1455, the 1st of King Henry VII. was summoned to parliament as Lord Fitz-Walter, and was joined in commission with Sir Reginald Bray, Knt. for exercising the office of chief justice of all the forests beyond Trent, being at that time Steward of the King's household, and had this year a special livery of all his lands; in 1486, he was associated with Jasper Duke of Bedford, and others, to exercise the office of High Steward of England, at the Queen's coronation; but in 1493, he, Sir Thomas Thaxwys, Sir Robert Ratcliff,<sup>9</sup> and Sir Simon Mundeford, were attainted of treason, for which the two last were beheaded, and the Lord Fitz-walter being pardoned as to life, was sent to Calais, there to be kept in hold,<sup>1</sup> but endeavouring to escape from thence, he was beheaded, and so forfeited his estate to the Crown;<sup>2</sup> but yet

ROBERT, his son and heir, found much favour; for in 1505, Nov. 3, he was restored to his honour, by letters patent of that date, and soon after there were five several fines levied, by which the estate was conveyed to Richard Bishop of Winchester, Sir Tho. Lovell, James Hobart, Knt. and other trustees, who settled the whole on the said Robert, and his heirs, except the manors of Southmere, Dockyng, Billingford, East Ryston, &c. in Norfolk, which were settled on Margaret his mother, for life, remainder to him and his heirs; he was made Knight of the Bath, at the coronation of King Henry VIII. having obtained an act of parliament to revoke his father's attainder, after which he became one of the most remarkable men of that age; in 1512, he attended the King in his expedition to Therovene and

<sup>9</sup> I take it it was this Sir Robert Ratcliff that made his will in 1496, and ordered to be buried on the south (part) of the chapel of Hunstanton, &c. as at large in Hunstanton.

Tournay; in 1522, he led the van of the King's army sent into France, under the command of the Earl of Surrey, in which and other employments he merited so well, that he was made Viscount Fitz-Walter, and afterwards Earl of Sussex; (as you may see at p. 11.) He was one of the peers that presented the articles to the King, against Cardinal Wolsey, one of those nobles that represented in their declaration, sent to Pope Clement VII. that unless he complied and permitted the King to be divorced from Queen Catherine, his supremacy would not be long acknowledged in England. This Earl obtained a special patent to himself and his heirs, to exercise the office of Sever, at dinner time, at the coronation of all the future Kings and Queens of this realm, with the fee of 20*l.* per annum for that service, payable out of the Exchequer, and was afterwards made Lord High Chamberlain of England for life. In 1541, he obtained a grant of the site of the abbey of Clive in Somersetshire, with the revenues belonging to it, and also of the college or chantry of Atleburgh in Norfolk, with all its revenues, and the year following he died at Chelsey, and was buried in St. Lawrence Poultney church in London, but was some years after removed and buried at Boreham, by his son and grandson. He was succeeded by

HENRY RATCLIFF Earl of Sussex, Viscount Fitz-Walter, Lord Egremont and Burnell, his son and heir by his first wife,<sup>3</sup> who was made Knight of the Bath at the coronation of Queen Anne Bullen; and the first of Edward VI. had the command of 1600 demi-launces, in the expedition then made into Scotland, in which service being unhorsed, he narrowly escaped with his life; he was in so much favour at that time, that in the act for dissolving the chantries, colleges, free chapels, &c. which was passed this year, he had this clause inserted therein, " Provided alwaies, and be it enacted by the Authoritie
" aforesaid, that this Act, ne anie thing therein contamed, shall extend " to the College or Chanterie of Atleborough, in the Countie of Nor" folk, which the said late King Henrie the Eight, gave to Robert, late " Erie of Sussex, & to his Heires, but that Henrie, now Erie of Sus-
" ser, Sonne and Heire to the said late Erie, his Heires and Assignes,
" shall and maie by Authoritie of this Act, have and enjoy the said
" College and Chanterie, and all Manors, Landz, Tenements, Adbow-
" sons, Tithes, Pensions, Portions, and other Hereditaments thereto " belonging or appertaining, any thing in this Act to the Contrarie in
" anie wise notwithstanding."<sup>4</sup> Upon the death of Edward VI. he was the first that appeared on the behalf of Queen Mary, for which reason she immediately made him warden and chief justice of all the forests south of Trent; he was also Knight of the most noble Order of the Garter. By his testament, dated July 27, A<sup>o</sup> 1555,<sup>5</sup> he bequeathed his body to be buried in the parish church of Atleburgh, appointing a tomb to be there erected over his grave; notwithstanding which, I believe he was not buried here, for dying at Sir Henry Sidney's house in Chanon-Roze, Westminster, in 1556, he was buried by his father and mother, in the north isle of the church of St. Lawrence Poultney in London, and with them removed and buried by Thomas his son, at Boreham in Essex, the said Thomas desiring in his will, that it might be so.

THOMAS Earl of Sussex, his son and heir, by the Lady Howard, inherited; he was sent (during his father's lifetime) into Germany by Queen Mary, to the Emperor Charles V. to treat of a marriage between that Queen and Prince Philip, the Emperor's eldest son; and afterwards into Spain, to Philip himself, for ratifying thereof; and the next year, was by them made Lord Deputy of Ireland, and at his father's death, Chief Justice of all the forests south of Trent, afterwards Knight of the Garter, and Captain of the Band of Gentlemen Pensioners; and on that Queen's death, was made Deputy of Ireland by Queen Elizabeth; after that, was sent to Vienna to the Emperor Maximilian, with the Order of the Garter, and after that, to the said Emperor, to treat of a marriage between Queen Elizabeth and Charles Duke of Austria; after that, employed against the Scots, which service he performed with much bravery and success; and at his return was sworn one of the privy-council: he died in 1583,<sup>6</sup> and ordered his executors to build a chapel of brick, on the south side of Boreham chancel, in Essex, and to erect a tomb of white alabaster, and other stones, and to remove the bodies of his grandfather, grandmother, father, and mother, and lay them by his own corpse: he gave to the Lady Frances, his widow, all his jewels, habiliments, chains, buttons, ornaments, with, or without precious stones, except the five stones, two great table diamonds, one great table rubie, one great pointed diamond, and a great bullose, which were given him on a sword, by Philip King of Spain, all which Sir Henry Ratcliff, Knt. his brother and heir, was to have for life, and afterwards were to go from heir to heir, as the heir comes. He gave 4000 oz. gilt plate, and 2000 oz. white plate, to his widow, and all the coaches, horses, and furniture which she and her women used to ride in, besides their riding-horses, and six geldings. It appears that he used to live sometimes at his mansion-house of Bermundsey in Southwark, sometimes at his noble seat of Newhall, in Boreham parish in Essex, and sometimes at Wodeham-Walter; he divided his linen into three parts, one to his lady, another to his heir, a third to his executors, and ordered them that, according to his feoffment, his lady should enjoy the manors of Newhall and Oldhall in Boreham, and many more manors in Essex, with Atleburgh, Hempnal, and Diss in Norfolk, during her life; and afterwards by a codicil dated 21st May following, he confirmed several bargains made during his sickness, of divers underwoods, wood, timber trees, &c. sold in his manor of Atleburgh in Norfolk, and commanded they should keep house at Bermundsey twenty days after his burial, about which they should not expend above 1500*l.*; but yet I find that they exceeded that sum, as the following account informs me.

“ A brief declaration of the charges, as well of opening and embalming the body of Thomas Earl of Sussex, and the whole funeral charges of the said late Earl, as of expenses of house-keeping at Bermundsey, the 9th of June 1583, in which day the said Earl died, and ending the 29th of July following, in which day the said house-keeping was dissolved.

And by this account it further appears, in relation to his Norfolk estates, that Sir Henry Woodhouse farmed his manors of Burnells and Thirning, that Sir Robert Jernyn farmed the rectory of Sturston, and that Peter Elwyn was his chief steward and bailiff, of the manors of Thirning, Sidistron, Atleburgh, and Wood-Sales in Atleburgh, Thirning, and Hempnal. The tomb set up in Boreham church cost 29*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.*; after his death

FRANCES, his widow, had this manor for life; she was a very religious, liberal, and charitable lady; by her will, dated in 1588, she ordered her executors to purchase a perpetual annuity of 20*l.* and settle it on a learned and godly preacher, to read two divinity lectures every week in the collegiate church at Westminster, where she was buried, in St. Paul's chapel, April 15, 1589, as her inscription shews us; she it was that established the last college that was ever founded in the university of Cambridge, for she ordered her executors to bestow the sum of 5000*l.* over and besides all her goods unbequeathed, for the erecting of a new college in that university, to be called the Lady Frances-Sidney Sussex College, and purchasing lands to be annexed to it, to maintain a master, ten fellows, and twenty scholars, which foundation is now called Sidney College. It seems as if she had in her lifetime purchased the site of it, and fitted up some part, for in the account of the charge of the performance of her will, delivered in July 1589, is this, "Item, the college to be erected or enlarged at Cambridge, v. m. l." in which account it appears, that her funeral cost 1368*l.* her tomb 200*l.* her benevolence to the poor, to preachers, and prisoners, 100*l.* her perpetual lecture 200*l.* the surgeon for searing her corpse 20*l.* and her executors were chargeable with 10,996*l.* 14*s.* 9*d.* to perform all her legacies, of which they received in ready money by her, 3997*l.* by 4614 oz. of plate, 1220*l.* by 4868 oz. of white or ingilt plate, 1164*l.* by jewels 2652*l.* &c. At her death the manor went to

HENRY Earl of Sussex, brother of Thomas Earl of Sussex, late husband of the said Frances, who was Knight of the Garter, and Captain or Governour of the town and isle of Portsmouth; he died in 1593, and was buried by the Lady Honora his wife, and his other ancestors at Boreham aforesaid, leaving

ROBERT, Earl of Sussex, his son and heir, who, in the 37th of Elizabeth, was sent into Scotland by the Queen, to stand in her stead as a godfather at the christening of Prince Henry; in the 39th of that Queen he was in the voyage with Robert Earl of Sussex to Cadiz; and in 1621, was installed Knight of the Garter, and often resided here; he had two sons and two daughters, which all died in his lifetime, without issue; Henry Ratcliff Lord Fitz-Walter, his eldest son, married Jane, daughter of Sir Michael Stanhope, Knt. but died a young man. In the register of this parish I find these odd verses (composed by John Forbie, then rector) upon his death, and upon the resemblance of the star which he gave for his conusance, viz.

Where is the Starr, the hope of Sussex name?
 HENRY FITZ-WALTER's, that bright shining beame?
 What men't you Fates, so sone his life t'assault?
 Was there in him, such noted heinous fault?
 Death is the debt, that every one must pay,
 To blame you are, that tooke him now away,
 He was the hope to raise up noble blood,
 Which long had been, and might yet long have stood,
 In him is cut off all that noble fame,
 Which hundred years hath houlden in that name,
 This is our joy, that joys he doth possesse,
 And is a Starr now fix'd in heav'nly blesse.

And these following, by Edward Barthlett, Gent.

In heaven new fixt, I lately saw a Starr
 That shin'd in earth, but now excelleth farr,
 All heavenly Starres, save them without compare
 That in the heavens, amongst them, placed are.
 This Starr in earth, did with such beauty shine,
 Which was the cause that it so soon did clime
 Up to the heavens to God, who for it sent,
 To increase and beautify the firmament.
 Death brought the news, with him, who can prevaile?
 And vaine are tears, for whose great loss we waile;
 His death our losse it is, our losse his gaine,
 In winning heaven, through loosing mortal paine,
 But by his death, dyes noble Sussex race,
 Which none can helpe, but God by his good grace.

And in the said register it is thus entered; Robert Ratcliff our Lord, the Honourable Earl of Sussex, Knight of the Garter, died at London in Sept. and his lady, the Countess, died not long before, in the year 1629; he left

Sir ALEXANDER RATCLIFF, Knight of the noble Order of the Bath, his adopted heir unto this manor, who was descended from Sir Alexander Ratcliff of Ordsall, Knt. grandson to Robert Ratcliff, the first Earl of Sussex of that name, which Alexander died in 1548, leaving by Alice, daughter of Sir John Booth, one son, viz. Sir William Ratcliff of Ordsall, Knt. who married Margaret, daughter of Sir Edmund Trafford, by whom he had Sir John Ratcliff of Ordsall, Knt. who was killed in the engagement against the French at the isle of Rhee, Oct. 29, 1627, leaving by Anne, daughter of Thomas Ashow, our Sir Alexander Ratcliff, who was made Knight of the Bath at the coronation of King Charles I. and married Jane, the natural daughter of Robert Earl of Sussex; she outlived him, and after married Dr. Lewis: he left it at his death to

JOHN RARCLIFF, Esq. his eldest son, who sold it to

SIR FRANCIS BICKLEY about 1657, who was buried in a vault of his own making, in Mortimer's chapel in the year 1670, leaving

SIR FRANCIS BICKLEY, Baronet, his son and heir, whose son,

SIR FRANCIS, had three wives;<sup>7</sup> by Debora, daughter of Sir Cornelius Vermuyden, Knt. he had SIR FRANCIS BICKLEY, Bart. now living, who sold the estate to

SIR JAMES ASH's mother, who left it in trust to Mrs. Mary Windham, for the use of Sir James Ash's male issue, but that failing, it came to

JOSEPH WINDHAM ASH, Esq. who is now [1737] lord and sole patron. The advowson of the third part being purchased by Mrs. Windham, of Sir Algernoon Potts.

The style of the court is, Atleburgh Hall with its members. The fines are at the lord's will, and the eldest son is heir.

The Warepound, or Frowick court, is the superiour court, all the other manors being held of it;<sup>8</sup> it is always kept on Whitsunday, very early in the morning, by a tree which was on a hill in the street, (but is now ent down,) and is commonly called the Scolding Court, it being obliged to be over and done with before sunrise, according to custom, or else the whole rents of the court are forfeited for that year. In the 38th of Queen Elizabeth, Robert Earl of Sussex paid 16*l.* for the manors in this town, held of this court, and 2*d.* for the college lands, which are held of it also, as are several of the capital messuages, by the rents of pence and halfpence only, the whole being freehold, and the rents amounting in all to 2*s.* 2*d.* ob. This always belonged to the hundred of Shropham, as it now does, together with the lets of the whole town, its hamlets, and whatever belong to the manors of this town lying in Besthorp, for all which the annual lect fees, joined together, are 6*s.* 4*d.* ob. a year. The lord of the hundred hath also a hundred court belonging to this town, to be kept every three weeks, with full power to end and determine all suits, and pleas of debt not exceeding 40*s.* in which any resident in this town is concerned, and power to levy, in as ample a manner as the county court: to him belongs also the market, which is held on Thursday, and was formerly remarkable for the number of fat bullocks and sheep which used to be exposed and sold here every other market day, but now this is wholly lost, and the market itself is very near it; there are three fairs kept every year, the first on Maundy Thursday, but by what authority, or to whom it belongs, I know not; the second on Ascension-Day; this belongs to Mortimer's manor, being granted in 1310 to Sir Constantine Mortimer; the third belongs to the lord of

<sup>7</sup> His second wife was Mary, daughter of Sir Humphry Winch, by whom he had three sons now living, Capt. John Bickley, the Rev. Mr. Humphry Bickley, now rector of the two parishes of Atleburgh, both single, and Mr. Joseph Bickley, who is settled in Virginia, married, and hath issue; his third wife was widow of Pointer, by whom he had no issue.

<sup>8</sup> The Originals whence the following accounts are extracted, are all in my own hands.

the hundred, with which it was given to the Albanys, and is kept, according to its institution, on the 15th day of August, it being the day of the dedication of the church, and of the holding their great gild, both which were dedicated to the honour of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary, which is commemorated on that day. In 1656, Robert Wilton of Wilby, Esq. (lord of the hundred) let unto Francis Bickley, (lord of the manor,) for 21 years, at the rent of 10s. a year, "a weekley, free and open markett in the towne of Attleburgh, on " Thursday in every weeke, and alsoe one faire yearly, & every " yeare to be holden there, upon the 15th day of Aug: and also free " liberty of picage and stallage, in and upon the wast grounds, in " the street called the Town-street, in Attleburgh, from the signe of " the Angell, to the signe of the Starre, on the one side of the street, " and from the signe of the Griffin, to the turning of the wall of the " churchyard, over-against the signe of the Starre, on the other side " of the street, and for the setting up of pennes and stalls, & for the " buyeing, selling, and vending of all manner of provision for food, " and for sale of any other commodities whatsoever, &c. and also all " benefitts, profitts, &c. coming or aerucing by the said markets and " faires, and of the stalls, pennes, standings, and places there; and also " free liberty of using the pound, erected upon the wast ground in At- " leburgh aforesaid." The lord of the hundred hath all felons goods forfeited, assize of bread and ale, a tumbrell, or ducking-stool, (which is but lately decayed,) weyf and strey, free-warren, liberty of the game, fugitives goods, and all forfeitures, besides other privileges, all which were confirmed in Queen Elizabeth's time, when the hundred was in her own hands, as appears by an inquisition taken before Henry Blake, Gent. the Queen's steward of her liberty and hundred of Shropham, in a general hundred court held at Ketelbrigge, upon the oaths of Richard Cook, and many others, who swore that the Queen in right of her liberty and hundred of Shropham, and also her farmers and bailiffs of the same, have, and immemorially have had, the superior jurisdiction over all the commons, wastes, heaths, and marshes, together with the liberty of driving them, and taking all strays found thereon, in the towns of Attleburgh, Besthorp, Harpham, Wilby, Snitterton, Illington, Larling, Shropham-Parva, Breckles, Rockland, Ellingham-Magna, Rosedham, Brettenham, Kilzerston, &c. and also all outlaws, fugitives, and felons goods, and other forfeitures; and also a court leet in each town, with full power to compel all residents to suit and service to it, once in a year, and to present and punish all offences punishable in a leet, as well touching the said commons, wastes, heaths, and marshes, as other things, and to punish all false commoners and surchargers of the commons; all which liberties relating to these towns were returned by the Queen's mandate, upon inquisition as aforesaid, because the lords of these manors began within 20 years last past, to claim and usurp within their several manors, the liberty of gaming, and punishing false commoners, and surchargers, and other liberties, upon which the Queen brought actions against the Earl of Sussex, then lord of Mortimer's in Attleburgh, Tho. Green, gent. lord of Harpham, Ralph Chamberleyn, Knt. lord of Moynes, and Kirkhall in Rockland, the heirs of Anthony Gurnay, Esq. lord of Ellingham, the lord of Snitterton, Robert Allington, lord of Jarling-Ford, the lord of Brettenham, &c. but they acknowledged her liberties, and obtained their discharge.

THE GREAT RECTORY MANOR

Belongs to the rector of the greater part, or the two parts of Atleburgh, and the rector thereof now is, and his predecessors always were lords of it; the present rectory-house, which joins to the south side of the churchyard, is the site of it, and it hath 10 acres of glebe land, the only remaining part of its ancient demesns, the rest being now held by copy of court-roll.

THE CUSTOMS are, that the eldest son is heir, the houses are at the lord's will, but the land is a set fine of 2s. an acre.

THE LITTLE RECTORY MANOR

Belongs to the rector of the lesser or third part of Atleburgh, and the present rector now is, and his predecessors always were, lords of it; the site of it is now down; the close in which it stood contains three acres, and is all that remains of its ancient demesns. THE CUSTOMS are the same as the great rectory manor.

And now having given my readers an account of the several manors, I shall proceed to

THE CHURCH, which is dedicated in honour of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin, though there is no part of that church which was first built here now standing, but the tower only, and that not so high as it was originally; the antique Gothick arches, which are to be seen in the bell-chamber shew us its antiquity, and that the bells were never designed to be hung there; it seems to me, that it was first reduced to the collegiate form, when the chapels were founded, and the old chancel of the parish church taken down, and its nave converted into a quire, Mortimer's chapel on the south side, and Chaunticlere's on the north, making two handsome transepts; and at the foundation of the college, it is apparent, that the present parish church, viz. the nave, two isles and north porch, was begun to be built, and was not finished till some time after. Who was the founder of the first church we know not, but the first alteration that was made in it was by Sir William de Mortimer, who founded the south chapel for his own interment, and it is highly probable, made the nave of the old church into a quire, and new topped the steeple; because after his foundation, service was performed after the collegiate manner: this was finished before 1297, in which year he died. The north chapel was founded afterwards by Thomas Chaunticler, who was buried in it in 1379; and when the college was founded, the parish were entirely excluded from the old parish church, and that was appropriated for a quire, for the use of the college only, and in recompense thereof the founders of the college, their friends, and other pious benefactors, built the nave and two isles, for the use of the parish only, and so the quire, because it belonged to the college only, was given with it by King Henry VIII. to Robert Earl of Sussex, who was then lord, who being of a covetous disposition, was so far from sparing the building, that (as the Parish Register informs me) he not only pulled down, and spoiled the chancel, but also pulled up many fair marble grave-stones of his ancestors, with monuments of brass upon them, and other fair good pavement, and carried them and laid them for floors in his hall, kitchen, and larder-house, where they were lying, when the account was inserted in the Register; and besides this he got fourteen crosses, and as much town plate as was then worth above 100*l.* from the church, and by this means the chancel was reduced to ruins, as we now see it.

The rectories of this church are in Norfolk archdeaconry and Rockland deanery; the two parts, or the greater part, is valued in the King's Books at 19*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.*, and pays first fruits; and 1*l.* 18*s.* 10*d.* ob. yearly tenths. The lesser part, or the third part, was valued at 8*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.* but being sworn of the clear yearly value of 42*l.* 5*s.* only, it is discharged of first fruits and tenths.

The greater part or the two parts annexed, otherwise called Hamon's Portion, from Hamon de Warren, who was rector of it at its taxation, when Norwich Domesday Book was compiled, had Sir Robert de Tateshale for its patron; the rector had a house and 27 acres of glebe, and William de Mortimer was patron of the third part, and its rector had a house also, and 27 acres glebe; the greater paid 18*d.* synodals, and the lesser 1*s.* besides their procurations to the archdeacon. In 1603, there were 410 communicants, and now [1737] there are about 600 inhabitants; it paid 7*l.* to the old tenths, and is now assessed at 1999*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* to the land tax. The gild of the Assumption, and that of the Holy Cross, were the only gilds here.

Persons of note buried in the quire were, Sir Robert de Mortimer, Knt. the founder of the college, who was buried in the middle, before the high altar, in the year 1387, close by the grave of Margery Fastolf, his first wife. Sir Thomas Mortimer, Knt. and dame Mary his wife, (of whom see p. 510, 511,) obijt May 2, 1406. Sir John Ratcliff, Knt. elect of the Garter, in 1420. Sir John Ratcliff, Knight of the Garter, his son and heir. Katherine his widow was buried by him in 1452. Roger Ratcliff, brother of the last Sir John, and Philippa his wife, some time after him, for whom was this inscription on a brass plate,

Mortimer's chapel, which is on the south side, belongs to Mortimer's manor, and was founded by Sir William de Mortimer of Kingston, Knt. (as you may see at p. 509,) and by him dedicated to the honour of the Holy Cross, and afterwards rededicated to St. Mary, as several wills shew me; he died Nov. 12, 1297, and was buried in the middle of it, before the altar there, at which he founded a daily mass, for his own and ancestours souls, and settled a competent salary on the officiating priest. In this chapel are buried,

Sir Constantine Mortimer, Knt. in 1334, by Catherine his first, and Sibil his last wife, who died in the same year. Sir Constantine Mortimer in 1354, and Agnes his wife; and Henry Inglose, Esq. for whom there was this inscription under his arms,

Chanticleer's or Chancellor's chapel, which is on the north side, belongs to Chancellor's manor, and was founded by Thomas Chanticleer, who was buried before the altar in it, in 1379, and had a priest daily singing at that altar, for his own wife's, and their friends souls.

Burials in this chapel are, Katherine, wife of the said Tho. Chanticleer, Alice, their daughter and heiress, with Thomas de Brampton, her husband, and Joan, his second wife: there was a stone, having his picture in costly armour, with this inscription,

Hic iacet Thomas Brampton Armiger, qui obiit ~~~~~

On this stone are Warner's arms, quartered with Whetnal; (see p. 497;) the crest is a plume of feathers.

There was another grave-stone robbed of all its brasses, but one coat, viz. on a chevron three annulets.

The present nave and isles were begun by Sir Robert Mortimer, founder of the college, about 1378, and continued by his granddaughters, and their husbands, and a great number of other benefactors, as their arms and effigies in the windows shew us, it being not perfectly finished till after 1405. The chief of the contributors were, Sir Robert Mortimer aforesaid, John Arderne, who was buried in the church in 1479; Tho. Brampton, Esq. and several of that family, many of the different branches of the Mortimer family; the Bishop of Norwich; William at the Broc, chaplain, and divers more, particularly the Lady Cecily Herling, Sir John Fitz-Ralph, and others.

The following arms were in the windows, several of which now remain, the rest being lost, viz.

In a north isle window is the effigies of a priest in a blue vestment, kneeling on a broken label, under him lies a man in winding-clothes, at full length, to intimate that William at the Brook, chaplain, whose effigies it is, was a benefactor to the church, glazed that window, and was there interred; under him is this broken inscription,

In 1508, John Alysaunder of Attilburgh was buried in the church, from whose will I copied these Items: "I bequethe to the makynge

The organ or old rood loft is standing, on which are painted the arms of all the bishopricks.

In Mortimer's chapel, against the east wall, is a mural monument much defaced, which was erected for JOHN RAWLYNS, rector of all the parts, of this church, whose arms, with those of his wife, are on it, viz.

And under the monument lies a stone over him, with his arms and this inscription, of the same purport as the former,

I find only two stones with inscriptions in the nave; one is for Anne wife of John Burton, 14 Oct. 1650. Hodie Mihi, Cras tibi.

The other hath a crest, an arm cooped at the shoulder, holding a battle-ax. And these arms, on a chevron between three lions erased, three serpents.

This narrow Space confines his dear Remaines
Whose glorious better Part, Survives and reigns,
Immortal Virtues now embalm his Name,
And fix him, high, in the great List of Fame,
The gen'rous Friendship that adorn'd his Mind,
Was boundless, as the Needs of humane Kind,
But where Relation did the Band indeare,
The Rays contracted, did more warm appear,
So good a Husband, Father, Brother, Son,
As few have equal'd, none has e'er outdone;
Such Charity thro' his whole Life was shown,
As made the Wants of other, seem his own,
His Soul so truly Brave, he knew no fear,
Ev'n Death it's self, made no Impression there,
'Tis true he yielded, but Death lost the Prize,
For he but stoop'd, that he might higher rise.

Mr. Le Neve calls him the famous Capt. Gibbs; he was a great gamester and horse-racer, in King Charles the Second's time. "He laid a wager of 500*l.* that he drove his light chaise, and four horses, up and down the deepest place of the Devil's-Ditch, on Newmarket-Heath, which he performed, by making a very light chaise, with a jointed perch, and without any pole, to the surprise of all the spectators."

There is a stone under the steeple much obliterated, but supplied from the Register, viz.

Let every Bell, his Praise thus tell.

On an old wainscot which stood in the church, Ratcliff quarters Fitz-Walter, and Ratcliff impales Herling.

There is an altar-tomb in the churchyard for William Cokkell, Oct. 22, 1729, Æt. 60.

Death from this World hath set me free,
From all my Pain, and Misery.

Ralph his son died Nov. 30, 1729.

This life is like a fading Flower,
Alive and dead, all in an Hour.

The following accounts are taken from the old Register of this parish, which is a very particular one, it begins in 1552; they are not digested into a series of time, but are just as they follow one another in the original.

1559, The town of Attleburgh, viz. Market-street and Town-street, burned.

1605, Edward Barthelet, Esq. buried 27 Nov. a worthy gentleman, and justice of the peace, counsellor at law, dwelt at the Hall, and kept a good house there.

1612, Master Glaspole, alias Hamlet, was buried 26 Oct. he was the Earle of Sussex's bailie, and dwelt in the Parke-Hall, and was the Earle's forester there, he kept a worthie-house, as if the park had been his own.

1614, 11 May, John Rawlyns, rector, as well of the rectory of the two parts, as of the rectory of the third part, a learned, godly, and peaceable man was buried; "Terras multas emit, quas filius et hæres cito vendidit, si quicquam in ecclesie vel pauperum usus reliquisset, hoc sine dubio permansisset: uxor autem ejus postea diu vixit sua pura viduitate, usque octogessimum ætatis annum, et ultra, toto autem vitæ tempore, et filijs alijs suis benignissima, et annos per paucos ante mortem, suo visu perempto, cœcitate permansit, manus autem suas in pauperes semper extensas habuit, ingenio etiam et memoria acutissima, sicut longevam ætatem suam in felicitate, et charitate, tandem diem clausit, ob. 23 Jul. 1639, Ætat 91."

1615, The parsonage was repaired by John Forbie, to above 200 marks charge, who set up the Bishoprick's arms in the church, and those of the colleges.

1615, 10 June, Wyndham was burned, being set on fire by rogues coming on that purpose to the town, and were there (the man and woman) executed.

1617, This year, on May 5, the first, second, third, and fifth bells were finished by Wm. Brend, bell-founder in Norwich, and so out of four, there were now five bells, cost 160*l*.

1630, Maria filia venerabilis dignissimique viri, Alexandri Ratelyff Militis, et Janæ dignissimæ ejus dominæ et Uxoris, bapt. 22 Feb. in capella apud aulam Atleburgensem, per me J. Forbie; deditque mihi de suo beneplacito inexpectatam mercedem et premium.

1618, Edward Barthelet, Gent. and Mary Mundford, Gentw. were married by J. Forbie, at Hoe by East Dearham, 18 Nov. their marriage feast after kept at Atleburgh hall.

1623, A perfect terrier was made and delivered into the Bishop's registry, of all the lands, and of all the free and copyhold, belonging to the rectory manors, with the rents, and number of court-rolls, and other remembrances of the church and college, some time belonging to the church, and also what was belonging to the rectory of the third part.

In this year a school was erected in the south isle chapel, the timber for the seats of it, was given by the Earl of Sussex, and Sir Will. Knevett, and that for the top of the font now made.

Mr. Edmund Topclife, parson of Morlie, gave the standing lecture there, for the dictionaries. One Mr. Hathe of Trinity College, Cant. was the first schoolmaster, one Mr. Parlet the next; the town voluntarily allowed 4*l. per annum*, out of their town lands.

1628, Against Easter, a communion cup was made.

1628, July 15, was a Gild new erected by four young bachelors of the town, and kept at the college-house, of above twenty meases of persons, and the poor then well relieved.

1626, It was continued by four widowers of the town, and held where the old gild-house was, at the west end of the parsonage-close, at Mr. Duffield's, the poor well relieved.

1630, It was holden on Midsummer day, and one Mr. James of Eccles, then the high-constable, and one Mr. Robert Allen of Great-Ellingham, were two of the four heymasters, who for their own good credit, and our town's gild, procured guests, that there were thought to be 2000 people then there, they could not half sit and dine there, but were constrained to go into the town, and there could not be of that sudden, meat enough provided for them; it was said that they left no bread in town by two o'clock, only beare was plentiful: there was no outrage or disorder of the companye. We began all these good meetings with solemn prayers in our church, and a sermon, &c.

RECTOR ECCLESIE AUTHOR GUILDÆ.

The town of Barnham-Broome hath thus holden a gild with them, with much good company and merry meeting, and their sermon was ever rewarded, and moreover in this year Mr. Legat, the minister who preached there, had a gold ring given him by the heymaster, worth above 20*s*. The motto was, LEGATUS Christi, Patronus Festi.

1631, The church was well repaired, and decently battled. In 1632, the wooden top of the cross in the church-yard, was made by John Forbie, clerk, by the appointment of the Bishop of Norwich, on the top of the side towards the church, Crux Christi, Salus Mundi. On the standing part, Christus pro Nobis passus. On the transverse, a wounded heart, and hands wounded with the nails, Ecce! Quanta pro Te pertulit. On the back side, towards the east, In Christo Spero. On the standing part, Si compatimur, conregnabimus. Then on the transverse, Reliquit nobis Exemplum. The globe was set up to signify the heavens, coloured with blue, with stars and clouds. On the equator circle, Aspiremus permansura Eterna. The lower part coloured green, to signify the earth, with trees and flowers on it, Quid tumultuamur? Peritura possidemus.

1633, The new organs were brought into the church from Squire Buxton's of Tybbenham Cannons, which cost 10*l.* there, and 10*l.* more to take them down and set them up here, purchased by the parishioners' voluntary gifts; and 9*l.* a year was voluntarily subscribed, for Mr. Lesingham the organist, of which Sir Alexander Rutchiff, lord and patron, allowed 40*s.* a year, and the rector 40*s.* &c.

1636, The communion table was placed, &c. as it now stands.

1642, Tho. Downes, senior, gravi morbo læsi cerebri diu afflictus, postquam Dei Opt. Max. beneficio integrum convaluit, pulvinar panni viridis, fimbria holocerica et fibulis ad angulos appensis decoratum, in grati pijque animi indicium Deo et Ecclesiæ dono dedit.

1617, Divers mortuaries paid, (as they now are, according to the statute.)

1619, Mr. John Littleproud, a young man, lately in priests orders, for the help of his living, being but a grammar scholar, was buried Nov. 1.

1623, April 14, Joan, wife of John Allen, was buried, and had so great a number of people, that the church could not contain them, very many treated at the Griffin, &c.

1623, One Porter a butcher, and an honest man of Windham, being at church on Whitsunday, June 1, as he was kneeling at prayers died suddenly,

“ Quis jam non fœlicem et beatum obitum fecisse eum dicat?”

Mr. John Chamberlaine, a very loving and honest gent. of good estate here, and elsewhere, and otherwise rich, dwelt sometime here, removed to Bridgham, thence to Barne in Suff. died on Whitsunday, and was buried at Bridgham, June 6, he seemed a little corrupted and addicted to the world, and his gain, through an executorship he had with one Mr. Wright of Larling, who might move and draw him more in that manner, than otherwise it is like he would have been: he was in his owne nature a very honest man.

Auri sacra fames, quem non insatiabilem reddas?

Misere mortuus est Midas.

Noli imitari.

1624, 13 April, Tho Thaine of Burgh-street, near 100 old, buried.

1625, King James, our gracious, peaceable, and the most learned prince in all Europe, died at Theobald's, March 27, having then reigned in England 22 years and three days, it was then Sundaye, and about 11 o'clock in the forenoon, a blessed time, when every church was to be at their prayers, and at such time as his Majesty was ever used to have a sermon in his presence at court, he had a sermon in court every Sunday and Tuesday, and so caused many an excellent preacher; the preacher was always appointed by his course, out of Cambridge, while he was at Newmarket or Roiston, or near Cambridge: his Majesties speeches were always admirable, it might be truly said of him as in the Gospell, never man spake as this man speaketh; he was the England's Solomon, and so was his funeral sermon intituled.

1625, Aug. 11. Then was buried Mary wife of Gilbert Greene, hoastess of the Cock, who knew how to game more by her trade than any other, and a woman free and kind for any in sickness, or woman in her travell and child-bed, and for answering for any one's child, and readie to give to any one's marriage.

Mr. John Wever died here, carried and buried in St. Gregory's church, Norwich, which he had much adorned.

Phillip Coullier, yeoman, dwelt at Windham, died Dec. 24, 1625, worth 100*l.* per annum, he cloathed every Christmass (long before his death) twenty poor children, from head to foot, he rebuilt all the houses for the use of the poor, that were burnt in the fire of Windham, and left a gift for ever to cloath and feast, so many poor children every Christmas. God grant it be kept and done; ii. Cor. 9. 15. Now thanks therefore be unto God, for his unspeakable gift; so I preached here of that. John Forby.

1627, John Allen a very good townsman, buried 22 Aug. This wished to be on his gravestone:

Hic in Ecclesia consepultus est Johannes Allen, unâ cum Patre & Matre Suisque duabus Uxoribus, prudens, fidelis, pius, pacatus, et Oppidanus benignissimus, Omnibus in vita amabilis, in Morte desiderabilis, Corpore hic tumultus, Anima Coronatus, ad gloriam resurrecturus, Æt. 63, Aug. 22, A. D. 1627.

Hic in Ecclesia Domino obdormit Will. Beale, Gravitate Senex, Senectute prudens, Oppidanus providus, Vita pius et pacatus, parum rigidus & morosus, sed Pauperibus benignus, cœlestem Gloriam auspicaturus, Æt. 80, Jan. 11, 1626.

Upon old John Dowe, an unprofitable townsman, of great estate in land, and yet not worth a mortuary at his death in goods.

John Dowe an antient townsman, was buried in divers Years past before,

And lyeth buried within the Church South Door.

De quo hoc verum Epitaphium haberi posset.

Here lyeth the DOWE who ne'er in Life did good,
Nor would have done, tho' longer he had stood,
A Wife he had, both Beautifull & Wise
But he ne'er would, such goodness exercise,
Death was his Friend, to bring him to his Grave,
For he in Life, Commendam none could have.

Mr. John Hare, Richmond Herald, saith in a letter of his, that this John Dowe married Anne, daughter of Thomas Cockett, sister to his great-grandfather Froxmere Cockett, of Bromesthorp; she outlived him, and was very charitable to the poor, and a benefactress to the church of Atleburgh, where she was buried in 1626, and her husband in 1620.

The epitaph which I sent to Mr. Tho. Weaver, for Mr. John Weaver's gravestone in St. Gregory's church Norwich, Hic consepultus jacet Johannes Weavers, Norwicensis, Commerciorum hujus Civitatis Comportator Londinum versus, fidelissimus, eisdemq; Laboribus ditatus, Amicis amicissimus, Servis suis benignissimus, miserimis Misericors, hujus Ecclesie Sti. Johannis Evangelistae, & Johannis Baptistae, eisdemque, quibusdam terris dotavit, obiit Atleburgh. pie & pacifice, Nov. 18, 1625. Inter Caelorum Caelites modo regnat.

1634, Aug. 7, Mr. Robert James of Eccles, High-Constable of Shropham hundred, died, of whom there is a great character; he kept a good house, and always entertained the gentlemen that came to the training in Eccles-Field: he died rich, and was buried in Eccles church.

Verses made by EDWARD BARTHELET, on his Mother's Death.

My Mother now, doth in my Mother lye,
Death coucht her there, long longing for to dye,
Her Faith was firme, so fearles was her Death,
The Heavens are Witness, which drew upp her Breath,
For while she lived, she lived a zealous Life,
And died, Turtell like Widow, matchless Wife.

1653, Sarah daughter of John Ratcliff, Esq. and Sarah his wife baptized.

1654, John their son baptized 15 July.

The religious concerned in this town were, the Prior of Bukenham,<sup>7</sup> to whose house Robert de Tateshale, the third of that name, gave a fold-course for 200 sheep. In 1377, William Ketringham and others conveyed lands here to the Priory, and there were many lands held of the Priory manor which laid in this town, both free and copyhold, which in the whole amounted to 2*l.* 8*s.* 3*d.* yearly rents, of which the master of the college paid a free rent for land given to his house of 16*d.* and there was the value of 4*s.* 10*d.* a year tithes, which belonged to the Priory manor, for all which the Prior was taxed at 46*s.*

The Prior of Wymondham was taxed for his temporals here 15*s.* 4*d.* they were divers small pieces of land given to the monastery by the Albanys and Tateshales. The Prior of St. Faith's was taxed 15*d.* for his temporals here.

The Terrier informs me that Mr. Nerford, late rector, founded a free school, and endowed it with 6*l.* per annum in lands, and also gave six two-penny loaves to the poor every Sunday, and tied the Rev. Mr. Beales's estate for it, that there are 30 pieces of town lands besides College Close, all which are settled to repair the church, and find its ornaments, for ever; and in the year 1651, I learn from the church-wardens account, it was then in the town's possession, though they were forced to employ some of its produce to contrary uses, viz. "to Richard Lawes for defacing the King's arms 6*s.*" and it cost the town a good deal to repair the seats heads which were defaced at that time.

THE COLLEGE OF THE HOLY CROSS, otherwise called ATLEBURGH-CHANTRY,

Was founded by Sir Robert de Mortimer, who was buried in 1387; he ordered Henry de Pakenham, senior, Simon, parson of Scoulton, and his other feoffees, to found and endow it,<sup>8</sup> to the value of 2000 marks, which they received according to the will of Sir John de Herling, Knt. and Sir John Fitz-Ralf, Knt. who had married the granddaughters and heiresses of the said Robert; and accordingly King Henry IV. in the 7th year of his reign, [1405,] for 100 marks paid by the feoffees, granted them<sup>9</sup> license to build a chantry of the Holy Cross in Atleburgh, for five chaplains, one of which was to be master, who should daily officiate in the church of Atleburgh, for the souls of Sir Robert Mortimer, Knt. and Dame Margery his wife, &c. and to amortise to the said chantry a messuage and 70 acres of land, 4 acres of meadow, and 2 of pasture, in Atleburgh, and the advowson of Great Elingham, provided there be a vicar sufficiently endowed, and a yearly sum of money given to the poor there; upon which, the surviving feoffee, by his deed, established it in the following manner, as I find it entered in the parish register, fol. 74.

SIMON, rector of Scoulton, greeting. Know ye that Robert de Mortimer, Knt. son of Sir Constantine de Mortimer, Knt. granted and confirmed his manors of Scoulton, Tolington, and Stanford in Norfolk, and Burghton, and Foxtone in Cambridgeshire, to Hugh De-la-Souche, Tho. Shardelowe, George Felbrige, Knts. Tho. Caus, Tho. Chaunteler, Will. at Wend, clerk, Henry de Pakenham, John Watts, and me, the aforesaid Simon, and our heirs, on the following conditions, viz. that we should hold them to the use of him, the said Robert, son of Constantine de Mortimer, Knt. and Dame Margery his then wife, for term of their lives, and after their death, to me and the aforesaid feoffees, and the longest livers of them, till the sum of 2000 marks be raised out of the profits of the said manors, which said sum, after all reasonable expenses deducted, should go to found a chapel in honour of the Holy Cross, in the church of Atleburgh, and a chantry of three priests to sing in the said chapel for ever, for the souls of the said Robert and Margery, for which a license in mortmain should be obtained, by virtue of which, there should be as many lands, advowsons, tenements, or manors purchased, as would be sufficient for the said priests, one of which was to be master of the chantry; all the feoffees being dead but Simon, (who had obtained a license in mortmain,) he the said Simon, according to the last will and testament of Sir Robert Mortimer, Knt. founded the chantry for five priests, of which one is to be custos or master, who are all bound by the said Simon, to pray for the souls of Sir Robert de Mortimer, Knt. and Dame Margery his wife, and all their ancestors, and to conform to the following rules, statutes, and ordinances, as they are appointed by the said Simon, for ever to endure, viz.

The four fellows are to obey all lawful commands of their custos or master.

The custos and chaplains to be perpetual, that is, not removed, unless for such causes as would deprive a rector.

All of them are obliged to reside in their college, or mansion-house, and live together in commons, as in other colleges, and if any be so old that they cannot serve, or be hindered by continual sickness, yet they shall continue in their place, and be maintained by the college during their life.

The master to have 60s. a year stipend, and every brother 40s.

With this proviso, that Simon Shirrewe, now brother in the said chantry, shall have 46s. 8d. a year, for life; the stipends to be paid, half on St. John Baptist's day, and half on Christmas day.

The master and brethren to have every year a new cloth suit, or 10s. each.

The custos to be chosen by the fellows, and the major part of them may choose any one, whether he be of the college or no; and if they elect two, the Bishop shall nominate which he will; and after choice is made, the college shall deliver him letters testimonial under their common seal, which the first master elected shall carry to John Fitz-Rauff, son of Sir John Fitz-Rauff, Knt. son and heir of Margery Fitz-Rauff, late wife of the said John Fitz-Rauff, Knt. and their heirs, (if they be at Scoulton, and not else,) who thereupon shall admit him master, and whoever shall be elected the second master, shall go in like manner to the Lady Cecily Harlyng, and her heirs, (if they be at Atleburgh or East-Herling, and not else,) so that each shall have turn in admitting the master, on condition that the said Cecily will give all her part of Caple-Meadows in Atleburgh, to the college, otherwise she shall have no turn, but Fitz-Rauff shall have the whole; and after such admission, each master shall go to the Bishop of the diocese, or his deputy, to be instituted, and if Fitz-Rauff or Harlyng, or their heirs, refuse to admit any master so chosen, the Bishop may do it upon sight of the testimonial.

The master and fellows to find two wax tapers of 2 lb. each, to be lighted yearly on the anniversaries of the said Robert and Margery, during the time of Plucebo, Dirige, and Mass of Requiem, to be said at the tombs of the said Robert and Margery, and shall then give to five poor people 13*d.* apiece, for the souls of the said Robert and Margery.

The custos to have the sole management of all the revenues of the college, both spirituals and temporals, giving an account to the fellows every Michachmas day, of all the receipts and expenses of the whole year.

And upon this, the college was built for their mansion-house; it stood on the west side of the street, something lower than the NW. corner of the churchyard; there are no ruins, a new house being built on its site, which is still called the College; at the Dissolution it was given to Robert Earl of Sussex, in 1541, and so became joined to the manor; the advowson of it was in moieties, one belonged to the Fitz-Rauff's, and the other to Cecily Herlyng, her husbands, and her heirs; (see p. 319.) King Henry VIII. granted license to John Cleydon, master of the Holy Cross chantry, and the fellows there, to appropriate the greater part of the church of Atleburgh to their college, and also to purchase lands, tenements, or manors, of the value of 20*l.* per annum, and settle them in mortmain; and the Lord Fitz-Walter had license to settle the said advowson on the college; but it was never done, the Dissolution following not many years after. "In 1506, Tho. Spencer, fellowe of the colage of the Holy Cross in At-tilburgh, was buryed in the churchyard, afore the chapel door of "the said colage."<sup>1</sup> It was endowed with 21*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* per annum, at its dissolution, according to Mr. Dugdale; but among Mr. Le Neve's Collections, I find it valued at 50*l.* 6*s.* 4*d.* ob. 1*q.* and that the Lady Cressi was a benefactress to it.<sup>2</sup>

THE WARDENS OR MASTERS OF THE COLLEGE.

1417, 27 Sept. John Rykedon, priest, vicar of Elingham-Magna in 1415, was instituted master or custos of the chantry of the Elevation of the Holy Cross, newly founded in the church of Atleburgh, being elected by Sir SIMON SCHIRREVE, fellow, and sometime vicar of Elingham-Magna, Sir ELYAS SIMONDS, and Sir STEPHEN BACON, brethren and fellows of the said chantry, and by them presented to the Bishop, according to the rules of the foundation of that chantry. There went out no mandate for installation, but it was a common perfection or institution; the said John paid xi. marks to the Bishop, for the first fruits of the church of Great Elingham, which was appropriated to them, as all the succeeding masters were obliged to do, at their institutions.

1421, 10 March, Tho. Cove, bachelor in the decrees. WILL. MOUNCY, and JOHN GILDENSLEVE, fellows.

1441, id. Nov. The Bishop collated John Spyrlyng, chaplain, to the mastership of the chantry, by lapse.

1442, 17 June, Richard Fishere, chaplain, on Spyrlyng's resignation, by lapse.

Robert Popy, on Fishere's resignation.

1468, 20 Oct. John Cralle, or Crackly, licencieate in the decrees, on Popy's resignation.

Thomas Draper.

1477, Tho. Draper changed his mastership with John Powlyn, for the rectory of Buzhall in Suffolk.

1485, 18 Aug. Powlyn resigned, and the Bishop collated John Williamson, A. M.

1486, 21 July, Williamson resigned, and

Peter Foston, bachelor in the decrees, was collated.

1519, 6 April, John Claydon, on Foston's death. Lapse. He was the last master, and subscribed to the supremacy anno 1534, with William Brown and Robert Whyttel, chaplains here. He died in Febr. 1540.

In the year 1709, an act passed for continuing an act made in the 7th and 8th years of the reign of his late Majesty King William, entitled An Act for the Repairing the Highways between Wymondham and Atleborough in the County of Norfolk, and for including therein, the Road leading from Wymondham to Hetherset, over the Common belonging to the said Town, by virtue of which, the tollgate on this road was erected; it was an exceeding bad road before the first Act. There is a square stone pillar standing by the road side, thus inscribed,

“ This pillar was erected by the order of the Sessions of the “ Peace for Norfolk, as a grateful remembrance of the charity “ of Sir Edwin Rich, Knt. who freely gave the sum of 200*l.*
“ towards the repair of the highway between Wymondham and “ Atleburgh, A. D. 1675.”

And this is all that occurs to me concerning this town, unless the fee farm rents which were paid to Mr. Parker, viz. for Atleburgh-Moor 13*s.* 4*d.* per annum, for Diteing-Hills 13*s.* 4*d.*, for Horse-Drink-Meadow 2*s.* 6*d.*, for Trim mill 1*s.*, but the mill being gone, the payment ceased.

KILVERSTONE.

CULVERSTETUNA, CULVERTESTUNA, CULVERCESTUNA, KYNARDISTON, KILVERDESTON, and now KILVERSTONE, is a small village adjoining to Thetford, now wholly owned by Thomas Wright, Esq. the present lord, to whom I acknowledge myself much obliged for the following account of it, which I extracted from the evidences he was pleased to lend me for that purpose. At this time there are no tenants belonging to the manors, the whole being purchased in.

MONK'S HALL MANOR

Was held in the Confessor's time, by a freeman, under Stigand, and contained a carucate and half in demean; it had a mill, tree fishery, &c. The whole being of 40*s.* value. The town was then two leagues long and two broad, and paid 7*d.* Danngeld.<sup>3</sup> It belonged to the Conqueror afterwards, and continued in the Crown till King Henry I. gave it to

WILLIAM DE ALBANY, who married Maud, daughter of Roger Bygot, who, upon her account, gave this manor to

The PRIOR of the monks of the Blessed Virgin Mary in Thetford, which house was of Roger's own foundation; and accordingly I find it returned to the Exchequer, in Edward the First's time, that the Prior of Thetford holds a carucate of land in Kilverstone, of the alms of the Earl of Arundel, as of his barony of Bakenham. The monks had divers lands here, of other people's gift; in Henry the Second's time, Eustace the priest held land of them as a tenant, which the King confirmed among other things to the priory: and thus it continued till the Dissolution, and then was given, with the monastery, to Thomas Duke of Norfolk and his heirs. In 1568, Thomas Duke of Norfolk settled on Sir Thomas Cornwaleis, Knt. Sir Nicholas L'Strange, Knt. Chamberlain of the Duke's Household, Thomas Tymperley, Esq. Comptroller of the Household, William Barker and Robert Hickford, Secretaries to the said Duke, and Edward Peacock, Clerk Comptroller of the Household, the manor of Kenninghall and hundred of Giltcross, the manors of Lopham, Winfarthing, and Heywood, the site of the dissolved monastery of Thetford and all its appurtenances, the manors of Hakwick, Norwick, Bryes, or Brayes, Santon, Lynford, Croxton, Munk's Hall in Kilverston, Rothenhall in Bretenham, and Westwick, with the appurtenances in Norfolk and Suffolk, to the use of him the said Duke for life, remainder to Philip Earl of Surrey, son and heir of the said Duke, begotten of the body of the Lady Mary late Dutchess of Norfolk, one of the daughters and heirs of the Right Honourable Henry Earl of Arundell, for life, remainder to the Lord Thomas Howard, and the Lord Will. Howard, younger sons of the said Duke, begotten of the body of the Lady Margaret late Dutchess of Norfolk, sole daughter and heir of the Right Honourable Thomas Awdelay, Knt. late Lord Awdelay of Walden, deceased, for their lives, to the intent that the feoffees shall appoint proper persons of the Duke's choosing, who shall pay the debts of the said Duke, with the profits of all the premises, which they are to receive, during the lives aforesaid, till they are all contented and paid, and then the premises to return to such persons as shall be then living, and entitled to them by the intail, with remainder to the right heirs of the said Duke; and soon after the feoffees, jointly with the Duke, by deed confirmed, John Blexerhasset, William Dix, William Canterell, and Laurence Baunister, his trusty and well-beloved servants, and the survivor or survivors of them, to take and receive the profits and pay the debts and legacies of the said Duke, and fulfil his will. The Duke was beheaded in the 14th of Queen Elizabeth; and in the 26th year of her reign, the Earl of Surrey, Lord Thomas, Lord William Howard, the feoffees and trustees, all joined, and sold it to

Sir CHARLES CORNWALEIS, and Dame Anne, his wife, and their heirs, who, in 1587, sold it to

THOMAS WRIGHT, Gent. of Wecting, and his heirs.

In the year 1285, the CUSTOMS allowed to the manor belonging to the Prior of Thetford in Kilverstone were these, sac, soc, toll, them, infangeuethes, view of frankpledge, and assize of bread and ale; and, till lately, the leet belonging to it used to be kept. There is a fold-course for 400 ewes, and 100 for the shepherd, and 250, which formerly belonged to the church, before the Prior of Butley aliened it; it was fine certain, viz. double the quitrent at every tenant's entry. The eldest son is heir, and they could not waste their copyhold. The lord of the hundred hath the superiour leet, which is held at the stone cross every Wednesday after Michaelmas day, to which all the residents do suit and service, and pay their leet-fee of 10*d.* yearly; and to it belong all weyfs, strays, felons goods, forfeitures, &c. There were above 200 acres of common and heath, on which the inhabitants commoned, but now every thing belongs to the lord. The Master of Magdalen hospital in Thetford held above 26 acres near their house, which laid in the bounds of this town, and the canons of Thetford had lands here; it used to pay 5*s.* 8*d.* per annum pro fine et feodo homagij.

COXFORD MANOR,

In the Confessor's days, belonged to Edric, and at the Conquest to Robert Malet, lord of the honour of Eye, and contained 2 carucates of land, a free fishery, a mill, &c. but one part of it was then held of the said Robert by Walter de Cadomo,<sup>4</sup> and continued divided till they united in the Prior. The first part went to Ralf de Querceto, Caineto, or Cheney, who came in with the Conqueror; he gave it with Sibil, his daughter, in marriage, to Robert Fitz-Walter, founder of St. Faith's at Horslam, to which monastery they gave two parts of the titles of their lands in this town, which were afterwards conveyed to Cokesjord priory after they had the manor; they were succeeded by William de Cheuey, their son, who left three daughters, two died without issue, but Margaret married Hugh de Crescy, a Norman, and left Roger his son and heir, who married Isabell de Rye, all whose sons died issueless, and the inheritance came to Robert Fitz-Roger, who married Margaret, relict of Hugh de Crescy, and held this manor at a quarter of a fee, and granted it for life to Vitalis Engayne, Jordan de Sankevile, and Clemence his wife, who, in 1217, released their right to

Margery de Caiseneto, or Cressy, and her heirs; and she, with the said Vitalis, settled them on Coxford priory in the same year, the Prior of which house was always returned to hold them of the manor of Horsford, and further of the manor of Hockering. The other part or moiety was always held of the honour of Eye, at a quarter of a fee; it belonged to the same Robert Fitz-Walter, after that to Guy de Ferrarijs, or Ferrers, who infeoffed the Brooms; and in 1249, Roger de Broom settled it on John Prior of Coxford, and his successors, for ever; and in 1302, William, son of Roger de Broom, for 200 marks of silver, confirmed to the Prior and Canons of Coxford, his whole manor in Kilverstone, with the mill, freefold, &c. to be held in free alms of him and his heirs by 10s. a year rent, and the service of a quarter of a knight's fee; and afterwards Robert de Broom, son of the said William, released the rent, all knight's service and homage whatever, paying to Thetford priory 10s. a year out of the mill, according to the gift of William de Broom, his father; in 1293, the Prior of Cokesford granted a rent of 12d. a year to the Prior of Thetford, for leave to dig flag on Snareshill side, to mend his mill bank at Kilverstone. And in 1428, the Prior was taxed at 11*l.* 11*s.* 11*d.* for his temporalities here. In 1230, there was a dispute between Richard Prior of Thetford, and William Prior of Cokesford, concerning their separate fisheries belonging to their manors here; "Concerning the use and propriety of all the fishing lying between the territory of Snareshill, and the territory of Kilverstone, the Prior of Thetford claiming the whole of the water or river from his mill called Melford Mill, to the extent of his town of Snareshill," viz. the whole of Snareshill side, as belonging to his free fishery there, and this side, as belonging to his manor here; but the Prior of Coxford having a free fishery to his manor here, claimed an equal share on this side; and it being proved to be so, the Prior of Coxford let his right for ever, to the Prior of Thetford, for 8s. a year. But the Prior of Coxford reserved to himself his swan mark, belonging to his manor, throughout the whole river, with liberty to gather reed and grass at all times in the said river, with the consent of Richard Bishop of Norwich. John Matheæ Prior of the monastery of our Blessed Lady in Coxford, and the convent there, by indenture inrolled in Chancery, dated the last day of Apr. 1528, sold their manor of Coxford in Kilverstone to Thomas Duke of Norfolk, and his heirs, for 400 marks, which the said Duke paid to King Henry VIII. in full of a debt due from the Prior to the King, the Prior being collector of the King's subsidy in the archdeaconry of Norwich, and not having repaid the money he had collected; and in 1529, Thomas Prior of Coxford, successor to the said John, settled it by fine on the said Duke, Sir Roger Towensend, Knt. and other feoffees, and immediately after sold it to Sir John Cornwallis, who leased it to William Prior of the monastery of our Blessed Lady at Thetford, for 99 years, at the yearly rent of a red rose, which monastery being dissolved, it came to the King's hands, who granted the monastery and all that belonged to it to Thomas Duke of Norfolk, after whose attainder it came to the King again, and continued in the Crown till King Edward VI. sold the lease to Sir John Cornwallis; in the fourth year of his reign, Sir John dies, and it descended to Sir Thomas Cornwallis, his son and heir, who settled it on feoffees, with power of revocation, to the use of himself for life, and then to William, his eldest son, and Lucy his wife, and the longest liver of them, with remainder to divers uses; but after this, in 1576, he settled it on Charles his son, and Anne his wife, and their heirs male, having revoked the former settlement; and in 1587, Sir Thomas the father, his two sons, and their two wives, sold it to

THOMAS WRIGHT of Wreeting, Gent. and his heirs.

There is a separate right of fishing belonging to this manor, with liberty to hunt, hawk, fish and fowl, in the town and manors of Kilverstone, notwithstanding the superiour liberty of the hundred.

The fines were 2s. an acre, and the eldest son was heir.

The site contained 6 acres, and joined to the river south, and Tunney-Lane west, which leads down from the street, by the west end of the church, to the river. The two fold-courses belonging to this manor carried 600 ewes and 400 hog-sheep, besides the shepherd's 200: there is also a swan mark now belonging to it.

The advowson was given by Margaret de Caineto, (Cheyney, or Cressy), daughter and heiress of William de Caineto, together with a fold-course and free common of pasture, in the said town for the sheep, in free alms to the Prior of Butly in Suffolk, who appropriated it to his house, and got it confirmed by John of Oxford Bishop of Norwich, and the Archbishop of Canterbury, reserving a vicarage to be presented to by the Prior, with a pension of 26s. 8d. payable out of the great tithes, together with the rectory-house and an acre of land adjoining to it. And thus the great tithes, the sheeps' walk, and 24 acres glebe, came to the priory; and after this the Prior, desirous to get the whole into his own hands, came to a perpetual composition with the Prior of Cokesford, for the moiety of the tithes of his manor, one moiety of which belonged to Coxford Prior, and the other to Butley, and also for the 10s. a year, which the Prior of Coxford paid to the Prior of Thetford, from his watermill in Kilverstone; and in 1428, the Prior of Butley was taxed for his whole spirituals here, 8 marks; and thus it remained till 1497, and then William Disse, vicar here, had an augmentation to his vicarage; but upon complaint that it was not yet endowed according to the statute, it was disappropriated in his successor's time, and so became an absolute rectory again, as it was before its appropriation, and hath remained such ever since; in 1554, William Fisher, then rector, pulled down and destroyed the rectory-house, the site of which joined to the west side of the churchyard, and from that time there hath been no parsonage-house; there are about 24 acres glebe, but the sheep-walk of 250 sheep which belonged to the rectory, was granted off during the impropriation, for an annual pension of 26s. 8d. a year.

The rectory is in Norfolk archdeaconry and Rockland deanery, was valued in the King's Books at 7l. 14s. 9d. ob. and being sworn of the clear yearly value of 33l. 7s. 8d. it is discharged of first fruits and tenths, though it pays 12d. synodals, besides the archdeacon's procurations; in 1603, here were 60 communicants, and now [1737] there are 8 houses, and about 50 inhabitants; it paid 3s. 4d. to the tenths, and is now assessed at 202l. to the land tax. The Prior of Butley, in 1383, purchased of Thomas de Pakenham, chaplain, Adam de Foxhate of Thetford, chaplain, and John Barbour of the same, a message in Kilverstone, held of himself as of his church of Kilverstone, at 6*d.* a year, by virtue of a license in mortmain granted by King Edward III. to that monastery; and it seems the Prior assigned this house and half an acre of land to the town; it is the old house now [1737] standing in decay over against the church.

John Hoise gave an acre and half in two pieces to the inhabitants.

John Kideman gave 5 roods in two pieces.

In 1524, "James Baldewyn of Kilverstone (buried in the chancel) gave to the Black Friars of Thetford iii.s. iii*d.* Also I give and bequethe to the said church halowyng of Kylverstone, as much of my goods as the church halowyng wyll drawe with the three bells in the stepul. Item, I give ten pounds to be disposed by the discretion of my executors in the said church, as I may have a dirige and messe perpetually, if it may be performed."<sup>5</sup>

Which Happy Pair, were so equally Blest in each other, that their Sublime and shining Pattern, of true and undissembled Affection, is scarcely to be parallel'd, but never out-done. She had by her beloved Husband, four Sons, and eight Daughters, and then departed this Life, the Twenty ninth Day of September, and was buried the first of October, Anno Domini: 1709, aged 41 Years.

A Mother who with every Grace was Blest,
 With all the Ornaments of Vertue Drest,
 With whatso'ere Religion recommends,
 The best of Wives, of Mothers, and of Friends,
 And tho' by Death, her Body's turn'd to Dust,
 'Tis fitt we still Commemorate the just.
 'Twas here, she did adore the highest Lord,
 Who to her Soul great Comfort did afford,
 'Twas here she did with great Joy and Content,
 Receive Gods Holy Word and Sacrament,
 Since then she loved, this Sacred Place so well,
 'Tis very meet, that here her Name should Dwell.

On a grave-stone in the church, Here lyeth buried the Body of Mary Pearson, Wid. Relict of the Rev. Will. Pearson LL. D. late Chancellour of the Diocess of York, whose undissembl'd Goodness made her whilst living beloved, when dead, lamented by all that knew her. She died Apr. 9th. 1736. Æt. 72.

By the bounds of this parish, is Ringmere Pit, which I find Mr.
Salmon, in his Roman Stations in Britain, (pag. 9,) takes notice of in these words :

“ On the side of this way from Hockham, in East-Wrettam parish, “ is a remarkable cavity called Ringmere Pit, it is in form of an “ amphitheatre, to the bigness of six or seven acres, with an uniform “ descent on every side to the arena. So exact is its figure, even yet, “ one cannot help believing it was contrived for show. There was “ not in the latter end of October, a drop of water in it, which the “ wet summer must have filled, if it ever had been a pond. More of “ this kind, I have heard of hereabouts but not seen.”

I must own, a stranger, who saw it in 1724, or 1725, (as I suppose he did,) when it was entirely dry, might have been of the same opinion with him. But there is nothing uncommon to those that have been acquainted with it; it is a large cavity indeed, generally full of water, and the ground being a sand, the water occasioned that uniform descent; it is supplied with land springs from the adjacent hills, which in the extreme dry year ceased running, and so the water shrank into the sand; it is a very old mere or large water, as the Saxon name which it still bears tells us, Ring-mepe being no more than, the round mere or water. I have angled fine perch out of it when I was a schoolboy at Thetford; and am apt to think there are good fish in it now, it being stored, as I am informed, since it was last dry. But this pit is not to compare with that, which lies nearer Croxton; and though it is three times as big, was then also dry; this is called Foulmere Pit; the greater part of its fishery belongs to the estate in Croxton, settled on the school and hospital of Thetford, as I am informed, and that of Ringmere, to the lord of East-Wrotham; there are other large pits on these heaths, (though not so big as either of the former,) that have water in them in winter, but being mostly dried up in summer time, they look very regular to the beholder's eye.
